Sharp Escalation In Laos Battles

SAIGON (UPI)—The commander of South Vietnamese troops in Laos said today his men had counterattacked Hill 31 and were fighting at close quarters in a battle for the Ho Chi Minh Trail. Two other bases in Laos came under heavy attack and a third was abandoned, along with its defense weapons.

Hill 31 fell Thursday to a ground assault by Communist forces who overwhelmed the 450-man defense garrison in the second such loss of the three-week-old Laos campaign. Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, the ARVN commander in Laos, reported the counterattack today.

U.S. artillery and air units pounded the North Vietnamese units on the slopes of the hill and AH1 Cobra helicopter gunships for the first time in the Laos campaign were using heat-seeking missiles to knock out the Communist tanks.

A column from the South Vietnamese 1st Armored Brigade was reported moving northward from Route 9 through difficult and enemy infested terrain to give added fire support to the beleaguered troops at both Hill 30 and nearby Hill 31. U.S. military sources said the column commander refused to move into the area Wednesday on grounds he lacked sufficient air support.

The base abandoned today was Landing Zone Ranger South, about 1,200 yards from Landing Zone Ranger North which was overrun last Sunday with the loss of most of its 450 defenders. Helicopter pilots who flew out the rangers said they threw aside their 82mm mortars and recoilless rifles as they fled. U.S. planes tried later to destroy the weapons.

Both bases are in the Hills 30 and 31 sector and military sources in Saigon said their loss left only two South Vietnamese bases in Laos north of Route 9, the main artery of the ARVN incursion into Laos.

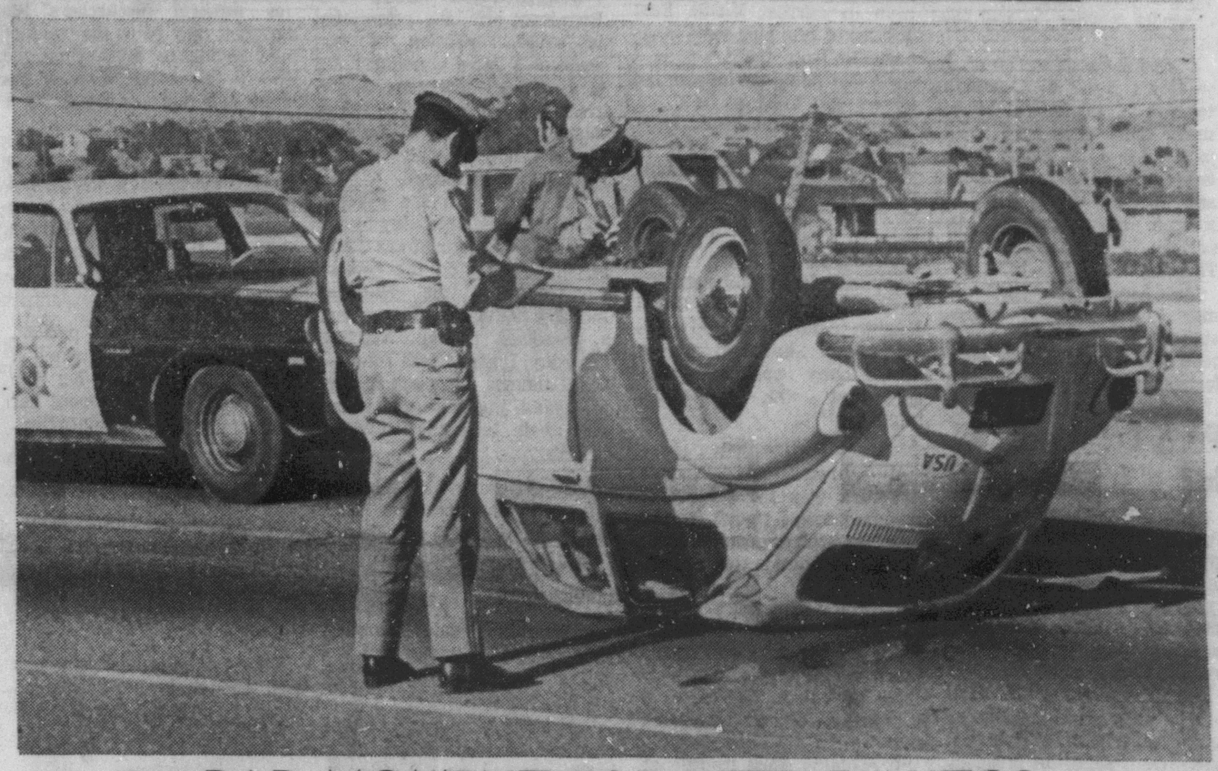
Spokesmen said fighting also broke out at two other ARVN bases —at Hotel 2, south of Route 9, which was under intense shell fire, and at A Luoi, on Highway 9, 15 miles inside Laos. The military said it was taking shell fire but was not thought in imminent danger of ground attack. Each of the bases is manned by about one battalion of men.

Khe Sanh dispatches tonight said a South Vietnamese paratrooper battalion was withdrawn from along the border to Khe Sanh, 12 miles inside South Vienam, and then flown into Laos aboard helicopters. Destination of the reinforcements was not known.

A U.S. military spokesman also announced that more American helicopters were brought into the region today to provide additional fire power, troop lift, medical evacuation and logistic support for the South Vietnamese.

The United States committed 300 helicopters to the battle originally but the Command said 30 had been destroyed. Front dispatches have estimated dozens more have been put out of action through enemy shelling, gunfire or crashes in Laos and Vietnam.

Military sources in Laos said the armored relief column moved out Thursday from the border for the six-mile trip into the Hill 31 area but apparently had not yet reached there because there are no roads and because the jungle trails are heavily mined.



BAD MOMENT FOR LITTLE AUTOS

Two small foreign cars took a beating on Highway 101 yesterday, but the occupants escaped with minor injuries in accidents which happened several miles apart but both at 3:25 p.m. In the top photo, a Fiat driven by Peggy W. Boon, 44, of 1449 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, was flattened under the American sedan driven by Harold J. Meier, 51, of Sioux City, Iowa, after a rear end collision north of the Corte Madera exit. Both drivers said they would see their own doctors for scrapes and cuts. In the bottom photo, a Volkswagen driven by Elizabeth M. Harper, 19, of 141 Jeffrey Drive, Petaluma, rests upside down after flipping over near the Marin City exit. Her passenger, Stephanie M. Gillham, 2, of the same address, was reported in good condition today at Letterman General Hospital with cuts on her right arm.

California Army Draftee Hijacks Jet To Vancouver

19-Year-Old First Orders Plane To Cuba; Described As Very Calm

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—A "calm and well-mannered" U.S. Army draftee, on his way to basic training, hijacked a Western Airlines jet Thursday and forced it to fly to Canada.

Chapin J. Paterson, 19, of Shingle Springs, Calif., gave himself up to Royal Canadian Mounted Police after the Boeing 737 touched down at Vancouver International Airport. The flight had originated in San Francisco.

The hijacker, who first ordered the plane flown to Cuba, was one of 69 Army inductees among the 92 passengers on the plane, which was en route to Seattle.

Stewardess Susan Methoen, 22, San Francisco, said the youth approached her carrying a satchel while the plane was over central Oregon and "said he had a bomb aboard. He said he wanted to talk to the pilot but I told him he couldn't. Then he told me to tell them (the pilots) about it and I did."

"He had a brown paper bag tucked under his arm like a football," the still-shaken stewardess said.

Pilot Bruce Despain ordered the crew to let Paterson into the cockpit to prevent him making trouble.

He said the hijacker told him he had "tried the C. O. (conscientious objector) route and had been turned down. He said the hijacking was something he just had to do."

The hijacker told the captain he wanted the plane diverted to Cuba. Despain said the jetliner didn't have enough fuel to reach the Caribbean.

"All right, then, take me to Vancouver," the young man told the pilot.

When the plane landed, Paterson allowed the passengers and five crew members to leave and then surrendered to rifle-carrying Mounties on the runway. He identified himself to the officers.

A search of his satchel turned up a can of spray deodorant, but no explosives. RCMP officials said the suspect was not armed.

Another draftee, Paul Gilliland, 18, Sacramento, Calif., said "he had long, black hair, parted down the middle. He had glassy eyes—he was a loner kind of guy. He was weird."

Despain, who said later "I'd be lying if I said I wasn't scared," only told the passengers the plane had been divert-

Infantry Rescuemen May Get Laos Duty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Small teams of U.S. infantry men will be sent into Laos as part of search and rescue teams any time they are needed to protect the lives of downed American pilots or their rescuers, Nixon administration officials said today.

"If we had an air crew downed we would do whatever was necessary to recover that crew," a Pentagon spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said.

Friedheim said that to date no U.S. infantrymen had been sent in as security forces to protect search and rescue teams. But he said it was possible it could happen in the future.

Both Friedheim and the White House insisted that this would not violate the Cooper-Church prohibition against American ground combat forces in Laos.

"If we used any security forces as part of a search and rescue team, we would regard them as rescue forces and not as combat troops," Friedheim said.

Other officials said that search and rescue missions were normal operations, and were accompanied by support aircraft and a small group of infantry men to deal with the ground fire while an operation was underway.

They insisted that these were not "combat missions" and did not represent a change in policy. They said it was simply protective encirclement during a rescue mission.

Friedheim also left open the possibility that infantry teams might accompany search and rescue missions into North Vietnam to look for pilots of any downed American planes.

"If one of our reconnaissance pilots were downed in North Vietnam, we would do whatever was necessary to recover him," he said.

A search and rescue mission normally consists of one to three helicopters carrying medical officers. They are capable of picking up pilots who have been shot down and treating their wounds.

Pentagon sources said if infantrymen accompanied such a mission, the size of the security force would be "the minimum necessary to save American lives."

IS THERE A BOND IN YOUR FUTURE?

Notables who visit the Golden Gate Bridge in the future may afterwards be able to say, "come up and see my bonds."

Formerly, it was "come up and see my etching," but the bridge district's supply of etchings of the span that it gave as mementos is running low. Auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren today proposed that the district start giving away its $35 million worth of bonds — 1,000 of them — that will be redeemed and canceled as of July 1. Commercial interests already are vying to buy the bonds as collectors' items, he explained.

Directors, laughing heartily, passed the idea to their legislation-public relations committee for refinement.

Army Overreaction Indicated In First Week Of Spy Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Has the United States already "been taken over by a military coup?"

If not, asked a black legislator from Texas, why then was he placed under Army surveillance for 10 years —his telephone bugged, his speeches monitored, his activities followed and his dossier placed in a "subversive file" at Army intelligence headquarters?

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Constitutional Rights and a champion of the First Amendment, did not have the answer Thursday. It may come next week when Army witnesses tell why an estimated 1,500 undercover men have been keeping files on thousands of Americans, snooping into their personal lives and political activities.

But for the time being, Ervin and the witnesses who unfolded the Army spying story in detail this week are certain of this: There is no deliberately repressive pattern by military or civilian personnel involved; that there is no military coup past, present or planned; and that the Army's leaders would not and did not consciously trample on the rights of Americans to speak freely and petition their government without fear.

Former undercover men who testified were almost uniformly agreed that the situation is a result of overzealous reaction to the civil violence of the 1960s.

Ex-snoopers told of mules being photographed by Army agents during the Poor People's March; the assignment of intelligence agents to a grade school Halloween party; spies following other spies in fear of being scooped on the latest New Left movement; a card file kept on an entire church congregation; and the assignment of agents to take down license numbers of every car moving on the Baltimore-Washington parkway during the 1969 antiwar moratorium.

The ex-agents testified that files were kept on political leaders ranging from Adlai Stevenson III to Rennie Davis to the late Nazi party Fuehrer George Lincoln Rockwell. At least two newspapermen who had written stories Army intelligence considered sympathetic to the antiwar movement became the subjects of dossiers. Ordinary citizens — many of them young people who someday may face a security check for a job —were photographed, followed and catalogued into a nationwide computer because they had

Demos Deny Reagan Welfare Talk Permission

SACRAMANTO (UPI)—In an unprecedented move, Senate Democratic leaders have denied Gov. Ronald Reagan's request to appear before a joint session of the Legislature to unveil his welfare reform program.

Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills of San Diego charged that Reagan merely wants to use the lawmakers as stage "props" for "generalities" and doesn't have any specific legislation to present.

Reagan was reported by a press spokesman to be "appalled."

Senate Republican caucus chairman H.L. Richardson of Arcadia declared, "Sen. Mills has more gall than a slaughter house floor."

Reagan had asked permission from legislative leaders to address a joint session of both houses next Wednesday in the Assembly Chamber to outline his long-awaited welfare reform package.

Such a rare request by a gov-

Santa Venetia Arms To Curb Vandalism

Santa Venetians are arming themselves with shotguns to protect their homes against young vandals and burglars, a group of housewives told the Marin Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission yesterday.

Myrtle Pilacelli of Estancia Way and three neighbors declared they need some help to cut down on juvenile crimes.

Mrs. Pilacelli said the residents have furnished the sheriff's deputies with license numbers and descriptions of the young vandals "but the problem still exists."

"They had a party in our block two weeks ago Saturday night and about 300 juveniles gathered," said Mrs. Pilacelli. "If they had wanted to, they could have destroyed the block and we couldn't have done anything."

She said she was not physically threatened, but the youths called her names. She told the commissioners her family got a shotgun the day after the Saturday party.

"During the past month, things have quieted down some because the heat is on," Mrs. Pilacelli continued. "But before that we had seven to 10 burglaries a week."

Another woman, who declined to identify herself for fear of retaliation, declared that residents are stripping their homes of silverware, jewelry, and other valuables because of the frequent break-ins.

The women complained that the juveniles are armed with weapons and ammunition and make bold raids into homes to get money to feed their drug habits.

They charged that one 17-year-old had been picked up 40 times and is still at large in the community.

"It's just a stinking mess; this is the last stand!"

The women said most of the trouble is centered on homes subsidized by the federal leased housing program, which pays a portion of the rent for the subsidized families.

They said Cala Market closed down last year because of vandalism and pilfering by juveniles.

After a two-hour discussion at the Hall of Justice, the delinquency prevention commissioners decided to meet again at 4 p.m. next Thursday to decide whether the Santa Venetia problem is one that should be tackled by the county board of supervisors, not by one small advisory commission.

Commissioner Gerald Green said the group has enough information from last summer's survey of delinquency to recognize that a problem does exist. Instead of spending time regathering more information, Green said specific recommendations should be made to the supervisors, either for more patrols or more recreational activities in Santa Venetia.

Green declared the commission cannot go into every community in the county to deal directly with vandalism and burglaries; it can only make recommendations to the sheriff and to the supervisors.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Export Limits

TOKYO (UPI)—The Japanese textile industry has decided to voluntarily limit exports to the United States, it was disclosed today.

The decision means a potential trade war between the United States and Japan, brewing for nearly two years, will now probably be averted.

Kagayaki Miyazaki, chairman of the Japan Chemical Fibers Association, told a news conference Japanese Textile industry circles "had chosen voluntary export control as the only way to overcome the present deadlock."

Miyazaki also said the decision had been reached because government-to-government negotiations could not be expected to produce an agreement acceptable to the Japanese textile industry.

Jet Scuffle

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Guards subdued a shouting, knife-welding Arab aboard a Swissair jetliner bound for Tel Aviv Thursday night and turned him over to Israeli authorities on landing at Lydda International Airport.

The Cornado 990 aircraft was about half full at the time, airport officials said, but no one was hurt in the brief scuffle.

The man was identified as Mahmoud Said, 28, a resident of Jenin on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

Airport officials said the Swissair plane was 90 minutes out of Tel Aviv on a flight from Geneva when said burst from his seat, pocket knife in hand, and began shouting what were described as "battle cries."

War End Pledge

CONCORD, N. H. (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., opened his presidential campaign in New Hampshire by promising to end the war in Indochina.

"I will end the war in a matter of weeks as president," McGovern told newsman Thursday. "In order to end the major drain on U.S. resources, I would order an immediate end to the war."

His campaign for the nomination began 13 months ahead of 1972's first presidential primary in New Hampshire. He said he planned to focus his campaign on the Indochina War and the failures of the Nixon administration.

Illegal Fishing

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—Three Cuban fishing boat captains were charged today with fishing illegally in Florida waters and the Coast Guard was holding a fourth captain on similar charges.

The Florida Marine Patrol arrested the three captains, seized their vessels and brought them to port Thursday after the Coast Guard cutter Diligence released them for lack of evidence.

The Coast Guard claims it only has sufficient evidence of illegal fishing against the fourth craft, the 75-foot Lambda.

The Coast Guard and the Marine Patrol engaged in a jurisdictional dispute at sea over the three vessels. Lt. E. G. Little of the Florida patrol charged that the "Coast Guard cutter Diligence took aggressive action" against the state boats when they insisted on making arrests.

A U.S. Charge

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States accused the Soviet Union today of widescale discrimination against Jews and called on Moscow to permit them to leave Russia in accordance with the universal declaration of human rights.

The charge of discrimination against Jews was made in a statement to the United Nations Commission on Human Rights by Rita E. Hauser, head of the American delegation.

"It is the considered view of my delegation that discrimination against Jews persists on a wide scale in the Soviet Union," she said.

By refusing the freely permit jews to emigrate, the statement said, the Soviet Union is violating the Declaration of Human Rights to which it subscribed.

Disappointed

BRUSSELS (UPI) —Many delegates to the World Conference on Soviet Jewry expressed disappointment today over what they said was the weakness of the final resolution calling for improved treatment of Jews in Russia.

Dr. William A. Wexler, president of B'nai Brith, said however he considered the conference "a great success."

The three-day conference, badly split over the attempts of militant Rabbi Meir Kahane of New York speak, ended Thursday with the "Brussels Declaration."

The declaration denounced Soviet "suppression of Jewish cultural and religious rights" and called on the Western world to pressure the Soviet Union to allow Jews to emigrate to Israel.

Combat For Wives

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Three young men were slain and 20 injured Thursday in hand-to-hand fighting on horseback and on foot among bachelors seeking the hand of maidens of the Peruvian provinces of Chumbvilcas and Canas.

Hundreds of spectators gathered at the foot of Mt. Gongorillo to watch the annual combat with lariats and whips. The winners carried their prizes off to be married.

Backs Dissent

"I hope there will never be a time when there is none," said Black who celebrates his 85th birthday Saturday. He told reporters Thursday dissent was an important element of the court.

But he said, "Strange to say, I have found that those whose philosophies were the most opposed were the best friends. It is very seldom that philosophical conflict has resulted in mean feelings or petty jealousies."

Black, a member of the court for 33 years, said people will soon forget the controversial era of Chief Justice Earl Warren whose court ordered desegregation of public schools in 1954. Warren retired June 23, 1969.

"Chief justices come and chief justices go," he said. "Some have more influence than others. Some because they're better lawyers. Not always. Some because of natural ability to persuade people."

Lib Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare has agreed to the first action program to "resolve the frustrations" of women suffering sex discrimination.

Sandra Kayden, 31, will head it.

"Serious consideration of the women's issue is a growing concern in the federal government, and I think HEW should participate as a leader in this area for we have an obvious and special responsibility to women here and in the society," Richardson said Thursday.

Miss Kayden said HEW also may try to use "legal authority" to require its contractors to agree to clauses forbidding sex discrimination.

PT&T Pleads Hike In Rates

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company needs $195 million in rate increases "urgently and quickly" to pay for new construction and expected pay increases, its president says.

President Jerome W. Hull told a State Public Utilities Commission hearing Thursday the company faces the prospect of substantial pay increases as the result of coming union negotiations.

He also declared that during 1971 the company plans to spend $800 million for construction.

Recuperating Birds Needing New Home

RICHMOND (UPI) — New quarters are needed for 385 seabirds recuperating in Richmond from January's oil spill in San Francisco Bay.

Tom Ehrenfried, Richmond Bird Center spokesman, said Thursday that by the end of this month the University of California wants the birds moved from their present warehouse.

Mideast's Cautious Reaction

Israel and Egypt gave cautious approval today to President Nixon's Middle East statements in his State of the World message, but Israeli Premier Golda Meir said Thursday night no American pressure will make Israel budge from its current Mideast position.

In Cairo, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said Nixon's statements showed the "traditional American bias to Israel," but it said they contain "new indications worthy of attention" and that Egypt would make a comprehensive study of the message.

Israeli Reaction

The reaction in Israel was almost as reserved. Officials called it the clearest statement Nixon has yet made on the Arab-Israeli conflict, and Israeli newspapers welcomed his call for secure Israeli boundaries but questioned such things as his projected Big Four role in a settlement.

Israel Galili, a cabinet member without portfolio and a close confidante of Mrs. Meir, told the Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv today that the Israeli response to the latest Egyptian peace initiative will be flexible enough to permit negotiations to continue.

His statements followed Mrs. Meir's statement Thursday night that no Umerican pressure will make Israel budget from its current Middle East position of retaining some lands captured from the Arabs — a statement being set forth in the Israeli reply to Egypt.

"They (the Americans) know full well that the lack of financial aid will not cause Israel to make any concessions in matters that concern its security," she told a public gathering in Tel Aviv.

She said Israel will not give up East Jerusalem, the Golan Heights, and the Red Sea fortress of Sharm el Sheikh "under any possible peace agreement with its Arab neighbors."

UAR Reaction

Al Ahram said Nixon's statement was the subject of "comprehensive study" by the Egyptian government although no official reaction was expected soon.

"The prevalent view is that the speech is an important document, including statements which we accept and others which we reject. Therefore, it is worthy of an intensive study," Al Ahram said.

"It contains some traditional attitudes which show America's bias to Israel but also includes new indications worthy of attention."

'MONSTER' IN THE SKY

Test Alerts To Be Sent By Agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Broadcast officials, attempting to avoid repetition of last weekend's false announcement of a national emergency, have given the two major U.S. news agencies temporary responsibility for sending weekly warning system test messages.

The change in the system was announced Thursday by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) on the recommendation of the National Industry Advisory Committee, a broadcast council. Starting Saturday, United Press International and the Associated Press will send the test messages over their broadcast teletype circuits.

Last Saturday, a message mistakenly announced the President had declared a national emergency.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said Thursday there should be a study of the entire national emergency warning system.

Under the temporary system adopted Thursday, UPI's office in Chicago and the AP office in New York will receive the announcements at their broadcast news desks and relay them through their regular switching systems only after they have been authenticated by government officials.

President Nixon Sunday asked the FCC and the Defense Department for a full report on the sending of the false alert message.

New Virus Linked To Leukemia Theory

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—A team of University of Washington medical researchers believes it may be on the track of new evidence supporting the theory that some forms of human leukemia are caused by a virus.

Their findings came in efforts to save the life of a 16-year-old leukemia victim and were reported recently in the British Medical Journal, Lancet, by Drs. Philip J. Fialkow and E. Donnall Thomas.

Dr. Fialkow said the patient, a girl, was near death when it was decided to give her the relatively new treatment of bone marrow transplantation. The donor was her 10-year-old brother.

The day prior to receiving bone marrow cells intravenously from her brother, the girl was given a four-hour, whole-body dose of high-energy radiation to kill her cancerous marrow cells.

Fifty-two days later, she was well enough to be discharged from the hospital. But after 10 more days, doctors discovered the forerunners of leukemic cells had returned to the girl's bone marrow. She died several weeks later from an infection.

Before her death, doctors found in a study of cells that it was the male cells of her brother, not her own, that were cancerous.

"Since the brother has remained without evidence of the disease, a likely possibility is that the donor cells became cancerous through activation of leukemogenic (leukemia causing) agent, such as a virus, or the transfer of such an agent from the patient's cells to the donor cells," Fialkow reported.

"That possibility doesn't mean that leukemia . . . is contagious," he added.

The doctor said if regrowth had been the cause of return of leukemia to the girl's bone marrow, the cells would contain the two XX female chromosones. But it was the cells containing the XY male chromosone combination in which the leukemia recurred.

The researchers said more study is needed to determine the importance of genetic and other factors.

Should the viral theory prove true, medical science then would try to identify the virus or viruses and work to develop a vaccine.

Dr. Fialkow is an associate professor of medical genetics. Dr. Thomas is professor of medicine and chief of tumor study. They were assisted in the project by Drs. Jean I. Bryant, Paul E. Neiman and Eloise Giblett.

Refrigerator Blast Kills Infant-In-Arms

FLUSHING, Mich. (UPI)—Two-month-old Eric Torrenga was killed in his mother's arms Thursday when a refrigerator door blew off and hit them.

Police said they believed a faulty valve in the gas refrigerator blew the door off. The mother suffered a broken arm.

Libya May Seize Firms, Sources Say

TRIPOLI, Libya (UPI)—The 18-month-old military government of Col. Moammar Al-Khadafy is preparing to seize foreign oil companies operating in Libya, the world's biggest oil exporter, diplomatic sources said today. Twenty-one of the companies are American.

"A showdown is definitely coming," the sources said. "It has been in the wind for some time and the oil companies know it."

The sources said the idea of a takeover apparently began taking shape after collapse of new price negotiations in Tripoli.

Al-Khadafy, whose regime earlier nationalized foreign banks and insurance companies, has never ruled out a takeover of the 35 foreign oil companies which operate in Libya.

Since then Oil Minister Ezedeen Mabrouk has warned foreign companies to step up their investment program in exploring for new oil fields or face what he called "suitable measures to realize the national interest."

Libya produces 3.5 million barrels of oil a day and is the single largest oil exporter in the world. More than eight of every 10 barrels is pumped by nine big U.S. companies, including Standard Oil of New Jersey, Occidental, Texaco, Mobil, Continental and Marathon.

Construction Ban Over Sewage

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Unprecedented requirements for sewage treatment — enforced, possibly, by a ban on all new construction — were imposed yesterday on the City of Mill Valley and Richardson Bay Sanitary District.

The order — issued unanimously by the Regional Water Quality Control Board — apparently was the first in the state to attack the problem of algae growth. Blooms of the tiny plant annually threaten to deplete oxygen in Richardson Bay — oxygen needed for the survival of aquatic life.

City and district spokesmen branded the requirements as premature, unproven, too stringent, unrealistic and far too expensive.

Mill Valley City Engineer Stanley M. Bala said they would be impossible to meet, and that the only alternative would be to pump wastes out Tennessee Valley for treatment and discharge into the ocean.

Objections by Bala and district spokesmen centered on the requirement that no further nutrients be discharged when bay water had a level of chlorophyll over 50 micrograms per cubic liter. "It means you shut the pumps off," Bala complained.

Chlorophyll is a catalyst for the growth of algae.

The board's staff, however, insisted that the requirement could be met, principally by removing phosphates and nitrogen from sewage waste. Detergents are the main source of phosphates, and food matter the main source of nitrogen.

The board order also provided for setting a hearing on a cease and desist order against the two dischargers, with the hearing date to be set at the board's March 25 hearing.

The staff recommended that the cease and desist order possibly include a restriction on any new connections to their sewerage systems. This, in effect, would be a ban on all new construction until the new requirements were met — which could be a long time, judging from the objections from the dischargers.

Board member Sidney S. Lippow of Martinez criticized the dischargers' plea for a delay in imposing the new requirements. "It's just a matter of stall, stall, stall," he declared. "We've been postponing on Richardson Bay for six years, and we've got to show them we mean business."

Board chairman Homer H. Hyde, mayor of Campbell, said of the two dischargers that "they've been having a free ride for years. It's apparent there's been a bad situation there for a long time, and nothing's been done about them."

Fred H. Dierker, executive director of the regional board, said the requirements were needed because of "severe water quality problems in Richardson Bay." He noted a state study that found a public health problem in the bay, and showed a photograph of a Mill Valley playground for infants adjacent to the sewer outfall pipe.

(Dr. Teng-chung Wu, the board's chief of surveillance, explained to the Independent-Journal that the chlorophyll requirement had been set for the first time because technology only now allowed setting of a maximum that effectively would control algae.)

Ross Benson, superintendent of public works for Mill Valley, conceded that the city cannot meet even the board's old requirements because of storm water infiltrating sewers. So much water hits the treatment plant in wet weather that it must be bypassed and sewage is dumped raw into the bay, he acknowledged.

Bala noted that the city may have a bond election in April to fix the leaky sewers.

(Bala told the I-J after the hearing in San Rafael City Hall that meeting the requirements would cost the city "several million dollars." The requirements would produce "almost drinking water," he said.)

The Mill Valley sewage treatment plant also serves the Homestead Valley, Alto and Almonte sanitary districts and the Kay Park Sewer Maintenance District.

In other business, the board set requirements for expansion of the Novato Sanitary District's Bahia plant from a capacity of 500 connections to 8,000 connections. These requirements, however, were similar to those elsewhere in the bay, and none was set on algae nutrients.

Air Tour Linked To Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government investigators have concluded that the crash last fall of a charter airliner carrying the Wichita State University football team was caused by the pilot's sightseeing tour below the level of a mountain pass, it was learned today.

The plane, a twin-engine Convair, crashed Oct. 2, 1970, near Loveland Pass, Colo., while carrying the team to a game. Thirty-one persons were killed.

The National Transportation Safety Board, which investigates the causes of airplane crashes, plans to release its report next week.

The Transportation Department also is expected to make public shortly a report calling for an overhaul of the Federal Aviation Administration regulation governing charter flights. The investigation was triggered by the Wichita crash.

In its report to be released next Wednesday, the Safety Board says the plane flew up a valley below the level of the surrounding terrain. The pilot apparently was giving the passengers a close-up view of the mountain scenery, investigators said.

The pilot became trapped in the valley when the plane was incapable of producing the power needed to lift it over the pass in the short distance left to clear the mountain top. The pilot attempted to reverse course but the valley proved too narrow and he crashed making the turn, the report showed.

Woman, 61, Has Her 23rd Child

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)— Mrs. Margarita Reyes Munoz, 61, gave birth to her 23rd child, doctors said Thursday. Mrs. Reyes and the daughter were reported in good condition.

Mrs. Reyes has been married twice and 19 of her children are living. She has nine children now living with her.

Overdose Victim Is Identified

The young man who died — apparently of an overdose of drugs — at a San Rafael drug treatment center yesterday has been identified as Guy T. Johnson, 25, of Oakland.

The Marin County Coroner's Office said today the identification was made through a telephone number and address book found on the man.

Johnson died at the Center Point treatment center at 805 D Street after staff members attempted for five hours to save him. He had been brought to the center by a female companion who said he had taken an overdose of heroin.

Results of an autopsy were not available today.

Meanwhile, the administrator of Marin General Hospital today told why the facility does not provide outside emergency care in such cases. It was in response to complaints by Center Point officials they had been unable to arrange for emergency back-up care for seriously ill addicts who come to the center rather than go to a hospital.

"It is the medical opinion of our physicians that emergency care is best provided where skilled personnel and facilities are available, and that is the Community Mental Health Center and the Marin General Hospital emergency department," said administrator Ray K. Bolinger.

Johnson's companion said she brought the man to Center Point because she didn't want to take him to a hospital. And Center Point officials said they didn't call a doctor because staff members used techniques that had revived previous overdose victims, and because doctors won't come to the facility.

The center spokesmen said addicts often don't want to go to a hospital because of fear of police and relatives. But Jules Becker, publicist for Marin General, noted that the Community Mental Health Center, where some drug patients are taken, cannot release any information about patients — not even a name — without patient consent.

The mental health center is adjacent to Marin General.

30 Days Jail On Being Near Pot

Jerry R. Wade, 20, of San Rafael, has been sentenced to 30 days in Marin County Jail after pleading guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of being in a place where marijuana was smoked.

He was earlier charged with a felony count of possessing marijuana.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court sentenced Wade who was arrested Jan. 3 after a Marin City resident told San Rafael police he had hit her.

Big Travelers Check Burglary

Travelers checks totaling $1,000 and $600 in cash were stolen yesterday from the home of George Schaffer, 85 Via Hermosa, Larkspur, police said today.

Officers said the burglar apparently entered the home between 10:15 a.m. and 12:20 p.m. through an unlocked garage door and found the cash and checks stuffed in a stereo speaker.

Serial numbers on the Bank of America $100 checks are 814-461-470 through 814-461-479.

Huntley, Brinkley Pay Courtesy Visits

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A shaky-kneed state legislator sat between two tawny mountain lions Thursday and announced introduction of a bill making it illegal to hunt them in California.

Assemblyman John Dunlap brought along Huntley and Brinkley, a pair of five-year-old male mountain lions, for a news conference on his measure to protect the 600 big cats still roaming the mountains.

"Anyone with 50 cents for a tag and enough money to buy shells for his gun can hunt the mountain lion today," he said. "We are selling out the mountain lion dirt cheap."

He said his bill would fulfill a "maxim of conservation—when in doubt, preserve. We can always destroy later."

Dunlap said 50 mountain lions have been shot since July, when the State Fish and Game Department started requiring hunters to buy licenses.

The lawmaker, a Democrat from Napa, kept wary eyes on Huntley and Brinkley after owner Dan Meier, 28, Richmond, an electrical engineer, sat them on the table on each side of him. Meier and a friend held them on stout leather leashes.

"How are your knees?" a reporter asked the nervous legislator.

The state paid a bounty on mountain lions until 1963, but the population has remained fairly stable at 600 lions for decades, according to game experts. The animals, which reach eight feet in length and weigh up to 165 pounds, were put on the big game hunting list last year as a first step toward their eventual protection.

Dunlap said he didn't trust the 600 figure, terming it "a guess made a long time ago" which has never been verified. "The true status of the California mountain lion in numbers is unknown. I would think we have much less than that," he said.

Huntley stretched — and yawned.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafel, also has introduced a bill to protect mountain lions. His measure, however, only would bar hunting them with dogs, which Behr said was the only effective way to hunt lions. The net results, according to the senator, would be to bar hunting of the lions.

Behr's bill would not interfere with the existing law allowing farmers and ranchers to kill lions to protect their herds.

DEMOS

ernor has never been denied in the memory of veteran legislative observers.

But Mills denied Reagan's request Wednesday in a letter to the governor.

"The legislature deals in legislation, not in generalities," Mills told the governor. "It would not be useful for you to appear before us to make a general speech which is really directed toward the people of this state. There are other places where that might be done more appropriately."

Mills told newsmen he had conferred with other Senate Democratic leaders and they all agreed to deny Reagan's request.

Senate Democratic caucus chairman Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles confirmed that he, majority floor leader George Moscone of San Francisco and Mills decided a joint legislative session with Reagan would be useless until actual bills were presented by the governor.

In his letter, Mills told Reagan that "every one" of the Legislature's members "is in favor of substantial welfare reform and many of us are favorably inclined toward the general positions you have taken."

Mills said Reagan would be invited to a joint legislative session whenever his specific bills were ready.

France, U.S. Sign Dope Pact

PARIS (UPI)—The United States and France signed a formal agreement today to cooperate in smashing drug traffic, and called upon other nations to join the fight. U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell, signing for the United States, said the historic protocol marked the first time two nations have agreed formally to allow foreign law enforcement officers on their soil.

The agreement formalizes cooperation between the two countries since President Nixon and French President Georges Pompidou agreed in August, 1969 to stop illicit drugs pouring into France from Turkey to be processed in Marseille before being smuggled into the United States.

Tennis Club Due Special Hearing

Plans for a 90-acre tennis club development proved too much for the Fairfax Planning Commission to cope with in one meeting last night and a special meeting was set for 8 p.m. March 9 to discuss the proposal further.

Under consideration is an application by developer John Farrar Jr. of the Janic Development Corp. for two parcels of land on the north side of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard next to Meadowland.

Farrar proposes a tennis club surrounded by 137 units in townhouses and condominiums. He said the prices of the units would range from $22,000 to $26,000, according to Ernestine Healy, secretary for the commission.

Mrs. Healy said that the commission wanted to consider legal ramfications of the proposed development further with the city attorney, Wallace S. Myers, at the March 9 meeting.

In other business last night, the planning commission turned down a request by David Hutchinson of the Marin Performing Arts Guild to use a one-room building at 1750 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard for an office.

Mrs. Healy said Hutchinson told the commission the guild, now located in Kentfield, would act as a service to performers as well as provide information about cultural events.

The commission turned down the request because of parking problems and because the area is probably going to be rezoned soon for apartments, Mrs. Healy said.

attended a demonstration, spoken at a meeting or knew someone who had.

Morris Janowitz of the University of Chicago, who has studied the problem, believes domestic intelligence activities have grown from war to war until now they are clearly beyond the Army's jurisdiction and must be controlled by Congress.

"The hallmark of a nation with democratic political institutions," he told the subcommittee, "is the sharp separation of its military forces of national defense from its police and law enforcement agencies . . . it has been one of the persistent assumptions of the American political system that to allow the military, except in rare and extreme circumstances, to intervene in local police and law enforcement matters is to weaken the fabric of our domestic society.

"In turn, to permit the armed forces to become enmeshed in issues of domestic law and justice is to undermine their legitimacy to perform their essential duties," he said.

No New Filings In Two Races

Candidacy filings closed yesterday with no new candidates coming forward for the April 20 elections to the Cotati and Old Adobe School District boards, with no race in the latter.

Candidates for the two four-year terms open on the Old Adobe board, Petaluma, are incumbent John A. Thompson and Carlton (Bob) Rinaldo. Incumbent Dora M. Eldredge filed for the two-year office to fulfill the term left by Robert E. Daly when he was appointed to the Petaluma City Council.

Judge Fines Mother $15

PRESQUE ISLE, Maine (UPI)—Judge Julian W. Turner fined his mother, Mrs. Marjorie Turner, $15 Thursday in the room in which he was born.

Mrs. Turner pleaded guilty to driving without an inspection sticker and was fined in the courtroom, on the third floor of a former hospital. Part of the room was the hospital delivery room and Turner said he was probably the only judge to have been born in his own courtroom.

The arresting officer said he felt bad about bringing Mrs. Turner into court, but the judge said everyone is subject to the same laws. "I'm sure my family feels the same way," he said.

ed to Vancouver. The passengers took it as a normal delay.

"We told him we would like to talk him out of it, but never called his bluff," said Despain, a 14-year pilot.

The hijacker stayed in the cockpit the rest of the way and then decided to surrender peacefully.

"It all worked according to his plan and it was actually a calm flight after the initial shock," Despain said. "He was actually quite calm and well mannered."

Paterson was among 69 inductees who boarded the plane at San Francisco. They were en route to Fort Lewis, Wash., for basic training. The flight began at Ontario, Calif.

The draftees, who had reported during the day at the Oakland Induction Center, wore civilian clothes on the flight. They are issued uniforms after arriving at boot camp.

The plane was over Medford, Ore., when Paterson made his bomb threat about 9:45 p.m. PST. The jetliner landed at Vancouver at 10:20 p.m.

The hijacker's home town is a small hamlet in El Corado County in the Sierra Nevada mother lodge country above Sacramento.

He was taken to the RCMP station in suburban Richmond for questioning by Mounties and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from Washington state.

An FBI spokesman in Seattle, Wash., said FBI agents were aiding in the questioning because the hijacking was committed over the United States. He said the agents were merely maintaining liaison with Canadian authorities.

Other passengers were flown back to Seattle on another plane, arriving less than two hours behind schedule. The recruits were bused to Ft. Lewis, arriving early today to begin boot camp.

The suspect's father, Donald Paterson, said he didn't want to comment about the incident when contacted at home.

Food Plea For Action Center

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board yesterday issued a plea that members attending Thursday's meeting bring dontions of foodstuffs for the Community Action Center.

According to Ester Squire, board secretary, the center, operated by the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, is in "desperate need" of canned foods.

The center, which opened last year at 232 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, provides free emergency clothing, household items and food to the needy.

OBITUARIES

Elfrida Simmie Dies At 88

Funeral for Elfrida G. Simmie, a former long-time resident of Novato, will be tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Halsted and Co. Mortuary, San Francisco.

Mrs. Simmie, a resident of San Francisco, died yesterday at a San Francisco hospital following a long illness. She was 88.

She returned to San Francisco in 1929 but made periodic visits to the Phillippines.

In 1945, Mrs. Simmie moved to Novato where she remained until 1965 when she returned to San Francisco.

She was a founding member of St. Francis Episcopal Church in novato, Novato Chapter No. 609 of the Order of Eastern Star, the Metropolitan Club, the Forum Club and the Century Club of California.

Mrs. Simmie is survived by her daughter, Jean F. Hays of San Francisco, a granddaughter and four great-grandchildren.

Burial will be at Cypress Lawn Cemetery, Colma.

The family requests memorial contributions to a favorite charity or the American Cancer Society.

Traffic Deaths Decline in '70

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the first time in a decade, traffic fatalities and injuries declined in 1970. Economic loss from automobile accidents fell for the first time in 25 years.

The Insurance Information Institute reported Thursday 55,300 persons died in traffic accidents last year, 1,100 or 2 per cent fewer than in 1969. Injuries were down 0.5 per cent to 4.983 million.

The economic loss declined by 2.3 per cent or $374 million to $16.20 billion.

Automobile accidents, although less costly, grew in number in 1970, increasing by 91,450 or 0.4 per cent to 22.1 million.

Four Cars Are Hit By Burglars

Petaluma police reported four burglaries of vehicles occurred yesterday. Foreman Plumbing, 990 Lakeville Highway, reported that electric hand tools valued at $246 were stolen from a truck at 913 West Street. Richard A. Henderson, 819 G Street said stereo tapes valued at $158 had been stolen from his car.

Anthony Conte, 10 Wallace Court, said two suits and a tape recording kit valued at $810 were stolen from his car while parked at the Boulevard Bowl, 1100 Petaluma Boulevard South. Ernest Butler, 700 Sixth Street, reported a tool box valued at $215 was stolen from his car.

Sleepy Hollow Debates Services District Idea

By DAVID DIETZ

Formation of a community services district in Sleepy Hollow was endorsed last night by those residents who said they wanted more control over the community's future but scored by others who feared it would bring rising taxes.

About 200 persons turned out at the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association clubhouse to hear speakers both for and against the district, scheduled to go before voters April 20.

From audience applause, citizens appeared opposed to creation of a new taxing agency to serve the 2,600 residents of the neatly kept community. At present, the area has only a fire district in addition to its homeowners' group and is subject to the direct control of the county board of supervisors.

If the services district were approved April 20, voters also would seat five board members from a slate of 10 candidates and set a maximum tax rate for the district of $1.15 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Of the possible maximum rate — $1.04 would go for fire protection to adjoining San Anselmo, whose department now serves Sleepy Hollow. From the remaining 11 cents, would be paid miscellaneous expenses and administrative services — the district must have a staff member but it can be a nonsalaried job.

Last night's debate — which opened with a panel of five residents speaking for the district and five against — centered around the agency's potential for providing new and improved services and the cost of the added responsibilities.

Proponents argued the district would give the community legal punch to deal more adequately with police and fire protection, garbage collection and recreational needs. But opponents viewed the district as politically inspired and believed the homes association and fire district were amply serving the area.

Richard B. Kreuzer, one of the five speakers who criticized the district, told the audience voter approval would "really just give it power to go into existence. There was no reason to bring you out here tonight unless they are going to do something . . . and they will have to continue to come back to you for taxes."

Kreuzer is one of the candidates vying for a seat on the district board if the agency's formation is approved. Other candidates for the board who spoke against formation of the district were Jay G. Igels and Alfred A. Nannizzi, candidate Robert L. Flanders spoke in favor.

Merritt A. Robinson, past president of the homes association and a backer of the services district, insisted the advantage of the district would be that its directors could not spend substantial sums without first obtaining voter approval.

Flanders worried that, without a services district, Sleepy Hollow risked annexation by a neighboring city. "The strongest possible way to meet the unknown future is to have a legal voice — a louder voice than we're able to muster through the homes association."

Ingels, on the other hand, was concerned over the cost of administrative services and the possible future threat of a majority of board members influencing agency policy.

Following is a list of the proposed district's powers and a synopsis of last night's discussion on each:

POLICE PROTECTION — Proponents, saying homeowners were unhappy with burglaries, vandalism and hotrodding, explained the agency would have the power to supplement present patrols. Ordinances could be passed setting stiff fines for trash dumping, they added. While supporting the need for extra police protection, opponents were worried about the cost. They noted Tiburon paid $14,750 per man annually to contract with the sheriff's office for police services.

FIRE PROTECTION — Proponents said the district could contract formally with San Anselmo, enabling better control, while opponents argued service was excellent at present and there was no need to change.

RECREATION — Proponents said the district could contract formally with San Anselmo, enabling better control, while opponents argued service was excellent at present and there was no need to change.

RECREATION — Proponents felt a need to provide additional facilities for preschool children and to preserve open space. Kreuzer, in rebuttal, listed a wide variety of activities available in the San Anselmo region at present, but did acknowledge a need for certain community facilities.

GARBAGE — Proponents said the community, through a services district, could contract for its own refuse disposal service. But mention of providing debris boxes for community use disturbed opponents who feared litter.

UNDERGROUNDING OF UTILITIES — Proponents said the district could pass an ordinance requiring undergrounding at new home sites, while opponents worried the district board might require undergrounding on a communitywide scale, imposing a stiff levy on all property owners.

Charged Ship Pilot Takes Witness Stand

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A tanker pilot charged with violating seagoing rules of the road testified Thursday he did not know another ship was close until notified by a radio message from her captain.

Captain Leo H. Wuesthoff, 62, of Oakland was on the witness stand of a Coast Guard hearing into the near collision of the Norwegian tanker Stolt Condor and the Overseas Suzanne, an ammunition ship.

The Overseas Suzanne and the Stolt Condor, which Wuesthoff was piloting, just missed colliding Jan. 30 near the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge over San Francisco.

Captain Gar Long of the Overseas Suzanne testified he steamed his vessel full astern to avoid the crash.

Long said he did not know the tanker's movements until told by the skipper of an outgoing Japanese freighter. He notified Wuesthoff.

Five-Fold Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The number of minority group persons employed by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District has increased almost five-fold in the past 5 1-2 years, the agency reported Thursday to the San Francisco Human Rights Commission.

$1 Million Death Case Suit Filed

A $1 million wrongful death suit in connection with the death of a San Quentin inmate last year was filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

The suit was filed by San Rafael attorney Salle S. Soladay in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Billingslea of Detroit, Mich., parents of inmate Fred E. Billingslea, 25, who died at the prison Feb. 25, 1970, after he set fire to his mattress.

A similar suit, filed last October, is pending in federal court in San Francisco.

Named as defendants in the suit are Gov. Ronald Reagan; R. K. Procunier, director of the state department of correction; San Quentin Warden Louis S. Nelson; two associate wardens and 16 guards.

They "maliciously assaulted, gassed, choked and killed" Billingslea, the suit charges, "because of their general hatred of persons of African descent."

The suit was filed in connection with a statewide "Prisoner Day" to be observed on college campuses today.

A Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice at the College of Marin was to have presented a video tape of prison conditions, a model of a prison strip cell and seminar at the college today.

A boat cruise near the prison is scheduled by the committee for this evening.

Permits Eyed In Wilderness Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Permits may be required in California this summer to enter wilderness areas, the Forest Service said Thursday.

A service spokesman added that a recommendation that permits be required is under study.

There would be no fee and the entry permit would include a campfire permit.

Hawkins Will Unveil Reorganization Plan

A reorganization plan for Tamalpais High School District which is expected to save $150,000 per year in administrative costs is to be presented to district trustees Monday night.

The $150,000 estimate is that of Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, who devised the plan.

Purpose of the reorganization, according to Hawkins, is to strengthen the individual high schools so that each becomes a "district within a district." While the organizational setup at all three schools will be the same next school year, their staffs will be encouraged to work out their own plans which may result in Tamalpais, Sir Francis Drake and Redwood High School each having a slightly different organization the year following, Hawkins said.

The saving, the superintendent reported, will arise because much of the central administrative staff will be transferred to the schools, but without increasing the number of non-teaching personnel at each school. Some of those now in administration will be returned to the classrooms.

Because the plan is so far-reaching, titles will be changed in many cases. There may no longer be such a title as "principal" at each school — a designation, Hawkins noted, that derives from "principal teacher" and does not adequately describe the job of administrative head of a school.

The plan is the result of much discussion among the staff, and its implementation will involve the staff of each of the three high schools, the superintendent said.

The board will be asked at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the district office in Larkspur to give the go-ahead for putting the plan into operation, so that new assignments can be worked out during the current school year.

Hawkins said one aim of the plan will be to place responsibility, so that there is no question who is responsible in any area of each school's operation.

Marinite Asks Trial On Melee

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Kentfield attorney arrested in a post-game melee at Kezar Stadium Jan. 3 asked yesterday for a jury trial in municipal court here. His case was continued to next Thursday to set a trial date.

Thomas H. Thorner, 38, of 98 Kent Avenue had pleaded innocent Jan. 21 to charges of inciting to riot, disturbing the peace and assaulting a police officer.

A motion to inspect evidence against him was to have been heard yesterday, but that was also continued to next Thursday.

A second Marin man among the 20 arrested at the stadium is to appear March 18 for preliminary hearing in municipal court. Wayne M. Clark, 27, of 111 Rafael Drive, San Rafael, pleaded innocent Jan. 14 to charges of assaulting a policeman and disturbing the peace.

Apollo 14 Crew Due House Honor

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Apollo 14 astronauts will be accorded special congressional recognition next week with a reception on the House floor.

The house formally voted authority Thursday for Speaker Carl Albert to call a recess Tuesday to receive Navy Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr., Cmdr. Edgar D. Mitchell and Air Force Maj. Stuart A. Roosa in recognition of their successful moon flight.

CHALLENGES MALES — Antigone Stoddard practices folding an Independent-Journal, which she would like to be delivering each day. The young women's libber wants to get a route in order to earn money for a horse.

SEEKS CARRIER JOB

11-Year-Old Joins Liberation Cause

A long-haired, bright-faced 11-year-old San Anselmo girl who wants to buy a horse is challenging a traditional male bastion — she wants to be a newspaper carrier.

Yesterday Antigone Stoddard, who is called Ann, filed a federal complaint that she is being discriminated against because of her sex — an unfair and illegal practice under current laws, she claimed.

Targets of the complaint, which was actually filed by Ann's father on her behalf, were the Independent-Journal and Peter Ladow, one of the paper's distributors.

Ann and her sister Hillary, 10, both pupils at Brookside School in San Anselmo, were bitten by the horse bug, according to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stoddard, because of the numerous riders in their neighborhood.

All summer long horses clomp up and down in front of their home at 210 The Alameda, adjacent to Sleepy Hollow.

Ann has taken lessons, but said yesterday that the horse she was given to ride "was not much good."

She and Hillary, who would also like a paper route, have saved $100 from doing household chores toward buying a horse. Ann estimates that she needs $200 to $300 for a "good horse" — and then added with a faraway look in her eyes — "of course, an Arabian would be a lot more."

Further, Ann said, the girls need $30 a month to board the horse once they get it.

Ann is not worried about delivering and collecting for papers. Her mother added, "Children take risks just going to school every day. You have to let them live."

Her father said that one of the parents would accompany her if she had to go out after dark.

Stoddard, a banker with Wells Fargo in San Francisco, filed the complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which will turn it over to the Fair Employment Practices Commission for 60 days consideration.

Stoddard contends that both federal and state legislation prohibit discrimination because of sex.

Allen Howells, circulation manager for the I-J, explained that the ban against girls comes from a state child labor law which prohibits hiring girls under 18 as carriers.

Boys are eligible at 10 under the old law.

Pointing out that the carriers are independent merchants under contract with dealers, not hired by the paper itself, Howells said that he hopes this test case will clear up the matter and that he doesn't care which way it goes.

"Girls who take over for their brothers during Little League season, for example, do a very good job," he added.

Meanwhile, Ann's mother said, "Ann's enthusiasm may not last, of course, but I think she should be given the same opportunity as the boys to do this if she wants."

Filing Rush For School Boards

Marin County voters will decide contests for school board seats April 20 in all but five districts.

With the close of filing for candidates yesterday, no contest had developed for the Tamalpais High School District, nor for Mill Valley, Laguna, Lincoln and Union elementary district seats.

A last-minute filing rush resulted in an even dozen candidates vying for the four open seats on the Marin Junior College District, four competitors for two seats in Sausalito, seven candidates for two seats in Reed, and seven for two seats in Dixie.

One person filing yesterday for the Sausalito race — Myralin G. Whitaker, housewife, of 104 Buchanan Drive, Sausalito — withdrew her candidacy today.

According to the county superintendent of schools' office, the candidates will include, by districts:

MARIN COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION (4 district's seats open)

District One — James A. Swenson, 424 Alameda de la Loma, Novato, incumbent.

District Two — Marilyn Crowell, 10 Dunfries Terrace, San Rafael, incumbent; Clyde G. Miller, physician, 15 Mount Burney Court, San Rafael, physician.

Greenbrae Group Picks New Slate

Kermit V. Speeg last night was elected president of the Greenbrae Property Owners Association during its annual membership meeting at Wolfe Grade School.

Speeg, who lives at 41 Via La Cumbre, is a civilian engineer with the Army Corps of Engineers.

Last year he served as the association's treasurer.

Other board officers elected last night are Stewart N. Boxer, vice president; John A. Russell, chairman of the architectural review committee; Arthur J. Cushing Jr., treasurer, and Naida Walter, secretary.

The election was followed by a discussion of maintenance problems in the communities public areas.

According to Beth Reilly, outgoing association secretary, Russell told the group he has figured $15,000 worth of improvements needed but added the association only has $10,000 to work with.

60 Days Jail On Reduced Charge

Robert D. Fried, 19, of San Anselmo, has been sentenced to two months in Marin County Jail after pleading guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of grand theft.

He earlier had been charged with a felony count of grand theft stemming from his arrest Feb. 15 after he allegedly snatched the purse of an elderly woman leaving a San Rafael market.

Fried had been on probation in connection with two earlier misdemeanor convictions for disturbing the peace. Probation was revoked and he was ordered to serve an additional five months in jail.

JAMES M. PIDGEON
New Dominican trustee

New Board Member At Dominican

James M. Pidgeon, vice president of a San Francisco investment banking firm, has been appointed to the board of trustees of Dominican College of San Rafael, according to the board chairman Paul M. Hupf.

Pidgeon has been with the firm of Bateman, Eichler, Hill, Richards Inc., since 1957. He served as an officer in the Navy in World War II and is a graduate of the University of San Francisco. He had done graduate work in business administration at the University of Southern California.

The new trustee and his wife, Mary Helen, live in Daly City with a daughter and three sons.

The position to which Pidgeon was appointed is a new seat on the board, according to college officials.

Air Crash

NEW DELHI (UPI) —An Indian air force plane crashed in Kharagpur airfield 72 miles west of Calcutta Thursday, killing its pilot and nine laborers working in the airfield.

Los Angeles Damaged By High Winds

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Winds gusting up to 70 miles an hour ripped through the Los Angeles area Thursday toppling several roofs from buildings, knocking down scores of trees and forcing closure of some highways.

The City Department of Water and Power said hundreds of homes suffered minor blackouts of varying lengths as the winds knocked down several utility poles.

Large plate glass windows were broken in some businesses in Lancaster and in the Antelope Valley. A tree smashed through the roof of a home in the east Los Angeles area but there were no injuries.

Eight major freeways and highways were closed to campers and trailers by the California Highway Patrol.

A peak velocity of 81 mile an hour was recorded in the afternoon atop the 150-foot Federal Aviation Administration air traffic control tower in Palmdale. A 73 MPH velocity is considered to be hurricane force.

In Lancaster, a portion of the roof of radio station KAVL was blown off and a portion of the roof of a hanger at Edwards Air Force Base was knocked loose.

Alerts were imposed on some desert highways in San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

The winds were from a mass of cold air that was moving southward across Southern California. They were expected to continue through today.

Two men were injured at Marina Del Rey when debris from a building under construction was blown free and struck them. They were treated at Marina Mercy Hospital for minor injuries.

Two small planes toppled over at Santa Monica Airport, one while taking off and the other while landing. The two pilots suffered minor injuries.

Wife Killer Gets None Of Estate

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Erie County Judge William J. Regan ruled Thursday that a man who shot and killed his wife is not entitled to her estate.

Regan ruled that the estate of Mrs. Joan Kedron be distributed equally to the Kedron's four children.

Mrs. Kedron, 38, was fatally shot in her apartment in suburban Amherst Feb. 10, 1969.

Her husband Frank, 44, is serving a 10-year term in the Attica correctional facility after pleading guilty to second-degree manslaughter.

Alcoholism Cost

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Alcoholism costs San Francisco business $60 million a year in absenteeism, insurance claims, accidents and inefficiencies, the local chapter of the National Council on Alcoholism estimated Thursday.

Bridge Panel Bows Out On Central Terminal For Marin

A noncommittal Golden Gate Bridge District committee yesterday bowed out of a decision on where a Central Marin ferry terminal should be located.

Before a packed audience in the district's cramped meeting chamber, the transportation committee said proposed sites in both Larkspur and Corte Madera appeared equally acceptable.

The question was then bounced out of committee to the full bridge district board for reassignment today to another committee — probably the building and operating committee — for cost comparison.

Early in the two-hour hearing, the committee brushed aside consideration of a conservationist backed proposal that the terminal be located on San Quentin Point.

But elimination of one of the two remaining sites, one on the Dominic Muzzi property in Corte Madera and the other on the Hutchinson Quarry property in Larkspur, proved more difficult.

Chairman Michael Wornum, a Marin supervisor, after the meeting said he was not sure which committee the matter would be forwarded to. He recommended during the meeting, however, it go to the building and operating committee and then to the finance committee.

As the hearing opened, Marin Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni told the committee he favored building the terminal on the Larkspur site.

He advised the committee to delete the San Quentin site as impractical and favor Larkspur for four reasons: patronage, highway access, surface and subsurface conditions of the site and the "ecologically rich mudflat" which would be destroyed if the Corte Madera site were selected.

Arrigoni, whose supervisorial district includes parts of Larkspur but not Corte Madera, emphasized also the Larkspur site is buildable now as opposed to the "years" it would take for Corte Madera's because of fill requirements.

Arrigoni's statement was countered by Arthur N. Morrison, Corte Madera town engineer, who said the town's site could be dry-filled and used immediately.

The committee, which has been through two previous ferry terminal site reports by proponents, sat through another — almost identical in content — before endorsing both sites.

Subsequent discussion concentrated on channel dredging and whether the Army Corps of Engineers would help financially.

Architect Norman T. Gilroy of Mill Valley, who planned the Larkspur proposal, told the committee the corps had indicated it would help dredge the Larkspur channel but not Corte Madera's.

Pleasure boat usage of the creek, he said, was the reason the district could expect Army assistance.

However, Wornum said after the meeting he also had had discussions with the Army and had come away with no such impression.

Eyebrows were raised when it was disclosed the proposed channel to the Corte Madera site runs directly over offshore property owned by the Nature Conservancy.

The committee, noting that the bulk of the channel runs through offshore property owned by Muzzi, asked the property owner if the channel path is included in his offer of 25 acres of free property for the terminal.

Muzzi responded he hadn't considered the question but would discuss it with others involved in development of his property.

Councilman Neil R. Brixon of Larkspur, however, was quick to point out that the proposed channel to the Larkspur site traverses state lands.

"You'd be dealing with state lands, which you could get for almost nothing," he said. "You don't have to buy Muzzi property here (Larkspur) to get to deep water."

At Wornum's insistance, the committee refused to consider cost factors of developing the two sites.

"We're trying to determine today if there are any overriding planning or operating factors of one site over the other," he said. "Not costs."

On a motion by Director William Lucius of Healdsburg, the committee approved both sites as acceptable. Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis voted against.

Mafia Figure's Son Indicted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A second son of Mafia figure Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonanno was indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury on charges of using extortion to collect a debt.

The jury accused Salvatore Vincent Bonanno, 38, Campbell, of illegally collecting a $2,500 debt from Arobert Piper, 30, a pilot. The same panel charged Joseph Bonanno Jr., 25, San Jose, and two other men with the crime last month.

Ready to talk about DEPENDABILITY?

People often forget one important thing when buying their first washer. It's DEPENDABILITY. Consequently, they get to know the repairman pretty well. And that's expensive. With the second washer, it's different. Dependability comes first! And that's why a Speed Queen should be your No. 1 choice. Speed Queens are Designed and Built to be dependable . . . to give extra years of faithful service. We'd love to have you come in and say, "prove it."

Priced from $229 to $329

*LIFETIME WARRANTY ON STAINLESS STEEL DRUM

The Speed Queen stainless steel dryer drum is warranted for the life of the dryer by Speed Queen, A Division of McGraw-Edison Company. If the drum fails as a result of a manufacturing defect, it will be replaced. Labor charges incurred in the removal and replacement of the drum are the responsibility of the owner unless the one year warranty responsibility of the Speed Queen dealer applies.

*10-YEAR WARRANTY ON TRANSMISSION PARTS

Speed Queen washer transmissions consisting of the case, cover, rocker arm, link, crank gear, connecting rod, pinion and drive clutch are warranted for ten years from date of installation by Speed Queen, A Division of McGraw-Edison Company. If any of the above listed parts fail within the 10-year warranty period as a result of a manufacturing defect, they will be replaced. Labor charges incurred in the removal and replacement of such parts are the responsibility of the owner unless the one year warranty responsibility of the Speed Queen dealer applies.

Tracy Wood, UPI's demon reporter in Sacramento, interviews Bob Moretti, new Speaker of the House.

What's going on in Sacramento?

Plenty. There's a new climate, a new political alignment in the state legislature . . . and possibly a new approach to legislative problems which are of definite importance to you.

When the new Speaker speaks, Tracy Wood reports for you in the I-J

Bob Moretti, new Speaker of the House, appears to be concentrating intensely as he listens to a question from Tracy Wood, one of the I-J's United Press International reporters in Sacramento.

Perhaps from experience Moretti knows that Tracy is no one to turn off with a smile or top-of-the-head remark. For young and feminine as she may be, Tracy Wood has the gift of separating verbal chaff from the wheat. And of being so persistently inquiring that political figures think twice before answering . . . and maybe thrice about not answering.

Tracy, like all I-J and UPI reporters, takes the stubbornly objective view, that you, the reader, have the right to know. No system on earth so well insures that you may be informed. And none so well brings out the element which alone distinguishes good reporting - the truth.

Nicasio Subdivision Plan On Tap

Plans for the first major subdivision in the pastoral Nicasio area will be considered by the Marin County Planning Commission when it meets at 9 a.m. Monday.

Cirilo Gonzales, who owns 1,300 acres on the south side of Lucas Valley Road, just east of Nicasio, wants to subdivide 164 acres into 15 large lots for single family homes. It will be called the Rancho Margarita subdivision.

In anticipation of future expansion of the subdivision, Gonzales seeks rezoning of a total of 560 acres.

Other items on the planning commission agenda include:

MARINA — Larry Marks Jr. will submit a tentative subdivision map for nine Marina lots on seven acres along the west shore of Tomales Bay, just north of Golden Hinde Boatel.

BOARDWALK — Robert Rhoads wants to build on a 4,000-square-foot lot at 125 Greenbrae Boardwalk.

PRIVATE SCHOOL — A group called Parents for Orthodox and Parochial Education will ask for a use permit to operate a private school for 30 children at 1100 Las Gallinas Avenue, across the street from Bernard Hoffman School, Terra Linda.

LAND DIVISION — Charlotte Berkov will ask for a four-lot division of about five acres at Indian Springs Road and Indian Valley Road in Southwest Novato.

Suspicion Of Theft At Wash

Two Kentfield residents — one a former football star at the College of Marin — have been arrested on suspicion of stealing $1,124 from a safe at a San Rafael car wash where one was assistant manager.

Police said that Gary F. Gunn, 21, of 151 Kent Avenue, assistant manager of the Rain Tunnel car wash, gave the combination of the safe to his roommate, Ronald P. Blasingame, 20, and that they split the money later at their apartment.

Police said the theft occurred after closing hours last Saturday.

Blasingame, former student body president of Tamalpais High School who had previously worked at the Rain Tunnel, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary and grand theft. Gunn was booked on suspicion of grand theft.

Both were released on their own recognizance to appear in Marin Municipal Court March 2.

Research Finds Human Fetus Has Disease Fighter

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Research has revealed that a fetus produces its own antibodies to fight diseases contracted before birth, a medical researcher reported Thursday.

Dr. Jon V. Straumfjord Jr., research supervisor at Milwaukee General Hospital, said that previously doctors believed the fetus did not produce such antibodies.

The new knowledge will enable doctors to treat the fetus by administering oral medication to the mother or through blood transfusions.

"These antibodies, known as "Gama-M," have been isolated and can now be used in laboratory tests to detect the presence of infectious diseases," Straumfjord said during an interview.

Chevalier Degree For Novatan

Greg Dale, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dale of 482 Fairway Drive, Novato, will receive the order of DeMolay's Chevalier Degree at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Druids Hall, Novato.

The Chevalier Degree is a citation for outstanding service and is the second highest honor the order bestows.

Dale has been a member of the Novato Chapter, Order of DeMolay for seven years and is a past master councilor. He is a senior at the University of the Pacific at Stockton and is preparing for a career in medicine.

Pay Scale Comparison In Dixie

The Dixie School District devotes a greater than average percentage of its budget to teacher salaries, but its pay scale is the lowest of 78 Bay Area districts.

That was the conclusion of a computer budget analysis presented to the district board Wednesday by James Sutton, fiscal expert for the Bay section of the California Teachers Association, according to Supt. Clifford W. Campbell.

The budget study, which cost the district $50, showed that Dixie devoted 64.6 per cent of its budget in 1969-70 to teachers' salaries, compared to 62 per cent statewide, Campbell said.

However, starting teachers received only $6,100, compared to a Bay Area average of $6,800 to $6,900. Since no raise was granted teachers this fiscal year, the district is probably $1,000 below the state average across the board, Campbell said.

Sutton, according to Campbell, said the district would have to decide whether to have fewer teachers with a better salary schedule or maintain the present teacher-pupil ratio with below-average salaries.

Sutton, according to Campbell, also concluded:

1. State support dipped from 48.5 per cent in 1965-66 to 38.6 last year, while income from property taxes rose from 48.9 per cent to 59.1 per cent.

2. The district has shown uncanny accuracy in predicting both income and outlays.

3. Expenditure per pupil was more than $100 a year above the state average of $695 in 1969-70, but was well below the average in other Marin districts.

The Dixie School District board also:

UNION — Referred two organizers for Classified School Employees Union, Local 625, to Campbell to set up a conference.

FILM — Granted permission to teacher Sheila Farrell to make a movie on excavation of the Miwok mound at Miller Creek School.

HIRE — Hired Troy Rhodd as custodian two hours a day at Don Timoteo School for $575 for the rest of the school year.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence without pay for one year to Jane Reamer, fifth grade teacher at Nova Albion School, and Jean Tamashiro, who is on leave this year, for the 1971-72 school year.

OLD SCHOOL — Heard a report by Campbell that a Dixie School House Foundation has been set up to collect funds to move and restore the old Dixie School. The 100-year-old building will be moved to Miller Creek School and renovated for a museum if money is raised.

SCHOOL START — Heard a request by Campbell to begin the next school year on Sept. 13 in accordance with an effort by county school superintendents to establish a uniform school year.

Extra Class Loads Forecast At Sonoma

Sonoma State College instructors may find themselves in the classroom for more hours next semester since Gov. Ronald Reagan's recommended budget will admit an additional 500 students without comparably increasing the faculty.

Under the proposed budget, the present enrollment of 3,850 will be increased to 4,470 in the fall. Sonoma State's allocation would permit the addition of only 1.8 faculty members to handle the extra load.

While college officials called the budget effect "damaging," it was reported that other colleges might lose faculty members while increasing enrollment. A total of 250 teaching positions have been proposed in the statewide cut.

Under the proposal, total education cost for each full-time equivalent student would drop from the current $1,965 to $1,814. Similarly, the faculty-student ratio will increase from the present 14.59 students for one instructor to 16.50 students.

The 1971-72 budget also eliminates the sought after funding for a physical science building and a general classroom building which president Thomas H. McGrath had labeled as "critical needs."

The budget would also reduce the number of department chairmen, eliminate all funds for research, special faculty leaves, moving expenses for new teachers and out-of-state travel for recruitment. Faculty pay increases and cost-of-living increases are also expected to be on the chopping block.

The overall operational budget, however, would increase from the present $7,565,473 to $7,925,484 for a gain of $360,011.

McGrath met yesterday with San Francisco State President S. I. Hayakawa and San Jose President John Bunzell to prepare an approach to get more funds in the final budget.

Ferry Fare Boost Seen For Children; Infants Too

Children's fares on the Sausalito ferry will be hiked on March 15 under a proposal endorsed today by a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

Children 16 and under now pay 25 cents, and children under 5 require no tickets.

Under the new fare system, the full 50-cent fare will apply to all passengers over 12 years of age, and all persons 12 and under will pay 25 cents. Infants also would pay the 25-cent fare.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring proposed the change, saying it was necessary to permit a comparison between the count of passengers and the number of tickets collected. This was impossible, he said, with infants paying no fare. He said it also was difficult to differentiate between 16 and 17-year-olds.

Luehring acknowledged that the change will mean some additional revenue.

The change was endorsed by the finance-auditing committee, but final board approval was postponed two weeks to give time for public reaction.

Sentenced To Prison On Felonies

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Wesley A. Johnson — once accused of killing a San Francisco Police Officer Richard P. Radetich of Ignacio was sentenced yesterday to state prison on four other felony charges.

Johnson, 31, made several outbursts in court, according to Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles Breyer, including calling Judge Joseph J. Karesh a "pig."

Johnson had rarely seen the jury that found him guilty earlier this month in San Francisco Superior Court because Judge Karesh excluded him from court for frequent haranging of the jury.

Johnson, who lived in San Francisco, was convicted of first degree burglary, attempted robbery, assault on a policeman with a deadly weapon and being an exconvict who had a gun.

He is to serve the sentences consecutively, with the longest one being five-years-to-life.

The charges arose from a San Francisco attempted holdup of a telegraph office in November 1969.

While a fugitive on these charges Johnson became a suspect in the fatal shooting of Radetich last June, while the patrolman sat in his patrol car writing a ticket. The charge was later dropped when the district attorney's office had a witness problem and it has not been reinstated.

Quake Appeal

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan Thursday called on all Californians to contribute to the Red Cross to replace the funds it spent to aid victims of the Los Angeles earthquake and the tornadoes in the South.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Joan Kennedy, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, will make her debut as a pianist on television March 13 on "The Andy Williams Show."

Board of Review To Name Chairman

The Fairfax Board of Review will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Women's Club at 46 Park Road, Fairfax, to appoint a chairman and to review changes in the rules and regulations governing Fairfax personnel.

According to Eileen Foster, Fairfax city clerk, the board is also slated to consider a request for a public hearing regarding the method of selecting candidates for the street department examination.

Five Plead Innocent To Pot Charges

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Five men arrested last May in Mill Valley in connection with a sale of 180 pounds of marijuana pleaded innocent yesterday in U.S. District Court to charges of conspiracy and unlawful transportation of marijuana.

A jury trial was set for May 17 for Eric R. Millican, 21, of Long Beach; John A. Papia, 21, of Mill Valley; Thomas N. Hammer, 21, and Sheldon P. Levy, 21, both of San Francisco, and Ramon Buchayer, 29, of Larkspur.

Judge Alfonzo Zirpoli also set April 22 for hearing of defense motions in the case.

The case of the five men was dismissed earlier because they had been charged under a federal law which had been declared unconstitutional. They were reindicted by a federal grand jury this month.

The marijuana seized in the May arrest was valued at $120,000, narcotics agents said.

Inmate Fails To Show Up By Deadline

A San Quentin prisoner who had gone to Los Angeles on a 72-hour pass failed to return at his 2 p.m. deadline yesterday, according to prison officials.

Missing is Henry Buchanan Jelkes, 40, due to be paroled May 10.

Associate Warden Wayne Bartels said that Buchanan was first sent to San Quentin in 1961 from Los Angeles County on conviction of lewd and lascivious conduct. He was paroled in 1968 but was returned to prison last May for parole violation.

Bartels explained that convicts are allowed 72-hour passes when they are within 90 days of being paroled.

Since January 1, 18 prisoners have either escaped or failed to return from either 72-hour passes or work furlough.

Losing Favor

ROME (UPI)—Juke boxes are losing favor in Italy, according to an industry survey. Only 7 per cent of Italy's 24,000 juke boxes brought earnings of more than $800 each in 1969, compared with 13 per cent in 1968. The number of juke boxes losing money after taxes and royalties rose from 34 to 40 per cent.

Strike-Involved Sentences, Dismissals, A Plea Change

I-J Special Report

VALLEJO — Two men were sentenced yesterday in Vallejo Municipal Court on misdemeanor charges; two men's cases were dismissed, and a fifth changed his plea on counts arising from incidents involving San Francisco Typographical Union 21's strike against the Independent-Journal.

All of the cases had been transferred to Municipal Court Judge William E. Jensen's court after defense attorneys argued their clients could not obtain fair trials in Marin County.

Bruce Bauer, a Redwood City youth accused of smashing an I-J delivery truck window on Jan. 17, 1970, withdrew his plea of not guilty to the count. Judge Jensen ordered him to return March 17 for reading of a presentencing probation report, formal change of plea and final sentencing.

A malicious mischief charge against James P. Martin, also of Redwood City, was dismissed on motion of Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Ragghianti. The prosecutor said witnesses had been unable to identify Martin as the picket who slammed a stick on the trunk of an I-J employee's car Jan. 28, 1970.

Charges against picket William A. Cogswell of Rio Linda (Sacramento County) also were dismissed. Ragghianti said Cogswell made restitution for a radio antenna he allegedly broke off a car parked outside the I-J March 20, 1970. Another case involving battery and trespass charges was dismissed because the principal witness has left the state, Ragghianti explained.

Gary Corvello of 1441 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was fined $100 and placed on six months' summary probation after his attorney entered a plea of guilty to a charge of malicious mischief to the property of I-J employee Dennis Dickey, on March 2, 1970.

Michael J. Clancy of San Bruno, entered a no-contest plea through his attorney, to a charge of defacing windows at the Independent-Journal while on picket duty one year ago today. Judge Jensen fined him $50 and imposed six months summary probation.

All the cases, plus a number still pending, involved incidents since the San Francisco International Typographical Union Local 21 struck the I-J on Jan. 7, 1970.

Fancy Bedroom Means Hike In Wife's Alimony

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—A wife's description of her husband's bedroom—complete with spring-fed trout pool and wine and beer on tap—has won her increased alimony payments.

Commissioner Donald N. Niles set the monthly payments at $450, pending the divorce, after the woman submitted an affidavit describing her husband's ski resort home.

"The sunken master bedroom has a bathroom which includes a small but deep bathing pool. There is a trout pool in a corner of the bedroom fed by a natural stream. The bedroom even has beer and wine on tap," she said.

The wife asked for $1,000 a month and her husband argued $300 would be fair.

The husband complained that the bedroom argument was unfair-his wife had insisted on building it.

SOUTHERN SONOMA

No fire calls.

Bed Leasing To Be Checked For A Disaster

Hillcrest Hospital directors last night said an agreement to lease beds at convalescent hospitals should be considered as part of disaster planning.

The board told administrator Joseph Horner to negotiate with owners of local convalescent hospitals so that 20 or 30 beds would be available in the event of an earthquake or other disaster that would strain facilities at the 50-bed Hillcrest facility.

Horner said the lease agreement might be useful in the event that Petaluma General Hospital should ever close and Hillcrest be faced with crowded conditions.

The Hillcrest Hospital board of directors also:

PLANS — Reviewed preliminary architectural plans for a new hospital facility that would accommodate 500 beds after 1990. Horner said the board members will study the plans and consider approval in March.

ELECTION — Asked the Petaluma City Council to consolidate the election of two board members with the June 8 city council and board of education election. The terms of Jack Garrison and Albert P. Behrens Sr. will expire.

ACCREDITATION — Heard a report that the joint committee on accreditation of hospitals will review the Hillcrest operation on March 10 and 11.

Minor Injuries In Auto Crash

William A. Jackson, 64, of 111 Clark Street, San Rafael, suffered cuts of the upper lip yesterday when his car went off the roadway at Bugeia Lane and Atherton Avenue, Novato, through a wire fence and into a ditch, Novato police reported today.

The accident was at 9:34 a.m. Jackson was treated at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital.

Pitch For Doubling One Budget

The Marin County Human Rights Department's budget next year should be doubled over this year's to pay for a bigger staff with better salary.

That was the unanimous recommendation of the human rights commission, which met last night at the home of commissioner Frederick S. Mayer in Terra Linda.

On a motion by Mayer, the commissioners asked for a budget, of $75,700, compared with this year's $35,000. Last year's budget was $51,400, and the 1969 budget, $40,700.

The commissioners asked for a salary of $16,000 for the department director, instead of the present $12,000. They also asked for an assistant director with a salary of $14,000, a grievance and compliance counselor at $12,000, a youth coordinator at $9,000, secretary at $7,800, a clerk typist at $6,350, and four work study students.

The commissioners want a chain of command that would make the commission and department directly responsible to the board of supervisors instead of reporting through the county administrator.

On a motion by Anthony Medrano, the commissioners also asked supervisors for authority to investigate human rights at both San Quentin Prison and in the Marin County Jail.

Petaluma Vandalism

De Martini and Smith Construction Co. of Novato told Petaluma police that truck windows were smashed and a water truck drained at a construction site at South Crinella and Sarkesian drives. Damage was estimated at $650.

Advice Sought On Marin Aqueduct

The Marin Municipal Water District board learned yesterday that it can safely wait until 1972 to build the first stage of the Marin aquaduct.

However, board members wondered whether it wouldn't be wise to build the $3 million project this year anyway.

"If I had to make a seat of the pants decision, there is no doubt about what I would do. I would go ahead right now," Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. said.

Foreaker said that construction cost will undoubtedly rise in the next year. "The question is: Do you make money go farther by spending sooner?" he said.

The board decided to ask its bond consultant, Stone and Youngberg, to prepare a report of whether it would be financially wise to build this year or wait until the need develops next year.

The firm, according to General Mgr. William R. Seeger, is planning to recommend that all $11.5 million in bonds be sold immediately because of the favorable bond market.

Since the amount of the bonds to be sold is fixed, Foreaker was concerned that because of inflation they might not cover costs of the projects they are ticketed for.

The water district had planned to complete the pipeline from Hamilton Air Force Base to Novato this year so it could buy water from the North Marin Water District until the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct is completed in three to five years.

However, a written report by engineer Bernie B. Heare indicated that reservoirs were full on Jan. 1 and consumption was running at the same level as last year. Therefore, he concluded, no water shortage will develop until the fall of 1972 or beyond.

The aqueduct is intended to bring in water from the Russian River to insure an adequate water supply into the 1990s.

Expansive Ordinance Is Set By MMWD

An ordinance that will make 400 to 500 customers install expensive backflow devices in the interest of protecting the water supply was passed yesterday by the Marin Municipal Water District board.

The ordinance requires customers handling dangerous substances that could enter the water system to install backflow devices at their own expense. The devices cost up to $4,150 each, depending on the size of the water line.

The board also approved hiring a cross-connection inspector for between $755 and $839 a month to enforce the ordinance.

However, no decision was made on how consumers will be allowed to pay for the devices or on how much time they will have to install them.

General Mgr. William R. Seeger said no time limit is desirable because the amount of time needed in each case will vary considerably.

Seeger recommended customers be required to pay the whole sum at once as do those who purchase pipeline extensions.

However, the board, at the insistence of Director Eugene A. Miller, directed staff to report back on alternative means by which the money would be raised by buyers. Mentioned were an installment plan and extensions of time to allow financing to be obtained.

Alternate financing methods would be available only to existing buildings, Miller said. Builders of new structures which would require backflow protection will have to pay a lump sum as part of their capital outlay, he said.

Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. worred that the lack of a deadline would delay compliance. However, the district's attorney Robert W. Elliott, said shirkers might lose their water for failure to comply.

Priority targets of the ordinance are sewage treatment plants, plating industries and hospitals. Other priority facilities are schools, high-rise structures, buildings with sewage pumping facilities or auxiliary water supplies, large commercial laundries, irrigation services and whatever other customers the district judges to be using hazardous substances.

The state Department of Water Resources had postponed certifying the water district's compliance with state laws until the district showed signs of adopting the cross-connection ordinance.

The Marin Municipal Water Board Also:

TENNESSEE VALLEY TANK — Called for bids by March 24 for painting of the one million gallon Tennessee Valley tank.

COMPRESSOR — Put over to March 10 purchase of two air compressors for destratification of water at Nicasio Lake so bids can be analyzed. Estimated cost is $2,800.

INVENTORY — Put over to next meeting hiring two University of California professors to take inventory of the water district lands to get more details on what they will do.

PINE MOUNTAIN — Agreed that the state share of the cost of cleaning up the Pine Mountain Tunnel Slide is $2,420. The federal government is to pay an additional $23,000 of the $47,000 cost.

SOILS ENGINEER — Hired Cooper Clark and Associates of Novato for $9,600 to do soil testing of a marshy area near Novato Creek over which the Marin Aqueduct is to pass.

DEED — Accepted a right-of-way deed from the Northwestern Pacific Railroad for a 72-year-old line on railroad property near the Puerto Suello Tunnel in San Rafael. The district is to pay $100.

PIPELINE EXTENSION — Agreed to a 2,000-foot extension of eight-inch pipe in the Northgate Shopping Center for the planned Sears-Roebuck store. The $26,982 cost is to be borne by applicant M and T Company.

PIPE — Agreed to a pipe line extension of 300 feet of six-inch pipe to the property of Charles Grandi on Wildwood Way in San Rafael. Cost of the line, $4,759, is to be paid by Grandi.

RAISE — Gave Norma L. Smith, board secretary and head of the Administrative Department, a raise from $1,027 a month to $1,083 per month.

Allende Welcome To U.S. Sailors

VALPARAISO, Chile (UPI)—President Salvador Allende has told Chileans to roll out the welcome mat for the crew of the U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise when it arrives Sunday despite somewhat cool relations between the United States and Chile.

"I am the one who invited that ship because I want the 3,600 officers and crew of the Enterprise to know what Chile is, to experience our authentic democracy," Allende said in a nationwide television address from his summer headquarters in Valparaiso Thursday.

Allende said he was making the statement because "perhaps more than one person might be planning some provocation" against the sailors.

Manzanita School Issue Draws Marin City Anger

In a meeting bristling with open hostility and which frequently broke down in utter chaos, the Sausalito School District board last night voted to house all its pupils in the Martin Luther King School.

A predominately black audience, which nearly filled the Bayside School auditorium, taunted and screamed at board members throughout the nearly four-hour meeting, protesting the decision which will probably mean the eventual closing of Manzanita School in Marin City.

The board voted 3-1, with Jerry L. Whitcomb dissenting, to move all first through eighth grade pupils to Martin Luther King for the 1971 school year, leaving only kindergarten pupils at Manzanita next year, and to move kindergarteners to Martin Luther King by the 1972-73 school year. Board Chairman Nathaniel Johnson was not present.

Marin City residents, upset at the prospect of losing their lone school, frequently cursed the board during the discussion, making it almost impossible at times to hear board members despite the use of individual microphones.

Acting board chairman Delta Christ continually had to bang her gavel to quiet members of the audience and on a couple of occasions threatened to adjourn the meeting as had been done last Monday when the same subject was being discussed.

The district's enrollment has sunk to 520 and at present the district is operating four facilities. Bayside and Central Schools will be closed next year. Manzanita probably the following year.

"We want a school in Marin City until the end of time," shouted Collie Gaines of Marin City.

Rev. Samuel Banks of Marin City accused the board of "playing games with Marin City" for many years.

"The board has failed to recognize what the people of Marin City are saying," he said. "The residents are hollering 'mayday' for help, but the board isn't listening."

He said that the board was forcing Marin City to develop its own educational system.

Members of the audience charged the board with "isolating" Marin City educationally. They also charged that the consolidation move was an attempt to get rid of teachers who related well with black students.

"When they don't need a nigger any more, they fire him," screamed one Marin City resident.

The board is also faced with trimming down its teaching ranks due to a declining student population. Several teachers have been notified their positions have been eliminated, including black teacher-administrator James Toliver.

Mrs. Christ, filling in for the absent Nathaniel Johnson, was the favorite target for hecklers in the audience. Each time she tried to restore order, she was greeted with howls of derision and more taunts.

"I'm getting damn sick and tired of you," screamed Amanda Griffin at Mrs. Christ.

Trustee Whitcomb, who opposed the decision, told the board he didn't see how any decision could be reached when the board had not yet even begun considering a tentative budget. That item was scheduled for last night's meeting but was tabled until next meeting.

"I think we're putting the cart before the horse," he said. "We need more detailed cost figures on what this is going to cost or save the district."

When the board began to vote, the audience started chanting "no, no" and clapping hands making it almost impossibleto hear. After much gavel rapping, the board finally finished voting and adjourned.

The board's decision so enraged one of the district's teachers, Ava Berman, that she almost burst into tears while yelling at the top of her lungs to be recognized before the board adjourned.

The district's teachers association last night objected to being left out of the decision-making process. Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg last night acknowledged that "only four or five" teachers had been consulted about the educational value of moving all students to one campus.

Another Phone Reported Lost

Marin County Parks and Recreation Department has lost another telephone, the sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said burglars took a machette and telephone Tuesday from a parks and recreation workshop at McNear's Beach.

Another telephone and $110 in cash were stolen last Friday or Saturday.

Undersecretary Of Commerce Resigning

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rocco Siciliano has resigned as undersecretary of commerce, effective April 9, for "pressing personal reasons."

President Nixon accepted the resignation with "deep regret." The White House said Siciliano, former president of the Pacific Maritime Association, would return to private business.

Eight Sons Join The U.S. Navy, Parents Honored

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI)—Eight sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Newman Sr. have joined the U.S. Navy.

The eighth was sworn in, along with one of the couple's grandsons, at special ceremonies this week. The induction of Raymond Kirby set a record for the most sons from one family to serve in the navy.

Seven of the boys are on active duty today. The eighth, Kirby Newman Jr., died last year in an airplane crash while in the service.

So far, "Newman's Navy" has compiled 76 years of service.

John Anthony was the Twin Falls couple's first grandson to become a sailor. Other sons on active duty are George, Joseph, Edward, Weldon, David and John.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Tiburon's Windjammer Ranks As A Comfortable Place To Dine

There are certain dining houses, which for want of a better name, can probably be classified most appropriately as "comfortable restaurants."

The term has rather a general connotation, but in this case is meant to emphasize a high degree of low-key appeal to dining outers for a spacious seating arrangement even when the restaurant is filled, smooth service, good food — of course, and an overall atmosphere that encourages complete relaxation.

At such a place diners may be inclined to tarry longer at their tables then they would ordinarily. If you were to ask them why they probably could give you no better reason than their own feeling of satisfaction in just being there. And nobody rushes them.

Marin has several places that qualify, one of them being the Windjammer in Tiburon, which offers a splendid view across the water to the San Francisco skyline but seldom thinks to make any ado about it. It's there as one of the advantages of being on the south side of Main Street — and so what? And since there can be only so many window tables it's not the only attraction.

Menu at the Windjammer is a no-nonsense one, about equally divided between meats and seafoods, the latter ranging through a New Orleans bouillabaise which is a complete dinner in itself, to scallops, sole, rex sole, shrimp curry, abalone, lobster tail, crab in a Mornay cheese sauce and some others. They are the popular dishes, easily recognizable for what they are with no fancy names.

A relaxing place, this Windjammer, even to the piano music of Mark Williams — who, make no mistake, can liven it up when its needed.

That dish is prepared in the Scottish tradition, which is carried out further with bagpipes, tartan walls with Scottish posters and clan maps, red tams worn by the staff and tables made from Scotch whiskey barrels.

Top menu billing is given to "A Piper's Bag" — one-half pound of flaky cod from the North Atlantic cooked in vegetable oil and served with French Fries at $1.25. If ye're a true Scot and dinna care for mair than a wee portion, a quarter-pound of the same is 80 cents.

Hours are from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. (Fridays and Saturdays to 9 p.m.) Much of the business is take-out and manager Jeanne Skvaril notes that with 24 hours notice, deliveries for parties of 20 or more will be made.

SPEAKING OF FISH, McDonald's hamburger chain claims the distinction of having the biggest retail sales of fish in the United States, having sold more than 19 million pounds of it last year through its 1,600 restaurants. Fish was added to the McDonald's menu in 1965 (filet of fish sandwiches) and since then the chain has sold over 92 million pounds.

Collectively McDonald's outlets are said to account for 10 per cent of the frozen fish market and a trawler belonging to the Groton fleet has been named for the company.

LE TONNEAU in Corte Madera now has organ entertainment in the lounge on Friday and Saturday nights from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Nancy Valencia, who has appeared at both Marin and San Francisco night spots is the performing artist. She's good with group singing.

You'll notice something new in the dining room, too — waiters instead of waitresses.

IN SPITE of close checking, some errors do seem to occur in any directory — and our 1971 Dining and Wining Guide apparently has not been free of them. Here are some that have been called to our attention, and corrections:

Jean's Kitchen in Ross — Hours should be from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. Sundays, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. until the first of May. After that Jean's will close on Sundays.

Jerry's Farmhouse Inn, Olema — Food service is from noon to 10 p.m. (not 2 a.m.); bar is open to 2 a.m.

Kublai Khan, Strawberry Town and Country Village — Steak and lobster should be $3.95 — a la carte.

Pier 15, San Rafael — Hours are from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. (Fridays to 11). Reuben sandwich is $1.60 not $1.50. Banquet and party room seats 60 — 80 persons.

Any further corrections will be made as we are informed of them.

"CHOPSTICKS FOR CHARITY" is the name of an unusual chopsticks contest which will be held next Tuesday in the "Room of the Eight Immortals" in the Chinese Cultural Center of the new Holiday Inn on Kearney and Clay streets, San Francisco.

The contest is being hosted by the Imperial Palace Restaurant of San Francisco to aid the local Auxiliary of the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation. It is being held at the cultural center instead of at the restaurant itself because the latter is now undergoing repairs for damage by a recent fire.

An impressive list of contestants will vie for first place with chopsticks over an eight-course lunch of Chinese cuisine. An equally impressive group of judges will give the final word on their technique, including Shirley Temple Black and Chinatown businessman J. K. Choy.

WINE WITH YOUR VIENNESE FOOD can now be ordered at the Old Vienna Restaurant opened in December at 508 Third Street, San Rafael. Owners Karl and Edith Klauda have just received their on sale wine and beer license.

NOW AT SAN FRANCISCO'S Purple Onion, owned by Bud and Virginia Steinhoff of Mill Valley, are Leon Siu and Malia Elliott, a duo from Hawaii featuring folk music, Hawaiian songs, pop tunes and original compositions.

Leon and Malia are in the process of releasing their first LP album under the Que Records label of Quadrum United Enterprises.

Words Omitted From Story

Due to a typographical error, words were omitted from a description of the Red Cross role in disasters in Tuesday's portion of a three-article series on Marin disaster preparedness.

The paragraph should have read:

If state or federal officials declare Marin a disaster area, the Red Cross can help rehabilitate families by assisting them in obtaining federal low-interest loans for buildings and other needs.

Any Red Cross disaster financial assistance would be an outright grant and not a loan, according to officials of the Marin chapter.

Sentencing Scheduled In Forgery

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A blonde resident of Sausalito's high-rent district who boasted in her jail cell of forging more than $50,000 worth of checks in four months, is scheduled for sentencing on one case March 9. She may stand trial the same day in another case.

Janice Long, 21, who has used aseveral other aliases, pleaded guilty earlier this month to a count of possessing a forged document. She was ordered to undergo medical examination for possible drug addiction. She appeared in Superior Court Wednesday for the setting of her March 9 date for probation report and sentencing.

Miss Long pleaded not guilty to one count of possessing a forged Bank of America seal and two counts of forging bank customers' names to checks, in the second case. If her sentencing on the guilty plea does not lead to dismissal of the second case March 9, she is to begin trial that date on the forgery and seal counts, court aides said yesterday.

Burglaries, At The Schools

Burglaries of two more Marin schools were reported by Marin County sheriff's office yesterday.

A tape recorder of undetermined value and $15 in cash were stolen from Lagunitas School in San Geronimo last Thursday or Friday, deputies said.

Some checks and a green wallet containing two personal record books were also taken, but the checks and record books were found Thursday in a mail slot at the Fairfax Post Office. The wallet was not returned, deputies reported.

About $100 damage was done to doors and windows and $3 in cash was taken from a soft drink machine between last Friday and Sunday by burglars at Loma Verde School in Loma Verde, deputies said.

Shoplifting Case To Juvenile Court

The case of Karla Anne Steele, 20, of San Rafael, has been certified to Marin Juvenile Court.

Miss Steele is charged with shoplifting at the Emporium at Northgate Jan. 8 and possessing marijuana when she was booked at Marin County Jail.

Built-In Tax Increase Without Raising Rate

As public administrators and boards of directors, trustees, supervisors, etc., begin to get down to specific figures for fiscal 1971 budgets, all of them are aware of something that the rest of us may have largely ignored.

This is that the amount they get from taxes will automatically go up next fiscal year without raising tax rates.

This will occur because, under state mandate, the assessment ratio will be 25 per cent of market value instead of 23 per cent. The difference, according to County Assessor Bert Broemmel, is 8.6 per cent in the tax bill.

THUS, IF YOUR property tax bill for fiscal 1970 (of which you probably still owe half, to be paid in April) was $1,000, it would rise to $1,086 for fiscal 1971 even if all the assorted taxing agencies left their rates unchanged.

In many cases, it would rise more than that, because of reappraisals. County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell estimates that the over-all increase in assessed valuation in the county will approximate 11 per cent, including the automatic 8.6 per cent hike. So on the average, that $1,000 tax bill would rise to $1,110 if rates remained the same. And in scarcely any case would it rise to less than $1,086, since reduction in appraisal is highly unusual these days.

Offhand, it would appear that this offers an excellent opportunity for the various boards, councils and commissions to reduce their tax rates. They could do so and still have as much money for next year's operations as they have for this year's.

THERE ARE, HOWEVER, the usual gremlins in the works.

One of them is inflation. Although the administration in Washington is patting itself on the back because the cost of living index went up only one-tenth of one per cent last month, that means little when it has been going up for months at a record rate.

Another gremlin is that the budgets of the taxing agencies are drawn up by people whose concern is less with cutting taxes than with keeping the existing level of services, paper-shuffling that masquerades as services, and most important — to them — at least the existing number of people on the payroll.

It is scarcely realistic to expect a county administrator or city manager, for instance, to propose a budget which involves cutting his own staff, or reducing either staff or functions of any department under his control. His heart may bleed a bit for the taxpayers (as he is one of them) but it is not likely to bleed that much. (Besides, he can take care of the inflation as it affects him personally by promoting himself a pay hike.)

SO WHAT WE HEAR from officials of county, city, school district, etc. is not talk about tax rate reduction. It is talk about tax rate increase — on top of the automatic hike provided by the increase in the assessment ratio.

What we should all bear in mind is this: If a taxing agency that took $2 per $100 assessed valuation talks about a 10-cent rate increase for next fiscal year, it is not talking about a 5 per cent tax increase. It is talking about a tax increase of at least 14.1 per cent, in dollars — our dollars.

If it talks about holding the tax rate to last year's rate, it really is talking about increasing its tax on us by at least 8.6 per cent, in dollars — our dollars.

Wast Not, Want Not, Pollute Not

Somewhere along the line, we Americans drifted from the maxim, "Waste not, want not." With conspicuous consumption and planned obsolescence, we spent ourselves into the role of richest nation on earth. Consumer spending accounts for about 60 per cent of the national economy.

But "waste not, want not" is still a good maxim. It recognizes the fact that the earth is a closed system with limited amounts of farmable land, water, minerals and even air to breathe. It is extravagance with the things the good earth has given us that will lead to our eventual impoverishment.

This same extravagance leads to massive pollution. The use-it-up, toss-it-out, buy-a-new-one philosophy was okay when we had a superabundance of resources per person and lots of empty space for the rubbish. To lengthen our survival time on this planet, we must realize that simple living is best.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Legislators Try To Lock Barn After Earthquake Steals Horse

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO—(CNS) — Probably nothing is more frustrating than the inability to function as necessary after a major disaster, such as the recent Los Angeles earthquake. Members of the California Legislature want some action, but are left in the unenviable position of locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen.

This is evidenced in the number of proposed legislative actions being accumulated on behalf of citizens whose property was damaged by the quake. And one of the first things that comes to mind is insurance.

THE ASSEMBLY Finance and Insurance Committee, according to chairman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, will go into the insurance matter March 1.

"Committee findings," Fenton said, "could lead to possible legislative action if the cost and availability of earthquake insurance places an undue financial burden on the people of the state."

It is known that earthquake insurance costs are "out of this world," particularly in and around the known fault areas of the state, which according to the geologic maps, are many.

LEGISLATION HAS been introduced by Sen. Lawrence E. Walsh, D-Huntington Park, to increase the state gasoline tax by a cent until sufficient funds have been raised to repair the quake damage on highways.

This legislation is not without precedent, as once previously in time of disaster by flood, the tax was increased until funds were available to repair the damage.

More legislation is proposed to repair damaged homes which are under Cal-Vet loans. This was introduced by Assemblyman Robert E. Cline, R-Canoga Park.

Cal-Vet loans are supposed to be covered with earthquake insurance, but Cline says there is insufficient money in the fund to cover the extraordinary amount of damage caused by the Los Angeles quake.

A THIRD PLEA comes from Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-Van Nuys, who suggests that all San Fernando Valley homeowners who have suffered damage to their property ask for a re-assessment, as, if the damage exceeds $1,000, they are entitled to tax relief.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Bernadette, Angela Interesting Pair

Very interesting! Bernadette visits Angela and claims both are fighting "in the same struggle." We shall have to guess to what "struggle" she refers. Very difficult!

Bernadette went to meet Angela as a "fellow comrade." Where have we heard that expression, "comrade" before?

I thought only relatives and lawyers were allowed to visit Angela. She and Bernadette are hardly of the same nationality or race, even — just sisters under the skin. They deserve each other!

Why List Salaries Of Public Employees?

I am writing to find out if there is a good reason for you publishing the salaries of all the county employees.

I have thought about this a long time and I can find no good reason for your publishing these salaries except for gossip value and to me this is certainly not a good reason.

BILL BIXBY

(Salaries make up a major portion of the expenses of government financed with your taxes. The taxpayer has difficulty understanding where this money goes after it leaves his pocket. Publication of the salaries of public employees gives him a chance to see where his tax dollars went. — Editor.)

Vasconcellos Bill Truly Conservative

It is a popular misconception that the Vasconcellos Bill to allow the state of California to help Californians who refuse to serve in undeclared wars is a radical piece of legislation. It is not, it is true conservatism.

Historically, the power to declare wars has belonged to the Congress, while the power to repel sudden attacks on American TERRITORY has been implicit in the President's commander-in-chief status. . .

However, we began to stray from this in the spring and summer of 1941, eight months before Pearl Harbor, when we began to get involved in the naval war in the Atlantic. . .

Again, when North Korea flagrantly and openly invaded South Korea, we intervened with no authorization and only two months later, got U.N. sanction.

What makes this issue difficult is that in both these cases, the cause was just and the action, popular.

In Vietnam, there is an equivocal situation of no political division being authorized by the 1956 Geneva Settlement, in fact it is specifically prohibited. But, by stumbling from one "solution" to another, we are now neck deep in three civil wars; one in Vietnam, one in Cambodia, and one in Laos. We have no authorization from our Constitution, treaty commitment, or the United Nations. Even the tawdry semi-authorization of the Tonkin Gulf Resolution is no more.

But the administration uses completely circular logic. Our troops are there (never mind how or why) so the President, as commander-in-chief, has the authority to do anything, or send aircraft anywhere to protect them.

The vasconcellos Bill would be a strong push away from this madness and back toward the strict constructionism the Nixon administration gives much lip service to, but ignores in practice.

Health Diagnosis In The Classroom

In the San Anselmo School District during the week of Feb. 16 one teacher from each school spent their teaching time (while a substitute was hired to replace them in the classroom) at Wade Thomas School to prepare (?) materials for the new health program . . .

An invitation was extended by our superintendent, Mr. (Kenneth) Lowry, to a couple of concerned parents, and since I also fall into that category, I also went . . . Here are only a very few of the things proposed to be included in our children (K-eighth grade) "mental health program" (should we allow it to be adopted):

(1) The student will write an essay about a person who exhibits what he considers to be maladjusted behavior . . . and recommend a type of service the person should seek for help.

(2) Given symptoms, such as loss of weight, dizziness, frequent headaches, a student will categorize . . . those symptoms which are self-treatable and those which should be treated by a professional.

(3) The student will describe the common self-treatment for an illness and cite the procedure for treating the illness . . .

. . . It is our sincere desire that the public schools will accept their intended responsibility and return to teaching the "three R's" and thereby eliminate (among other things) so much need for remedial work by the time the children reach high school and college.

Hair Length Not Business Of Judge

Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black is an old man. Many question his competence to continue in the arduous and vital tasks of the court. I suspect you would not fail to point that out were his pronouncements contrary to your opinions.

Youth and age are not per se matters of birth dates. Justice Holmes died a young man — in his 90s. I do not pretend to know how Holmes would have spoken on the great issue of length of hair. He might have pointed out that many of the now-venerated patriots and respectable founding fathers would not be allowed to attend high school today; even Abe Lincoln might have trouble making the Redwood team. It's so easy to rationalize that the customs were different. Who makes custom? How does it get changed? When is a practice a custom?

So often when we say, "I think" we are only getting ready to rationalize a prejudice, an emotional reaction, an esthetic position, that has never been exposed to, much less produced by, the thinking process.

And so, "I think" some of the long hair now worn by males looks like hell. But it is none of my business, or that of a school official, or football coach — or Hugo Black. "I think" the close-cropped style the young men were affecting a few years ago (maybe in "your day"?) were possibly even more hideous —certainly less attractive than a well-kept head of medium-length hair. Chaque un a son gout. The short hair might score a bit higher on hygienic grounds, although the moderately fullsome male locks saturated in various types of grease that I remember wouldn't score very highly in that category.

Maybe if we ignore them they'll go away . . .

Solution To Arms Talk Impasse: Forbid All Nuclear Testing

WASHINGTON — A dark and ominous cloud is threatening the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms negotiations.

For the first time since the SALT talks began at Helsinki, the sides are beginning to pick at each other, to question motives and to break needed privacy by calculated leaks.

If this doesn't stop soon both the United States and Russia will be throwing away the last best opportunity to do what the whole world is yearningly waiting for the super-powers to do — get the nuclear arms race under control before it is too late and reduce the massive costs and hideous risks of nuclear weaponry.

But they have now reached the point of mutual heckling. Each side is beginning to imply that the other is seeking one-sided advantages.

Nothing could be more hurtful to both our nations. Nothing could do more to snuff out the promise of a somewhat more stable and peaceful world.

IT DOESN'T HAVE to happen and I doubt if either nation wants it to happen.

But it may well be that something new must be added: A new method to bring this unwanted, dangerous, burdensome nuclear arms race under control; a new negotiating approach which would lift the talks to a higher level where decisions can be taken.

Here is what might be done, why it should be done, and how it could be done.

WHAT — It's a simple idea and it could well do more than anything else to insure halting the heretofore unending nuclear arms buildup. Its advocate is an American of the most trustworthy and qualified credentials, William C. Foster, who headed the Arms Controls and Disarmament Agency for eight years, a former undersecretary of defense and an arms-control expert who even won kind words from Gen. Curtis LeMay as a sound fellow.

His proposal: Invite the Russians and every other nation to join with us in turning the Limited Test Ban Treaty into an Unlimited Test Ban Treaty.

"Let us," says Mr. Foster, "ban all nuclear testing, not just the atmospheric testing on which we are now agreed, but all testing, including underground — all nuclear testing. Simply extend the present Test Ban Treaty."

WHY — It is Mr. Foster's considered judgment that this step alone to reduce the nuclear arms race would do far more than any proposal thus far advanced at the SALT talks, that it would keep the arms race in check and vastly would cut the cost of defense. He puts it this way:

"Do this and you automatically slow down and ultimately end nuclear innovation, for you remove the means of development. To end all nuclear testing is like taking the test tube away from the chemist. This one logical, sensible step would answer all the bothersome points now taking up endless hours of minuetlike negotiations at the SALT talks."

IS IT SAFE? Would there be grave risks that the other side could violate the ban undiscovered? We would certainly need to be sure, but it is Mr. Foster's contention that it is entirely within our scientific competence adequately to monitor any such testing.

Perhaps the portentous, "you're another" atmosphere, into which the U.S.-Soviet talks seem to be moving, will pass. This may be a period of testing each other out before compromises can be reached. But it seems to me that Mr. Foster's simple proposal is not simplistic but profoundly constructive and that it ought to be put on the U.S.-Soviet nuclear agenda on its own merits.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Political Bloodletting Aftermath Of Census

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — This, the year after the 1970 census, is the year when the Supreme Court's landmark redistricting decisions will be fully felt at last. More blood will be spilled over redistricting in the state capitals than ever before. When the hacking is over, the congressional and legislative shakeups of the '60s may seem trivial by comparison.

Most of these fights will be between the two parties, and the most publicized alterations will be in congressional districts, which must conform with population shifts in time for next year's elections.

CALIFORNIA, for example, with both its legislative houses back in Democratic control, must decide how to distribute five new congressional seats. At Sacramento, the tendency is to try to put off that mayhem till near the end of the long session in order to deal somehow with an urgent welfare situation and emergency expenditures following an earthquake only a few star-gazers dared predict.

Florida must carve out districts for three new congressmen, and Connecticut, Arizona, Colorado and Texas, one each. In the states that lost seats (two each in New York and Pennsylvania, one each in eight other states), the slicing procedure will be no less controversial.

Because they were concentrating hard at the state level last fall when Richard Nixon and Sprio Agnew had most people looking the other way, the Democrats will exert more leverage in these forthcoming tests than they could have a year ago. And based on the two parties' national images, this would presuppose a more liberal makeup both for Congress and for most of the state legislatures affected.

But in some parts of the country the word "Democrat" means something different than in the rest of the world. In Virginia, for instance.

There, the Democrats are and have been in comfortable control of both houses of the general assembly. Yet the most agonized screams heard as redistricting proceeds at Richmond come from a certified, liberal, consumer-oriented Democratic state senator who almost won his party's nomination for governor less than two years ago.

THE WAY STATE Sen. Henry Howell screams it, his Democratic colleagues are quite consciously redistricting him out of office. He has been in the legislature going on 11 years, and he got along just fine so long as he was harmlessly representing his constituents in Norfolk, the state's biggest city. But then in 1969 Howell took his Populist opinions out on the statewide stump and came within a holler of upsetting two more conservative Democrats in the gubernatorial primary.

The result of that primary and Howell's subsequent withholding of enthusiasm for the winner was that the Republicans took the governorship for the first time since Reconstruction. It also was that Howell got inspired to run again for governor in 1973.

That kind of impertinence from a professed liberal is not something the courthouse boys who controlled Democratic politics in Virginia for so long want to encourage. Their lonely surviving hero, Sen. Harry Byrd Jr., was so annoyed by such trends in the party that he ran and won as an Independent last year.

HOWELL'S HOME base is now being split into three Senate districts. There is no clear evidence that the scheme was devised intentionally to do him in, but there is no doubt that the fact that it might well do just that gave some of his ostensible party brethren added incentive for voting for the idea.

He maintains that the change will polarize Norfolk voters into voting for conservative whites or liberal blacks, and that anybody like himself, who bridges the races, will suffer. He may be right. He also may be using this cry of discrimination to set up an early issue for his attempt at re-election — and at the governorship next time.

Then again, it could turn out the way a hill-county democrat told it in Richmond last weekend, when he predicted Howell would run next time as an Independent. Asked by Charlie McDowell of The Times-Dispatch what that would accomplish, this politician answered:

"It would make the Independent Party in Virginia the most interesting political party in the United States. Its leaders would be Harry Byrd and Henry Howell, and its members would really be something to see at dinner. They'd have to use paper plates to minimize the injuries."

Paper plates may be the dinner service of choice in about 50 state capitals before the year of the great redistricting is over.

The Sir Francis Drake Blues For Dweller On Boulevard

I've got the Sir Francis Drake blues.

It's not hard to figure out why.I live on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo. I drive on it every day to and from work. From my house it's the shortest way to Fairfax and the only way to San Rafael, Ross and Kentfield.

Sir Francis Drake is the Jekyll and Hyde of Marin County roads. In its 44-mile length, from San Quentin to Point Reyes, it goes through several complete changes from narrow, winding lane to broad, four-lane highway.

FIGURES FROM the county road department and its counterpart in San Anselmo show that, except for Highway 101, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard carries the heaviest traffic load in Marin — 33,400 cars a day, both directions, in Greenbrae.

Its closest competitor is Red Hill Boulevard, itself a Sir Francis Drake tributary, with 26,000 movements per day. Shoreline Highway and East Blithedale Avenue in Southern Marin are a poor third and fourth, with 24,500 and 21,450 movements respectively.

By the time Sir Francis Drake has reached my house, across from Sir Francis Drake High School, its load has dwindled somewhat, to 20,000 movements. This, however, is a staggering burden for a two-lane road.

More figures: 875 cars pass my house going toward San Rafael and San Francisco between 7:30 and 8:30 each morning. This is 14 cars a minute or one every four seconds.

DID YOU EVER try to pull out from a side street or driveway into traffic flowing at the rate of one car every four seconds? I do, every morning, and so do thousands of other unfortunate souls who live on Sir Francis Drake in Ross, Kentfield and San Anselmo.

In the evening, things are worse: 1,114 westbound cars pass my house between 5 and 6 p.m. That's an almost unbelievable total of 18 cars a minute, one each three seconds.

Did you ever try to make a left turn against such a formidable stream of traffic? Take my advice and don't, unless you absolutely must. And it doesn't make it any easier to perform this almost-impossible act in front of one's house, visible through the fumes but so, so far away.

Mind you, I'm not complaining, merely observing. Until I find another house and move (and I'm looking, believe me), I'm married to Sir Francis Drake for better or worse.

But that doesn't stop me from getting the Sir Francis Drake blues.

JACK-in-the-Box doesn't seem to be making a very sincere effort to be a good neighbor in ecology-conscious Mill Valley. That chain's restaurant on Miller Avenue dispenses soft drinks in non-biodegradable, hard plastic cups.

Use it once and throw it away — that's a plastic cup's life. Its death, however, lasts an aternity. Plastic is indestructible, immutable.

Electric Car May Be Air's Saviour

By FREDERICK NOSSAL
Toronto Telegram
News Service

HONG KONG — Silent, fast-flowing traffic. Very few accidents. Cars that do not poison the city air with their fumes.

For years, town planners have been dreaming about electric cars speeding along computerized highways. On the highways of the future, there may be only passengers, no drivers.

The passenger would simply push a dstination button in his computerized, personal electromobile, and it would zoom away to the office or the shopping center.

For some decades, the electronic highway must remain a dream because of the fantastic costs involved. And yet it must come eventually because around the world cities are being choked by cars.

The automobile's fumes ruin the city atmosphere. Jammed roads and highways contribute to lung cancer and ulcers. Parking lots rob cities of their trees.

The push-button electromobile would do away with all that. In a properly-devised system, the electric car would return to the highways after discharing its passenger — to pick up somebody else.

Electric cars were on the roads earlier this century, and today planners are hard at work building new and smaller electromobiles. The Soviet Union already has developed a workable electric car that can run for 60 miles, and is then recharged by plugging a cord into an ordinary household wall socket.

But the nation most interested in the electronic highway is Japan.

The air over some cities is so filthy that many Japanese rarely see a blue sky. Tokyo, with a population of about 14 million, is one of the most polluted cities on earth.

Tokyo traffic policemen on occasions have worn gas masks because the air is so dirty. And although today Japanese motorists can be fined heavily if their cars cause too much pollution, Japanese authorities are not satisfied.

They want to introduce electric cars and computerized highways in the not-too-distant future.

In Japan, anything is possible. The Japanese have created multi-story driving ranges for golfers in downtown areas. They have built artificial slopes for skiers in the center of their cities.

In a quarter of a century, they have pulled their land out of the devastation caused by World War II until today it is the third economic power after the United States and the Soviet Union.

Nobody builds larger tankers or smaller transistors than the Japanese. The moving, elevated walkways at Expo 70 in Osaka gave visitors a glimpse into the cities of tomorrow.

Now, Japanese planners are working on what they call the transportation revolution that computerized cars and highways will bring to the nation's cities.

Long-range plans envisage moving sidewalks that will cater to pedestrians, push-button electric cars, passenger capsules that move on conveyor belts, and computerized subway trains that will not need drivers.

The Japanese town planners want to convert many streets into pedestrian promenades totally free of traffic. Their vision of tomorrow's downtown area sees a total ban on internal-combustion-engine cars.

Driverless taxis, moving on a network of lines and operated by computer, would pick up passengers at designated points.

The Japanese ministry of international trade and development, as well as the transport ministry, are working on a variety of projects designed to reduce both pollution and the monumental traffic jams in Tokyo.

The plans to build a network of electronic highways in the center of Tokyo would cost billions of dollars, but could be financed fairly simply if a million users paid, say, the equivalent of $1 a day for five years — exactly what it costs thousands of Toronto suburbanites to reach their downtown jobs and return home every day.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Supervisors Demonstrate They Don't Know Where It's At

Continuing the comments on the I-J editorial "Cuts in private Sector — How About Public One?" Alerted by a news item that bids for operating the cafeteria at the Civic Center were being studied by the senior administrative analyst in the county administrator's office the editor looked through the budget.

He found that the county administrator, Alan Bruce ($2,450.86 base salary per month), is allocated two assistant administrators at $1,858 per month, two senior administrative analysts at $939 to $1,138 and two secretaries at $650 to $717.

Here is the balance of Bruce's firm, which space didn't permit last week: Personnel director at $1,415, who has a personnel analyst II at $937 to $1,1380, a personnel analyst I at $849 to $1,033, two secretaries at $650 to $727, and an intermediate typist at $458 to $549.

Then the purchasing agent at $1,050, with a supervisor of central services at $666 to $809, two junior buyers at $619 to $763, a multilith operator at $576 to $700, a messenger clerk at $523 to $633 and a senior typist at $562 to $619.

LAST WEEK I said the board of supervisors had an obligation to straighten things out and perform the duties they were elected to do. Earlier I had said they had the reputation of not knowing what it is all about. Their fumbling this last Tuesday bears this out.

I had a visit with a friend of long standing. He is a keen observer of the local government scene and made a comment that I think just about hits the bull's eye. Said he, "This present board has four members that have been city councilmen in the county, serving with no salary mostly. They are conditioned to let the city managers do it and don't seem to realize that they can no longer follow that course. They are paid $12,000 a year and the people expect them to earn it. They are not being paid to just look handsome at the board meetings while they entone questionable pearls of widsom supplied by the staff."

THE NEWS STORIES in the Wednesday I-J show pretty plainly that they don't know where it's at. Here are some excerpts: From the front page story, "Board Kills Police Services Proposal After A Four Year Fight": — "The most telling blow against (it) came when the supervisors began quizzing Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos on how sheriff's patrols would operate under a new police services district." In answer to a hypothetical question the sheriff said that it would be his duty to pull the men from any district and send them to the troubled spot. — "That statement stunned the supervisors. They had been assuring unincorporated areas that if they paid for extra patrolmen, those patrolmen would be available to them at all times."

This is a pat example. They had been letting Asst. Administrator John Barrows do their thinking for them and he led them down the primrose path.

Two other separate items from the same issue: (In the matter of defense planning in Marin) "County Administrator Alan Bruce said his office is arranging a meeting between the Marin County counsel's office and all the cities' attorneys, to work out agreements on jurisdictional responsibility for disaster planning."

Respecting the cost factor for completing the auditorium: "Supervisors said they did not get the full impact of expenditures because the requests from Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella had come in varying amounts since early January."

A Three-Year Marriage Pact Being Proposed

ANNAPOLIS (UPI)—Two women lawmakers today drew up legislation providing for marriage licenses which would expire after three years.

The measure would permit a couple to choose the traditional "'til death do us part" license, or a marriage contract which could be canceled by either party after three years.

The proposal is sponsored by Baltimore delegates Lena K. Lee, who is married, and Hildegardeis Boswell, who is divorced.

The two women said their proposal is serious. They point out that such licenses would allow a person to have several happy marriages instead of one unhappy one.

The best way to appreciate a new Mercedes-Benz is to test drive an old Mercedes-Benz.

Motor's conclusion about a veteran of 110,000 miles: "Apart from some loss of edge at the top end this one felt quiet, flexible and free of rattles and the oil pressure needle was always hard on the stop."

At Mercedes-Benz, we're not afraid of what one of our old cars will say about our new cars.

So before you buy a new Mercedes-Benz, we invite you to test drive an old Mercedes-Benz.

Finding a car to test is really no problem. A neighbor or a friend may own one. (Your dealer probably has several on hand.) But we urge you to be selective. Pick one with a substantial accumulation of miles.

We award them to a Mercedes-Benz after 100,000, 200,000 and 500,000 kilometers. (The European equivalent of 62,500, 125,000 and 312,000 miles.)

The one sure sign of age in a Mercedes-Benz. Radiator badges awarded at the 100,000, 200,000 & 500,000 kilometer milestones. The sign of an owner's "age," a gold lapel pin.

A "suspension system" for the exhaust system

Take your test car down a potholed road and listen for audible protests of age.

A journalist from Motor recently put an eight-year-old Mercedes-Benz roadster to the test. "What impressed me most," he concluded, "was the solidity of the body—not a squeak or rattle to be heard."

We're flattered. But not surprised. Because we view every part of a Mercedes-Benz as a potential rattle.

Instead of bolting body and frame together, we fuse it with 8,000 or more welds.

Window glass rides in a channel that's buttressed in three directions.

An intriguing contest

Accelerate onto a highway.

Notice how new and tight the engine, drivetrain and suspension feel.

Recently in the Road & Track series "After The New Wears Off," the engineering editor summed up 35,000 miles in his Mercedes-Benz by saying simply, "The car is more impressive than when new."

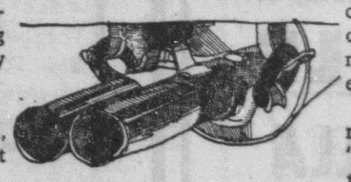
To keep our "new" from wearing off, we engineer the running gear to last as long as the body. A lengthy but intriguing contest indeed.

To make sure it will, vital mechanisms must pass thousands of tests.

We consume more than 40,000 gallons of fuel a month testing every engine before installation. Some for as long as five hours.

After nine successive applications at 135 mph in a "destruction" test, disc brakes turn fiery red. They must endure this torture fifty different times—and suffer no damage.

Even seemingly unimportant items like dashboard knobs must prove their longevity. So they are sliced in half and analyzed by infrared spectography.



Rubber "doughnuts" suspend tailpipes and mufflers under tension, rubber bumpers isolate them from the body. The exhaust system may never rattle.

A revolutionary old car

Today an old Mercedes-Benz bristles with features that still seem revolutionary compared to the '71 cars of other makers.

The reason is simple. Our engineering decisions are made by engineers. Not cost accountants. When they find a way to make an improvement, they make it. Without waiting until it can be made as cheaply as what it replaces.

Take an old Mercedes-Benz through some curves. Unless it's a pre-1930 model, you'll discover the nimble reflexes that come from fully independent suspension. An innovation yet to be discovered by domestic sedans.

Look at the model nameplate. If you spot an "E," the car has something no American car has, an einspritzsystem (German for fuel injection). Developed for Mercedes-Benz grand prix cars, it provides a substantial increase in power with no sacrifice in economy.

Apply the brakes. Mercedes-Benz believes the brakes should be the most powerful part of any car. So we introduced disc brakes in 1961. Put them on all four wheels in 1968. No domestic sedan today offers four disc brakes, even as an option.

Starting from the inside

To keep the outside looking new, we start protecting it from the inside.

Bodies are submerged in rust-proofer. They emerge 24 pounds heavier.

But that's not enough for Mercedes-Benz. The inside of body panels that were welded airtight were painted before welding.

Outside, a Mercedes-Benz is protected by four coats of paint and primer. The front gets an extra coat of chip-resistant enamel.

Even body panels that are welded airtight can corrode inside. So before we weld, we spray them with zinc oxide. And paint vital areas by hand.

We even insulate the side trim from the body with a strip of rubber. And sheath the clips that attach it with plastic grommets, so that metal can never bite through paint and start rust.

The "average" Mercedes-Benz: $7,700

There's nothing "average" about a line of automobiles with an average selling price of $7,700.

Building automobiles you can appreciate when they're "old" cars has made our new cars more expensive than most.

There are ten Mercedes-Benz models priced from $5,350 to $8,259—without options. And six limited editions, largely handcrafted, from $12,718 to $29,617*.

The coupon will bring a full-color brochure of the new Mercedes-Benz models.

In the meantime, be sure and test drive an "old" Mercedes-Benz. And, just for comparison, an old anything else.

After all, you live most of your life with an old car. So you should know what your next car will be like after the "new" wears off.

Regents' Finance Faulted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An Assembly Education Committee report was released yesterday which concluded that "impropriety may have been involved" in two business transactions involving regents of the University of California.

The report was released by Chairman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, although the study was made last fall when the 1970 committee was dominated by Republicans. The committee now is Democratic controlled.

The committee findings included recommendations that guidelines for business dealings involving regents be made specific.

The committee report, which did not include the signatures of any members in the form released to newsmen, said the state auditor general questioned the use of the university as a stockholder in a bank which financed a loan in 1966 to Property Holding Co. which was formed by Pauley. The university was to benefit financially from the transaction.

"Although five University of California officials were officers of Property Holding Co., none received compensation and all funds were used for general university affairs," the report quoted university spokesmen as testifying.

Another incident involved Carter. The report said he gave the university in 1965 stock worth $203,625 to purchase a home and land in Los Angeles. Carter also paid the university $75,000 for the lifetime rights to the residence.

"The auditor general criticized this action on the grounds that the potential benefit to regent Carter exceeded the potential benefit to the university," the report said.

It said the university considered the deal provided "a much needed academic facility at no cost to the state."

Carter also is a member of the board of directors of the Irvine Co. Smith is the company lawyer and a private legal adviser to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

$5 Billion Program Seen Improving Bay Area Future

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—All aspects of the physical environment can be dramatically improved in the next ten years for the 4,567,000 persons living in the nine San Francisco Bay Area Counties for a cost of $5 billion, a committee of engineers said yesterday.

The cost, broken down to $532 million annually, would achieve up to a 90 per cent improvement in air quality, water quality, solid waste disposal, noise abatement, the preservation of open space and aesthetic enhancement.

This would amount to $10 monthly for a family earning $500 monthly or $32 monthly for a family income of $1,000 monthly.

These figures were prepared by the Committee for Engineers Week, 1971, which compiled the total pollution problem and the measures needed to clean up and enhance the environment.

Counties included by the report are Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Solano and Sonoma.

Air pollution in these counties has been dramatically reduced since 1955, according to D.J. Callaghan, Chief Administrative officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District (BAAPCD). Callaghan said air pollution comes from industrial emissions, power production, agricultural burning, open dump burning, backyard burning, incinerators and other operations.

"Because of the work already in progress on further reducing these sources of air pollution, it is estimated that an additional cost of only $50 million would bring about the desired results over the next ten years," Callaghan said.

Aircraft and motor vehicles are two other sources of air pollution that can be controlled progressively, said Callaghan. He recommended restoring an aerospace program of research and development to "its essential level and inserting requirements for 90 per cent reductions in air pollution and noise levels on all aircraft" over a 10-year period. The cost to secure the desired effects of pollution control for aircraft was estimated at $10 million annually.

Motor vehicles are already facing stringent exhaust controls, but the effort must be increased at a cost of $135 million annually. "Our judgment is that car owners will have to pay about $300 more per vehicle to achieve the necessary reductions in pollution," said Callaghan, meaning a 90 per cent improvement in air quality in ten years.

Another challenge is to maintain the purity of bay area water which is still clean and clean up the water which is polluted.

"Because of the tremendous increase in population and in industrial and agricultural processing in recent years, the discharge of wastes into our waters has become an extremely difficult and serious problem," said Jerome B. Gilbert, executive officer of the State Water Resources Control Board.

Generally, the waters to be protected are the ocean, the bays, sloughs, rivers, creeks, lakes, reservoirs and ground waters.

Measures required to stop water pollution include:

—Changes in agricultural and manufacturing processes.

—Public education in the causes and seriousness of pollution.

-Prevention of discharge of certain pollutants in the sewage systems.

—Adequate monitoring of waste discharges.

—Construction of new sewers and improvement of present systems.

—Upgrading of treatment plants and recycling of waste waters.

Gilbert said there's been a steady improvement in the quality of bay area waters since 1950.

"Today, odor nuisances are less, oxygen levels are higher, and bacteriological quality is better than twenty years ago. A good indication is that shellfish are returning to areas where they were absent for many years due to poor water quality."

Solid waste disposal which runs as high as nine million tons annually in the nine counties, was discounted as a major problem by the engineering group.

"At the present rate of solid waste production . . . California has sufficient land areas of near-zero ecological value to store the solid wastes for thousands of years without causing pollution of the air or water supplies or livable land areas," their report said.

One of the most important and difficult challenges was described by one member as the "preservation of open space."

About one-eighth of the 4.7 million acres of land in the bay area is already urbanized, said architect Irwin Luckman.

"As population increases, there really should be a corresponding increase in open space to maintain the present space relationship," he said. "Instead, as population increases, open space decreases."

The engineers also recommended that $22 million be expended annually for the enhancement of aesthetics. This could be achieved by adding one per cent to the budgeting of buildings for such things as paintings, murals, sculpture, fountains, mosaics, tapestries, landscapes, and other means.

Finally, to reduce noise levels in the environment, an expenditure of $15 million annually is needed, the group said.

"Most people would agree that a high noise level is definitely adverse to a pleasant and livable environment," their report said.

So, for $5 billion, raised by taxes and various fees, including a hike in utility rates, bay area citizens could find themselves in a 90 per cent cleaner environment, according to the experts.

Oregon Is Offering Jobs To Ex-Convicts

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The state is looking for ex-convicts to take jobs as parole and probation aides paying $383 to $489 a month.

The Department of Correction's job qualifications say "the applicant must have had an adult felony conviction which resulted in adult penal incarceration."

Poor Hank! No Meow In Petition

Hank, the banished cat of Harry's Mart, still has his loyal fans even if their pleas have not moved health inspectors to allow the aged feline to return to his comfortable stool in the Fairfax market.

Jean Mahoney, who started a campaign which resulted in more than 600 people signing petitions asking that county officials let the cat back into the store, has given up.

"The petition to let Hank stay . . . has been sent to Governor Reagan because no one in Marin County wanted it, nor indeed knew what to do with it," Mrs. Mahone said.

"But because this petition represented more than 10 per cent of the adult population of Fairfax, it simply cannot be tossed away," she continued.

"No one expects the governor to do anything - we are not that naive - but sending it to him fulfills an obligation to those 600 people who signed it," Mrs. Mahoney said.

In addition to sending the petition to the governor, Mrs. Mahoney and others have dreamed up a "Draw Hank" contest for children under 12 years old, which will be "simply the end of the question of Hank."

"All drawings at the conclusion of the contest will be forwarded to the Assembly in Sacramento as a reminder that lack of common sense in administering our laws is not good for cats - so must be harmful to people," Mrs. Mahoney concluded.

The contest is complete with prizes and judges and entries are to be submitted between March 1 through March 15 at the Village Frame Shop in Fairfax.

"Depict Hank's feelings at being left out in the cold any way you wish," is the theme of the contest.

Goodwill Faces Supply Shortage

A critical shortage in donations of clothing and home furnishings is faced by the Goodwill Industries Rehabilitation Center which serves Marin and Sonoma counties, according to J. Willis Hershey, executive director.

He urged residents to take donations to the nearest Goodwill box or call the organization for a pickup.

"A slowdown in the flow of donated materials this time of year is to be expected, but about every fourth or fifth year we experience a serious slowdown in material donations and this is one of those times," he said. He added that through Goodwill's recycling program over 300 men and women find employment in the San Francisco center.

American companies control about 27 per cent of Nigeria's petroleum production.

Bond Sales Up During January

Marin County residents bought a total of $167,335 United States savings bonds during January, compared to $146,242 in the first month of 1970, according to William P. Murray Jr., chairman of the county's savings bonds volunteer committee.

The chairman said that approximately 70 per cent of E bond sales are made through payroll savings plan.

HOW WOULD YOU LOOK?

West German film star Monika Teuber wears a "hot pants" outfit on a sight-seeing tour of Rome, where she is making a movie. Whether you are planning to photograph the ruins of the Coliseum or something much less exotic, you can get yourself in shape to wear "hot pants" by doing exercises as you go about your daily routine. Of course, we can't guarantee you will look like Monika in them.

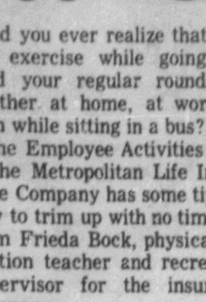
Use Odd Moments To Exercise

Did you ever realize that you can exercise while going around your regular rounds — whether at home, at work or even while sitting in a bus?

The Employee Activities Unit of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has some tips on how to trim up with no time out from Frieda Bock, physical education teacher and recreation supervisor for the insurance company.

Miss Bock, who has a master's degree in physical education and health education from Teachers College of Columbia University, has been telling the employees for 16 years how to utilize odd moments during the day to keep in shape. Here are a few of the exercises.

GETTING UP is a time when you're likely to stretch anyway, so do stretch. While still in bed, stretch arms and legs. When you get up, reach toward the ceiling, then relax by dropping your hands toward the floor.



Brushing Teeth

Good Morning

Remember to keep your tummy in the whole time. Stretching improves the circulation and strengthens muscles that might not otherwise get much use — and it peps you up too.

BRUSHING TEETH or washing gives you a chance to strengthen your tummy muscles by concentrating on standing tall and tightening them. When you bend over, hold your tummy flat and keep your back straight to make sure.

PUTTING STOCKINGS on can be excellent for firming the thigh muscles. Stand on one foot, raise the opposite knee high toward chest, put on stocking and repeat with other leg.

COMBING HAIR gives you a chance to strengthen the back muscles and keep shoulder blades from becoming prominent. Sit or stand tall, holding your chin in, and keep your elbows back or well to the side.

GOING THROUGH DOORS gives you a chance to work for a high, firm chestline. Just stop for a minute, place your hands and forearms on the door frame and lean forward from the heels two or three times. Keep chin in and body in straight line from heels.

EATING, which makes many a woman fearful of getting a "spare tire," should also remind her to sit up, pulling in through the midriff so any approaching "spare tire" will disappear. Keep hips at back of chair and lean toward table from hips, not waist, so stomach won't be cramped. If you make a habit of sitting straight — whether eating, typing, writing, or anything else — your stomach muscles will show the results.

Stockings Pull

For an improved chestline, sit cross-legged on the floor, arms crossed front of chest. Fling arms upward and sideward, stretch, and repeat.

WHEN LEAVING HOUSE, if you want a convenient reminder of what your posture should be, stand against a door frame or wall, feet together, heels three inches from wall with hips, shoulders, head, and — most important — small of back against wall. Stand in this position long enough to get a feeling of correct posture, then try to hold it throughout the day.

The Coiffure

Posture Test

Sitting on a bus, or at a desk, or in the theater or anywhere else gives you an opportunity to beautify your thighs, and all you must do is to make a point of not crossing your legs at the knees. Sit erect and push the small of your back against the seat, keeping your knees together crossing your ankles if you want to. This is excellent for firming the thigh muscles — try it for a while and you'll feel the positive results.

Eating

Door to Beauty

PICKING THINGS UP from the ground or floor is similar to one of the most effective exercises of any gym class — if you do it right. Bend from the knees keeping the back straight and place weight on one foot and on the ball of the other. Keep legs together. You'll feel the effect in your thigh muscles, which get firmer and trimmer from this exercise — enough to make you appreciate the advantages of that bottom drawer in the file cabinet.

Neat Bend

Hip Reducing

Try some of these exercises during the course of the day. You won't have to take time out for them. They'll just be part of doing what comes naturally.

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

The Need For Child Care In Marin

By BARBARA HOSMER

The needs for child care in Marin County are not being met adequately, panelists from the county licensing agency, the county schools and the public agreed yesterday.

On KTIM radio's Marin Sounding Board, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, the existing kinds of child care were tabulated by Mrs. Sydney Bloch, who made a Marin study as part of a national survey of child care for the National Council of Jewish Women.

She named three kinds of current day care in Marin: federal and state funded child centers and Head Start for low income families; licensed private day care homes for 10 or fewer children; and pre-school day care offered by some private nursery schools. The latter two are totally funded by the child's parents, and the low-income families' program is partially paid by the parent on a sliding cost basis.

But the panel agreed that such programs were too costly and too limited to meet the needs of most parents, who want good pre-school educational experiences and health care for their youngsters as well as all-day or before-and-after school care for the children of working parents.

Funding was a large stumbling block cited by Joseph Denhart, director for day care centers for the Marin County Schools. He pointed out that in Marin services are fragmented and uncoordinated.

"SOME EXISTING day care could get funding the same way we do if they knew where to apply," he said. He added that the need for child care in the San Anselmo-Fairfax area, for instance, was documented a year ago by the advisory group to the Marin County Department of Social Services and that need could have been met if funds had not been frozen a year ago.

"We need to build day care centers so we can avoid statements such as, 'I can't afford to go off welfare to get a job and then pay 30 per cent for child care and take home less money than I would get on welfare,'" Denhart said.

Reginald Hammond, superintendent of the Fairfax School District, agreed that child care needs in his area have already been determined.

"But when it came the time of decision it was not possible to start. Financing was not provided, and it was postponed once more."

He called for a comprehensive day care program, a complex subject involving health screening, nutrition and early childhood education, adding that "there is a danger of approaching this piecemeal."

ONA HALL, whose Department of Public Social Services licenses family day care homes in Marin, said that currently there are between 100 and 120 licensed day care homes in the county, with rates from $25 to $30 a week per child.

"That's fine if you have a good income. It's far too much for low or welfare income families. To take job training parents must have child care. Head Start and Children's Centers have 145 and 150 children or so, but thousands of children in the county could use care.

"Also the mother at home could improve the care of the home and refresh herself to devote herself better to the family if she could get away from constant child care part of the time," Mrs. Hall said.

"A mother can't even look for work or have any activities. She relies on relatives or friends to some extent, but that is not always adequate, especially if she is in an isolated area," she said, speaking of low income or welfare mothers.

SHE ADDED that the children's needs include broader experience too if they are to

Mrs. Larkins Heads Sunny Hills Guild

Mrs. Kenneth Larkins of Kentfield is serving as president of the two-year-old Woodlands Guild of Sunny Hills this year.

A charter member of the guild, Irene Larkins served as vice president last year. She says the activities which the guild will carry on this year are creating Halloween costumes and other paraphernalia for the guild to sell at the Grape Festival to raise funds for Sunny Hills Home in San Anselmo, and having a house tour and a thank-you party for the members' husbands who assist with the Grape Festival.

A native of Tracy, Mrs. Larkins attended Tracy schools and San Francisco State College. She and her husband, a partner in a San Francisco tire company, have lived in Marin for 14 years and are parents of John, 12; Jeanne, 11; Ron, 8 and Jacqueline Larkins, 6. She volunteers with Camp Fire Girls and is a member of Kent Parent-Teacher Association and the Woodland Sponsors.

She is enthusiastic about outdoor activities such as swimming, water skiing and tennis and family outings with their boat, but she also enjoys cooking and sewing.

Other guild officers this year are Mmes. John Heatherington, vice president; H. Curtis Reed, secretary; Richard Grambow, treasurer; Robert Gibbons, Bargain Box chairman; Harold Knobbe and Paul Euphrat, Grape Festival booth chairmen.

Bruce Easom Family On Two-Year-Odyssey

By MOLLY MARIN

Bruce, Ruth, Carrie, 17, Bruce Jr., 16, and 11-year-old Scott plan to be gone for two years and will cruise to Mexico, through the Panama Canal to the Caribbean, across the Atlantic to Europe and throughout the Mediterranean.

Many Marin friends entertained for the Easoms prior to their voyage aboard the 50 foot schooner, Marionette.

MRS. EVELYN Bowen McCrary was honored at a party Wednesday evening at the Presidio Officers Club, hosted by her father, Lt. Gen. (ret.) John W. Bowen, and Mrs. Bowen of Tiburon.

Mrs. McCrary has recently moved to the Bay Area from Washington, D.C., where she was a model.

GUEST OF honor at the San Francisco Junior League luncheon fashion show will be Mrs. Ronald Reagan.

Mrs. Reagan, who will be celebrating her 19th wedding anniversary Thursday, the day of the show, will be the guest of Mrs. Arch Monson Jr. of San Francisco.

Theodore Meyer To Wed Jeanette Smith

The engagement of Jeanette V. Smith and Theodore George Meyer, both of Mill Valley, has been announced.

Jeanette is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith, and Theodore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Meyer, all of Mill Valley.

Both are graduates of Tamalpais High School. The bride-elect was graduated from the College of Marin as a dental assistant and is employed at the U.S. Public Health Hospital in San Francisco. She is the sister of Mrs. Paul Christensen of San Francisco.

The future bridegroom is serving with the Army at Fort Carson in Colorado. He is the brother of Mrs. James Jean of San Rafael and Mrs. Allen Collins of Germany and the grandson of Mrs. Minnie Coleman of Belvedere.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Happily Married Woman Wonders How It Would Be With New Man

DEAR HELEN:

I have a wonderful husband. We have no sex hang-ups. We love each other in a way that is complete and beautiful. I'm happy!

So why is it, Helen, that I find myself thinking "How would it be with another man?" I have no one in mind. I love only Sam. Mate swappers disgust me.

I'm sometimes frightened by my thoughts. Am I not-normal?— I AM CURIOUS, STUPID

DEAR STUPID: Though many don't admit it, women aren't much different from men in their submerged (well not always) urge for comparison shopping. But totally married gals only wonder occasionally . . . And their mates seldom know when that "guilty imagination" rates them special pampering at home.

Don't worry, "Stupid." You might label yourself — "I Am Normal, Curious." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

After reading the letter from "Shocked by Elderly Belles," about older women who would date him but not marry him, I had to write.

I am 68, going with a 71-year-young man who figures he's too old to get married but — an affair with me? That's different.

I fear the spry old party wants to use me.

So if you could please provide the name and address of "Shocked," I might change his mind about elderly belles and rings. — BELLE FROM DUBUQUE

DEAR BELLE:

Sorry, the belle tolls not for him. I don't give out names and addresses unless I know the people involved. Too risky. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Something really wonderful happened to me last night and I'd like to share it. An old boy friend called and wanted to talk to me.

You see, two years ago, he refused to marry me for the simple reason he didn't love me, though I was to have his baby.

I hated him for a long time because I hated myself. Then I found out I wasn't so bad. Stupid maybe, but not bad. What I'm trying to say is that as soon as I lost this hate for myself, stopped feeling sorry for "me," I found literally hundreds of people who have problems that made mine look silly. I love again. I love human beings because that's what we all are. And that phone call last night brought it all into focus. I'm able to forgive.

I'm so glad I'm alive that I sometimes want to walk down the street and say to the first person I meet, "Hey, you're great! Aren't you glad to be alive too?"

But I suppose people would think I was crazy or something. — FOR PEACE AND LOVE

DEAR FOR:

No, I don't believe people would think you are crazy or something. You'd be surprised how one person's "aliveness" makes others around her glad they're alive.

Your letter did that for me. Keep on sharing your wealth. H.

Needs For Child Care Are Told

"In the existing children's centers we have observed that the children show improvement in getting along with others, in verbal skills and so forth," she said.

The Welfare Rights Mothers chairman for San Anselmo, Sue Carpenter, spelled out what her group hoped for in child care as participation by the parents, both mother and father, free child care to enable women to work without taking a large chunk of their wage for care, and carefully planned educational programs controlled by parents and the teachers.

"All children should be educated to their fullest potential," she said.

She is planning to open a child care center as soon as possible in the San Anselmo-Fairfax area.

"WE'RE DESPERATE for a church space or anything to start a co-operative until we can get an adequate one going. We're ready to start next week," she said of herself and a group of other welfare mothers.

Pointing out that cost of child care centers is less than cost to keep families on welfare to care for the children at home, Denhart said that in Marin City the children's center is open from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, offering day care with education both of child and parents on nutrition and health. The average take-home income of the families using the child center now is $300 per month. Without the center these families would be unable to afford child care while the parent worked and would be on welfare, he said.

"The center is keeping these families off public support — 75 per cent are single parent families," Denhart pointed out.

"Mothers who have clerical jobs are low paid. They need low-cost child care," he said.

"It's also a problem for the middle income working mother," Mrs. Bloch added.

"YES, IT'S a problem for the middle income family, but it's impossible for welfare mothers," Mrs. Carpenter remarked.

Denhart then cited a San Jose study showing that a day care center there for 42 families saved from $90,000 to $95,000 a year by allowing the parents to work rather than go on welfare, which would have cost some $175,000.

Other factors of concern to the panel were providing infant care, need for some health services for mildly ill youngsters, training for persons running child care facilities and educational day care that reaches far beyond mere baby-sitting.

The Marin Sounding Board child care program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday on KTIM.

Why Rich Chinese Bound Female Feet

By PETER WONG

HONG KONG (UPI)—The Chinese are a sophisticated people. But sophistication sometimes is accompanied by cruelty, such as in the case of the Golden Lotuses.

In old China, judgment for femininity was based on the weakness of the female sex. Toward this end, ladies of the upper classes had their feet bound, willingly or unwillingly.

The smaller the feet, the more beautiful the women. Poets called the best bound feet "Three-Inch Golden Lotuses." But a woman had to go through enormous pain to obtain Golden Lotuses. Only a few women achieved three-inch feet. Most settled for three-and-a-half, four and up.

His imperial majesty ordered the molding of a 6-foot-high golden lotus and adorned it with jewels and diamonds and silk ribbons. Lady Yiu was asked to bind her feet with white silk ribbons in the shape of a new moon and dance on the golden lotus. The emperor was delighted with the way she danced.

The emperor's wish became the people's command. Girls from rich or high class families had their feet bound when only three or four years old.

Poor families could not afford to bind the feet of their daughters, because they had to work. Since intermarriage between different social classes was scarce, these girls remained "uncourteous and unsightly" throughout their lives.

FOOT-BINDING became widespread in the Sung dynasty, 960-1280 A.D., and remained a must for "educated ladies" until the 19th century, when Western culture began to invade China.

After the establishment of the Republic of China in 1911, the number of women with bound feet steadily decreased. Even those deeply entrenched in past traditions began to realize that it was a cruel practice.

The Golden Lotuses are dying out, and most likely will vanish before the end of this century.

The other day I met two of the last Golden Lotuses at the Little Sisters for the Poor Home for the Aged.

"Foot-binding is bad," said Mrs. Wong Lin-tsung, 78. "I have suffered considerable inconveniences because my feet are bound. My feet ache when I walk."

Mrs. Lai Yung, 84, was equally angry when she recalled the practice which forced her to bind her feet when she was still a child.

"It's bad to have one's feet bound," she said. "You can only walk like an ant and there are lots of inconveniences."

Three Flowers Give Best Oils

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Most good perfumes come from three flowers — rose, jasmin and organge, according to extension clothing specialists at the Pennsylvania State University.

Extracting oils from these flowers is an art and it takes 12,000 jasmin flowers to make two pounds of oil at the market price of about $1,400 a pound.

Blacks Are Reviving Long Dead Subject, Love For One Another

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

February is the month earmarked for love — at least the overt expression of this ubiquitous, amorphous, visible yet invisible phenomenon.

Among many blacks, open expression of love for one another has long been a dead subject. Having been a depressed people (by whites and by each other) many of us had given up on love.

But, today, a great many blacks are unashamedly involved in the throes of a new and exciting love affair with each other. They are seeingand appreciating each other for the first time — discovering and simultaneously being amazed at the potentials of one another.

The sisters are finally becoming aware that the brothers have suffered just as they have, and conscious efforts are being made to right several wrongs that we have perpetuated.

We now find ourselves running toward one another, impetuously and without shame, whereas we used to run away from each other. We glow — instead of cringe — when in the presence of one another.

THIS RECIPROCAL love has enhanced our physical beauty. We now compiement as well as compliment one another when together.

As with all young love affairs, in time, the heat of passion subsides and the flames level off. And although the lovers will find that they are no longer in love with each other, they will have discovered something more important: love for one another.

For blacks this means we will have rediscovered our capacity for this special emotion and we will fully respect each other as being worthy recipients of our love.

Realistic lovers have discovered that, after the height of passion, you get out of the relationship what you put into it. To grow, love must be nurtured.

Blacks must continue to give to one another — even force ourselves to demonstrate — our love. Not in the form of material gifts — that's the worst possible cop-out. We must give of ourselves.

BECAUSE FOR many it is still difficult, nay, impossible, to verbalize "I love you," we must utilize other ways of expressing our love and respect. That smile (when you're tired), that "well done" applause when an effort has been made, that encouraging "you can do it," or that "I'm with you, baby" look or touch of the hand — all will get the message across. And the message must be extended not only to spouses or boy-girlfriends, but to our children, our senior citizens, our neighbors — people with whom we have daily contacts.

Collectively, blacks are a wounded people and loving has been difficult. But our wounds are on the mend. Hopefully, in time, even the scars will cease to itch (ask anyone who's had surgery) and we can extend our love affair to include all people.

ON THE AGENDA

Marin Members Have Top Roles In Junior League Style Show

Coordinating the grand double-header fashion show of the Junior League of San Francisco this year is Mrs. Robert Clark Taylor of Ross. She is known in Marin for her volunteer service as founder and first president of the Planned Parenthood Auxiliary, former president of the Ross Guild of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science and as a member of the board of directors of the Planned Parenthood Association and Marin Mental Health board.

Susan Taylor is heading all phases of the league's gala, the only fund-raising event held each year to finance the league's community projects, and other Marin Junior League members are working on committees and will model in the show, which will be held Thursday at 11:30 a.m. and again at 6 p.m. in the grand ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco. With 800 reservations made, the luncheon show is already sold out and the evening production close to close-out, the league reports.

Models from Marin are Mmes. Howard D. Banks, of Kentfield, John Dreyfous of Belvedere, Kirk Frederick of San Rafael, Eugene D. Fox, Lee M. Gammill Jr. and James L. Potts, all of Mill Valley; William J. Morris and McKenzie Moss II, both of Kentfield and Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere.

The current Marin project of the Junior League is the Volunteer Council of the Audubon Canyon Ranch near Bolinas.

"OCEANS OF Fashions" will be the theme for the Outdoor Art Club's 1 p.m. fashion luncheon on Thursday at the clubhouse in Mill Valley.

Co-chairmen for the event starting with punch served at 12:30 p.m. are Mmes. Robert Edmiston, Bernard Benesh and Eling Michaelsen.

Coordinator for the parade of spring and travel styles provided by a San Rafael shop will be Mrs. Betty Batch. Mrs. Richard O'Brien will do the commentary.

Luncheon co-chairmen are Mmes. George Grant and Edward Johnson, and Mrs. C. Harvey Mielenz will do decor. Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Norman Chaponot and Richard Sloan.

THE VALLEY Sewing Club, an affiliate of Mill Valley's Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 305, will have a public card party on Wdnesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall in Mill Valley.

This is the first of a series of parties to be held the first Wednesday of each month at the same time and place with proceeds going to support the charitable projects of the lodge.

Free coffee and sandwiches will be served from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Club president Mrs. Jake Clausen will be in charge of the parties.

HINTS AND helps for the homemaker by Sonoma County home advisor Virginia Porter will be presented to Petaluma Woman's Club members and guests Tuesday following luncheon at 1 p.m. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Wayne E. Musser and Mrs. D. J. Deevy Jr. Decorations co-chairmen are Mrs. Hilary Doberneck and Mrs. Everett Schroeder.

NOVATO FEDERATED Women's Club will have its monthly meeting at 10 a.m., Thursday at the Moose Lodge in Novato.

Jim Lang, regional director for Finance Forum of America, a 35-year-old non-profit educational organization, will talk about stocks, bonds and investments at 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Claude Lewin is accepting reservations for the luncheon to be held at the Peacock restaurant in Novato at 1 p.m.

ALPHA LAMBDA Chapter of Kappa Phi Sigma sorority will hold its annual awards dinner and ritual of roses initiation ceremony at 7 p.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. William Compton in Novato. Mmes. Jerry Sibbald, Walter O'Brien, Phillip Johnson, John Burke and Gary Van Sickel will be initiated into the social sorority.

Following the initiation, the awards dinner will be held at the Alvarado Inn. Mrs. John Colistra will receive the Juno award and Mrs. Alan King and Mrs. Colistra will receive their Athenian pins.

A day at the horse races for members and guests of the Petaluma Newcomers Club Tuesday at Golden Gate Fields, Albany. Luncheon will be served in the Turf Club at noon. Mrs. Nicholas Romaine is reservations chairman.

Mrs. Robert L. Tuckey will conduct a six-week course in flower arranging in the Barn starting Thursday from 10 a.m. to noon, and continuing on Thursdays through April 8.

Mrs. Clifford J. Flack will offer instruction in beginning bridge on Friday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon in the Studio. This will be the Goren system and will start March 5, and run for twelve weeks.

Mick Laska will instruct children in basic art on Saturday mornings working with acrylics from 10 a.m. to noon starting March 6. This is for children in the fifth grade through eighth and is a six week course.

Starting March 8 Mrs. Robert Williams will start her beginning and intermediate adult art class with critique and registration. Hours are 10 a.m. to noon on Mondays. There are six lessons in this series.

A new class, beginning French, will start on March 18 with Mrs. Louis Toulon instructing. Classes will be held in the Studio from 10 a.m. to noon on Thursdays for ten weeks.

Continuing classes at the Marin Art and Garden Center include children's drama classes under the direction of Marion Hayes Cain and beginning and advanced art instruction with Elizabeth Holland McDaniel.

MR. AND MRS. Ward H. Austin will show slides and speak on churches of Europe for the Women of Redwoods of Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur Thursday.

The program will be preceded by a luncheon in the fellowship hall at 11:45 a.m. served by the hostess committee, Mmes. Gilbert Slusher, chairman, Richard W. Mayne and David McIntosh.

Child care will be provided.

"PERSONAL ADVENTURES as an International Christian Youth Exchange Student" will be the subject of the Mill Valley Community Church Club program Wednesday following a noon luncheon in the parish hall.

Under the direction of the Mill Valley Community Church I.C.Y.E. Committee Cindy Norall and Gudrun Ragnars will describe personal experiences in a strange land, adapting to a new home and family, language difficulties in school and advantages of a church-sponsored program.

Gudrun Ragnars of Reykjavik, Iceland, lives with the Robert Jenkins family. Her family in Iceland includes two brothers, her mother and father, who works at the mayor's office.

Cindy Norall, daughter of the John B. Noralls of Mill Valley, spent last year in Holzwickede in the industrial part of Germany. Her German family included two brothers, 16 and 18, and one sister, 14. She went to two girls schools, worked for a month with retarded children and for three weeks in a factory. During vacation she traveled to Holland, France and Italy.

Luncheon chairman Mrs. John J. Hurley will be assisted by Mmes. Ray K. Culver, Robert J. Frost, Edith W. Hedges, Alan F. Kappelman, Arthur C. Reneau and Garhardt Von Bonin. Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Stanley C. Aitchison and Miss Charlotta Williford.

Origin Of That Stork Story

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—One of the most urgent questions that preoccupy little children is — "Mommy, where do babies come from?"

Sigmund Freud said the origin of babies "is the oldest and most burning question that confronts immature humanity."

More often than not in unenlightened homes, it's the fable of the stork that's to the rescue of the mommies of the world when the question first rolls off tot's tongue.

The stork fable, amusingly enough, seems to more completely relate to the true biological facts of childbirth than to infantile sexual theories, two psychoanalysts reported at the annual meeting of the American Psychoanalytic Association.

Drs. Marvin Margolis and Philip Parker, of Detroit, Mich., gave, among other proofs, the following:

"The stork is said to find babies in caves, wells or ponds. These are common symbols for the vagina and uterus in particular, and mother-woman in general."

Because of the revolutionary changes in child-rearing practices in the past generation, and especially with the more frank and biologically correct explanations of conception and birth given to children, the use of the fable of the stork has been gradually declining.

"Yet," the psychoanalysts reported, "the fable still is almost universally known at all levels of our culture."

Dr. Margolis is director of research and training at the Detroit Psychiatric Institute, a part of Wayne State University School of Medicine.

During their examination of the stork myth from a variety of considerations, Drs. Margolis and Parks discovered that the stork fable has found wide acceptance even in countries in which the white stork is not native and can only be seen in zoos.

The origins of the myth can be traced back to the days of antiquity. The stork was dedicated to Juno, a mother goddess, by the Romans. Juno was the goddess of fertility and protector of women. Women who were barren prayed to her.

In the legends, according to the doctors, storks are billed as being warm, providing parental care, possessed of marital fidelity, filial concern and longevity.

"In addition," they said, "they are regarded as the harbinger of spring and the bringer of good luck. Storks are said to be extremely devoted parents. Their offspring are said to remain very attached to them and, in turn, to take care of them when they are aged and infirm."

Stork lore aside, reports from the ornithologists in birdland demonstrate that the legends have some basis in fact, according to Dr. Margolis and his associate.

—The white stork is found in most parts of Europe, Asia and Africa. Those that nest in Europe during the spring and summer migrate southward to Africa during the winter.

—Generally it is true that they faithfully care for their young. However, at times they may act in a very hostile manner toward them.

—Once grown to adulthood there is no evidence that the adult stork is capable of recognizing its parents. Therefore there is no basis in fact that the younger storks take care of their infirm elders.

—Their reputation for lifelong monogamy is also in question. One researcher says in reality a stork is not very fond of his wife and it is doubtful he would recognize her away from the nest.

"For the stork legend to have become so fixed in man's imagination as an explanation of the origin of babies, it must be answering many complex psychological needs, Dr. Margolis said.

Sterilize Six

Mothers who have to sterilize more than six baby bottles at one time can heat the bottles in the oven for 15 minutes at 250. The result is the same and it is much faster than sterilizing by boiling in shifts.

Unwed Irish Mothers Flee To England To Get State Aid

By DONAL O'HIGGINS

DUBLIN (UPI)—Time-worn taboos surrounding the unwed mother in Ireland are fading, but a stigma attached to it in this country is real and the prejudice is deep.

An effort has been made to eliminate some of the secrecy which has enveloped the problem, and social workers believe it is a significant step forward.

Representatives of many organizations and social workers from the churches and the medical profession met recently to discuss community services for unmarried mothers.

Overshadowing the practical details of financial and medical care was the unanimous appeal for a more understanding climate.

Contrary to popular belief, Ireland operates efficient and relatively enlightened social services for the illegitimate child and the mother. The services, however, are not used by the mother in many cases because of fear or shame.

INSTEAD, SHE flees to England to have her baby where she becomes entitled to a social security income which she does not get in her homeland. This provides the mother with a real choice between keeping her child or handing it over for adoption.

In Ireland, the mother does not receive aid which would enable her to provide for her baby. Her only alternative to adoption is to fall back on the family home, a discouraging prospect.

This is one of the main points raised at the conference by the Roman Catholic bishop of Kerry, Most Rev. Dr. Eamon Casey, who spent many years working among Irish emigrants in England.

"I would not like anybody to get the impression these unmarried mothers fitted into the category of being promiscuous," Dr. Casey said. "Most of them are very fine types, but were just unfortunate."

SOCIAL WORKERS estimate there will be roughly 1,8000 illegitimate children born in Ireland this year, and over the past five years have been a 50 per cent jump in the number of unmarried mothers admitted to the National Maternity Hospital.

Dr. Declan Meagher, master of the hospital, said an analysis of maternal age showed 42 per cent of unmarried mothers were under the age of 20, and 24 per cent were under 18 years of age.

Approximately 70 per cent of unmarried Irish mothers are in domestic service, 20 per cent are unemployed and homeless, and 10 per cent are still in school.

Health authorities in Ireland provide or pay for the costs of the unmarried mother in mother and baby homes or in maternity hospitals and nursing homes.

Complete secrecy concerning the mother's identity is observed, and the homes are fully equipped to deal with normal confinements.

But the greatest difficulty facing the social workers is to persuade the girls to accept the facilities available to them.

MUSIC REVIEW

Spellbound Recital By Rudolf Serkin

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Rudolf Serkin held an audience of lovers of Beethoven's piano music enthralled last night at the Opera House in the first of two special all-Beethoven sonata recitals in the current San Francisco Symphony season.

Unquestionably one of the world's top piano virtuosos among the older generation — he will be 68 this year — Serkin has apparently lost none of the power and brilliance that make his performances so dramatically effective, and his program of four sonatas was arranged in a crescendo of dramatic impact.

Throughout the concert Serkin displayed a supreme control, reminiscent of Horowitz, in separating melody from accompaniment so that a rich variety of lyrical effects was produced.

In the first two sonatas — the Op. 27, No. 1 in E Flat Major and Op. 27, No. 2 in C Sharp Minor (Moonlight) —the pianist brought out their fantasy-like character without sacrificing structural integrity.

The E Flat Sonata was colorful with its manic character expressed in a brooding introspection in the andantes and adagio, strongly contrasted with the playful gaiety and vehemence in the allegros. The allegro in the first movement was played with a clipped Schnabelesque phrasing.

The warhorse Moonlight sonata was most interesting in its opening adagio and concluding presto agitato movements. Played in a low keyed, almost monochromatic style at first, the adagio turned out to be one of the most beautifully vocal readings of the famous melody I have heard. The presto was melodramatic with its sudden changes in dynamics from crashing chords to delicate, rippling arpeggios.The middle allegretto seemed a bit too slow. I would have preferred more of a scherzando approach.

In a virile reading, the Sonata in E Major, Op. 109 was dramatic and romantic in style because of rubato in the first two movements. The final andante theme and variations were enchanting for a solid vocal line surrounded with gracious filagree.

The Sonata in C, Op. 53 (Waldstein), which has been called the keyboard equivalent of the Fifth Symphony, was, of course the showpiece of the program with its virtuoso runs, broken octaves and rotary arpeggios. Though it isn't as technically difficult as the fiendish Hammerklavier sonata to be played in the second recital, the Waldstein is an emotional colossus. Serkin played the adagio molto and allegretto moderato with an exquisite bell-like lyricism that was unique.

The pianist will perform his second all-Beethoven sonata recital Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Opera House.

Walter Reed Psychiatrist Says Calley Not Impaired

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)— The chief of the Psychiatry Department at Walter Reed Army Hospital testified today that there was no impairment in the thought processes of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. during the alleged My Lai massacre.

Col. Arnold W. Johnson Jr., who headed a sanity board that found Calley "normal in every respect" earlier this month, said in his opinion Calley was mentally capable to premeditate murder at My Lai.

The other two sanity board members testified similarly Thursday. The three were called by the government as rebuttal witnesses. Their testimony directly contradicted that of two defense psychiatrists who said Calley suffered a combat stress condition which made it impossible for him to premeditate anything on that mission.

Johnson was the 39th prosecution witness, and the last before a recess until next Wednesday to enable the prosecution to shape up its rebuttal case.

Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, the chief prosecutor, said he needed the time to notify witnesses all over the country and arrange for money for their transportation here.

The line up of witnesses is expected to include Capt. Ernest L. Medina, commander of the American infantry company in which Calley led one of two platoons that assaulted the Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968. Calley is accused of the premeditated murder of 102 civilians during that search-and-destroy mission and could get death on conviction.

He has testified that on five occasions Medina specifically ordered him to destroy everything in the hamlet. On two of these occasions, the 27-year-old officer said, his commander told him to "waste" villagers who were holding up the advance of U.S. troops.

Medina currently is under investigation to determine whether he, too, must stand trial for the My Lai affair.

The Army announced today that Col. Oran K. Henderson, field commander during the My Lai operation, would be court-martialed on charges of attempting to cover up the incident.

Similar charges against Capt. Dennis H. Johnson, an intelligence officer, were dismissed for lack of sufficient evidence, the Army said in Washington.

During testimony in the Calley trial today, chief defense counsel George W. Latimer asked Dr. Johnson whether fears could impair mental processes, and the psychiatrist replied that "they can under certain circumstances, but not necessarily."

"Do you agree that stresses increase in combat?" Latimer asked.

"They can," Johnson replied.

"Can breaking artillery overhead create stress?"

"It can."

"Can small arms fire create stress?"

"It can."

Latimer told him there had been testimony earlier about a marked decrease in psychiatric cases in the Army in Vietnam as compared with those of World War II and the Korean War.

Johnson replied that that might have been true in past years but that "there has been some increase in psychiatric cases in the past two years." He said that he and other Army experts were trying to figure out what was happening.

"Do you mean an increase in Vietnam?" Latimer asked.

"I mean all over the Army," Johnson replied.

"And there's no way for you to evaluate it?"

"No way—and I don't care to speculate here," Johnson replied.

Window Smashed

A window valued at $200 was smashed by a rock between 12:30 and 1:35 a.m. today at Alter Ego Hair Design, 175 Belvedere Street, San Rafael police reported.

FAMILY

"Cromwell" - Richard Harris is Oliver Cromwell and Alec Guinness plays King Charles I in this equisitely photographed historical spectacular about the Puritan Reformation and civil war in 17th Century England.

"In Search of Castaways" - Reissue of Disney's fantasy adapted from Jules Verne novel about a round the world search for a missing sea captain. Good fun and adventure for all.

"My Fair Lady" - Based on Shaw's comedy about a witty speech authority who transforms a flower girl with a cockney accent into an aristocratic lady. Extraordinary entertainment for all.

"Out Of Towners" - A funny spoof on big city life is glimpsed through the hilarious misadventures of a small city businessman who takes his wife with him for his final job interview in New York City.

"Tora Tora Tora" - Impressive dramatization of the attack on Pearl Harbor, seen from both the American and Japanese sides, brings into focus history leading up to the attack. Excellent cast.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Airport" - Absorbing and gripping drama with outstanding all star cast is the behind-the-scenes action in a blizzard paralyzed airport when an emergency arises. Buildup is intense and may prove too exciting for younger children. Very well done.

"Fools" - Two lonely people, one married, chance to meet and fall in love while exploring San Francisco. An interesting background and script make this romantic film entertaining. Some sex scenes well handled.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"I Love My Wife" - A stylish comedy about an empty life, told in terms of sex. A sour but well acted movie about a man who functions on a superficial level. Well defined characterizations.

"Strawberry Statement" - A hokey exploitation of student unrest with lots of music and psychedelic photography that substitute for an honest examination of the issues. Unnecessary scenes of sex and nudity inserted and an orgy of police brutality proves only that riots are very cinematic.

ADULTS ONLY

"Brewster McCloud" - A bawdy black comedy that is part cartoon, partly an essay on modern rudeness and definitely a cinematic circus, with human nature as its major satirical concern. (Motion Picture Daily).

"Fellini Satyricon" - Drawing a parallel between contemporary western civilization and decadent Rome before Christ, is a long drawn out bore so brutal in its lurid decadence and deformed grotesque freaks, nudity and homo as well as hetero sexuality that it is hard to digest.

"Five Easy Pieces" - Freeform portrait of an exile from a high-brow musical family who cops out of a routine lower middle class existence. Explicit sex and frank dialogue.

"Hard Contract" - A professional assassin who murders and makes love with the same heartless detachment falls in love. Nudity, explicit sex are interwoven with provocative discussions about good and evil, life and death.

"Midnight Cowboy" - Offbeat story about a vain Texan who comes to New York to be a male prostitute and his relationship with a crippled bum. Many sordid depressing scenes but thought provoking. Well acted.

"Owl and the Pussycat" - Racy adult comedy about a prostitute, with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Sex is frank and abundant and Barbras' vocabulary includes as much profanity as the average stevedore and at the top of her voice.

"Something For Everyone" - A macabre satire about a thoroughly evil young man who gains control of an impoverished countess' estate by murder, sex and sadism and is caught in his own trap.

"Trash" - The title says it all - no plot just pathetic characters mainly a heroin junky wandering around in the nude with both men and women fawning over his body but to no avail since drugs make him impotent. Incessant use of vulgar language and the ugly lives of totally messed up people is anything but funny, which is what this is supposed to be.

"Women in Love" - D. H. Lawrence's novel about total physical and spiritual love between the same and the opposite sex are explored extensively by very explicit, sensual sex scenes. Direction, acting and photography very good.

50-Year Wait For Cold Water

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UPI)—Fifty years is a long time to wait for a drink of cold water, residents of this southwestern Pennsylvania township will tell you.

For half-a-century, the tap water here, at its coldest, has come out lukewarm to tepid because an underground smouldering coal fire warmed the water in the pipes.

Now the fire finally has been extinguished and cold water runs from faucets here. Employes of the State Department of Environmental Resources poured 13,000 tons of wet fly ash into boreholes drilled into the abandoned mine to smother the fire.

Purses Of Two Women Are Stolen

The purses of two Fresno women were stolen from their car yesterday at the Villa Rafael Motel, 1606 Lincoln Avenue, according to San Rafael police.

The purses and contents belonging to Velva Lee Boone and Cecilia Ann Alessandro were valued at $178, police said. They were taken between 9:45 and 9:50 a.m., police said.

Mrs. Nixon Plans To Join Iowa Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Richard Nixon will make Monday's presidential trip to Des Moines, Iowa, and plans to host a coffee hour and press conference for local reporters at the governor's mansion there.

President Nixon and several of his cabinet officers will be in Des Moines to talk up revenue sharing with the governors of Iowa, Illinois, Missouri and Wisconsin. The White House said Mrs. Nixon may also visit a couple of local community improvement projects in Des Moines.

Crazy Ladies

The De Castro Sisters. Whose outrageous antics you may have seen on television, on the continents of Europe, Asia and North America, or in a mess hall in Vietnam. Whom you soon may see in our Garden Bar.

Crazy Peggy specializes in the unexpected, a wry one liner, a virtuoso rendition of "Alfie", an elastic satire of the "Frug." Crazy Nancy sings, exceptionally well. And Crazy Pat, the kid sister, acts her age — at least according to Peggy and Nancy.

Together they're a happy extravaganza of singing, dancing and laughing. Now thru Saturday, February 27 they're together nightly except Sundays and Mondays in our Garden Bar. Show times: 9:30, 11 and 12:30 — with dancing in between. There's no cover or minimum, so you can afford a good dinner in our East-West Room and a parking space in our underground garage. That way you can spend the entire evening in one place. With the crazy ladies.

'Exaggerated' Park Land Report

By PAT ANGLE

An Interior Department official yesterday shot down as "grossly exaggerated" a report that startled some conservationists and recreation-minded legislators with word that a massive takeover of Bay Area open space was planned by the department.

One conservation leader called the report "a hatchet job on the department."

The San Francisco Examiner reported Wednesday that the department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and the National Parks Service had developed a plan involving more than 10,000 acres of the finest federal, state, municipal and private land in the Bay Area. All this, the newspaper said, would be incorporated in a vast park and recreation system stretching from San Mateo county to Point Reyes.

E. W. Perkins, assistant director of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation in San Francisco, said the recommendations Interior is considering call for "nowhere near that amount of land" for the national recreational area. The proposal, which Former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel asked the Bureau to prepare in September, has not been made public.

The studies, Interior officials say, were ordered in line with President Richard Nixon's "Parks for the People" program in and around major metropolitan areas.

The massive land area described by the newspaper appears to be a compilation of many plans submitted for the recreation system, including bills introduced to Congress by William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District and Phillip Burton, D-Fifth District.

Mailliard's and Burton's offices and a spokesman for Sen. Alan Cranston, were surprised by the report of the land takeover and claimed no knowledge of the plan to which the newspaper referred.

Perkins also denied the Examiner's claim that the plan it reported was currently before Secretary Morton, awaiting his approval, and said no official in the Interior Department has been able to tell him just when the Bureau's report will be completed and referred to the secretary.

In any case, whatever proposal Morton endorses, a Golden Gate Recreational Area cannot be created overnight, according to Perkins. Congressional approval will be needed and the government will have to find the considerable money necessary for development and maintenance of the area he said.

The newspaper reported the acreage supposedly earmarked for inclusion in the recreational area includes: 60 per cent of the Presidio, Fort Funston, all of Forts Barry, Baker and Cronkhite and the Marin Headlands State Park, Angel Island, Alcatraz, Fort Miley, Fort Funston, Tiburon Net Depot, Aquatic Park, San Francisco Maritime State Historical Park, James D. Phelan State Park, Lincoln Park (excluding the Legion of Honor, Seal Rocks State Beach, Ocean Beach, Marincello, Witter and Green Gulch ranches in Marin and private land around the Cliff House at Point Lobos.

The story said Treasure Island, Yerba Buena Island and the Alameda Naval Air Station were included in the plan as "federal reservations with recreational potential."

Maillard's proposal for a Golden Gate National Recreation Area, introduced for a second time in January, is currently before the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

His bill includes portions of the Presidio, Forts Barry, Baker and Cronkhite, Mason, Miley and Funston and Alcatraz Island.

Burton's plan, which he has dubbed the Juan Manual de Ayala National Recreational Area encompasses Mailliard's proposal and adds to that: a larger chunk of the Presidio, Angel Island, the Tiburon Net Depot, Lincoln Park, excluding the Legion of Honor, Bakers, Phelan and Seal Rocks State Beaches.

The San Francisco Democrat's bill, also now in the committee on Interior and Insular Affairs for the second time, would give Alcratraz to the Indians for $24.

It was Amy Meyer, co-chairman of People for a National Golden Gate Recreational Area, a San Francisco-based conservation group, called the newspaper's report "a hatchet job" on the Interior Department, "an obvious attempt to drum up public support for continued Army domination of the Presidio and Marin headlands."

Mrs. Meyer said the story implies the Department of Interior is a "greedy, landgrabbing octopus" determined to take over "half the land in the Bay Area." She said the only federal and state properties on the Bay which the newspaper did not say Interior planned to incorporate into the recreational complex were the Oakland Supply Center, Oakland Army Base and San Quentin Prison.

She said the Sixth Army has made it quite clear it does not want to lose its control over "the historic Presidio" in San Francisco and opined that Army fears that some of its choice land will be taken for recreation led to the report.

Reagan To Lead State Delegation For Nixon-Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, sometimes mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate for 1972, says he will lead a delegation for the re-election of President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Reagan said in answering reporters' questions Thursday he had told Nixon "I intend to lead a delegation from California pledged to his nomination."

Reagan also said Agnew is "an asset to the ticket."

The California Republican would not comment on his own future public ambitions, but did say he would not seek another term as governor. Reagan has been mentioned as a possible contender for the seat of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., whose term expires in four years.

Minority Apprentice Program Set For Construction Industry

An agreement that will provide equal employment for minorities in the construction industry in four Bay Area counties is to be signed Monday night in Vallejo.

The pact is the result of long work by a committee representing the minority community through the Bay Area Construction Opportunity Program. Joseph Richardson, BACP technical recruiter in San Rafael, today hailed it as a major breakthrough in assuring members of minority races an equal chance to employment in this major industry.

It provides that the percentage of minority employees in the construction trades shall be brought up to equality with the percentage in the population of the county. This is to be done over a five-year period, with a goal of 20 per cent each year. The agreement provides this period so that apprentices can be trained from minority races.

Signatories include the committee representing the minority community of Marin, Sonoma, Solano and Napa counties; all employer associations in the construction trades in the four counties, and nearly all unions involved in those trades.

Local 38 of the Plumbers Union has so far refused to enter the agreement, said Richardson, and the Operating Engineers Union may not be a signatory.

It is hoped that the agreement will be extended to cover Lake and Mendocino counties as well, Richardson reported.

To implement the plan, an administrative committee will be appointed, composed of three representatives from the unions, three from the contractor associations and six from the minority community—these six to be chosen by the minority community members of the committee that has been working on the plan.

The administrative committee will establish a nonprofit corporation to enter into contracts with the U.S. Department of Labor and other agencies to assure implementation of the plan.

The formal agreement is to be signed at a ceremony at Terry's Restaurant, Interstate 80 at Benecia Road, Vallejo, at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

INVISIBLE EPIDEMIC

Marin VD Clinic Overloaded, Forced To Turn Youths Away

By MARY LEYDECKER
(Last of two articles)

Marin's venereal disease rate, which outstrips even staggering statewide percentages, affects people from many age groups and walks of life, but its main victims are from 12 to 22 years old.

What can be done to prevent one youngster in 10 from contacting VD before he graduates from high school?

Philippa Denning-Kemp, who has long been associated with the venereal disease clinic conducted by Marin County Health Department, sees "awareness" as the only answer.

She cites an "appalling ignorance" about VD as prevalent among the young persons who troop into the clinic.

"Thank God, syphillis is not yet a major problem in Marin, although the rate is rising," she said. Gonorrhea, by far the most common of the venereal diseases, accounted for 1,480 reported cases in Marin last year.

Gonorrhea, readily recognizable in men, and not hard to diagnose in women, is easily treatable in both sexes with massive doses of penicillin.

Patients at the VD clinic first give their symptoms to an investigator, who sends them on to see a doctor in the clinic if it appears they probably have VD.

Smears are taken and analyzed and the treatment for gonorrhea consists of two shots of penicillin given on successive days.

An interesting side effect of marijuana usage discovered by those who treat VD is that constant usage lessens symptoms of gonorrhea in men — so that potsmokers often don't realize they have the disease.)

Treatment at the VD clinic is free — as it is throughout the state at other county clinics. Dr. Marilyn Hicks, in charge of the clicic, estimates that this year the county will spend about $58,000 for supplies and salaries of doctors, nurses, laboratory technicians, investigators and a clerk at the clinic.

This year she plans to ask for more funds so that "more young people can be treated."

"We are turning away so many now, and we don't know what happens to them," she added.

Miss Denning-Kemp mentioned another problem.

"We just don't have enough time for field work," she explained, referring to the search for persons reported by clinic patients to have been their sexual partners.

"Take one hippie girl living in the "Gates" near Sausalito whom we can't find," Miss Denning-Kemp illustrated. "She may infect numerous persons and then end up in a hospital months later with very serious pelvic inflammation disease."

The girl would be suffering a high fever and severe abdominal pain, Miss Denning-Kemp said, and doctors might have to resort to performing a hysterectomy on her.

Not counting the suffering to the girl, the cost to the taxpayers would be enormous, compared to the small cost of treating her when the disease is first discovered, according to Miss Denning-Kemp.

Education is the only answer, she feels.

She, however, does not view this as the best way to reach the most youngsters.

"I feel as if I ought to bring popcorn when I come to a high school — I'm the day's attraction," the lively Englishwoman laughed.

Much better, she feels, would be ongoing programs taught by classroom teachers. Most teachers feel uncomfortable talking about VD, however," Miss Denning-Kemp admitted.

To counteract this, teachers must first be instructed in how to broach the subject knowledge with their students, who respond better in mixed groups, according to Miss Denning-Kemp.

Marin teachers are being urged to participate in a VD "teach-in" being held at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco next month.

One of the most outspoken members of the Marin County Task Force for VD, which includes county officials, educators and Parent-Teacher Association is Frederick S. Mayer, a Sausalito pharmacist.

Mayer became interested in the VD problem after he noticed that he filled many prescriptions for gonorrhea drugs and felt that the cases were not being reported to county officials.

He and others are backing teach-ins and other education programs.

In the meantime, those involved with the county's VD clinic want it to be open more hours so that more young people can be treated.

Miss Denning-Kemp sadly summed up the problem:

"We need a clinic after school hours. Many kids now are cutting classes to come here in the morning."

Deer Cause 2-Car Crash

Several deer crossed a Novato roadway yesterday and the result was a two-car collision and minor injuries to two persons, Novato police reported.

Officers said a car driven by Burton R. Kirchner Jr., 29, of 249 Los Angeles Boulevard, San Anselmo, halted at 2:15 a.m. to avoid the deer crossing Wilson Avenue, south of Vineyard Road.

Then a car driven by Thomas Frederick Cook, 29, of San Bruno, struck the rear of Kirchner's car, police said. Cook, who suffered cuts of the left elbow and forehead, and his wife, Pamela, 26, who suffered minor scrapes, were treated at Novato General Hospital.

An $800 Award

Scott A. Bowman, 17, of Mill Valley, a Tamalpais High School student, has won an $800 award in the annual Engineers Week competition among Bay Area students. Prizes are given to encourage promising students to pursue engineering careers.

Today is Friday, Feb. 26, the 57th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1815 Napoleon Bonaparte and 12,000 men left the Isle of Elba to start a second conquest of France.

In 1907 Congress enacted legislation providing for salary increases for the vice president, cabinet members and the speaker of the House to $12,000. The salaries of senators and representatives rose to $7,000.

In 1919 Congress established Grand Canyon Park in Arizona.

In 1935 Germany began operation of its Air Force, the Luftwaffe, under Reichmarshal Hermann Goering.

A thought for today: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."

Still Room In Classes

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department still has room in a few classes starting Monday in various subjects, Director Andrew J. Snyder Jr. said.

Openings include classes in scuba diving, yoga, oil painting, cake decorating, golk guitar, printing techniques and arts and crafts for housewives.

Registration may be made at the parks and recreation department in the San Rafael City Hall.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Key To Four-Spade Victory Is To Lead Out Low Hearts

Much of our education consists in learning how to do the right thing without thinking. When a man is called well-schooled, we mean that he has pleasant habits or that he does his chores without having to stop for thought. This is certainly true of bridge players, except that acting without thinking sometimes exacts a price.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

LOW FROM DUMMY

West opened the queen of clubs, and South played low from the dummy. West continued with the jack of clubs, and South ruffed. Declarer drew trumps and led a heart from dummy toward the king in his own hand. He had been taught to lead toward his high cards, and he was a man who obeyed his teachers.

West captured the king of hearts with the ace, and South wound up losing three hearts, a diamond and a club. Down two.

Nobody uttered a word of criticism. North said merely: "Very unlucky." If his tone was not truly sympathetic, who can blame him? It was a subject South decided not to open. He had discovered that it didn't always pay to find out what his partners meant when they commented on his bidding or play.

SURE TO LOSE

South's actual heart play was sure to lose since West surely had the ace of hearts for his vulnerable overcall on a topless club suit. South's only chance was to lead low hearts until West took the ace.

After winning the second trick by ruffing a club, South should lead a low heart. West plays the nine, and dummy's ten forces out the jack. East returns the ace of clubs, and South ruffs again.

ANOTHER HEART

South leads another low heart, and West must play the ace. West shifts to diamonds, and South wins with the king. Since the heart situation is crystal clear, South draws three rounds of trumps, ending in the dummy, and leads a heart through East. South wins a finesse with the eight of hearts, cashes the king of hearts to discard dummy's losing diamond, and thus limits the loss to two hearts and one club.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♥ - A 9
♦ - Q J 8 7
♣ - Q J 10 9 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. Avoid a borderline opening bid when you have only one of the eight aces and kings in the deck.

If your long suit were a major, you might open this substandard hand; but it does not pay to dig too deep to open in a minor suit.

Auto Looted Of Stereo Deck, Tapes

A tape deck, stereo tapes and sunglasses, valued at a total of $266, were taken from the car of David William Wee of 1321 Olive Street, Novato, Tuesday, Marin County sheriff's office reported yesterday.

The car was parked on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near the College of Marin, deputies reported.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Heart's Shenanigans Occur When It's Irritable, Tired

How is the heartbeat initiated? The pulsations are stimulated by impulses coming from a nerve center (the pacemaker) high in the wall of the right auricle. The S-A node (sino-atrial) is comparable to a timer sending out rhythmical electrical impulses that fan out like ripples created when a pebble is dropped into still waters.

ALTHOUGH the S-A node has connections with the regular nervous system, it can act on its own if necessary. The electrical charge carried by the impulse is easily detected via the electrocardiograph. In fact, the electrocardiogram represents a tracing of the electrical waves passing through the cardiac conduction system from the pacemaker to the edge of the muscular wall of the heart.

The heart is unique in that a beat can be initiated in any part of the organ. In addition, the auricles and ventricles are capable of contracting independently. These shenanigans cause a variety of heartbeat irregularities ((arrhythmias) noted when listening with a stethoscope or via the electrocardiograph: Flaws in the beat occur when the heart is irritable, infected, overworked, toxic, or after the circulation has been disturbed.

A HEART MAY suddenly race at 200 to 300 beats per minute and return to a normal rate just as quickly (paroxysmal tachycardia). In one of the more common arrhythmias, auricular fibrillation, the auricles beat rapidly and irregularly and are not synchronized with the ventricular contractions. However, regularity can be established with drugs; if not, digitalis is given to slow the ventricular rate so that each beat will force out enough blood to nourish the tissues.

Now and then the impulse emanating from the pacemaker is blocked causing the ventricles to beat very slowly (28 to 36). This occurs most often in oldsters and leads to dizziness and unconsciousness. A slower rate may end in death. Outside electrical devices (artificial pacemakers) usually are employed to increase the rate to normal. More than 30,000 persons in this country are kept alive with these devices. Some units work continuously; others go on only when the beat falls below a certain rate.

ASPIRIN FOR ARTHRITIS

A. J. B. writes: Can a person take aspirin for arthritis every day for the rest of his life without suffering any ill effects?

REPLY

Yes, provided the salicylate is used in moderation and does not irritate the stomach or affect the blood clotting mechanism.

LADY DOCTOR

A. writes: Can a woman gynecologist treat veneral diseases?

REPLY

Yes, and many do an excellent job. Veneral diseases in women are easily missed and a female gynecologist may be on the alert for these types of infections.

MUCOUS GLANDS

Miss O. T. writes: What foods and liquids are responsible for the formation of mucous?

REPLY

None. Foods do not control the mucous glands, despite the popular misconception that milk increases this secretion in the throat.

Today's Health Hint—

Beauty is more than skin deep.

Tax-Financed VD Program Is Backed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Health Department recommends a tax-financed antivenereal disease program among the young with an emphasis on prevention rather than treatment.

"Californians between the ages of 15 and 24 have the highest incidence," said state Health Director Louis F. Saylor in his legislative-ordered report on VD released Thursday.

Saylor suggested several immediate steps to curb the spread of VD and then outlined a five-point additional approach to the problem including the enlistment of pharmacists to help out.

The health director said the syphilis rate because of control efforts declined the past several years only to record a sudden upsurge in teen-agers beginning last year.

"The costs to the state for the hospitalization and care of the syphilitic insane in California institutions is about $2.1 million," Saylor said, "and aid to the syphilitic blind is over $600,000."

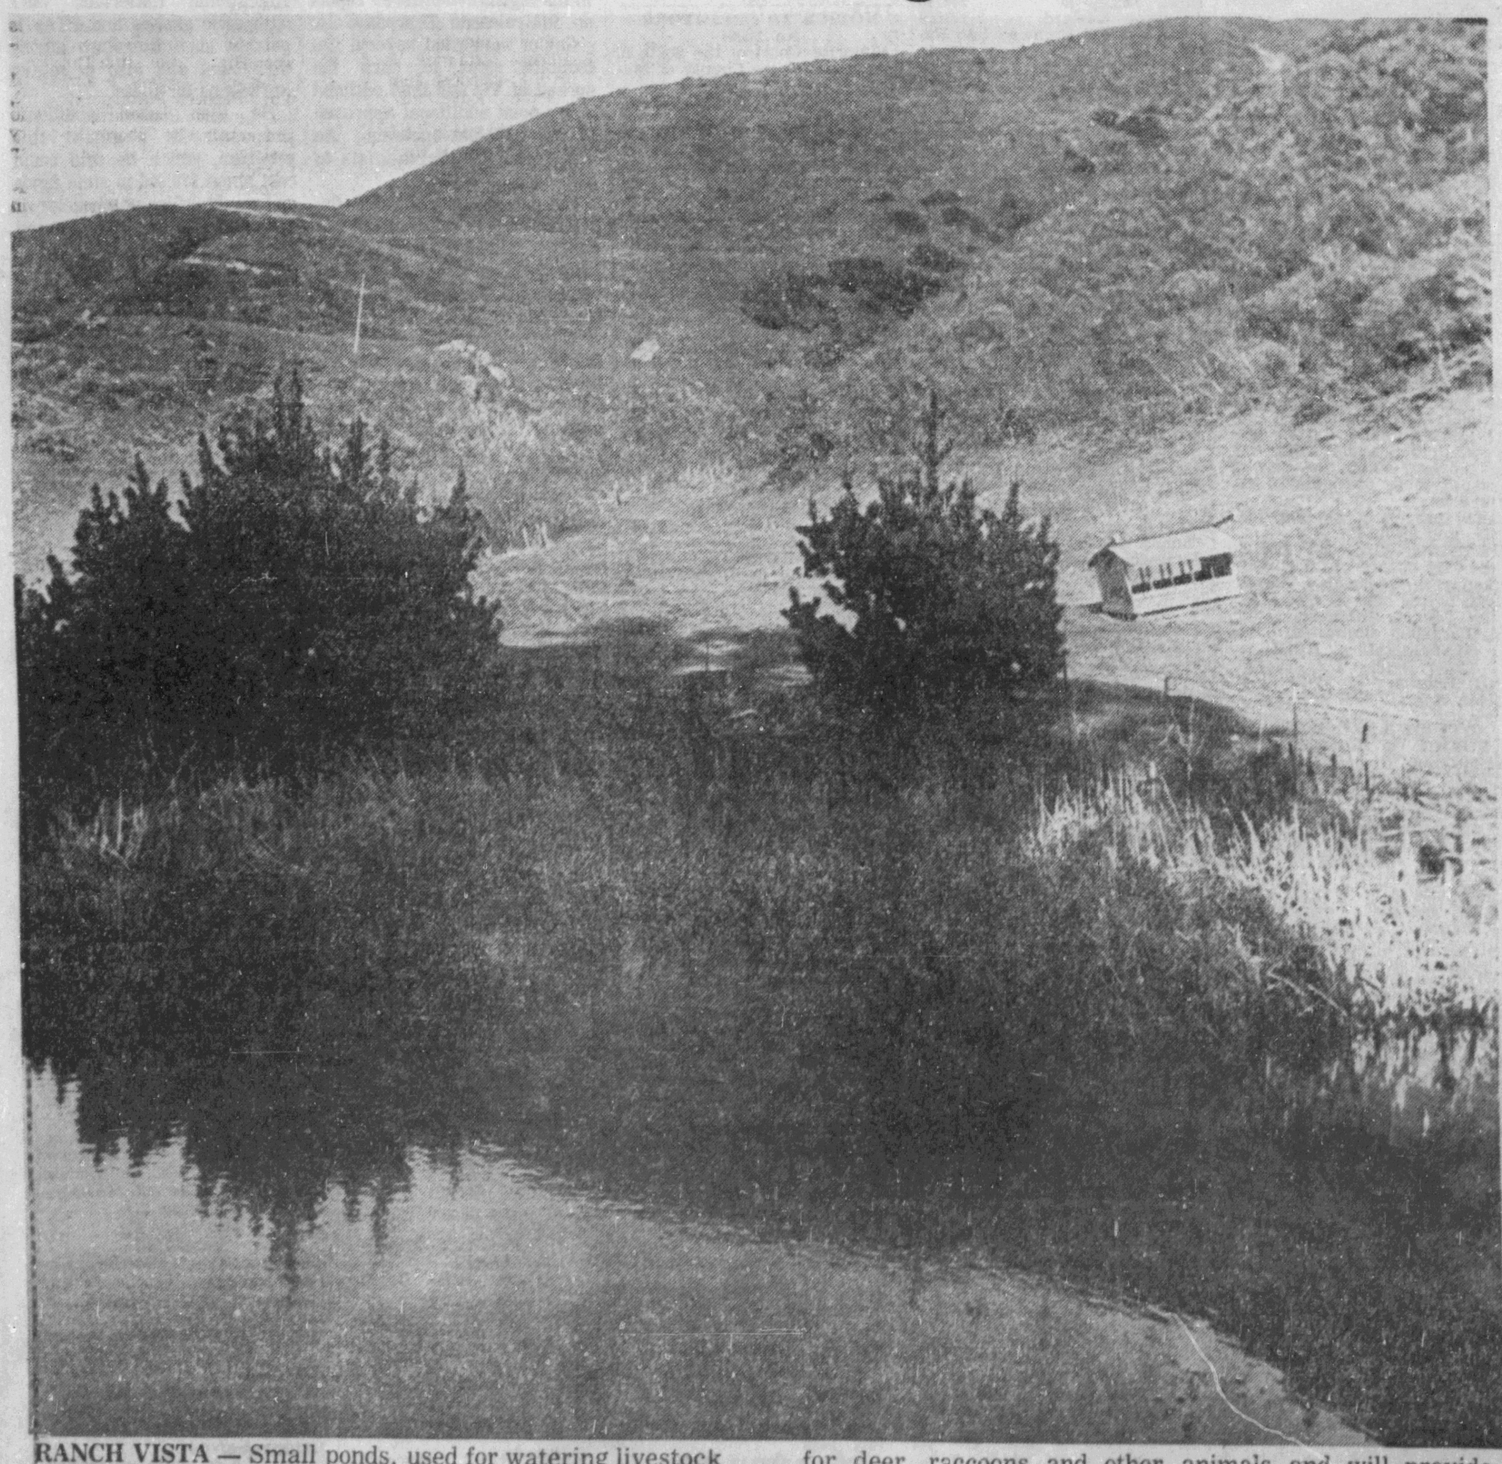
However, he said no similar campaign to control gonorrhea has been undertaken, with the result that cases reported in 1970, after final figures are in, will total more than 110,000, an increase of 69,000 over 1969.

"Gonorrhea incidence in young people is at an

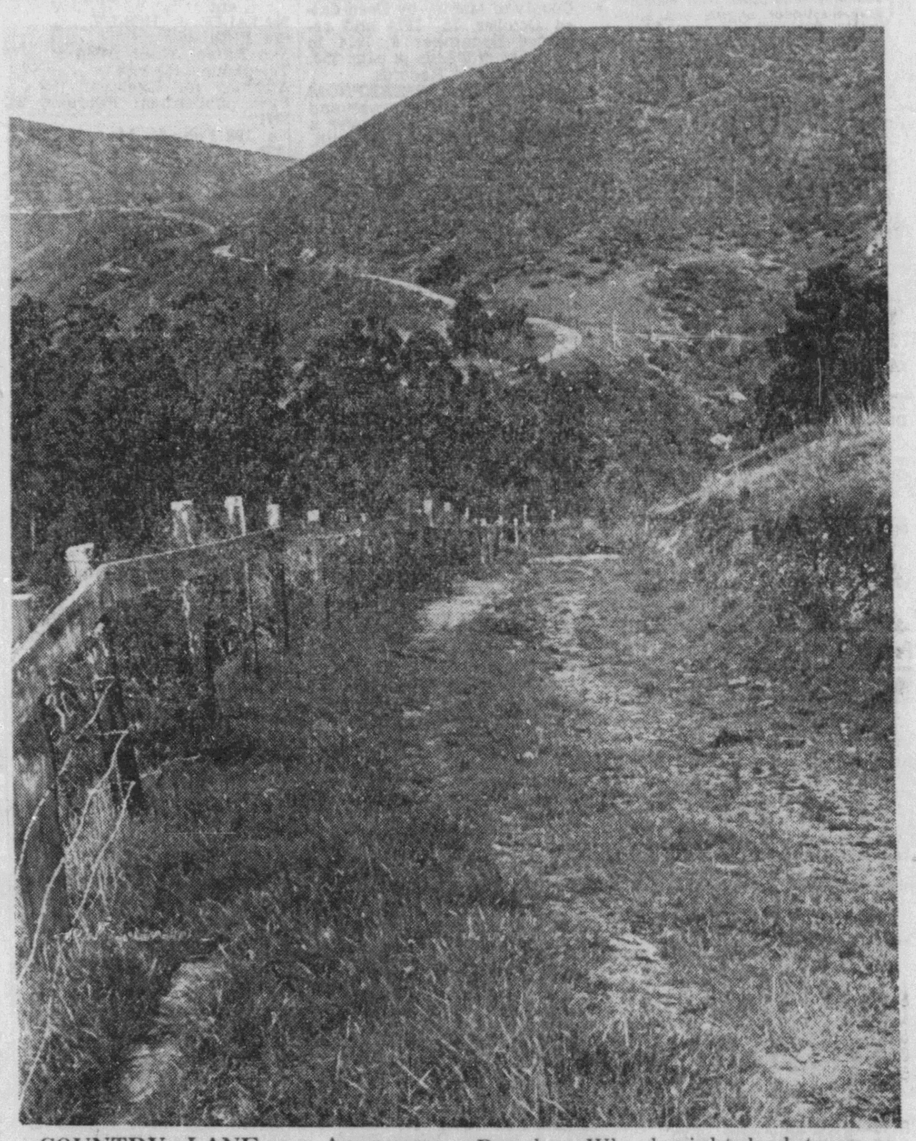
WHEELWRIGHT'S GIFT — The Hope Wheelwright Preserve, formerly the Green Gulch Ranch, stretches across brush-covered hills and canyons to the ocean near Muir Beach. George W. Wheelwright III, who bought the land in 1945, donated 540 of the 630 acres to The Nature Conservancy for permanent open space. Beyond the rugged headland on the right of the photo lies the Slide Ranch, recently purchased by the Conservancy. (Independent-Journal photos by Alfred M. Arn)

RANCH RESIDENT — This red-tipped hawk, flushed by an unaccustomed visitor to his domain, takes flight across a grassy meadow. The Nature Conservancy is conducting an inventory of animals on the ranch and hopes the open space it provides will allow once-endangered predators such as hawks and bobcats to flourish.

The Hope Wheelwright Preserve



RANCH VISTA — Small ponds, used for watering livestock when the Green Gulch was a working cattle ranch, dot the landscape. Ponds such as this are natural gathering places for deer, raccoons and other animals and will provide students a field laboratory for examining the ecology of Marin's open, rolling countryside.



COUNTRY LANE — An overgrown dirt road, paralleled by a wood and wire fence, climbs the ridge from the ranch buildings to the fog-shrouded highlands. Rancher Wheelwright had to reseed the brush-covered hills with New Zealand grass before the land would sustain his herd of prize Hereford cattle.

LAND'S END — Wheelwright's gift includes about one-half mile of rugged Pacific coastline south of Muir Beach. The Conservancy hopes to deed part of this land to the state park system and is negotiating with owners of other nearby ranches for possible purchase or donation. San Francisco looms across the Golden Gate at top of photo.

Blind, Their Dogs To Be Graduated

Thirteen men and women at Guide Dogs for the Blind will graduate with their new dogs tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. during an informal ceremony at the San Rafael school at 350 Los Ranchitos Road.

Among the graduates are Mary Slusher of San Leandro and Joseph Mitchell of Campbell. They will receive their dogs from Bay Area 4-H members Andrea Moore and Cheryl Rader of San Jose, Kim Haylock of Santa Rosa, Chris Townsend of Alamo and Carrie Ross of Napa. They raised the dogs for the school as part of a 4-H project.

Diabetes, Heart Clubs Sponsor Unit

The Independent-Journal erred Tuesday in reporting that a mobile blood testing unit, open to Marin residents every Saturday in March and April, would be sponsored jointly by the Marin Tuberculosis Association and the Marin Heart Association.

The mobile clinic will be sponsored by the newly formed Marin Diabetes Association and the Heart Association.

The Marin Diabetes Association was formed this month as a unit of the Northern California Diabetes Association. Officers include Sandra Glazunova of Greenbrae, chairman; William Chamber of Corte Madera, chairman elect; Elvas D. Regalia of San Rafael, vice chairman; Margaret Woodward of Novato, treasurer; Annette Statt of Mill Valley, corresponding secretary; Mickey Pedersen of Fairfax, recording secretary.

The association will conduct public lectures on diabetes detection the second Tuesday of each month beginning March 9 at 8 p.m. at the Bank of Marin in the Northgate Industrial Park area, Terra Linda.

Sinatra Will Be Among Four To Be Honored

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Board of Governors of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has voted to give honorary awards to Ingmar Bergman, Frank Sinatra, Lilian Gish and Orson Welles, it was announced today.

Bergman, renowned Swedish director-producer-writer, was voted the Irving G. Thalberg memorial award presented to "creative producers whose records reflect a consistent high quality of motion picture production."

Sinatra was voted the Jean Hersholt humanitarian award, given to "an individual in the motion picture industry whose humanitarian efforts have brought credit to the industry."

Miss Gish and Welles will be given honorary awards "for superlative and distinguished service in the making of motion pictures."

The awards will be presented at the 43rd annual Oscar ceremonies April 15.

Drive Launched To Save Land In Old Adobe Area

By BONNIE BARD

Petalumans are circulating petitions in the hope of saving land near Gen. Vallejo's historical Old Adobe from future development,

Another aim of the drive, according to its coordinator, Ross S. Smith of the Old Adobe Fiesta Association, is to convince government officials to begin planning to preserve open space in the Petaluma area.

Smith's group annually sponsors a fiesta at the Old Adobe, a state historical site.

He is concerned over plans by the owner of land across the street from the Adobe to sell the property to a New York syndicate for future commercial or residential development. Smith's group uses the private property for game and food booths during its annual fiesta.

The adobe was once the center of a 66,000-acre ranch operated in the early 19th century. Gen. Mariano Vallejo, its proprietor, was the Mexican military commander.

Smith claimed the state had once intended to buy the 58 acres across the street but never did.

The property owner, Glenn Allen, a retired Dow Chemical executive living in Walnut Creek, is preparing to sell the tract to a New York syndicate. Smith said Allen has been unwilling to sell only a piece of the property but has said he'd give first purchase opportunity of all the land to a public agency. However, Allen has stipulated, the New York offer of $4,000 per acre must be matched by any prospective buyer. Believing that only a strip of land would be necessary as a buffer for the adobe, Smith said, the association tried to convince Allen to donate the land.

"He said the land was too valuable to give away," Smith said. The owner also reportedly balked at the association's offer to buy a six-acre corner parcel at Old Adobe and Casa Grande roads, saying it would lessen the value of the remaining acres.

"I have a real strong feeling for this property and hate to see subdivisions surround the historical site," Smith said.

While the association is basically concerned with only the corner property, many members feel the problem goes deeper. They feel that if Petaluma or the county of Sonoma is to preserve land for green belts, it should begin immediately.

City officials have scoffed at East Petaluman fears of the growth of subdivisions in the region because there are currently no sewer or water lines.

Petitioners will work throughout the weekend in a door-to-door effort and from tables set up at businesses with the goal of collecting 10,000 signatures.

Smith said the petitions would be forwarded to the city council, Sonoma County Board of Supervisors and the Legislature.

Because Allen hopes to complete the land sale in a matter of weeks, the organization must work quickly and hope for an almost immediate government response, Smith said.

He said that Supervisor Philip L. Joerger of Petaluma and Sonoma County Parks Director Joseph Rodola have told him that $200,000 in county funds has been set aside for a park in Southern Sonoma. "The money is available — all we have to do is shake the right people loose with it," he said.

Smith, a Standard Oil Co. employee, hoped, however, the property could be purchased under a joint effort by various levels of government.

Saying it's time for Petaluma to plan now to preserve open space, Smith explained, "at the moment, Petaluma is in the same position that San Jose was 15 years ago. They've gone every which way with no real planning."

Smith predicted strong citizen response to the petition drive. We've already gotten a lot of response — especially from East Petaluma being as crowded as it is. They don't have a decent park and need huge trees and a place to picnic," he said.

Coalition To Sponsor Rock Event

A student group, the Marin Peace Coalition, will sponsor a rock concert at the College of Marin gymnasium from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday, according to Bryan Gaddy, chairman.

Performers will include such groups as Clover, A. B. Sky, Ofoedian Den as well as Pamela Poland and David Hayes.

The coalition group was given permission to hold the concert, the first public rock concert at the college since a disastrous one in August 1969, earlier this month by the college trustees.

The trustees approved the concert, however, on the condition that a certain number of faculty agreed to be present and that proceeds be impounded until after the concert.

At the 1969 concert young people did $800 damage to the gym and the county grand jury blasted the college for allowing the affair.

The peace group has announced plans to use proceeds for a prison reform project.

Policewomen Get The Boot In London

LONDON (UPI)—Metropolitan police officials announced that policewomen in London can wear boots with their uniforms —but they will have to buy them themselves.

Black is the only permitted color under the new regulations, and the boots must be of plain or imitation leather, have flat heels, zippers and be below knee length without decoration.

They can only be worn between Oct. 1 and April 30.

GIVING IT A RIDE — Jack Nicklaus used all his strength to drive the ball to the 18th hole yesterday during the first round of the PGA championship at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. The Ohio strong boy shot a 69, giving him the lead by one stroke. (UPI Telephoto)

'Serious' Jack Nicklaus First Round PGA Leader

More Golf, Less Flying; A Poor Start For Arnie

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, out front by one stroke in his bid to grab off golf's first major 1971 prize —the PGA championship, explained today why he is playing golf with renewed zeal to be the best.

"I just got tired of playing badly," said the blond, 31-year-old Nicklaus after shooting a first-round 3-under-par 69 that put him a stroke ahead of his three nearest rivals in the field of 146.

"In 1968 and '69, I wasn't trying or working as hard as I could have," Nicklaus admitted. "I got tired of the way I was playing, and I decided to work more and concentrate more. I have been working harder than ever in 1970 and '71."

Among the things Nicklaus did to concentrate on his game was to get rid of the airplane that he rented a la Arnold Palmer, who still has his own jet plane to flit around the country on his many business activities.

"I found that the plane was forcing me to do several things I didn't want to do in order to justify having it," Nicklaus said. "They were business things, but I suddenly realized they were forcing me to spend about 30 days a year doing things I didn't want to do. In the end, the plane would have ruined my golf game —so I got rid of it."

Nicklaus was all business as he took command in Thursday's first round of the PGA, standing even with par after 11 holes and then birdying three of the next four holes for his final 3-under-par 35-34.

One stroke behind him at 2-under-par 70 were three Bobs —Goalby, the former Masters champion; Charles, the New Zealander rated the world's best lefthanded player; and Mitchell, a dark-horse from Danville, Va.

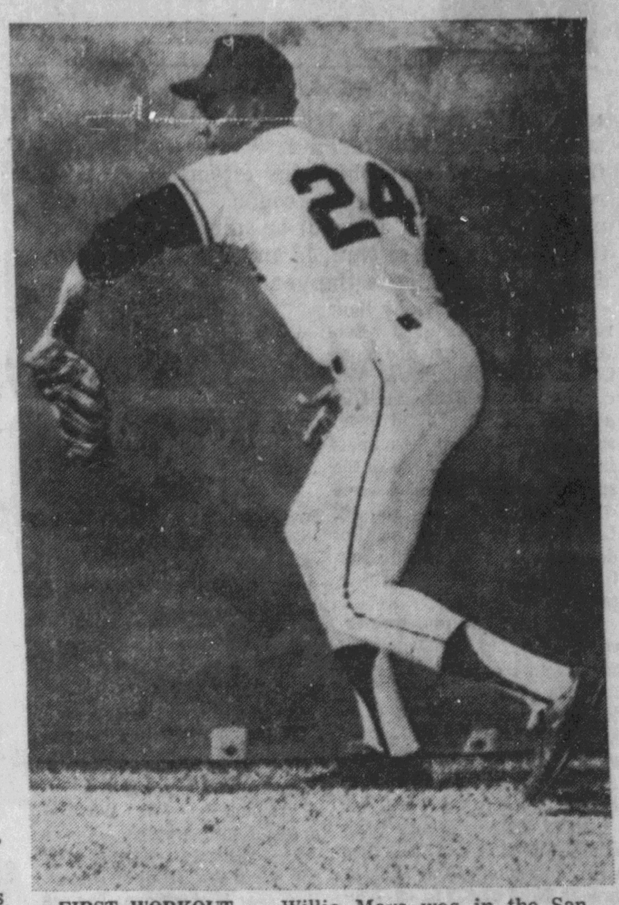
U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin of England, Masters champion Billy Casper, South African Gary Player, 58-year-old Slammin' Sammy Snead, and 50-year-old Julius Boros were among 12 players in a tie at 1-under-par 71. Another 16 players were tied at par 72.

way back at 75 was Arnold Palmer, almost certain to be thwarted again in his quest for the one major championship that has escaped him. Palmer shot a 40-35, including a double bogey six on the ninth hole. He missed a five-foot putt by eight inches, stabbed at it for the tap-in, and missed that, too.

"It was plain ridiculous," Palmer admitted.

The first round had all kinds of weather, and the weather promised to be an important factor every day. Of the four top scorers, all but Charles played Thursday morning when the weather was hot but calm. In the afternoon the winds blew hard, and the day wound up with a thunderstorm that soaked Palmer on the last two holes.

Nicklaus, Goalby, and Mitchell were to play in the afternoon Friday, along with all the other Thursday morning players, while the other half switched to the morning. The field will be cut to the low 70 and ties after today's round.



FIRST WORKOUT — Willie Mays was in the San Francisco Giants' spring training camp at Casa Grande, Ariz., yesterday and worked out, although he still hasn't signed a contract. (UPI Telephoto)

Have Toe, Will Travel, Says Gordon Tovani

Marvelous Marin County — which has gained wide-spread publicity for such violence as mass killings, frightening kidnappings and a broad named Angela — is finally receiving some favorable ink around the country, at least in sporting journals.

This, thanks to the enthusiastic efforts of Gordon Tovani of San Rafael, the self-styled "World's Greatest Bare-Footed Place-Kicker" and "Dean of American Place-Kicking Coaches." He's really not that modest, but that's what his business card says, along with, "Have Toe — Will Travel — Phone Tovani."

Anyway, Tovani in recent weeks has received a lot of type from such august media as United Press International and Sports Illustrated magazine.

They have extolled the virtues of the Tovani Invitational Place Kicking Tournament held annually for high school gridders throughout Northern California. This year's boot camp is scheduled May 22 at Novato high school.

I won't go into much detail of the stories because I published most of the stuff some time ago. That is, that Marin County high school boys last season had a better field goal per centage than the college and pro booters and a better point-after-touchdown pct. than the collegians. All this, boasts Tovani, attributable to his kicking clinic.

As a result of all the publicity, Tovani has received inquiries from such exotic places as Marblehead, Mass., Casper, Wyo., Texas, Illinois and Denver. Rather than invite these kids and coaches to such a faraway land as Novato, Tovani obligingly has sent them a booklet on the fine art of kicking which he has published. He gets a kick out of helping improve the game.

As a foot note, Tovani recently had an organizational meeting for his May 22 tournament and invited Steve Horowitz of Stanford and Randy Wersching of Cal to sit in as advisors. Both are school record holders and although they have kicked against each other in the last three Big Games, this was the first time they had ever been formally introduced.

P.S. Another fan of the Tovani Tourney is Dr. Harry Hensler of San Anselmo, who told me the other day: "I have always been extremely interested in the kicking game; drop kicking in my days of playing and coaching has been replaced nicely with the place kick."

HERE'S A coincidental note for the Marin sports record book: Ken Blue, who coached football at Drake High School in the early 1950s, has been named assistant coach at the University of Kansas after being dropped by the St. Louis Cardinals' coaching staff of the National Football League.

AND, THE two times that Novato and Marin Catholic high schools met on the basketball courts this season there was a lot of heckling going on between two proud pops on opposite sides — Dick Stone (rooting for Marin Catholic) and Joe DeMaestri Sr. (for Novato). That's because their sons, Tim and Dennis Stone and Joe DeMaestri Jr. were rivals. Their dads were teammates at Tam High School back in the early 1940s.

Czech Skater Is Champ

LYON, France (UPI)—Onderj Nepela of Czechoslovakia, the world's champion, set his sights today on next year's Winter Olympics in Japan and said he would also like to skate in the United States.

The 20 year-old Bratislava law student won the world title at the Sports Palace Thursday night by skating a flawless performance against his nearest rival, Patrick Pera of France.

Nepela was second two years running to retired world champion Tim Wood of Detroit.

He went into the final and clinching free skating event only eight-tenths of a point ahead of the 22-year-old Pera. But Pera, skating immediately in front of him, blew his chances for the title with a fall and a slip.

The best American result was North American champion John Misha Petkevich of Grand Falls, Mont., who finished fifth overall and fourth in the final free-skating.

Apart from Pera, Nepela outdistanced all his rivals in the preliminary figure skating events which count for 50 per cent of the point total.

At an impromptu news conference, the fair-haired Nepela —who won the European title at Zurich earlier this month —said he was not thinking beyond the Winter Olympics at Sapporo.

But, he said, he would like to visit the United States —and to see Wood, now a professional, skate again, as well as skate himself.

"Tim is a great skater. He kept me out of the world title last year and the year before," Nepela said.

Kenneth Shelley of Downey, Calif., who brought the crowd to its feet the night before after his performance with Jo Jo Starbuck for a third place in the world pairs, finished only eighth in the world individual rankings. He finished fifth in the free skating.

Gordon McKellen Jr., of Lake Placid, N.Y., wound up ninth in the overall world standings. His earlier figure skating pulled him up from the 10th place he earned Thursday night.

ATHLETICS' SLUGGER

A Happy Jackson Signs

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—Reggie Jackson doesn't want to talk about last year. The Oakland Athletics' star rightfielder is only thinking about this year.

Jackson, who signed his contract Thursday for a reported $50,000 and a rent-free apartment, said his dismal year in 1970 was all in the past.

"The important thing is that now I'm happy, Mr. Finley (the Athletics' owner) is happy, everybody is happy," Jackson said. "I'm looking forward to a great 1971 for the A's and myself."

Jackson, who hit 47 homers and drove in 118 runs in 1969, slumped to 23 homers and 65 rbi's last season while playing part time.

Jackson and A's owner Charlie Finley feuded throughout the 1970 season, but it was believed Finley gave Jackson a token raise over the $45,000 plus rent he received last year.

Jackson held out last spring for five weeks before finally agreeing to terms. The missed practice took him into the season far from ready to play.

After Jackson was benched, he and Finley got into some hot exchanges. Jackson maintained Finley had ordered his benching, and manager John McNamara all but admitted the A's owner was behind it after he was fired at the end of the season.

Jackson played in the Puerto Rican Winter League and hit 20 homers. He joined his teammates at spring training camp after agreeing to terms in a telephone call to Finley.

Big Ski Day On Tap At Heavenly Valley

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI)—It's going to be a busy day in the World Cup skiing competition at Heavenly Valley today.

On tap are the women's one run giant slalom and the first run of the men's giant slalom.

After two days of competition Barbara Cochran of Richmond, Vt., and Gustavo Thoeni of Italy, both 20-year-old stars, have been the whole show.

Miss Cochran won the women's slalom on Wednesday and Thoeni took the men's slalom Thursday. While Miss Cochran is not in the running for the women's World Cup title, Thoeni is the front runner in the men's competition.

Miss Cochran's victory Wednesday moved her up to ninth place on the women's list, which is topped by Annamarie Proell of Austria, who needs only two more points to clinch the 1971 title. She has 131 points and can win the title here by finishing third in the giant slalom.

Thoeni picked up five points for his slalom victory Thursday and now has 145. Closest to him are Patrick Russel and Henri Duvillard of France with 125 each. Neither picked up a point in the slalom Thursday, Duvillard finishing fifth and Russel falling in the second run.

Thoeni won both runs of the slalom, taking the first through 55 gates in 48.83 seconds and the second, through 65 gates, in 56.06 for a combined overall time of 1:44.89.

Second was Christian Neureuther of West Germany with runs of 49.90 and 56.66 for 1:46.56, while third was Tyler Palmer of Kearsarge, N.H., who had runs of 50.18 and 56.44.

Seals Host Black Hawks; Vadnais Out

OAKLAND (UPI)—The California Seals can't win for losing in the National Hockey League. If opposing players aren't slipping shots into the Seals' goal, the injury bug is putting key players on the sidelines.

The Seals, who are currently bogged down in last place of the NHL West division, meet the Chicago Black Hawks tonight in the Oakland Coliseum arena.

Carol Vadnais, the Seals' big defenseman who just returned to action after being out 18 games, is in the hospital in traction for torn ligaments in his right knee.

Vadnais was injured Wednesday night against Montreal in the final minute of play. He isn't expected to return to action this season.

The Seals have a 5-2 home court victory over the Black Hawks, the West Divsion runaway leaders.

UOP Quintet Rolls On; Santa Clara Wins, Too

By United Press International

Everybody knows University of Pacific is the best team in the West Coast Athletic Conference—that is, everybody but Loyola and Santa Clara.

UOP is one of the Coast's top teams. After an impressive 68-63 win at Pepperdine Thursday, they are 10-2 for the season and 19-5 for the year. Nobody else in the conference can match that season's record.

But Loyola and Santa Clara won't fold.

Loyola, which hosts UOP Saturday is 9-3 and 14-9 for the season after disposing of St. Mary's 95-77. Jim Haderlein hit 27 to run his career WCAC total to 867, three short of the league mark held by Keith Swagerty of UOP.

Santa Clara is only a lowly 11-13 for the season. But they hang tough in the WCAC at 8-4 and took Nevada 99-85 Thursday with Mart Peterson scoring 22 and big center Mike Stewart 19.

In other Coast action, Westmont ended its season with a 19-7 record by dumping Cal Lutheran 96-66 and Nevada Las Vegas went into overtime to take USF 89-82 as Booker Washington hit 30 for the winners.

Pacific Eight action resumes tonight with Oregon at California and Oregon State at Stanford.

Court Asked To Review Clay's Case

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Supreme Court was asked in a draft brief filed by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund Thursday to review Cassius Clay's claim that he is a conscientious objector and to determine whether erroneous information was responsible for his conviction on the charge of draft evasion.

The brief questioned whether Clay's constitutional rights to freedom of religion had been infringed upon because he followed "the unorthodox and unpopular teaching of the Lost Found Nation of Islam" (the Muslims).

The brief also alleged that the Justice Department played a dual role in the case, pointing out that it "was conducting FBI investigations and systematic illegal wiretaps of Muslim leaders becaue the Department considered them a threat to the internal security of the country" while also being asked to determine whether Clay's religious beliefs and refusal to enter the Army were sincere.

Clay was stripped of the heavyweight title and banned from boxing in 1967 when he refused to go into the Army on the grounds that he was a conscientious objector and a Black Muslim minister.

A Federal District Court ordered last year that he be allowed to fight in New York State.

Replaces Stanfel

10-YEAR PACT?

Mays And Giants Five Years Apart

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —The San Francisco Giants and Willie Mays are five years apart on the baseball superstar's 1971 contract negotiations.

For the first time in his career, Mays, 39, came to spring training camp Thursday with his signature missing on his contract.

Mays came to camp to "get in a little work" and to set the record straight on what he is asking for his services this year. He cleared things up by telling a news conference that he wants a 10-year contract at $75,000 a year.

But the Giants want to cut five years off what Mays is asking.

"The Board of Directors has authorized me to offer Willie a five-year contract at $75,000 per year and also informed me that the 10-year term is out of the question," Horace Stoneham, principal owner of the Giants, said.

Mays countered that he thinks he can play three or four more years, and then wants to stay with the Giants as a coach or a public relations man.

"I feel that at my age it is important for me to find out right now how I stand," Mays said.

Mays finished a two-year $125,000 per contract with the 1970 season and there were reports he was asking for $180,000 or thereabouts, which would make him the highest salaried player in the game.

But Mays said stories that he was asking for $180,000 were outrageous.

Patriots Name General Manager

BOSTON (UPI)—The Bay State Patriots today named Upton Bell, son of former National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell, as the club's new general manager.

Bell, 33, formerly served as director of player personnel for the Baltimore Colts. He was named to succeed George Sauer less than 24 hours after Saver's resignation was announced.

A team spokesman said further details on Bell's appointment would be made at an afternoon news conference when he would be introduced to local sports writers.

Club President Bill Sullivan announced the change Thursday, saying Sauer had stepped down and would become a full-time scout in the Southwest.

New Rules For Year Around Fishing

By AL GIDDINGS

Most lakes and reservoirs throughout California will be open to trout and salmon fishing starting Monday, March 1, when the 1971 sport fishing regulations become effective, and will remain open the year around. The new rules provide a limit of 10 trout or salmon in combination from May 1 to Nov. 15 and a limit of five fish during the balance of the year.

Exceptions to this new limit rule are the lakes and reservoirs in Alpine, Inyo and Mono Counties and the Lassen Volcanic National Park area. Other exceptions are listed under special closures in the sport fishing regulations. Note in the special regulations and closures that Lagunitas Lake, Phoenix Lake, Bon Tempe Lake and Rodeo Lagoon, all in Marin County, now have a limit of five trout the year around.

All the other lakes and reservoirs in Marin Co. have a limit of 10 trout from May 1 to Nov. 15, then a limit of five trout during the balance of the year. Kent Lake and Alpine Dam would have the 10 fish limit from May 1 to Nov. 15 under this regulation.

LAKES AND reservoirs in Alpine, Inyo and Mono Counties will be open from May 1 through Nov. 15. This schedule also applies to the streams in these counties. All streams in southern California and the west slope of the Sierra as far north as Tuloumne County, with the exception of the Kern River drainage above Democrat Dam, will remain open all year with a five fish winter limit and 10 fish during the balance of the year.

Open season for trout and salmon in Northern California streams is May 1 through Nov. 15, except for the northwest counties which will open May 29. (Parts of Lake, Mendocino and Trinity and the whole of Del Norte and Humbolt counties). The new 1971 California Sport Fishing Regulations are out, and can be picked up at most sporting goods stores.

Salmon fishing was still going good through this week. On Monday, the Marion with 10 anglers aboard had limits, and the Salmon Queen had near limits. They were the only party boats out. On Tuesday, the winds kept the boats in! The fish are there; it's strictly a matter of wind or no wind.

SAN PABLO Bay is beginning to come to life! At least that seems to be indicated by a few more stripers being taken each day, unless, of course, the winds are bad here too. Larry Naydale of Santa Venetia caught his first bass, an 18-pounder this past week. John and Til Giordano of San Francisco took five fish from 12 to 20 pounds last Sunday (a report I received late).

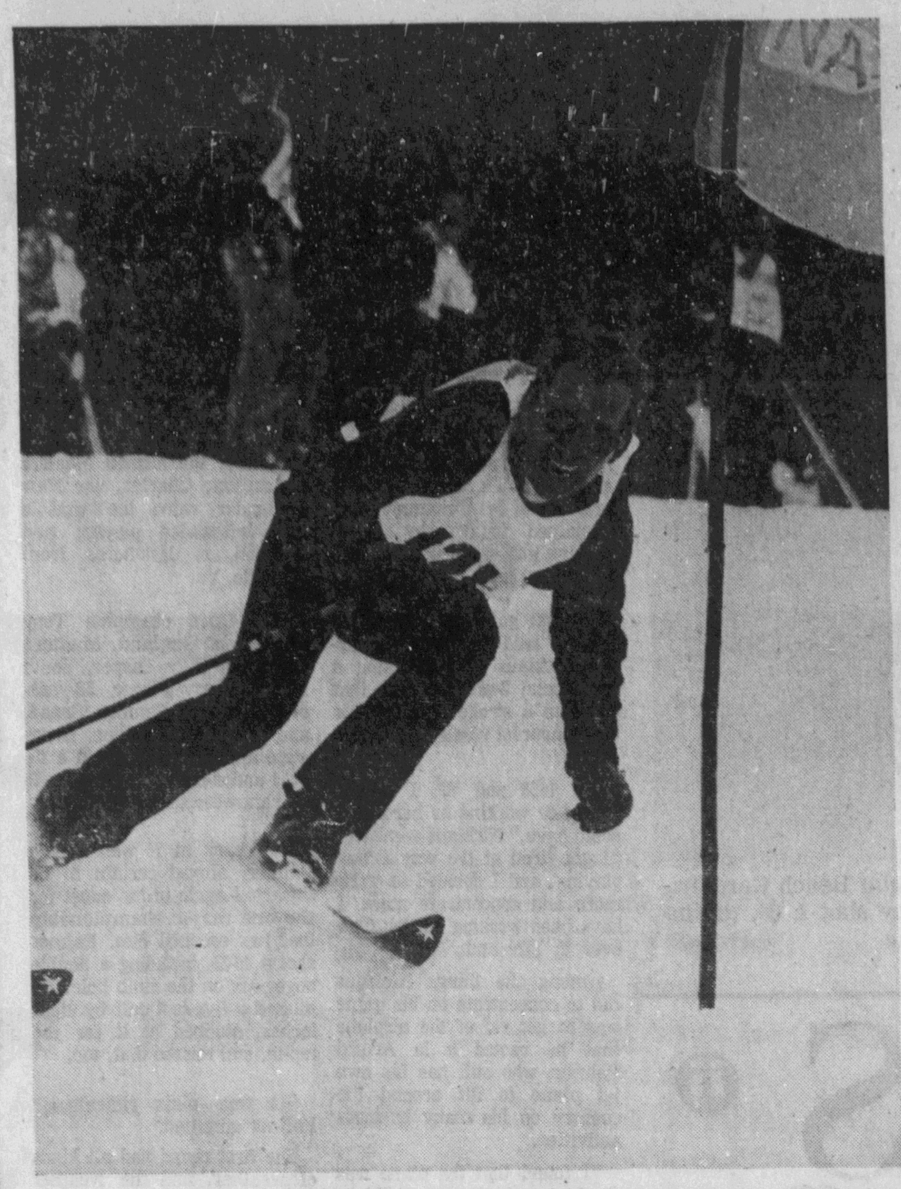
Steelhead fishing is slow at both Walker and Papermill Creek tidewaters. There are some fish in Tomales Bay — a rain should bring some improvement to the tidewater areas of both streams.

Last Tuesday I counted about 300 Black Sea Brant in Tomales Bay near Nick's Cove. The season closed last Sunday for the hunters, but for you bird watchers, they are a pretty sight to see!

Perch fishing Tomales Bay off Millerton Pt. and Tomasini Point is still good. Three stripers were picked up this past week off Shell Beach at the Tomales Bay State Park. Two, both eight pounders were taken on lures; one was taken on bait.

GAME VIOLATORS paid $508,738 in fines last year in California. The fines are divided evenly between the state's Fish and Game Preservation Fund and the county in which the violation occurs. Wardens arrested 15,888 persons during the year. The No. one violation was angling without a license. A total of 6,599 unlicensed anglers were cited. Possession of a loaded firearm in a vehicle was the No. two violation with 1,381 persons cited. Angling with more than one line was the No. three violation with 1,095 persons cited.

The courts revoked seven hunting licenses and three sport fishing licenses and suspended seven hunting licenses and five fishing licenses. Violators also served 1,581 days in jail.



MARIN SILVER MEDALWINNERS IN THE SNOW COUNTRY

Beban Signs With Broncos

The 6 foot 1, 195-pound athlete, who last year played out his option with the Washington Redskins, will be one of five players trying out at the quarterback spot for Denver this year.

He will be competing for the quarterback job against former Green Bay Packer Don Horn; Denver holdovers Pete Liske and Alan Pastrana; and Craig Blackford, a 1971 draft choice from Evansville.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

There are some nights when you are sure that the biggest mistake you made was driving over to the bowling center. Nothing goes right. Even the best bowlers have such disasters, when it seems that all coordination is lost. The nearest thing that I can offer as a solution is to slow your approach and try to make every shot picture-perfect.

A Possibility Of 18-Foot Vault

NEW YORK (UPI)—An 18-foot pole vault? It could happen tonight in the National AAU Championships at Madison Square Garden where an awesome array of vaulters has been assembled for an assault on the untouched 18-foot mark.

Olympic gold medalist Bob Seagren, Sweden's Kjell Isaksson, the current world record holder at 17-7 3-4, Alabama's Jan Johnson, last year's NCAA outdoor champ, and a former AAU winner Dick Railsback all are entered in the championship field.

While the pole vault figures to command a major share of attention, nearly all the running events are sprinkled with Olympians and-or various record holders.

Boston Bruins Explode - 3 Goals In 20 Seconds

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilson had held Boston to a 2-2 tie past the four minute mark of the final period. Twenty seconds later, the Bruins led 5-2 en route to an 8-3 triumph and a 19-year-old National Hockey League record had been wiped from the record books.

Johnny Bucyk, who collected a three-goal hat trick to reach the 40-goal plateau, started the record spurt when he beat Wilson at 4:50 on a power play goal. Ed Westfall needed only 12 seconds more to score his 20th goal of the season and only eight more seconds elapsed when Ted Green fired the puck past Wilson from in close to touch off a standing ovation.

The three goals in 20 seconds broke the mark set by Chicago's Bill Monsienko, who personally scored three goals against New York in a 21-second span in 1952.

Auto Racing

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—Three-time Indianapolis winner A.J. Foyt has the pole position for the richest stock car race in history.

The USAC veteran from Houston piloted his 1969 Mercury around the Ontario Motor Speedway's 2.5-mile, low-banked oval Thursday at 151.711 miles per hour in the first qualifying session for Sunday's $207,675 Miller High Life 500.

Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., driving '71 Dodge, was second at 150,097 as the first 20 qualifying spots were filled. Twenty more were scheduled to be grabbed today with the field of 51 to be completed Saturday.

RAFAELA, Argentina (UPI)—Bobby Unser's headaches today weren't qualifying for Sunday's $75,000 300-mile Indianapolis-type race. He's already done that. They mostly centered on keeping Argentine race fans from swarming over his expensive Eagle-Offenhauser in this land where an ordinary Volkswagen costs almost $6,000.

Tennis

MACON, Ga. (UPI)—Top - seeded foreigner Ilie Nastase of Rumania, playing in polka-dot shorty pajamas, advanced to the quarterfinals of the Macon International Tennis Tournament Thursday along with top-seeded American Clark Graebner of New York.

Treating his match as a lark, Nastase defeated fellow countryman Ion Tiriac 7-6, 6-1 in a relaxed contest in which both men traded quips with spectators.

Graebner beat Juan Gisbert of Spain 7-5, 4-6, 6-2 in a later match Thursday night to send seven of eight seeded players into Friday's quarterfinals.

The only seeded casualty was Jim McManus, Berkeley, Calif., No. 8, who withdrew after spraining an ankle.

Football

ATLANTA (UPI)—Dick Bestwick has no illusions about the head football coaching job he accepted at Marshall College in West Virginia.

He is leaving the freshman coaching post at Georgia Tech to move to a school which lost its entire varsity team and head coach in a tragic airplane crash last November.

Former Tamalpais High School Star Terry Moor, with two startling upsets behind him, takes the court today to face top-seeded Roscoe Tanner of Stanford in the third round of the Northern California Intercollegiate tennis championships at Stanford.

Moor, a freshman at San Jose State, scored three-set upset wins over Stanford senior Rick Evans in the first round and fifth-seeded Steve Stefanki of the University of California yesterday, and is the only unseeded player left in the competition.

Marin Golfer Gets First Hole-In-One

Ali's 'Spy' Fired By Durham

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A spy for Muhammad Ali has been uncovered in Joe Frazier's training camp.

Frazier's trainer, Yank Durham, disclosed Thursday night he has fired Frazier's sparring partner of four years—Don Warner—for sending Ali periodic reports on the champion's progress in training for their March 8 title bout at New York's Madison Square Garden.

"I've been suspicious of Warner for two weeks now," Durham said. "For some time I have been dissatisfied with his presence in camp."

Warner's dismissal left Durham's stable of boxers seriously short with just 10 days of training remaining before the title bout, with only two sparring partners left.

Ali, who is training in Miami Beach, had been bragging that he gets "a phone call every night" from the Frazier camp, telling what the champ is doing.

Warriors Rest, Savor Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors get another day of rest today before meeting the Los Angeles Lakers Saturday in the Cow Palace.

The rest is needed, even though the Warriors are savoring a come-from-behind 117-115 win over the Detroit Pistons Wednesday as center Nate Thurmond had one of the best games of his career.

Thurmond dumped in 43 points—a record high for him—and held opposing centers Otto Moore and Bob Lanier to a combined 17 points.

"I started talking with Jerry Lucas (before the game)," Thurmond said, and I was telling him how all my career I wanted to have a 50-point game. And he said he wanted one too, but now we were both too old to do it."

Yosemite Fishing Starts March 1

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) —Fishing season will open in Yosemite National Park March 1 and remain open year around, park officials said today.

Superintendent Wayne Cone said the park is adopting the California sport fishing regulations to bring fishing in the park in conformance with the policy of the California State Department of Fish and Game.

Cone said the new policy would permit a longer period of fishing to avoid all fishing pressure being squeezed into the summer months.

However, he said park officers would be monitoring resources to determine if the longer season will have an adverse affect on park fisheries.

New Cards' Coach

BIG RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Ferris State lost a head football coach Thursday and the St. Louis Cardinals gained a defensive line coach when Bob Leach signed on with the National Football League club.

Woman Coach Turned Down

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) —"It'd be a lot more effective to have someone walk up to the player, put an arm around him, and say, 'honey, do it this way' —that'd get better results than cursing."

That's how Mrs. Nila Gilcrest, a 31-year-old mother of two, says she'll handle dejected players when she becomes an assistant football coach.

She still was looking for a job today after Idaho State University turned down her application to take a gridiron job at a token dollar a year.

"I appreciate Mrs. Gilcrest's interest in the football program, and I sympathize with the women's liberation movement, but I have decided to stick with tradition and hire a male to fill the coaching spot," said Athletic Director Dubby Holt in announcing her rejection Thursday.

Sharp Escalation In Laos Battles

SAIGON (UPI)—The commander of South Vietnamese troops in Laos said today his men had counterattacked Hill 31 and were fighting at close quarters in a battle for the Ho Chi Minh Trail. Two other bases in Laos came under heavy attack and a third was abandoned, along with its defense weapons.

Hill 31 fell Thursday to a ground assault by Communist forces who overwhelmed the 450-man defense garrison in the second such loss of the three-week-old Laos campaign. Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, the ARVN commander in Laos, reported the counterattack today.

U.S. artillery and air units pounded the North Vietnamese units on the slopes of the hill and AH1 Cobra helicopter gunships for the first time in the Laos campaign were using heat-seeking missiles to knock out the Communist tanks.

A column from the South Vietnamese 1st Armored Brigade was reported moving northward from Route 9 through difficult and enemy infested terrain to give added fire support to the beleaguered troops at both Hill 30 and nearby Hill 31. U.S. military sources said the column commander refused to move into the area Wednesday on grounds he lacked sufficient air support.

The base abandoned today was Landing Zone Ranger South, about 1,200 yards from Landing Zone Ranger North which was overrun last Sunday with the loss of most of its 450 defenders. Helicopter pilots who flew out the rangers said they threw aside their 82mm mortars and recoilless rifles as they fled. U.S. planes tried later to destroy the weapons.

Both bases are in the Hills 30 and 31 sector and military sources in Saigon said their loss left only two South Vietnamese bases in Laos north of Route 9, the main artery of the ARVN incursion into Laos.

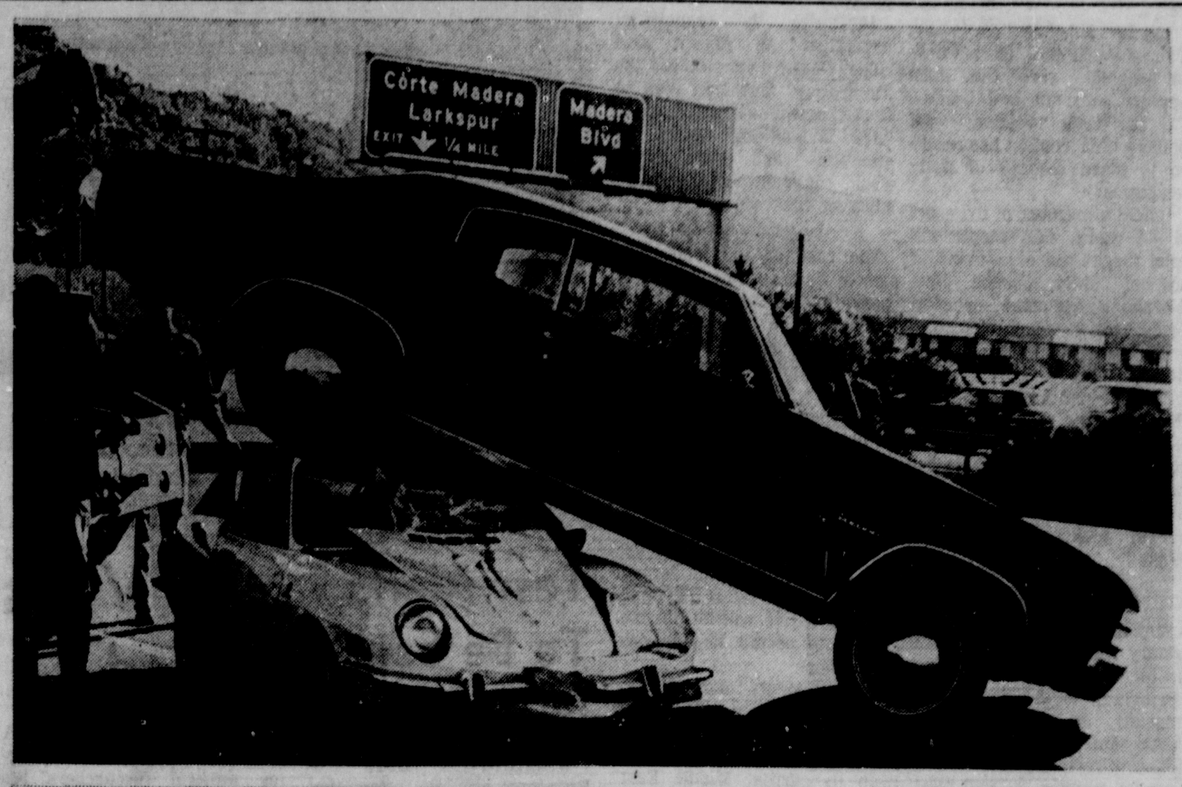
Spokesmen said fighting also broke out at two other ARVN bases —at Hotel 2, south of Route 9, which was under intense shell fire, and at A Luoi, on Highway 9, 15 miles inside Laos. The military said it was taking shell fire but was not thought in imminent danger of ground attack. Each of the bases is manned by about one battalion of men.

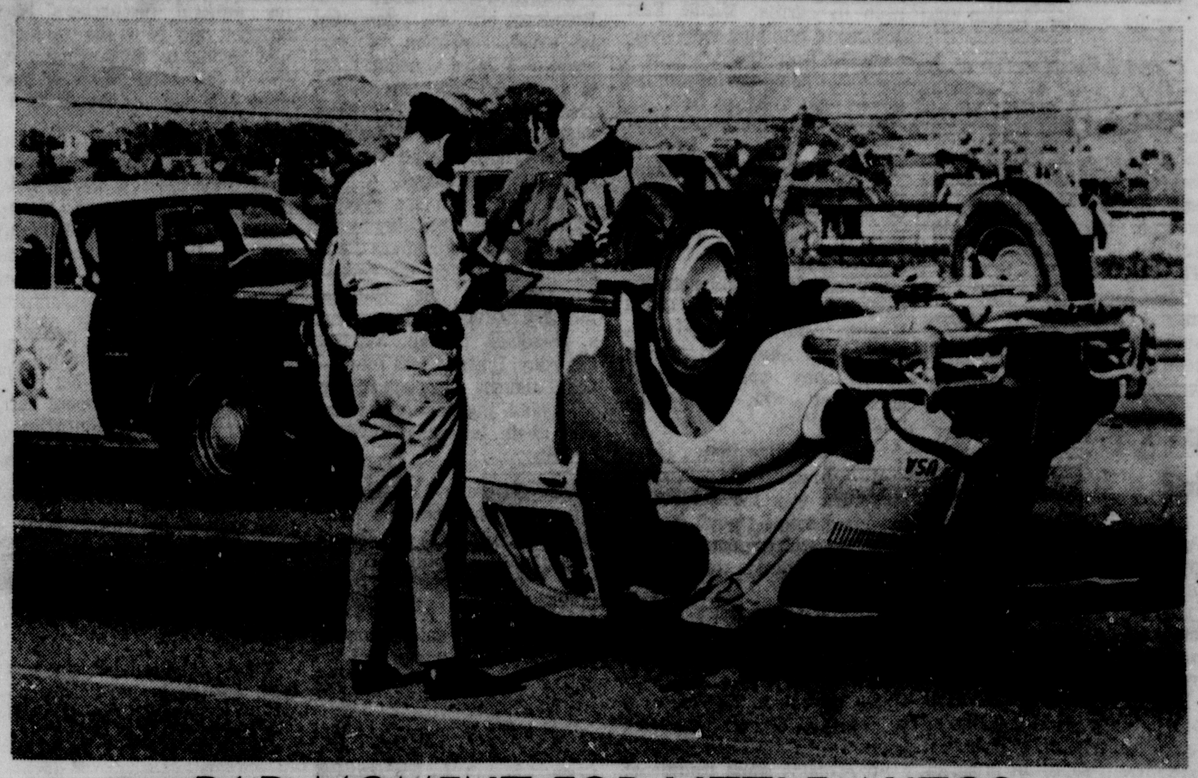
Khe Sanh dispatches tonight said a South Vietnamese paratrooper battalion was withdrawn from along the border to Khe Sanh, 12 miles inside South Vienam, and then flown into Laos aboard helicopters. Destination of the reinforcements was not known.

A U.S. military spokesman also announced that more American helicopters were brought into the region today to provide additional fire power, troop lift, medical evacuation and logistic support for the South Vietnamese.

The United States committed 300 helicopters to the battle originally but the Command said 30 had been destroyed. Front dispatches have estimated dozens more have been put out of action through enemy shelling, gunfire or crashes in Laos and Vietnam.

Military sources in Laos said the armored relief column moved out Thursday from the border for the six-mile trip into the Hill 31 area but apparently had not yet reached there because there are no roads and because the jungle trails are heavily mined.





BAD MOMENT FOR LITTLE AUTOS

Two small foreign cars took a beating on Highway 101 yesterday, but the occupants escaped with minor injuries in accidents which happened several miles apart but both at 3:25 p.m. In the top photo, a Fiat driven by Peggy W. Boon, 44, of 1449 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, was flattened under the American sedan driven by Harold J. Meier, 51, of Sioux City, Iowa, after a rear end collision north of the Corte Madera exit. Both drivers said they would see their own doctors for scrapes and cuts. In the bottom photo, a Volkswagen driven by Elizabeth M. Harper, 19, of 141 Jeffrey Drive, Petaluma, rests upside down after flipping over near the Marin City exit. Her passenger, Stephanie M. Gillham, 2, of the same address, was reported in good condition today at Letterman General Hospital with cuts on her right arm.

California Army Draftee Hijacks Jet To Vancouver

19-Year-Old First Orders Plane To Cuba; Described As Very Calm

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—A "calm and well-mannered" U.S. Army draftee, on his way to basic training, hijacked a Western Airlines jet Thursday and forced it to fly to Canada.

Chapin J. Paterson, 19, of Shingle Springs, Calif., gave himself up to Royal Canadian Mounted Police after the Boeing 737 touched down at Vancouver International Airport. The flight had originated in San Francisco.

The hijacker, who first ordered the plane flown to Cuba, was one of 69 Army inductees among the 92 passengers on the plane, which was en route to Seattle.

Stewardess Susan Methoen, 22, San Francisco, said the youth approached her carrying a satchel while the plane was over central Oregon and "said he had a bomb aboard. He said he wanted to talk to the pilot but I told him he couldn't. Then he told me to tell them (the pilots) about it and I did."

"He had a brown paper bag tucked under his arm like a football," the still-shaken stewardess said.

Pilot Bruce Despain ordered the crew to let Paterson into the cockpit to prevent him making trouble.

He said the hijacker told him he had "tried the C. O. (conscientious objector) route and had been turned down. He said the hijacking was something he just had to do."

The hijacker told the captain he wanted the plane diverted to Cuba. Despain said the jetliner didn't have enough fuel to reach the Caribbean.

"All right, then, take me to Vancouver," the young man told the pilot.

When the plane landed, Paterson allowed the passengers and five crew members to leave and then surrendered tc rifle-carrying Mounties on the runway. He identified himself to the officers.

A search of his satchel turned up a can of spray deodorant, but no explosives. RCMP officials said the suspect was not armed.

Another draftee, Paul Gilliland, 18, Sacramento, Calif., said "he had long, black hair, parted down the middle. He had glassy eyes—he was a loner kind of guy. He was weird."

Despain, who said later "I'd be lying if I said I wasn't scared," only told the passengers the plane had been divert-

Infantry Rescuemen May Get Laos Duty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Small teams of U.S. infantry men will be sent into Laos as part of search and rescue teams any time they are needed to protect the lives of downed American pilots or their rescuers, Nixon administration officials said today.

"If we had an air crew downed we would do whatever was necessary to recover that crew," a Pentagon spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said.

Friedheim said that to date no U.S. infantrymen had been sent in as security forces to protect search and rescue teams. But he said it was possible it could happen in the future.

Both Friedheim and the White House insisted that this would not violate the Cooper-Church prohibition against American ground combat forces in Laos.

"If we used any security forces as part of a search and rescue team, we would regard them as rescue forces and not as combat troops," Friedheim said.

Other officials said that search and rescue missions were normal operations, and were accompanied by support aircraft and a small group of infantry men to deal with the ground fire while an operation was underway.

They insisted that these were not "combat missions" and did not represent a change in policy. They said it was simply protective encirclement during a rescue mission.

Friedheim also left open the possibility that infantry teams might accompany search and rescue missions into North Vietnam to look for pilots of any downed American planes.

"If one of our reconnaissance pilots were downed in North Vietnam, we would do whatever was necessary to recover him," he said.

A search and rescue mission normally consists of one to three helicopters carrying medical officers. They are capable of picking up pilots who have been shot down and treating their wounds.

Pentagon sources said if infantrymen accompanied such a mission, the size of the security force would be "the minimum necessary to save American lives."

IS THERE A BOND IN YOUR FUTURE?

Notables who visit the Golden Gate Bridge in the future may afterwards be able to say, "come up and see my bonds."

Formerly, it was "come up and see my etching," but the bridge district's supply of etchings of the span that it gave as mementos is running low. Auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren today proposed that the district start giving away its $35 million worth of bonds — 1,000 of them — that will be redeemed and canceled as of July 1. Commercial interests already are vying to buy the bonds as collectors' items, he explained.

Directors, laughing heartily, passed the idea to their legislation-public relations committee for refinement.

Army Overreaction Indicated In First Week Of Spy Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Has the United States already "been taken over by a military coup?"

If not, asked a black legislator from Texas, why then was he placed under Army surveillance for 10 years —his telephone bugged, his speeches monitored, his activities followed and his dossier placed in a "subversive file" at Army intelligence headquarters?

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Constitutional Rights and a champion of the First Amendment, did not have the answer Thursday. It may come next week when Army witnesses tell why an estimated 1,500 undercover men have been keeping files on thousands of Americans, snooping into their personal lives and political activities.

But for the time being, Ervin and the witnesses who unfolded the Army spying story in detail this week are certain of this: There is no deliberately repressive pattern by military or civilian personnel involved; that there is no military coup past, present or planned; and that the Army's leaders would not and did not consciously trample on the rights of Americans to speak freely and petition their government without fear.

Former undercover men who testified were almost uniformly agreed that the situation is a result of overzealous reaction to the civil violence of the 1960s.

Ex-snoopers told of mules being photographed by Army agents during the Poor People's March; the assignment of intelligence agents to a grade school Halloween party; spies following other spies in fear of being scooped on the latest New Left movement; a card file kept on an entire church congregation; and the assignment of agents to take down license numbers of every car moving on the Baltimore-Washington parkway during the 1969 antiwar moratorium.

The ex-agents testified that files were kept on political leaders ranging from Adlai Stevenson III to Rennie Davis to the late Nazi party Fuehrer George Lincoln Rockwell. At least two newspapermen who had written stories Army intelligence considered sympathetic to the antiwar movement became the subjects of dossiers. Ordinary citizens — many of them young people who someday may face a security check for a job —were photographed, followed and catalogued into a nationwide computer because they had

SACRAMANTO (UPI)—In an unprecedented move, Senate Democratic leaders have denied Gov. Ronald Reagan's request to appear before a joint session of the Legislature to unveil his welfare reform program.

Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills of San Diego charged that Reagan merely wants to use the lawmakers as stage "props" for "generalities" and doesn't have any specific legislation to present.

Reagan was reported by a press spokesman to be "appalled."

Senate Republican caucus chairman H.L. Richardson of Arcadia declared, "Sen. Mills has more gall than a slaughter house floor."

Reagan had asked permission from legislative leaders to address a joint session of both houses next Wednesday in the Assembly Chamber to outline his long-awaited welfare reform package.

Such a rare request by a gov-

Santa Venetia Arms To Curb Vandalism

Santa Venetians are arming themselves with shotguns to protect their homes against young vandals and burglars, a group of housewives told the Marin Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission yesterday.

Myrtle Pilacelli of Estancia Way and three neighbors declared they need some help to cut down on juvenile crimes.

Mrs. Pilacelli said the residents have furnished the sheriff's deputies with license numbers and descriptions of the young vandals "but the problem still exists."

"They had a party in our block two weeks ago Saturday night and about 300 juveniles gathered," said Mrs. Pilacelli. "If they had wanted to, they could have destroyed the block and we couldn't have done anything."

She said she was not physically threatened, but the youths called her names. She told the commissioners her family got a shotgun the day after the Saturday party.

"During the past month, things have quieted down some because the heat is on," Mrs. Pilacelli continued. "But before that we had seven to 10 burglaries a week."

Another woman, who declined to identify herself for fear of retaliation, declared that residents are stripping their homes of silverware, jewelry, and other valuables because of the frequent break-ins.

The women complained that the juveniles are armed with weapons and ammunition and make bold raids into homes to get money to feed their drug habits.

They charged that one 17-year-old had been picked up 40 times and is still at large in the community.

"It's just a stinking mess; this is the last stand!"

The women said most of the trouble is centered on homes subsidized by the federal leased housing program, which pays a portion of the rent for the subsidized families.

They said Cala Market closed down last year because of vandalism and pilfering by juveniles.

After a two-hour discussion at the Hall of Justice, the delinquency prevention commissioners decided to meet again at 4 p.m. next Thursday to decide whether the Santa Venetia problem is one that should be tackled by the county board of supervisors, not by one small advisory commission.

Commissioner Gerald Green said the group has enough information from last summer's survey of delinquency to recognize that a problem does exist. Instead of spending time regathering more information, Green said specific recommendations should be made to the supervisors, either for more patrols or more recreational activities in Santa Venetia.

Green declared the commission cannot go into every community in the county to deal directly with vandalism and burglaries; it can only make recommendations to the sheriff and to the supervisors.

Pioneer Natural Gas Is Good Gift

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. May I ask what you think of Wells Fargo Mortgage Investors, which I purchased for my granddaughter? Also, I would like to buy something for my grandson for his graduation. What would you suggest? — R.S.

A. Backed by the Wells Fargo Bank, Wells Fargo Mortgage Investors stock represents an attractive long-term commitment. Near-term share activity may be somewhat sluggish, however. One-third of the company's loans are tied to the prime rate; and recent reductions here may temporarily hamper earnings progress.

For your grandson, I recommend Pioneer Natural Gas. Company appears to be enterin a new era of profit growth, after six years of relatively flat performance. Pioneer is now beginning to benefit from a recent intrastate increase granted by the Texas Railroad Commission. And since the company is also engaged in the sale of gas on an interstate basis, the expected rate boost by the FPC should further enhance 1971's results.

Further benefitting Pioneer in years to come will be industrial growth in the company's service area — West Texas — where important cattle feeding yards are located. Purchase is advised for income and appreciation on the growing demand for natural gas.

Q. I am now about even on my 430-share investment in Questor Corp. I can afford to hold, but should I? — N.K.

A. Shares have held firm in face of company official's prediction that the fourth quarter of 1970 was barely profitable. Earnings for the year, reflecting 20 cents in special charges, would be around 60 cents compared with $1.40 in 1969. The current quarter, which is expected to be modestly better than the 11c a share reported for the 1970 March quarter, should earmark the end of the profit downturn, according to Questor's president.

Company has five major product areas with automotive products the largest, contributing more than half of sales. Questor's infant and juvenile products and sports equipment have well-established leadership positions in their market areas. Shares should be held for further recovery on projected earnings turnaround.

Steel Firm Expects Slack Next October

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. says it will close down parts of its Pittsburgh plant for a month next fall, starting Oct. 17, because of an anticipated lack of orders at that time.

The units to be closed down, under present plans are the blast furnaces, open hearth furnaces and ingot mold foundry. The company's labor contract expires Aug. 1 and normally orders are slack in early fall because customers stockpile heavily in the months immediately preceding labor contract expiration.

Catalyst Project

NEW YORK (UPI) — Union Carbide Corp. has announced plans to expand its molecular sieve facilities at Mobile, Ala., to include production of finished catalysts. The new catalyst unit is scheduled to begin operations in 1972. Catalysts are materials which accelerate or control chemical reactions without being consumed in the reaction. Molecular sieve catalysts in particular are used in many refining processes.

More Appliances

CHICAGO (UPI) — Factory shipments of home appliances rose 14 per cent from a year ago in January to 1,952,600 units, the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers reports.

14-Month High For Steel Firms

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steel production last week rose to a 14 month high of 2,724,000 tons, up 2.3 per cent from the 2,664,000 tons produced the week before, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported.

Production in the week ended Feb. 20 was equal to 111.7 on the institute's new index (average weekly production in 1967 equals 100, or 2,439,701 tons) compared with 109.2 for the previous week.

Raw steel output from the start of the year through Feb. 20 totaled 18,891,000 tons, up 1.4 per cent from the 18,625,000 tons produced at the same point in 1970.

Firestone Sales Up But Earnings Drop

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. has reported record sales of $523.8 million for the first quarter of its fiscal year, a 1.9 per cent increase over a year ago.

Earnings for the November-January quarter totaled $17.7 million, a decrease of 5.2 per cent.

Hewlett-Packard Sales, Profits Drop

PALO ALTO, Calif. (BW) — Hewlett-Packard Co. has reported slightly lower sales and a 12 per cent decline in earnings for the first quarter of the company's fiscal year.

Sales for the quarter ended Jan. 31 totaled $81,150,000, compared with $82,370,000 for the first quarter of fiscal 1970. Net earnings amounted to $4,903,000, compared with earnings of $5,556,000 during the corresponding period last year.

Prices Still Depressed On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) —Profit taking and international developments combined to keep prices lower for the first two hours of activity on the New York Stock Exchange Friday. Turnover was brisk.

Among the 1,434 issues crossing the tape, declines outpaced advances, 680 to 409.

Losers shut out winners on the most active list. Pacific Gas & Electric lost 1-8, Public Service of Colorado 1-8, Southern California Edison 3-8, Occidental 1 1-8, Amerada Hess 1-2, Burroughs 1 1-8, Continental Oil 1 1-8, and Federal National Mortgage Association 1-2.

Rails were mixed. Both sides in the railroad union contract talks said Friday they were hopeful a settlement can be reached before the Monday strike deadline.

Airlines chemicals and electronics ware soft.

Syntex at around 39,500 shares was an active issue on the American Stock Exchange.

Prices dipped on the American Exchange with 425 issues decling and 228 advancing among 912 traded. Turnover was active.

Holiday Inn Sued

NEW YORK (UPI) — An interior furnishings supplier, Samson Contract Furnishings, Inc., has filed suit against Holiday Inns, Inc., of Memphis in federal court for $3 million, charging restraint of trade. The suit accuses the Memphis firm of applying pressure to compel potential Holiday Inn Franchisees to buy all their furnishings from subsidiaries of Holiday Inn, Inc. The suit says this is illegal restraint of trade.

THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Central Valley Is Changing Its Name

On Monday there will be a change in name of Central Valley National Bank to Central Bank, National Association.

Both shareholders and the Comptroller of the Currency have approved the change.

AMERICAN EXPRESS CO. directors this week voted the company's fourth common stock dividend increase in three years. Payable April 1, the increase brings the quarterly rate to 35 cents, up from 30 cents per share paid over the past four quarters. Consolidated net income for 1970 rose to a record $85.2 million, up 14.4 per cent over the $74.5 million earned in 1969. Earnings per share were $3.58, compared with $3.13 in 1969.

DI GIORGIO CORP. sales and net operating earnings for 1970 were down to $365.6 million and $3.5 million respectively form the $367.8 million and $5.7 million reported in 1969. Per share earnings were 79 cents, compared with $1.42 in 1969.

EL PASO NATURAL GAS CO. reported 1970 net earnings at $45.3 million or $1.51 per share on record sales of $926.5 million. After extraordinary nonrecurring charges, net income of $1.22 per share was earned. Operating earnings in 1969 at $1.63 per share included investment tax credits of 39 cents - 29 cents more per share than was availaxle in 1970.

CALIFORNIA FINANCIAL CORP. has reported its net loss for 1970 as $1,181,483 or 34 cents per share after writedowns of loans and real estate during the fourth quarter. Before the writedowns, earnings from operations were $2,574,317 before taxes, compared with $2,498,718 in 1969.

MOORE CORP., Oakland, parent company of Moore Business Forms, Inc., showed record sales of $431.8 million and earnings of $37.5 million for 1969, up from $398.8 million sales and $35.7 million earnings in 1969. The Pacific plant of Moore Business Forms has eight plants, including one in Emeryville and one in Sunnyvale.

THE FRIDEN DIVISION of the Singer Co. planned to lay off 265 employees from its San Leandro plant today, due to "the continuing economic slowdown." Employment in San Leandro after the reduction will stand at about 2,500.

HEWLETT-PACKARD CO., Palo Alto has reported slightly lower sales and a 12-per cent decline in earnings for the first quarter of its fiscal year ended Jan. 31. Sales totaled $81.1 million, compared with $82.3 million a year ago. Net earnings were $4.9 million or 19 cents per share, compared with $5.5 million or 22 cents per share during the corresponding quarter last year.

THE MECHANICS BANK of Richmond has elected E. M. Downer III as president, succeeding Francis A. Watson, who has been named vice chairman of the board. Downer becomes a third generation president of the bank. His father is now chairman of the board.

DR. PEPPER CO. net earnings increased more than 21 per cent last year - $5,629,021 and 61 cents per share, compared with $4,642,238 and 50 cents per share in 1969. Net sales also reached a new high at $57.4 million, compared with $49.5 million in 1969 - a gain of 16 per cent.

DYNALECTRON CORP., Washington, D. C. has signed an agreement to acquire Servair, Inc. of Boston, a diversified airport service firm.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Top Tax Rate At 25 Per Cent For $50,000 In Capital Gains

We have some new rules for capital gains.

The maximum rate will be 25 per cent, but only on the first $50,000 of long term capital gains. The excess over $50,000 will be taxed at 29½ per cent for 1970, 32½ per cent for 1971 and there will be no maximum tax after 1971. However, because only 50 per cent of long term capital gains being taxed and the maximum rate is 70 per cent, there will be an effective maximum tax of 35 per cent on long term gains.

Long term capital gains transactions will be taxed at a maximum of 25 per cent on the first $50,000 of taxable long term capital gains each year. Only the excess of $50,000 long term capital gains will be taxed at the higher 29½ per cent rate in 1970.

This whole thing only applies to you if your taxable income is over $26,000 for a separate return or $52,000 for joint returns and head of household with taxable income of $38,000 or more. Also, there is taxed at the maximum 25 per cent rate gains received before January 1, 1975, from contracts binding on October 9, 1969, except for certain timber, coal, domestic iron ore and patent contracts and also liquidating distributions made before October 10, 1970, under a plan of complete liquidation adopted by October 9, 1969.

However, such exceptions reduce the $50,000 allowance so that the 25 per cent rate cannot be used on more than $50,000 in any one year.

There is a new concept in the tax law called Tax Preferences and they are taxed at 10 per cent to the extent that they exceed $30,000 and the regular income tax.

The untaxed portion of a long term capital gain is a tax preference item.

Only 50 per cent of long term capital losses can be used to offset ordinary income after January 1, 1970.

The $1,000 maximum capital loss deduction has been reduced to $500 for married persons filing separate returns, effective for 1970.

After 1969, all casualty (or theft) gains and losses on business property or capital assets held for more than six months must be combined. If the casualty losses exceed the casualty gains, the net loss is treated as an ordinary loss without regard to whether there may be noncasualty gains under Section 1231. If, however, the casualty gains exceed the casualty losses, the net gain is treated as a Section 1231 gain and must be consolidated with other gains and losses under Section 1231.

Horses and cattle purchased after 1969 and held for draft, breeding, dairy or sporting purposes are considered 1231 property, only if you hold them for at least two years.

A lump sum distribution for 1970 or later, out of employee benefit plans, which was accrued in plan years beginning after January 1, 1970, are capital gain only to the extent that the taxable portion exceeds the employer contributions. If the distribution was employer stock, a special rule applies.

After July 25, 1969, the sale of letters, memorandums or similar property by the creator or for one for whom they were prepared or created is considered ordinary income.

After January 1, 1970, the transfer of a franchise trade mark or trade name is treated as ordinary income if the seller retains any significant power, right or continuing interest.

Basis for original issue discount bonds after May 27, 1969, is increased by the bondholders amortized discount income.

If you had an involuntary conversion you now have two years after the year in which part of the gain on conversion was realized in order to replace your property.

If you make an approved disposition of certain low income housing after October 9, 1969 and replace that with qualified low income housing either by purchase or building within one year after the first year in which part of the gain was realized, you can defer tax on the gain.

Conservation or land clearance farm expenses deducted after 1969 are recaptured in full or part as ordinary income when the land is sold if held less than ten years. Farm losses after 1969 which were used to reduce non-farm income will be recaptured as ordinary income on sale of the farm in some cases.

Depreciation claimed after 1969 on livestock sold after 1969 is treated as ordinary income on the sale under Section 1245. Some depreciation on Section 1250 property sold after 1969 and claimed for years after 1969 may be recaptured as ordinary income.

If any of these items apply to you, be sure to check the rules carefully before filing your return.

Plywood Freeze

PORTLAND, ORE. (UPI) — The country's largest plywood producer, Georgia Pacific Corp., said it is considering a voluntary freeze on plywood prices if the present upward trend shows signs of getting out of hand. The company did not indicate at what level it believes prices should be frozen but said it should be well below the peak prices of the brief plywood boom of the 1968-69 winter.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Export Limits

TOKYO (UPI)—The Japanese textile industry has decided to voluntarily limit exports to the United States, it was disclosed today.

The decision means a potential trade war between the United States and Japan, brewing for nearly two years, will now probably be averted.

Kagayaki Miyazaki, chairman of the Japan Chemical Fibers Association, told a news conference Japanese Textile industry circles "had chosen voluntary export control as the only way to overcome the present deadlock."

Miyazaki also said the decision had been reached because government-to-government negotiations could not be expected to produce an agreement acceptable to the Japanese textile industry.

Jet Scuffle

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Guards subdued a shouting, knife-welding Arab aboard a Swissair jetliner bound for Tel Aviv Thursday night and turned him over to Israeli authorities on landing at Lydda International Airport.

The Cornado 990 aircraft was about half full at the time, airport officials said, but no one was hurt in the brief scuffle.

The man was identified as Mahmoud Said, 28, a resident of Jenin on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

Airport officials said the Swissair plane was 90 minutes out of Tel Aviv on a flight from Geneva when said burst from his seat, pocket knife in hand, and began shouting what were described as "battle cries."

War End Pledge

CONCORD, N. H. (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., opened his presidential campaign in New Hampshire by promising to end the war in Indochina.

"I will end the war in a matter of weeks as president," McGovern told newsman Thursday. "In order to end the major drain on U.S. resources, I would order an immediate end to the war."

His campaign for the nomination began 13 months ahead of 1972's first presidential primary in New Hampshire. He said he planned to focus his campaign on the Indochina War and the failures of the Nixon administration.

Illegal Fishing

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—Three Cuban fishing boat captains were charged today with fishing illegally in Florida waters and the Coast Guard was holding a fourth captain on similar charges.

The Florida Marine Patrol arrested the three captains, seized their vessels and brought them to port Thursday after the Coast Guard cutter Diligence released them for lack of evidence.

The Coast Guard claims it only has sufficient evidence of illegal fishing against the fourth craft, the 75-foot Lambda.

The Coast Guard and the Marine Patrol engaged in a jurisdictional dispute at sea over the three vessels. Lt. E. G. Little of the Florida patrol charged that the "Coast Guard cutter Diligence took aggressive action" against the state boats when they insisted on making arrests.

A U.S. Charge

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States accused the Soviet Union today of widescale discrimination against Jews and called on Moscow to permit them to leave Russia in accordance with the universal declaration of human rights.

The charge of discrimination against Jews was made in a statement to the United Nations Commission on Human Rights by Rita E. Hauser, head of the American delegation.

"It is the considered view of my delegation that discrimination against Jews persists on a wide scale in the Soviet Union," she said.

By refusing the freely permit jews to emigrate, the statement said, the Soviet Union is violating the Declaration of Human Rights to which it subscribed.

Disappointed

BRUSSELS (UPI) —Many delegates to the World Conference on Soviet Jewry expressed disappointment today over what they said was the weakness of the final resolution calling for improved treatment of Jews in Russia.

Dr. William A. Wexler, president of B'nai Brith, said however he considered the conference "a great success."

The three-day conference, badly split over the attempts of militant Rabbi Meir Kahane of New York speak, ended Thursday with the "Brussels Declaration."

The declaration denounced Soviet "suppression of Jewish cultural and religious rights" and called on the Western world to pressure the Soviet Union to allow Jews to emigrate to Israel.

Combat For Wives

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Three young men were slain and 20 injured Thursday in hand-to-hand fighting on horseback and on foot among bachelors seeking the hand of maidens of the Peruvian provinces of Chumbvilcas and Canas.

Hundreds of spectators gathered at the foot of Mt. Gongorillo to watch the annual combat with lariats and whips. The winners carried their prizes off to be married.

Backs Dissent

"I hope there will never be a time when there is none," said Black who celebrates his 85th birthday Saturday. He told reporters Thursday dissent was an important element of the court.

But he said, "Strange to say, I have found that those whose philosophies were the most opposed were the best friends. It is very seldom that philosophical conflict has resulted in mean feelings or petty jealousies."

Black, a member of the court for 33 years, said people will soon forget the controversial era of Chief Justice Earl Warren whose court ordered desegregation of public schools in 1954. Warren retired June 23, 1969.

"Chief justices come and chief justices go," he said. "Some have more influence than others. Some because they're better lawyers. Not always. Some because of natural ability to persuade people."

Lib Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare has agreed to the first action program to "resolve the frustrations" of women suffering sex discrimination.

Sandra Kayden, 31, will head it.

"Serious consideration of the women's issue is a growing concern in the federal government, and I think HEW should participate as a leader in this area for we have an obvious and special responsibility to women here and in the society," Richardson said Thursday.

Miss Kayden said HEW also may try to use "legal authority" to require its contractors to agree to clauses forbidding sex discrimination.

PT&T Pleads Hike In Rates

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company needs $195 million in rate increases "urgently and quickly" to pay for new construction and expected pay increases, its president says.

President Jerome W. Hull told a State Public Utilities Commission hearing Thursday the company faces the prospect of substantial pay increases as the result of coming union negotiations.

He also declared that during 1971 the company plans to spend $800 million for construction.

Recuperating Birds Needing New Home

RICHMOND (UPI) — New quarters are needed for 385 seabirds recuperating in Richmond from January's oil spill in San Francisco Bay.

Tom Ehrenfried, Richmond Bird Center spokesman, said Thursday that by the end of this month the University of California wants the birds moved from their present warehouse.

Mideast's Cautious Reaction

Israel and Egypt gave cautious approval today to President Nixon's Middle East statements in his State of the World message, but Israeli Premier Golda Meir said Thursday night no American pressure will make Israel budge from its current Mideast position.

In Cairo, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said Nixon's statements showed the "traditional American bias to Israel," but it said they contain "new indications worthy of attention" and that Egypt would make a comprehensive study of the message.

Israeli Reaction

The reaction in Israel was almost as reserved. Officials called it the clearest statement Nixon has yet made on the Arab-Israeli conflict, and Israeli newspapers welcomed his call for secure Israeli boundaries but questioned such things as his projected Big Four role in a settlement.

Israel Galili, a cabinet member without portfolio and a close confidante of Mrs. Meir, told the Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv today that the Israeli response to the latest Egyptian peace initiative will be flexible enough to permit negotiations to continue.

His statements followed Mrs. Meir's statement Thursday night that no Umerican pressure will make Israel budget from its current Middle East position of retaining some lands captured from the Arabs — a statement being set forth in the Israeli reply to Egypt.

"They (the Americans) know full well that the lack of financial aid will not cause Israel to make any concessions in matters that concern its security," she told a public gathering in Tel Aviv.

She said Israel will not give up East Jerusalem, the Golan Heights, and the Red Sea fortress of Sharm el Sheikh "under any possible peace agreement with its Arab neighbors."

UAR Reaction

Al Ahram said Nixon's statement was the subject of "comprehensive study" by the Egyptian government although no official reaction was expected soon.

"The prevalent view is that the speech is an important document, including statements which we accept and others which we reject. Therefore, it is worthy of an intensive study," Al Ahram said.

"It contains some traditional attitudes which show America's bias to Israel but also includes new indications worthy of attention."

No Problems

CRISFIELD, Md. (UPI) — Crime apparently is not a problem in this tiny Chesapeake Bay fishing village. John Holland became police chief Thursday. It's the first time Crisfield has bothered to fill the post in six years.

'MONSTER' IN THE SKY

Test Alerts To Be Sent By Agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Broadcast officials, attempting to avoid repetition of last weekend's false announcement of a national emergency, have given the two major U.S. news agencies temporary responsibility for sending weekly warning system test messages.

The change in the system was announced Thursday by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) on the recommendation of the National Industry Advisory Committee, a broadcast council. Starting Saturday, United Press International and the Associated Press will send the test messages over their broadcast teletype circuits.

Last Saturday, a message mistakenly announced the President had declared a national emergency.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said Thursday there should be a study of the entire national emergency warning system.

Under the temporary system adopted Thursday, UPI's office in Chicago and the AP office in New York will receive the announcements at their broadcast news desks and relay them through their regular switching systems only after they have been authenticated by government officials.

President Nixon Sunday asked the FCC and the Defense Department for a full report on the sending of the false alert message.

New Virus Theory Linked To Leukemia

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—A team of University of Washington medical researchers believes it may be on the track of new evidence supporting the theory that some forms of human leukemia are caused by a virus.

Their findings came in efforts to save the life of a 16-year-old leukemia victim and were reported recently in the British Medical Journal, Lancet, by Drs. Philip J. Fialkow and E. Donnall Thomas.

Dr. Fialkow said the patient, a girl, was near death when it was decided to give her the relatively new treatment of bone marrow transplantation. The donor was her 10-year-old brother.

The day prior to receiving bone marrow cells intravenously from her brother, the girl was given a four-hour, whole-body dose of high-energy radiation to kill her cancerous marrow cells.

Fifty-two days later, she was well enough to be discharged from the hospital. But after 10 more days, doctors discovered the forerunners of leukemic cells had returned to the girl's bone marrow. She died several weeks later from an infection.

Before her death, doctors found in a study of cells that it was the male cells of her brother, not her own, that were cancerous.

"Since the brother has remained without evidence of the disease, a likely possibility is that the donor cells became cancerous through activation of leukemogenic (leukemia causing) agent, such as a virus, or the transfer of such an agent from the patient's cells to the donor cells," Fialkow reported.

"That possibility doesn't mean that leukemia . . . is contagious," he added.

The doctor said if regrowth had been the cause of return of leukemia to the girl's bone marrow, the cells would contain the two XX female chromosones. But it was the cells containing the XY male chromosone combination in which the leukemia recurred.

The researchers said more study is needed to determine the importance of genetic and other factors.

Should the viral theory prove true, medical science then would try to identify the virus or viruses and work to develop a vaccine.

Dr. Fialkow is an associate professor of medical genetics. Dr. Thomas is professor of medicine and chief of tumor study. They were assisted in the project by Drs, Jean I. Bryant, Paul E. Neiman and Eloise Giblett.

Refrigerator Blast Kills Infant-In-Arms

FLUSHING, Mich. (UPI)—Two-month-old Eric Torrenga was killed in his mother's arms Thursday when a refrigerator door blew off and hit them.

Police said they believed a faulty valve in the gas refrigerator blew the door off. The mother suffered a broken arm.

Libya May Seize Firms, Sources Say

TRIPOLI, Libya (UPI)—The 18-month-old military government of Col. Moammar Al-Khadafy is preparing to seize foreign oil companies operating in Libya, the world's biggest oil exporter, diplomatic sources said today. Twenty-one of the companies are American.

"A showdown is definitely coming," the sources said. "It has been in the wind for some time and the oil companies know it."

The sources said the idea of a takeover apparently began taking shape after collapse of new price negotiations in Tripoli.

Al-Khadafy, whose regime earlier nationalized foreign banks and insurance companies, has never ruled out a takeover of the 35 foreign oil companies which operate in Libya.

Since then Oil Minister Ezedeen Mabrouk has warned foreign companies to step up their investment program in exploring for new oil fields or face what he called "suitable measures to realize the national interest."

Libya produces 3.5 million barrels of oil a day and is the single largest oil exporter in the world. More than eight of every 10 barrels is pumped by nine big U.S. companies, including Standard Oil of New Jersey, Occidental, Texaco, Mobil, Continental and Marathon.

All the companies are now engaged in another round of tough talks over oil prices.

Construction Ban Over Sewage

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Unprecedented requirements for sewage treatment — enforced, possibly, by a ban on all new construction — were imposed yesterday on the City of Mill Valley and Richardson Bay Sanitary District.

The order — issued unanimously by the Regional Water Quality Control Board — apparently was the first in the state to attack the problem of algae growth. Blooms of the tiny plant annually threaten to deplete oxygen in Richardson Bay — oxygen needed for the survival of aquatic life.

City and district spokesmen branded the requirements as premature, unproven, too stringent, unrealistic and far too expensive.

Mill Valley City Engineer Stanley M. Bala said they would be impossible to meet, and that the only alternative would be to pump wastes out Tennessee Valley for treatment and discharge into the ocean.

Objections by Bala and district spokesmen centered on the requirement that no further nutrients be discharged when bay water had a level of chlorophyll over 50 micrograms per cubic liter. "It means you shut the pumps off," Bala complained.

Chlorophyll is a catalyst for the growth of algae.

The board's staff, however, insisted that the requirement could be met, principally by removing phosphates and nitrogen from sewage waste. Detergents are the main source of phosphates, and food matter the main source of nitrogen.

The board order also provided for setting a hearing on a cease and desist order against the two dischargers, with the hearing date to be set at the board's March 25 hearing.

The staff recommended that the cease and desist order possibly include a restriction on any new connections to their sewerage systems. This, in effect, would be a ban on all new construction until the new requirements were met — which could be a long time, judging from the objections from the dischargers.

Board member Sidney S. Lippow of Martinez criticized the dischargers' plea for a delay in imposing the new requirements. "It's just a matter of stall, stall, stall," he declared. "We've been postponing on Richardson Bay for six years, and we've got to show them we mean business."

Board chairman Homer H. Hyde, mayor of Campbell, said of the two dischargers that "they've been having a free ride for years. It's apparent there's been a bad situation there for a long time, and nothing's been done about them."

Fred H. Dierker, executive director of the regional board, said the requirements were needed because of "severe water quality problems in Richardson Bay." He noted a state study that found a public health problem in the bay, and showed a photograph of a Mill Valley playground for infants adjacent to the sewer outfall pipe.

(Dr. Teng-chung Wu, the board's chief of surveillance, explained to the Independent-Journal that the chlorophyll requirement had been set for the first time because technology only now allowed setting of a maximum that effectively would control algae.)

Ross Benson, superintendent of public works for Mill Valley, conceded that the city cannot meet even the board's old requirements because of storm water infiltrating sewers. So much water hits the treatment plant in wet weather that it must be bypassed and sewage is dumped raw into the bay, he acknowledged.

Bala noted that the city may have a bond election in April to fix the leaky sewers.

(Bala told the I-J after the hearing in San Rafael City Hall that meeting the requirements would cost the city "several million dollars." The requirements would produce "almost drinking water," he said.)

The Mill Valley sewage treatment plant also serves the Homestead Valley, Alto and Almonte sanitary districts and the Kay Park Sewer Maintenance District.

In other business, the board set requirements for expansion of the Novato Sanitary District's Bahia plant from a capacity of 500 connections to 8,000 connections. These requirements, however, were similar to those elsewhere in the bay, and none was set on algae nutrients.

Air Tour Linked To Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government investigators have concluded that the crash last fall of a charter airliner carrying the Wichita State University football team was caused by the pilot's sightseeing tour below the level of a mountain pass, it was learned today.

The plane, a twin-engine Convair, crashed Oct. 2, 1970, near Loveland Pass, Colo., while carrying the team to a game. Thirty-one persons were killed.

The National Transportation Safety Board, which investigates the causes of airplane crashes, plans to release its report next week.

The Transportation Department also is expected to make public shortly a report calling for an overhaul of the Federal Aviation Administration regulation governing charter flights. The investigation was triggered by the Wichita crash.

In its report to be released next Wednesday, the Safety Board says the plane flew up a valley below the level of the surrounding terrain. The pilot apparently was giving the passengers a close-up view of the mountain scenery, investigators said.

The pilot became trapped in the valley when the plane was incapable of producing the power needed to lift it over the pass in the short distance left to clear the mountain top. The pilot attempted to reverse course but the valley proved too narrow and he crashed making the turn, the report showed.

Overdose Victim Is Identified

The young man who died — apparently of an overdose of drugs — at a San Rafael drug treatment center yesterday has been identified as Guy T. Johnson, 25, of Oakland.

The Marin County Coroner's Office said today the identification was made through a telephone number and address book found on the man.

Johnson died at the Center Point treatment center at 805 D Street after staff members attempted for five hours to save him. He had been brought to the center by a female companion who said he had taken an overdose of heroin.

Results of an autopsy were not available today.

Meanwhile, the administrator of Marin General Hospital today told why the facility does not provide outside emergency care in such cases. It was in response to complaints by Center Point officials they had been unable to arrange for emergency back-up care for seriously ill addicts who come to the center rather than go to a hospital.

"It is the medical opinion of our physicians that emergency care is best provided where skilled personnel and facilities are available, and that is the Community Mental Health Center and the Marin General Hospital emergency department," said administrator Ray K. Bolinger.

Johnson's companion said she brought the man to Center Point because she didn't want to take him to a hospital. And Center Point officials said they didn't call a doctor because staff members used techniques that had revived previous overdose victims, and because doctors won't come to the facility.

The center spokesmen said addicts often don't want to go to a hospital because of fear of police and relatives. But Jules Becker, publicist for Marin General, noted that the Community Mental Health Center, where some drug patients are taken, cannot release any information about patients — not even a name — without patient consent.

The mental health center is adjacent to Marin General.

Huntley, Brinkley Pay Courtesy Visits

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A shaky-kneed state legislator sat between two tawny mountain lions Thursday and announced introduction of a bill making it illegal to hunt them in California.

Assemblyman John Dunlap brought along Huntley and Brinkley, a pair of five-year-old male mountain lions, for a news conference on his measure to protect the 600 big cats still roaming the mountains.

"Anyone with 50 cents for a tag and enough money to buy shells for his gun can hunt the mountain lion today," he said. "We are selling out the mountain lion dirt cheap."

He said his bill would fulfill a "maxim of conservation—when in doubt, preserve. We can always destroy later."

Dunlap said 50 mountain lions have been shot since July, when the State Fish and Game Department started requiring hunters to buy licenses.

The lawmaker, a Democrat from Napa, kept wary eyes on Huntley and Brinkley after owner Dan Meier, 28, Richmond, an electrical engineer, sat them on the table on each side of him. Meier and a friend held them on stout leather leashes.

"How are your knees?" a reporter asked the nervous legislator.

The state paid a bounty on mountain lions until 1963, but the population has remained fairly stable at 600 lions for decades, according to game experts. The animals, which reach eight feet in length and weigh up to 165 pounds, were put on the big game hunting list last year as a first step toward their eventual protection.

Dunlap said he didn't trust the 600 figure, terming it "a guess made a long time ago" which has never been verified. "The true status of the California mountain lion in numbers is unknown. I would think we have much less than that," he said.

Huntley stretched — and yawned.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafel, also has introduced a bill to protect mountain lions. His measure, however, only would bar hunting them with dogs, which Behr said was the only effective way to hunt lions. The net results, according to the senator, would be to bar hunting of the lions.

Behr's bill would not interfere with the existing law allowing farmers and ranchers to kill lions to protect their herds.

ernor has never been denied in the memory of veteran legislative observers.

But Mills denied Reagan's request Wednesday in a letter to the governor.

"The legislature deals in legislation, not in generalities," Mills told the governor. "It would not be useful for you to appear before us to make a general speech which is really directed toward the people of this state. There are other places where that might be done more appropriately."

Mills told newsmen he had conferred with other Senate Democratic leaders and they all agreed to deny Reagan's request.

Senate Democratic caucus chairman Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles confirmed that he, majority floor leader George Moscone of San Francisco and Mills decided a joint legislative session with Reagan would be useless until actual bills were presented by the governor.

In his letter, Mills told Reagan that "every one" of the Legislature's members "is in favor of substantial welfare reform and many of us are favorably inclined toward the general positions you have taken."

Mills said Reagan would be invited to a joint legislative session whenever his specific bills were ready.

30 Days Jail On Being Near Pot

Jerry R. Wade, 20, of San Rafael, has been sentenced to 30 days in Marin County Jail after pleading guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of being in a place where marijuana was smoked.

He was earlier charged with a felony count of possessing marijuana.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court sentenced Wade who was arrested Jan. 3 after a Marin City resident told San Rafael police he had hit her.

Big Travelers Check Burglary

Travelers checks totaling $1,000 and $600 in cash were stolen yesterday from the home of George Schaffer, 85 Via Hermosa, Larkspur, police said today.

Officers said the burglar apparently entered the home between 10:15 a.m. and 12:20 p.m. through an unlocked garage door and found the cash and checks stuffed in a stereo speaker.

Serial numbers on the Bank of America $100 checks are 814-461-470 through 814-461-479.

Tennis Club Due Special Hearing

Plans for a 90-acre tennis club development proved too much for the Fairfax Planning Commission to cope with in one meeting last night and a special meeting was set for 8 p.m. March 9 to discuss the proposal further.

Under consideration is an application by developer John Farrar Jr. of the Janic Development Corp. for two parcels of land on the north side of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard next to Meadowland.

Farrar proposes a tennis club surrounded by 137 units in townhouses and condominiums. He said the prices of the units would range from $22,000 to $26,000, according to Ernestine Healy, secretary for the commission.

Mrs. Healy said that the commission wanted to consider legal ramfications of the proposed development further with the city attorney, Wallace S. Myers, at the March 9 meeting.

In other business last night, the planning commission turned down a request by David Hutchinson of the Marin Performing Arts Guild to use a one-room building at 1750 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard for an office.

Mrs. Healy said Hutchinson told the commission the guild, now located in Kentfield, would act as a service to performers as well as provide information about cultural events.

The commission turned down the request because of parking problems and because the area is probably going to be rezoned soon for apartments, Mrs. Healy said.

France, U.S. Sign Dope Pact

PARIS (UPI)—The United States and France signed a formal agreement today to cooperate in smashing drug traffic, and called upon other nations to join the fight. U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell, signing for the United States, said the historic protocol marked the first time two nations have agreed formally to allow foreign law enforcement officers on their soil.

The agreement formalizes cooperation between the two countries since President Nixon and French President Georges Pompidou agreed in August, 1969 to stop illicit drugs pouring into France from Turkey to be processed in Marseille before being smuggled into the United States.

attended a demonstration, spoken at a meeting or knew someone who had.

Morris Janowitz of the University of Chicago, who has studied the problem, believes domestic intelligence activities have grown from war to war until now they are clearly beyond the Army's jurisdiction and must be controlled by Congress.

"The hallmark of a nation with democratic political institutions," he told the subcommittee, "is the sharp separation of its military forces of national defense from its police and law enforcement agencies . . . it has been one of the persistent assumptions of the American political system that to allow the military, except in rare and extreme circumstances, to intervene in local police and law enforcement matters is to weaken the fabric of our domestic society.

"In turn, to permit the armed forces to become enmeshed in issues of domestic law and justice is to undermine their legitimacy to perform their essential duties," he said.

No New Filings In Two Races

Candidacy filings closed yesterday with no new candidates coming forward for the April 20 elections to the Cotati and Old Adobe School District boards, with no race in the latter.

Candidates for the two four-year terms open on the Old Adobe board, Petaluma, are incumbent John A. Thompson and Carlton (Bob) Rinaldo. Incumbent Dora M. Eldredge filed for the two-year office to fulfill the term left by Robert E. Daly when he was appointed to the Petaluma City Council.

Judge Fines Mother $15

PRESQUE ISLE, Maine (UPI)—Judge Julian W. Turner fined his mother, Mrs. Marjorie Turner, $15 Thursday in the room in which he was born.

Mrs. Turner pleaded guilty to driving without an inspection sticker and was fined in the courtroom, on the third floor of a former hospital. Part of the room was the hospital delivery room and Turner said he was probably the only judge to have been born in his own courtroom.

The arresting officer said he felt bad about bringing Mrs. Turner into court, but the judge said everyone is subject to the same laws. "I'm sure my family feels the same way," he said.

ed to Vancouver. The passengers took it as a normal delay.

"We told him we would like to talk him out of it, but never called his bluff," said Despain, a 14-year pilot.

The hijacker stayed in the cockpit the rest of the way and then decided to surrender peacefully.

"It all worked according to his plan and it was actually a calm flight after the initial shock," Despain said. "He was actually quite calm and well mannered."

Paterson was among 69 inductees who boarded the plane at San Francisco. They were en route to Fort Lewis, Wash., for basic training. The flight began at Ontario, Calif.

The draftees, who had reported during the day at the Oakland Induction Center, wore civilian clothes on the flight. They are issued uniforms after arriving at boot camp.

The plane was over Medford, Ore., when Paterson made his bomb threat about 9:45 p.m. PST. The jetliner landed at Vancouver at 10:20 p.m.

The hijacker's home town is a small hamlet in El Corado County in the Sierra Nevada mother lodge country above Sacramento.

He was taken to the RCMP station in suburban Richmond for questioning by Mounties and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from Washington state.

An FBI spokesman in Seattle, Wash., said FBI agents were aiding in the questioning because the hijacking was committed over the United States. He said the agents were merely maintaining liaison with Canadian authorities.

Other passengers were flown back to Seattle on another plane, arriving less than two hours behind schedule. The recruits were bused to Ft. Lewis, arriving early today to begin boot camp.

The suspect's father, Donald Paterson, said he didn't want to comment about the incident when contacted at home.

Food Plea For Action Center

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board yesterday issued a plea that members attending Thursday's meeting bring dontions of foodstuffs for the Community Action Center.

According to Ester Squire, board secretary, the center, operated by the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, is in "desperate need" of canned foods.

The center, which opened last year at 232 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, provides free emergency clothing, household items and food to the needy.

OBITUARIES

Elfrida Simmie Dies At 88

Funeral for Elfrida G. Simmie, a former long-time resident of Novato, will be tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Halsted and Co. Mortuary, San Francisco.

Mrs. Simmie, a resident of San Francisco, died yesterday at a San Francisco hospital following a long illness. She was 88.

She returned to San Francisco in 1929 but made periodic visits to the Phillippines.

In 1945, Mrs. Simmie moved to Novato where she remained until 1965 when she returned to San Francisco.

She was a founding member of St. Francis Episcopal Church in novato, Novato Chapter No. 609 of the Order of Eastern Star, the Metropolitan Club, the Forum Club and the Century Club of California.

Mrs. Simmie is survived by her daughter, Jean F. Hays of San Francisco, a granddaughter and four great-grandchildren.

Burial will be at Cypress Lawn Cemetery, Colma.

The family requests memorial contributions to a favorite charity or the American Cancer Society.

Traffic Deaths Decline in '70

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the first time in a decade, traffic fatalities and injuries declined in 1970. Economic loss from automobile accidents fell for the first time in 25 years.

The Insurance Information Institute reported Thursday 55,300 persons died in traffic accidents last year, 1,100 or 2 per cent fewer than in 1969. Injuries were down 0.5 per cent to 4.983 million.

The economic loss declined by 2.3 per cent or $374 million to $16.20 billion.

Automobile accidents, although less costly, grew in number in 1970, increasing by 91,450 or 0.4 per cent to 22.1 million.

Four Cars Are Hit By Burglars

Petaluma police reported four burglaries of vehicles occurred yesterday. Foreman Plumbing, 990 Lakeville Highway, reported that electric hand tools valued at $246 were stolen from a truck at 913 West Street. Richard A. Henderson, 819 G Street said stereo tapes valued at $158 had been stolen from his car.

Anthony Conte, 10 Wallace Court, said two suits and a tape recording kit valued at $810 were stolen from his car while parked at the Boulevard Bowl, 1100 Petaluma Boulevard South. Ernest Butler, 700 Sixth Street, reported a tool box valued at $215 was stolen from his car.

Sleepy Hollow Debates Services District Idea

By DAVID DIETZ

Formation of a community services district in Sleepy Hollow was endorsed last night by those residents who said they wanted more control over the community's future but scored by others who feared it would bring rising taxes.

About 200 persons turned out at the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association clubhouse to hear speakers both for and against the district, scheduled to go before voters April 20.

From audience applause, citizens appeared opposed to creation of a new taxing agency to serve the 2,600 residents of the neatly kept community. At present, the area has only a fire district in addition to its homeowners' group and is subject to the direct control of the county board of supervisors.

If the services district were approved April 20, voters also would seat five board members from a slate of 10 candidates and set a maximum tax rate for the district of $1.15 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Of the possible maximum rate — $1.04 would go for fire protection to adjoining San Anselmo, whose department now serves Sleepy Hollow. From the remaining 11 cents, would be paid miscellaneous expenses and administrative services — the district must have a staff member but it can be a nonsalaried job.

Last night's debate — which opened with a panel of five residents speaking for the district and five against — centered around the agency's potential for providing new and improved services and the cost of the added responsibilities.

Proponents argued the district would give the community legal punch to deal more adequately with police and fire protection, garbage collection and recreational needs. But opponents viewed the district as politically inspired and believed the homes association and fire district were amply serving the area.

Richard B. Kreuzer, one of the five speakers who criticized the district, told the audience voter approval would "really just give it power to go into existence. There was no reason to bring you out here tonight unless they are going to do something . . . and they will have to continue to come back to you for taxes."

Kreuzer is one of the candidates vying for a seat on the district board if the agency's formation is approved. Other candidates for the board who spoke against formation of the district were Jay G. Igels and Alfred A. Nannizzi, candidate Robert L. Flanders spoke in favor.

Merritt A. Robinson, past president of the homes association and a backer of the services district, insisted the advantage of the district would be that its directors could not spend substantial sums without first obtaining voter approval.

Flanders worried that, without a services district, Sleepy Hollow risked annexation by a neighboring city. "The strongest possible way to meet the unknown future is to have a legal voice — a louder voice than we're able to muster through the homes association."

Ingels, on the other hand, was concerned over the cost of administrative services and the possible future threat of a majority of board members influencing agency policy.

Following is a list of the proposed district's powers and a synopsis of last night's discussion on each:

POLICE PROTECTION — Proponents, saying homeowners were unhappy with burglaries, vandalism and hotrodding, explained the agency would have the power to supplement present patrols. Ordinances could be passed setting stiff fines for trash dumping, they added. While supporting the need for extra police protection, opponents were worried about the cost. They noted Tiburon paid $14,750 per man annually to contract with the sheriff's office for police services.

FIRE PROTECTION — Proponents said the district could contract formally with San Anselmo, enabling better control, while opponents argued service was excellent at present and there was no need to change.

RECREATION — Proponents said the district could contract formally with San Anselmo, enabling better control, while opponents argued service was excellent at present and there was no need to change.

RECREATION — Proponents felt a need to provide additional facilities for preschool children and to preserve open space. Kreuzer, in rebuttal, listed a wide variety of activities available in the San Anselmo region at present, but did acknowledge a need for certain community facilities.

GARBAGE — Proponents said the community, through a services district, could contract for its own refuse disposal service. But mention of providing debris boxes for community use disturbed opponents who feared litter.

UNDERGROUNDING OF UTILITIES — Proponents said the district could pass an ordinance requiring undergrounding at new home sites, while opponents worried the district board might require undergrounding on a communitywide scale, imposing a stiff levy on all property owners.

Charged Ship Pilot Takes Witness Stand

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A tanker pilot charged with violating seagoing rules of the road testified Thursday he did not know another ship was close until notified by a radio message from her captain.

Captain Leo H. Wuesthoff, 62, of Oakland was on the witness stand of a Coast Guard hearing into the near collision of the Norwegian tanker Stolt Condor and the Overseas Suzanne, an ammunition ship.

The Overseas Suzanne and the Stolt Condor, which Wuesthoff was piloting, just missed colliding Jan. 30 near the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge over San Francisco.

Captain Gar Long of the Overseas Suzanne testified he steamed his vessel full astern to avoid the crash.

Long said he did not know the tanker's movements until told by the skipper of an outgoing Japanese freighter. He notified Wuesthoff.

Five-Fold Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The number of minority group persons employed by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District has increased almost five-fold in the past 5 1-2 years, the agency reported Thursday to the San Francisco Human Rights Commission.

$1 Million Death Case Suit Filed

A $1 million wrongful death suit in connection with the death of a San Quentin inmate last year was filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

The suit was filed by San Rafael attorney Salle S. Soladay in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Billingslea of Detroit, Mich., parents of inmate Fred E. Billingslea, 25, who died at the prison Feb. 25, 1970, after he set fire to his mattress.

A similar suit, filed last October, is pending in federal court in San Francisco.

Named as defendants in the suit are Gov. Ronald Reagan; R. K. Procunier, director of the state department of correction; San Quentin Warden Louis S. Nelson; two associate wardens and 16 guards.

They "maliciously assaulted, gassed, choked and killed" Billingslea, the suit charges, "because of their general hatred of persons of African descent."

The suit was filed in connection with a statewide "Prisoner Day" to be observed on college campuses today.

A Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice at the College of Marin was to have presented a video tape of prison conditions, a model of a prison strip cell and seminar at the college today.

A boat cruise near the prison is scheduled by the committee for this evening.

Permits Eyed In Wilderness Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Permits may be required in California this summer to enter wilderness areas, the Forest Service said Thursday.

A service spokesman added that a recommendation that permits be required is under study.

There would be no fee and the entry permit would include a campfire permit.

Hawkins Will Unveil Reorganization Plan

A reorganization plan for Tamalpais High School District which is expected to save $150,000 per year in administrative costs is to be presented to district trustees Monday night.

The $150,000 estimate is that of Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, who devised the plan.

Purpose of the reorganization, according to Hawkins, is to strengthen the individual high schools so that each becomes a "district within a district." While the organizational setup at all three schools will be the same next school year, their staffs will be encouraged to work out their own plans which may result in Tamalpais, Sir Francis Drake and Redwood High School each having a slightly different organization the year following, Hawkins said.

The saving, the superintendent reported, will arise because much of the central administrative staff will be transferred to the schools, but without increasing the number of non-teaching personnel at each school. Some of those now in administration will be returned to the classrooms.

Because the plan is so far-reaching, titles will be changed in many cases. There may no longer be such a title as "principal" at each school — a designation, Hawkins noted, that derives from "principal teacher" and does not adequately describe the job of administrative head of a school.

The plan is the result of much discussion among the staff, and its implementation will involve the staff of each of the three high schools, the superintendent said.

The board will be asked at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the district office in Larkspur to give the go-ahead for putting the plan into operation, so that new assignments can be worked out during the current school year.

Hawkins said one aim of the plan will be to place responsibility, so that there is no question who is responsible in any area of each school's operation.

Marinite Asks Trial On Melee

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Kentfield attorney arrested in a post-game melee at Kezar Stadium Jan. 3 asked yesterday for a jury trial in municipal court here. His case was continued to next Thursday to set a trial date.

Thomas H. Thorner, 38, of 98 Kent Avenue had pleaded innocent Jan. 21 to charges of inciting to riot, disturbing the peace and assaulting a police officer.

A motion to inspect evidence against him was to have been heard yesterday, but that was also continued to next Thursday.

A second Marin man among the 20 arrested at the stadium is to appear March 18 for preliminary hearing in municipal court. Wayne M. Clark, 27, of 111 Rafael Drive, San Rafael, pleaded innocent Jan. 14 to charges of assaulting a policeman and disturbing the peace.

Apollo 14 Crew Due House Honor

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Apollo 14 astronauts will be accorded special congressional recognition next week with a reception on the House floor.

The house formally voted authority Thursday for Speaker Carl Albert to call a recess Tuesday to receive Navy Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr., Cmdr. Edgar D. Mitchell and Air Force Maj. Stuart A. Roosa in recognition of their successful moon flight.

CHALLENGES MALES — Antigone Stoddard practices folding an Independent-Journal, which she would like to be delivering each day. The young women's libber wants to get a route in order to earn money for a horse.

SEEKS CARRIER JOB

11-Year-Old Joins Liberation Cause

A long-haired, bright-faced 11-year-old San Anselmo girl who wants to buy a horse is challenging a traditional male bastion — she wants to be a newspaper carrier.

Yesterday Antigone Stoddard, who is called Ann, filed a federal complaint that she is being discriminated against because of her sex — an unfair and illegal practice under current laws, she claimed.

Targets of the complaint, which was actually filed by Ann's father on her behalf, were the Independent-Journal and Peter Ladow, one of the paper's distributors.

Ann and her sister Hillary, 10, both pupils at Brookside School in San Anselmo, were bitten by the horse bug, according to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stoddard, because of the numerous riders in their neighborhood.

All summer long horses clomp up and down in front of their home at 210 The Alameda, adjacent to Sleepy Hollow.

Ann has taken lessons, but said yesterday that the horse she was given to ride "was not much good."

She and Hillary, who would also like a paper route, have saved $100 from doing household chores toward buying a horse. Ann estimates that she needs $200 to $300 for a "good horse" — and then added with a faraway look in her eyes — "of course, an Arabian would be a lot more."

Further, Ann said, the girls need $30 a month to board the horse once they get it.

Ann is not worried about delivering and collecting for papers. Her mother added, "Children take risks just going to school every day. You have to let them live."

Her father said that one of the parents would accompany her if she had to go out after dark.

Stoddard, a banker with Wells Fargo in San Francisco, filed the complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which will turn it over to the Fair Employment Practices Commission for 60 days consideration.

Stoddard contends that both federal and state legislation prohibit discrimination because of sex.

Allen Howells, circulation manager for the I-J, explained that the ban against girls comes from a state child labor law which prohibits hiring girls under 18 as carriers.

Boys are eligible at 10 under the old law.

Pointing out that the carriers are independent merchants under contract with dealers, not hired by the paper itself, Howells said that he hopes this test case will clear up the matter and that he doesn't care which way it goes.

"Girls who take over for their brothers during Little League season, for example, do a very good job," he added.

Meanwhile, Ann's mother said, "Ann's enthusiasm may not last, of course, but I think she should be given the same opportunity as the boys to do this if she wants."

Filing Rush For School Boards

Marin County voters will decide contests for school board seats April 20 in all but five districts.

With the close of filing for candidates yesterday, no contest had developed for the Tamalpais High School District, nor for Mill Valley, Laguna, Lincoln and Union elementary district seats.

A last-minute filing rush resulted in an even dozen candidates vying for the four open seats on the Marin Junior College District, four competitors for two seats in Sausalito, seven candidates for two seats in Reed, and seven for two seats in Dixie.

One person filing yesterday for the Sausalito race — Myralin G. Whitaker, housewife, of 104 Buchanan Drive, Sausalito — withdrew her candidacy today.

According to the county superintendent of schools' office, the candidates will include, by districts:

MARIN COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION (4 district's seats open)

Greenbrae Group Picks New Slate

Kermit V. Speeg last night was elected president of the Greenbrae Property Owners Association during its annual membership meeting at Wolfe Grade School.

Speeg, who lives at 41 Via La Cumbre, is a civilian engineer with the Army Corps of Engineers.

Last year he served as the association's treasurer.

Other board officers elected last night are Stewart N. Boxer, vice president; John A. Russell, chairman of the architectural review committee; Arthur J. Cushing Jr., treasurer, and Naida Walter, secretary.

The election was followed by a discussion of maintenance problems in the communities public areas.

According to Beth Reilly, outgoing association secretary, Russell told the group he has figured $15,000 worth of improvements needed but added the association only has $10,000 to work with.

60 Days Jail On Reduced Charge

Robert D. Fried, 19, of San Anselmo, has been sentenced to two months in Marin County Jail after pleading guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of grand theft.

He earlier had been charged with a felony count of grand theft stemming from his arrest Feb. 15 after he allegedly snatched the purse of an elderly woman leaving a San Rafael market.

Fried had been on probation in connection with two earlier misdemeanor convictions for disturbing the peace. Probation was revoked and he was ordered to serve an additional five months in jail.

JAMES M. PIDGEON
New Dominican trustee

New Board Member At Dominican

James M. Pidgeon, vice president of a San Francisco investment banking firm, has been appointed to the board of trustees of Dominican College of San Rafael, according to the board chairman Paul M. Hupf.

Pidgeon has been with the firm of Bateman, Eichler, Hill, Richards Inc., since 1957. He served as an officer in the Navy in World War II and is a graduate of the University of San Francisco. He had done graduate work in business administration at the University of Southern California.

The new trustee and his wife, Mary Helen, live in Daly City with a daughter and three sons.

The position to which Pidgeon was appointed is a new seat on the board, according to college officials.

Air Crash

NEW DELHI (UPI) —An Indian air force plane crashed in Kharagpur airfield 72 miles west of Calcutta Thursday, killing its pilot and nine laborers working in the airfield.

Los Angeles Damaged By High Winds

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Winds gusting up to 70 miles an hour ripped through the Los Angeles area Thursday toppling several roofs from buildings, knocking down scores of trees and forcing closure of some highways.

The City Department of Water and Power said hundreds of homes suffered minor blackouts of varying lengths as the winds knocked down several utility poles.

Large plate glass windows were broken in some businesses in Lancaster and in the Antelope Valley. A tree smashed through the roof of a home in the east Los Angeles area but there were no injuries.

Eight major freeways and highways were closed to campers and trailers by the California Highway Patrol.

A peak velocity of 81 mile an hour was recorded in the afternoon atop the 150-foot Federal Aviation Administration air traffic control tower in Palmdale. A 73 MPH velocity is considered to be hurricane force.

In Lancaster, a portion of the roof of radio station KAVL was blown off and a portion of the roof of a hanger at Edwards Air Force Base was knocked loose.

Alerts were imposed on some desert highways in San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

The winds were from a mass of cold air that was moving southward across Southern California. They were expected to continue through today.

Two men were injured at Marina Del Rey when debris from a building under construction was blown free and struck them. They were treated at Marina Mercy Hospital for minor injuries.

Two small planes toppled over at Santa Monica Airport, one while taking off and the other while landing. The two pilots suffered minor injuries.

Wife Killer Gets None Of Estate

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Erie County Judge William J. Regan ruled Thursday that a man who shot and killed his wife is not entitled to her estate.

Regan ruled that the estate of Mrs. Joan Kedron be distributed equally to the Kedron's four children.

Mrs. Kedron, 38, was fatally shot in her apartment in suburban Amherst Feb. 10, 1969.

Her husband Frank, 44, is serving a 10-year term in the Attica correctional facility after pleading guilty to second-degree manslaughter.

Alcoholism Cost

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Alcoholism costs San Francisco business $60 million a year in absenteeism, insurance claims, accidents and inefficiencies, the local chapter of the National Council on Alcoholism estimated Thursday.

Bridge Panel Bows Out On Central Terminal For Marin

A noncommittal Golden Gate Bridge District committee yesterday bowed out of a decision on where a Central Marin ferry terminal should be located.

Before a packed audience in the district's cramped meeting chamber, the transportation committee said proposed sites in both Larkspur and Corte Madera appeared equally acceptable.

The question was then bounced out of committee to the full bridge district board for reassignment today to another committee — probably the building and operating committee — for cost comparison.

Early in the two-hour hearing, the committee brushed aside consideration of a conservationist backed proposal that the terminal be located on San Quentin Point.

But elimination of one of the two remaining sites, one on the Dominic Muzzi property in Corte Madera and the other on the Hutchinson Quarry property in Larkspur, proved more difficult.

Chairman Michael Wornum, a Marin supervisor, after the meeting said he was not sure which committee the matter would be forwarded to. He recommended during the meeting, however, it go to the building and operating committee and then to the finance committee.

As the hearing opened, Marin Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni told the committee he favored building the terminal on the Larkspur site.

He advised the committee to delete the San Quentin site as impractical and favor Larkspur for four reasons: patronage, highway access, surface and subsurface conditions of the site and the "ecologically rich mudflat" which would be destroyed if the Corte Madera site were selected.

Arrigoni, whose supervisorial district includes parts of Larkspur but not Corte Madera, emphasized also the Larkspur site is buildable now as opposed to the "years" it would take for Corte Madera's because of fill requirements.

Arrigoni's statement was countered by Arthur N. Morrison, Corte Madera town engineer, who said the town's site could be dry-filled and used immediately.

The committee, which has been through two previous ferry terminal site reports by proponents, sat through another — almost identical in content — before endorsing both sites.

Subsequent discussion concentrated on channel dredging and whether the Army Corps of Engineers would help financially.

Architect Norman T. Gilroy of Mill Valley, who planned the Larkspur proposal, told the committee the corps had indicated it would help dredge the Larkspur channel but not Corte Madera's.

Pleasure boat usage of the creek, he said, was the reason the district could expect Army assistance.

However, Wornum said after the meeting he also had had discussions with the Army and had come away with no such impression.

Eyebrows were raised when it was disclosed the proposed channel to the Corte Madera site runs directly over offshore property owned by the Nature Conservancy.

The committee, noting that the bulk of the channel runs through offshore property owned by Muzzi, asked the property owner if the channel path is included in his offer of 25 acres of free property for the terminal.

Muzzi responded he hadn't considered the question but would discuss it with others involved in development of his property.

Councilman Neil R. Brixon of Larkspur, however, was quick to point out that the proposed channel to the Larkspur site traverses state lands.

"You'd be dealing with state lands, which you could get for almost nothing," he said. "You don't have to buy Muzzi property here (Larkspur) to get to deep water."

At Wornum's insistance, the committee refused to consider cost factors of developing the two sites.

"We're trying to determine today if there are any overriding planning or operating factors of one site over the other," he said. "Not costs."

On a motion by Director William Lucius of Healdsburg, the committee approved both sites as acceptable. Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis voted against.

Mafia Figure's Son Indicted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A second son of Mafia figure Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonanno was indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury on charges of using extortion to collect a debt.

The jury accused Salvatore Vincent Bonanno, 38, Campbell, of illegally collecting a $2,500 debt from Arobert Piper, 30, a pilot. The same panel charged Joseph Bonanno Jr., 25, San Jose, and two other men with the crime last month.

Ready to talk about DEPENDABILITY?

People often forget one important thing when buying their first washer. It's DEPENDABILITY. Consequently, they get to know the repairman pretty well. And that's expensive. With the second washer, it's different. Dependability comes first! And that's why a Speed Queen should be your No. 1 choice. Speed Queens are Designed and Built to be dependable . . . to give extra years of faithful service. We'd love to have you come in and say, "prove it."

Priced from $229 to $329

*LIFETIME WARRANTY ON STAINLESS STEEL DRUM

The Speed Queen stainless steel dryer drum is warranted for the life of the dryer by Speed Queen, A Division of McGraw-Edison Company. If the drum fails as a result of a manufacturing defect, it will be replaced. Labor charges incurred in the removal and replacement of the drum are the responsibility of the owner unless the one year warranty responsibility of the Speed Queen dealer applies.

*10-YEAR WARRANTY ON TRANSMISSION PARTS

Speed Queen washer transmissions consisting of the case, cover, rocker arm, link, crank gear, connecting rod, pinion and drive clutch are warranted for ten years from date of installation by Speed Queen, A Division of McGraw-Edison Company. If any of the above listed parts fail within the 10-year warranty period as a result of a manufacturing defect, they will be replaced. What's going on in Sacramento?

Plenty. There's a new climate, a new political alignment in the state legislature . . . and possibly a new approach to legislative problems which are of definite importance to you.

When the new Speaker speaks, Tracy Wood reports for you in the I-J

Bob Moretti, new Speaker of the House, appears to be concentrating intensely as he listens to a question from Tracy Wood, one of the I-J's United Press International reporters in Sacramento.

Perhaps from experience Moretti knows that Tracy is no one to turn off with a smile or top-of-the-head remark. For young and feminine as she may be, Tracy Wood has the gift of separating verbal chaff from the wheat. And of being so persistently inquiring that political figures think twice before answering . . . and maybe thrice about not answering.

Tracy, like all I-J and UPI reporters, takes the stubbornly objective view, that you, the reader, have the right to know. No system on earth so well insures that you may be informed. And none so well brings out the element which alone distinguishes good reporting - the truth.

Nicasio Subdivision Plan On Tap

Plans for the first major subdivision in the pastoral Nicasio area will be considered by the Marin County Planning Commission when it meets at 9 a.m. Monday.

Cirilo Gonzales, who owns 1,300 acres on the south side of Lucas Valley Road, just east of Nicasio, wants to subdivide 164 acres into 15 large lots for single family homes. It will be called the Rancho Margarita subdivision.

In anticipation of future expansion of the subdivision, Gonzales seeks rezoning of a total of 580 acres.

Other items on the planning commission agenda include:

MARINA — Larry Marks Jr. will submit a tentative subdivision map for nine Marina lots on seven acres along the west shore of Tomales Bay, just north of Golden Hinde Boatel.

BOARDWALK — Robert Rhoads wants to build on a 4,000-square-foot lot at 125 Greenbrae Boardwalk.

PRIVATE SCHOOL — A group called Parents for Orthodox and Parochial Education will ask for a use permit to operate a private school for 30 children at 1100 Las Gallinas Avenue, across the street from Bernard Hoffman School, Terra Linda.

LAND DIVISION — Charlotte Berkov will ask for a four-lot division of about five acres at Indian Springs Road and Indian Valley Road in Southwest Novato.

Suspicion Of Theft At Wash

Two Kentfield residents — one a former football star at the College of Marin — have been arrested on suspicion of stealing $1,124 from a safe at a San Rafael car wash where one was assistant manager.

Police said that Gary F. Gunn, 21, of 151 Kent Avenue, assistant manager of the Rain Tunnel car wash, gave the combination of the safe to his roommate, Ronald P. Blasingame, 20, and that they split the money later at their apartment.

Police said the theft occurred after closing hours last Saturday.

Blasingame, former student body president of Tamalpais High School who had previously worked at the Rain Tunnel, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary and grand theft. Gunn was booked on suspicion of grand theft.

Both were released on their own recognizance to appear in Marin Municipal Court March 2.

Research Finds Human Fetus Has Disease Fighter

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Research has revealed that a fetus produces its own antibodies to fight diseases contracted before birth, a medical researcher reported Thursday.

Dr. Jon V. Straumfjord Jr., research supervisor at Milwaukee General Hospital, said that previously doctors believed the fetus did not produce such antibodies.

The new knowledge will enable doctors to treat the fetus by administering oral medication to the mother or through blood transfusions.

"These antibodies, known as "Gama-M," have been isolated and can now be used in laboratory tests to detect the presence of infectious diseases," Straumfjord said during an interview.

GREG DALE
Honored by DeMolay

Chevalier Degree For Novatan

Greg Dale, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dale of 482 Fairway Drive, Novato, will receive the order of DeMolay's Chevalier Degree at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Druids Hall, Novato.

The Chevalier Degree is a citation for outstanding service and is the second highest honor the order bestows.

Dale has been a member of the Novato Chapter, Order of DeMolay for seven years and is a past master councilor. He is a senior at the University of the Pacific at Stockton and is preparing for a career in medicine.

Pay Scale Comparison In Dixie

The Dixie School District devotes a greater than average percentage of its budget to teacher salaries, but its pay scale is the lowest of 78 Bay Area districts.

That was the conclusion of a computer budget analysis presented to the district board Wednesday by James Sutton, fiscal expert for the Bay section of the California Teachers Association, according to Supt. Clifford W. Campbell.

The budget study, which cost the district $50, showed that Dixie devoted 64.6 per cent of its budget in 1969-70 to teachers' salaries, compared to 62 per cent statewide, Campbell said.

However, starting teachers received only $6,100, compared to a Bay Area average of $6,800 to $6,900. Since no raise was granted teachers this fiscal year, the district is probably $1,000 below the state average across the board, Campbell said.

Sutton, according to Campbell, said the district would have to decide whether to have fewer teachers with a better salary schedule or maintain the present teacher-pupil ratio with below-average salaries.

Sutton, according to Campbell, also concluded:

1. State support dipped from 48.5 per cent in 1965-66 to 38.6 last year, while income from property taxes rose from 48.9 per cent to 58.1 per cent.

2. The district has shown uncanny accuracy in predicting both income and outlays.

3. Expenditure per pupil was more than $100 a year above the state average of $686 in 1969-70, but was well below the average in other Marin districts.

The Dixie School District board also:

UNION — Referred two organizers for Classified School Employees Union, Local 625, to Campbell to set up a conference.

FILM — Granted permission to teacher Sheila Farrell to make a movie on excavation of the Miwok mound at Miller Creek School.

HIRE — Hired Troy Rhodd as custodian two hours a day at Don Timoteo School for $575 for the rest of the school year.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence without pay for one year to Jane Reamer, fifth grade teacher at Nova Albion School, and Jean Tamashiro, who is on leave this year, for the 1971-72 school year.

OLD SCHOOL — Heard a report by Campbell that a Dixie School House Foundation has been set up to collect funds to move and restore the old Dixie School. The 100-year-old building will be moved to Miller Creek School and renovated for a museum if money is raised.

SCHOOL START — Heard a request by Campbell to begin the next school year on Sept. 13 in accordance with an effort by county school superintendents to establish a uniform school year.

Quake Appeal

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan Thursday called on all Californians to contribute to the Red Cross to replace the funds it spent to aid victims of the Los Angeles earthquake and the tornadoes in the South.

Extra Class Loads Forecast At Sonoma

Sonoma State College instructors may find themselves in the classroom for more hours next semester since Gov. Ronald Reagan's recommended budget will admit an additional 500 students without comparably increasing the faculty.

Under the proposed budget, the present enrollment of 3,850 will be increased to 4,470 in the fall. Sonoma State's allocation would permit the addition of only 1.8 faculty members to handle the extra load.

While college officials called the budget effect "damaging," it was reported that other colleges might lose faculty members while increasing enrollment. A total of 250 teaching positions have been proposed in the statewide cut.

Under the proposal, total education cost for each full-time equivalent student would drop from the current $1,965 to $1,814. Similarly, the faculty-student ratio will increase from the present 14.59 students for one instructor to 16.50 students.

The 1971-72 budget also eliminates the sought after funding for a physical science building and a general classroom building which president Thomas H. McGrath had labeled as "critical needs."

The budget would also reduce the number of department chairmen, eliminate all funds for research, special faculty leaves, moving expenses for new teachers and out-of-state travel for recruitment. Faculty pay increases and cost-of-living increases are also expected to be on the chopping block.

The overall operational budget, however, would increase from the present $7,565,473 to $7,925,484 for a gain of $360,011.

McGrath met yesterday with San Francisco State President S. I. Hayakawa and San Jose President John Bunzell to prepare an approach to get more funds in the final budget.

Ferry Fare Boost Seen For Children; Infants Too

Children's fares on the Sausalito ferry will be hiked on March 15 under a proposal endorsed today by a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

Children 16 and under now pay 25 cents, and children under 5 require no tickets.

Under the new fare system, the full 50-cent fare will apply to all passengers over 12 years of age, and all persons 12 and under will pay 25 cents. Infants also would pay the 25-cent fare.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring proposed the change, saying it was necessary to permit a comparison between the count of passengers and the number of tickets collected. This was impossible, he said, with infants paying no fare. He said it also was difficult to differentiate between 16 and 17-year-olds.

Luehring acknowledged that the change will mean some additional revenue.

The change was endorsed by the finance-auditing committee, but final board approval was postponed two weeks to give time for public reaction.

Sentenced To Prison On Felonies

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Wesley A. Johnson — once accused of killing a San Francisco Police Officer Richard P. Radetich of Ignacio was sentenced yesterday to state prison on four other felony charges.

Johnson, 31, made several outbursts in court, according to Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles Breyer, including calling Judge Joseph J. Karesh a "pig."

Johnson had rarely seen the jury that found him guilty earlier this month in San Francisco Superior Court because Judge Karesh excluded him from court for frequent haranging of the jury.

Johnson, who lived in San Francisco, was convicted of first degree burglary, attempted robbery, assault on a policeman with a deadly weapon and being an exconvict who had a gun.

He is to serve the sentences consecutively, with the longest one being five-years-to-life.

The charges arose from a San Francisco attempted holdup of a telegraph office in November 1969.

While a fugitive on these charges Johnson became a suspect in the fatal shooting of Radetich last June, while the patrolman sat in his patrol car writing a ticket. The charge was later dropped when the district attorney's office had a witness problem and it has not been reinstated.

Five Plead Innocent To Pot Charges

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Five men arrested last May in Mill Valley in connection with a sale of 180 pounds of marijuana pleaded innocent yesterday in U.S. District Court to charges of conspiracy and unlawful transportation of marijuana.

A jury trial was set for May 17 for Eric R. Millican, 21, of Long Beach; John A. Papia, 21, of Mill Valley; Thomas N. Hammer, 21, and Sheldon P. Levy, 21, both of San Francisco, and Ramon Buchayer, 29, of Larkspur.

Judge Alfonzo Zirpoli also set April 22 for hearing of defense motions in the case.

The case of the five men was dismissed earlier because they had been charged under a federal law which had been declared unconstitutional. They were reindicted by a federal grand jury this month.

The marijuana seized in the May arrest was valued at $120,000, narcotics agents said.

Inmate Fails To Show Up By Deadline

A San Quentin prisoner who had gone to Los Angeles on a 72-hour pass failed to return at his 2 p.m. deadline yesterday, according to prison officials.

Missing is Henry Buchanan Jelkes, 40, due to be paroled May 10.

Associate Warden Wayne Bartels said that Buchanan was first sent to San Quentin in 1961 from Los Angeles County on conviction of lewd and lascivious conduct. He was paroled in 1968 but was returned to prison last May for parole violation.

Bartels explained that convicts are allowed 72-hour passes when they are within 90 days of being paroled.

Since January 1, 18 prisoners have either escaped or failed to return from either 72-hour passes or work furlough.

Board of Review To Name Chairman

The Fairfax Board of Review will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Women's Club at 46 Park Road, Fairfax, to appoint a chairman and to review changes in the rules and regulations governing Fairfax personnel.

According to Eileen Foster, Fairfax city clerk, the board is also slated to consider a request for a public hearing regarding the method of selecting candidates for the street department examination.

Losing Favor

ROME (UPI)—Juke boxes are losing favor in Italy, according to an industry survey. Only 7 per cent of Italy's 24,000 juke boxes brought earnings of more than $800 each in 1969, compared with 13 per cent in 1968. The number of juke boxes losing money after taxes and royalties rose from 34 to 40 per cent.

Strike-Involved Sentences, Dismissals, A Plea Change

I-J Special Report

VALLEJO — Two men were sentenced yesterday in Vallejo Municipal Court on misdemeanor charges; two men's cases were dismissed, and a fifth changed his plea on counts arising from incidents involving San Francisco Typographical Union 21's strike against the Independent-Journal.

All of the cases had been transferred to Municipal Court Judge William E. Jensen's court after defense attorneys argued their clients could not obtain fair trials in Marin County.

Bruce Bauer, a Redwood City youth accused of smashing an I-J delivery truck window on Jan. 17, 1970, withdrew his plea of not guilty to the count. Judge Jensen ordered him to return March 17 for reading of a presentencing probation report, formal change of plea and final sentencing.

A malicious mischief charge against James P. Martin, also of Redwood City, was dismissed on motion of Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Ragghianti. The prosecutor said witnesses had been unable to identify Martin as the picket who slammed a stick on the trunk of an I-J employee's car Jan. 28, 1970.

Charges against picket William A. Cogswell of Rio Linda (Sacramento County) also were dismissed. Ragghianti said Cogswell made restitution for a radio antenna he allegedly broke off a car parked outside the I-J March 20, 1970. Another case involving battery and trespass charges was dismissed because the principal witness has left the state, Ragghianti explained.

Gary Corvello of 1441 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was fined $100 and placed on six months' summary probation after his attorney entered a plea of guilty to a charge of malicious mischief to the property of I-J employee Dennis Dickey, on March 2, 1970.

Michael J. Clancy of San Bruno, entered a no-contest plea through his attorney, to a charge of defacing windows at the Independent-Journal while on picket duty one year ago today. Judge Jensen fined him $50 and imposed six months summary probation.

All the cases, plus a number still pending, involved incidents since the San Francisco International Typographical Union Local 21 struck the I-J on Jan. 7, 1970.

Fancy Bedroom Means Hike In Wife's Alimony

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—A wife's description of her husband's bedroom—complete with spring-fed trout pool and wine and beer on tap—has won her increased alimony payments.

Commissioner Donald N. Niles set the monthly payments at $450, pending the divorce, after the woman submitted an affidavit describing her husband's ski resort home.

"The sunken master bedroom has a bathroom which includes a small but deep bathing pool. There is a trout pool in a corner of the bedroom fed by a natural stream. The bedroom even has beer and wine on tap," she said.

The wife asked for $1,000 a month and her husband argued $300 would be fair.

The husband complained that the bedroom argument was unfair-his wife had insisted on building it.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

7:58 a.m., Novato — Pillow fire in closet of Fernando Clementino home, 1052 Fifth Street, caused by pillow near light bulb; damage estimated at $50.

5:30 p.m., Novato — Fire in trash bin on north side of San Jose Junior High School, 1000 Sunset Parkway. Apparently caused by ignited material thrown into bin; damage limited to scorching of bin.

6:37 p.m., Larkspur — Trash receptacle fire in Dolliver Park, Magnolia and Madrone avenues; no damage.

6:49 p.m., Novato — Chimney fire in Lorenze Pedersen home, 136 Harbor Drive, Black Point; accumulated soot ignited, no damage.

9:29 p.m., Alto — Overheated water heater in Kublai Khan restaurant, Strawberry Town and Country Shopping Center; no damage.

11:52 p.m., San Anselmo — Sofa fire in J. C. Criss residence, 60 Magnolia Avenue, caused by dropped cigar. Damage estimated at $60.

SOUTHERN SONOMA
No fire calls.

Bed Leasing To Be Checked For A Disaster

Hillcrest Hospital directors last night said an agreement to lease beds at convalescent hospitals should be considered as part of disaster planning.

The board told administrator Joseph Horner to negotiate with owners of local convalescent hospitals so that 20 or 30 beds would be available in the event of an earthquake or other disaster that would strain facilities at the 50-bed Hillcrest facility.

Horner said the lease agreement might be useful in the event that Petaluma General Hospital should ever close and Hillcrest be faced with crowded conditions.

The Hillcrest Hospital board of directors also:

PLANS — Reviewed preliminary architectural plans for a new hospital facility that would accommodate 500 beds after 1990. Horner said the board members will study the plans and consider approval in March.

ELECTION — Asked the Petaluma City Council to consolidate the election of two board members with the June 8 city council and board of education election. The terms of Jack Garrison and Albert P. Behrens Sr. will expire.

ACCREDITATION — Heard a report that the joint committee on accreditation of hospitals will review the Hillcrest operation on March 10 and 11.

GIFT — Accepted a $1,000 gift from the hospital auxiliary to purchase a battery-operated datascope.

Minor Injuries In Auto Crash

William A. Jackson, 64, of 111 Clark Street, San Rafael, suffered cuts of the upper lip yesterday when his car went off the roadway at Bugeia Lane and Atherton Avenue, Novato, through a wire fence and into a ditch, Novato police reported today.

The accident was at 9:34 a.m. Jackson was treated at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital.

Pitch For Doubling One Budget

The Marin County Human Rights Department's budget next year should be doubled over this year's to pay for a bigger staff with better salary.

On a motion by Mayer, the commissioners asked for a budget of $75,700, compared with this year's $35,000. Last year's budget was $51,400, and the 1969 budget, $40,700.

The commissioners asked for a salary of $16,000 for the department director, instead of the present $12,000. They also asked for an assistant director with a salary of $14,000, a grievance and compliance counselor at $12,000, a youth coordinator at $9,000, secretary at $7,800, a clerk typist at $6,350, and four work study students.

The commissioners want a chain of command that would make the commission and department directly responsible to the board of supervisors instead of reporting through the county administrator.

On a motion by Anthony Medrano, the commissioners also asked supervisors for authority to investigate human rights at both San Quentin Prison and in the Marin County Jail.

Petaluma Vandalism

De Martini and Smith Construction Co. of Novato told Petaluma police that truck windows were smashed and a water truck drained at a construction site at South Crinella and Sarkesian drives. Damage was estimated at $650.

Advice Sought On Marin Aqueduct

The Marin Municipal Water District board learned yesterday that it can safely wait until 1972 to build the first stage of the Marin aquaduct.

However, board members wondered whether it wouldn't be wise to build the $3 million project this year anyway.

"If I had to make a seat of the pants decision, there is no doubt about what I would do. I would go ahead right now," Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. said.

Foreaker said that construction cost will undoubtedly rise in the next year. "The question is: Do you make money go farther by spending sooner?" he said.

The board decided to ask its bond consultant, Stone and Youngberg, to prepare a report of whether it would be financially wise to build this year or wait until the need develops next year.

The firm, according to General Mgr. William R. Seeger, is planning to recommend that all $11.5 million in bonds be sold immediately because of the favorable bond market.

Since the amount of the bonds to be sold is fixed, Foreaker was concerned that because of inflation they might not cover costs of the projects they are ticketed for.

The water district had planned to complete the pipeline from Hamilton Air Force Base to Novato this year so it could buy water from the North Marin Water District until the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct is completed in three to five years.

However, a written report by engineer Bernie B. Heare indicated that reservoirs were full on Jan. 1 and consumption was running at the same level as last year. Therefore, he concluded, no water shortage will develop until the fall of 1972 or beyond.

The aqueduct is intended to bring in water from the Russian River to insure an adequate water supply into the 1990s.

Expansive Ordinance Is Set By MMWD

An ordinance that will make 400 to 500 customers install expensive backflow devices in the interest of protecting the water supply was passed yesterday by the Marin Municipal Water District board.

The ordinance requires customers handling dangerous substances that could enter the water system to install backflow devices at their own expense. The devices cost up to $4,150 each, depending on the size of the water line.

The board also approved hiring a cross-connection inspector for between $755 and $839 a month to enforce the ordinance.

However, no decision was made on how consumers will be allowed to pay for the devices or on how much time they will have to install them.

General Mgr. William R. Seeger said no time limit is desirable because the amount of time needed in each case will vary considerably.

Seeger recommended customers be required to pay the whole sum at once as do those who purchase pipeline extensions.

However, the board, at the insistence of Director Eugene A. Miller, directed staff to report back on alternative means by which the money would be raised by buyers. Mentioned were an installment plan and extensions of time to allow financing to be obtained.

Alternate financing methods would be available only to existing buildings, Miller said. Builders of new structures which would require backflow protection will have to pay a lump sum as part of their capital outlay, he said.

Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. worred that the lack of a deadline would delay compliance. However, the district's attorney Robert W. Elliott, said shirkers might lose their water for failure to compiy.

Priority targets of the ordinance are sewage treatment plants, plating industries and hospitals. Other priority facilities are schools, high-rise structures, buildings with sewage pumping facilities or auxiliary water supplies, large commercial laundries, irrigation services and whatever other customers the district judges to be using hazardous substances.

The state Department of Water Resources had postponed certifying the water district's compliance with state laws until the district showed signs of adopting the cross-connection ordinance.

The Marin Municipal Water Board Also:

COMPRESSOR — Put over to March 10 purchase of two air compressors for destratification of water at Nicasio Lake so bids can be analyzed. Estimated cost is $2,800.

INVENTORY — Put over to next meeting hiring two University of California professors to take inventory of the water district lands to get more details on what they will do.

PINE MOUNTAIN — Agreed that the state share of the cost of cleaning up the Pine Mountain Tunnel Slide is $2,420. The federal government is to pay an additional $23,000 of the $47,000 cost.

SOILS ENGINEER — Hired Cooper Clark and Associates of Novato for $9,600 to do soil testing of a marshy area near Novato Creek over which the Marin Aqueduct is to pass.

DEED — Accepted a right-of-way deed from the Northwestern Pacific Railroad for a 72-year-old line on railroad property near the Puerto Suello Tunnel in San Rafael. The district is to pay $100.

PIPELINE EXTENSION — Agreed to a 2,000-foot extension of eight-inch pipe in the Northgate Shopping Center for the planned Sears-Roebuck store. The $26,982 cost is to be borne by applicant M and T Company.

PIPE — Agreed to a pipe line extension of 300 feet of six-inch pipe to the property of Charles Grandi on Wildwood Way in San Rafael. Cost of the line, $4,759, is to be paid by Grandi.

HIRE — Hired Gordon E. Parsons as intermediate engineering aide at $755 a month effective April 1.

RAISE — Gave Norma L. Smith, board secretary and head of the Administrative Department, a raise from $1,027 a month to $1,083 per month.

Manzanita School Issue Draws Marin City Anger

In a meeting bristling with open hostility and which frequently broke down in utter chaos, the Sausalito School District board last night voted to house all its pupils in the Martin Luther King School.

A predominately black audience, which nearly filled the Bayside School auditorium, taunted and screamed at board members throughout the nearly four-hour meeting, protesting the decision which will probably mean the eventual closing of Manzanita School in Marin City.

The board voted 3-1, with Jerry L. Whitcomb dissenting, to move all first through eighth grade pupils to Martin Luther King for the 1971 school year, leaving only kindergarten pupils at Manzanita next year, and to move kindergarteners to Martin Luther King by the 1972-73 school year. Board Chairman Nathaniel Johnson was not present.

Marin City residents, upset at the prospect of losing their lone school, frequently cursed the board during the discussion, making it almost impossible at times to hear board members despite the use of individual microphones.

Acting board chairman Delta Christ continually had to bang her gavel to quiet members of the audience and on a couple of occasions threatened to adjourn the meeting as had been done last Monday when the same subject was being discussed.

The district's enrollment has sunk to 520 and at present the district is operating four facilities. Bayside and Central Schools will be closed next year. Manzanita probably the following year.

"We want a school in Marin City until the end of time," shouted Collie Gaines of Marin City.

Rev. Samuel Banks of Marin City accused the board of "playing games with Marin City" for many years.

"The board has failed to recognize what the people of Marin City are saying," he said. "The residents are hollering 'mayday' for help, but the board isn't listening."

He said that the board was forcing Marin City to develop its own educational system.

Members of the audience charged the board with "isolating" Marin City educationally. They also charged that the consolidation move was an attempt to get rid of teachers who related well with black students.

"When they don't need a nigger any more, they fire him," screamed one Marin City resident.

The board is also faced with trimming down its teaching ranks due to a declining student population. Several teachers have been notified their positions have been eliminated, including black teacher-administrator James Toliver.

Mrs. Christ, filling in for the absent Nathaniel Johnson, was the favorite target for hecklers in the audience. Each time she tried to restore order, she was greeted with howls of derision and more taunts.

"I'm getting damn sick and tired of you," screamed Amanda Griffin at Mrs. Christ.

Trustee Whitcomb, who opposed the decision, told the board he didn't see how any decision could be reached when the board had not yet even begun considering a tentative budget. That item was scheduled for last night's meeting but was tabled until next meeting.

"I think we're putting the cart before the horse," he said. "We need more detailed cost figures on what this is going to cost or save the district."

When the board began to vote, the audience started chanting "no, no" and clapping hands making it almost impossibleto hear. After much gavel rapping, the board finally finished voting and adjourned.

The board's decision so enraged one of the district's teachers, Ava Berman, that she almost burst into tears while yelling at the top of her lungs to be recognized before the board adjourned.

The district's teachers association last night objected to being left out of the decision-making process. Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg last night acknowledged that "only four or five" teachers had been consulted about the educational value of moving all students to one campus.

Another Phone Reported Lost

Marin County Parks and Recreation Department has lost another telephone, the sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said burglars took a machette and telephone Tuesday from a parks and recreation workshop at McNear's Beach.

Another telephone and $110 in cash were stolen last Friday or Saturday.

Undersecretary Of Commerce Resigning

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rocco Siciliano has resigned as undersecretary of commerce, effective April 9, for "pressing personal reasons."

President Nixon accepted the resignation with "deep regret." The White House said Siciliano, former president of the Pacific Maritime Association, would return to private business.

Eight Sons Join The U.S. Navy, Parents Honored

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI)—Eight sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Newman Sr. have joined the U.S. Navy.

The eighth was sworn in, along with one of the couple's grandsons, at special ceremonies this week. The induction of Raymond Kirby set a record for the most sons from one family to serve in the navy.

Seven of the boys are on active duty today. The eighth, Kirby Newman Jr., died last year in an airplane crash while in the service.

So far, "Newman's Navy" has compiled 76 years of service.

John Anthony was the Twin Falls couple's first grandson to become a sailor. Other sons on active duty are George, Joseph, Edward, Weldon, David and John.

Allende Welcome To U.S. Sailors

VALPARAISO, Chile (UPI)—President Salvador Allende has told Chileans to roll out the welcome mat for the crew of the U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise when it arrives Sunday despite somewhat cool relations between the United States and Chile.

"I am the one who invited that ship because I want the 3,600 officers and crew of the Enterprise to know what Chile is, to experience our authentic democracy," Allende said in a nationwide television address from his summer headquarters in Valparaiso Thursday.

Allende said he was making the statement because "perhaps more than one person might be planning some provocation" against the sailors.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Tiburon's Windjammer Ranks As A Comfortable Place To Dine

There are certain dining houses, which for want of a better name, can probably be classified most appropriately as "comfortable restaurants."

The term has rather a general connotation, but in this case is meant to emphasize a high degree of low-key appeal to dining outers for a spacious seating arrangement even when the restaurant is filled, smooth service, good food — of course, and an overall atmosphere that encourages complete relaxation.

At such a place diners may be inclined to tarry longer at their tables then they would ordinarily. If you were to ask them why they probably could give you no better reason than their own feeling of satisfaction in just being there. And nobody rushes them.

Marin has several places that qualify, one of them being the Windjammer in Tiburon, which offers a splendid view across the water to the San Francisco skyline but seldom thinks to make any ado about it. It's there as one of the advantages of being on the south side of Main Street — and so what? And since there can be only so many window tables it's not the only attraction.

Menu at the Windjammer is a no-nonsense one, about equally divided between meats and seafoods, the latter ranging through a New Orleans bouillabaise which is a complete dinner in itself, to scallops, sole, rex sole, shrimp curry, abalone, lobster tail, crab in a Mornay cheese sauce and some others. They are the popular dishes, easily recognizable for what they are with no fancy names.

A relaxing place, this Windjammer, even to the piano music of Mark Williams — who, make no mistake, can liven it up when its needed.

RECENTLY OPENED in Mill Valley is The Piper's Bag, a fish and chips house at 25 Miller Avenue.

That dish is prepared in the Scottish tradition, which is carried out further with bagpipes, tartan walls with Scottish posters and clan maps, red tams worn by the staff and tables made from Scotch whiskey barrels.

Top menu billing is given to "A Piper's Bag" — one-half pound of flaky cod from the North Atlantic cooked in vegetable oil and served with French Fries at $1.25. If ye're a true Scot and dinna care for mair than a wee portion, a quarter-pound of the same is 80 cents.

Hours are from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. (Fridays and Saturdays to 9 p.m.) Much of the business is take-out and manager Jeanne Skvaril notes that with 24 hours notice, deliveries for parties of 20 or more will be made.

SPEAKING OF FISH, McDonald's hamburger chain claims the distinction of having the biggest retail sales of fish in the United States, having sold more than 19 million pounds of it last year through its 1,600 restaurants. Fish was added to the McDonald's menu in 1965 (filet of fish sandwiches) and since then the chain has sold over 92 million pounds.

Collectively McDonald's outlets are said to account for 10 per cent of the frozen fish market and a trawler belonging to the Groton fleet has been named for the company.

LE TONNEAU in Corte Madera now has organ entertainment in the lounge on Friday and Saturday nights from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Nancy Valencia, who has appeared at both Marin and San Francisco night spots is the performing artist. She's good with group singing.

You'll notice something new in the dining room, too — waiters instead of waitresses.

IN SPITE of close checking, some errors do seem to occur in any directory — and our 1971 Dining and Wining Guide apparently has not been free of them. Here are some that have been called to our attention, and corrections:

Jean's Kitchen in Ross — Hours should be from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. Sundays, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. until the first of May. After that Jean's will close on Sundays.

Jerry's Farmhouse Inn, Olema — Food service is from noon to 10 p.m. (not 2 a.m.); bar is open to 2 a.m.

Kublai Khan, Strawberry Town and Country Village — Steak and lobster should be $3.95 — a la carte.

Pier 15, San Rafael — Hours are from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. (Fridays to 11). Reuben sandwich is $1.60 not $1.50. Banquet and party room seats 60 — 80 persons.

Any further corrections will be made as we are informed of them.

"CHOPSTICKS FOR CHARITY" is the name of an unusual chopsticks contest which will be held next Tuesday in the "Room of the Eight Immortals" in the Chinese Cultural Center of the new Holiday Inn on Kearney and Clay streets, San Francisco.

The contest is being hosted by the Imperial Palace Restaurant of San Francisco to aid the local Auxiliary of the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation. It is being held at the cultural center instead of at the restaurant itself because the latter is now undergoing repairs for damage by a recent fire.

An impressive list of contestants will vie for first place with chopsticks over an eight-course lunch of Chinese cuisine. An equally impressive group of judges will give the final word on their technique, including Shirley Temple Black and Chinatown businessman J. K. Choy.

WINE WITH YOUR VIENNESE FOOD can now be ordered at the Old Vienna Restaurant opened in December at 508 Third Street, San Rafael. Owners Karl and Edith Klauda have just received their on sale wine and beer license.

NOW AT SAN FRANCISCO'S Purple Onion, owned by Bud and Virginia Steinhoff of Mill Valley, are Leon Siu and Malia Elliott, a duo from Hawaii featuring folk music, Hawaiian songs, pop tunes and original compositions.

Leon and Malia are in the process of releasing their first LP album under the Que Records label of Quadrum United Enterprises.

Words Omitted From Story

Due to a typographical error, words were omitted from a description of the Red Cross role in disasters in Tuesday's portion of a three-article series on Marin disaster preparedness.

The paragraph should have read:

If state or federal officials declare Marin a disaster area, the Red Cross can help rehabilitate families by assisting them in obtaining federal low-interest loans for buildings and other needs.

Any Red Cross disaster financial assistance would be an outright grant and not a loan, according to officials of the Marin chapter.

Sentencing Scheduled In Forgery

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A blonde resident of Sausalito's high-rent district who boasted in her jail cell of forging more than $50,000 worth of checks in four months, is scheduled for sentencing on one case March 9. She may stand trial the same day in another case.

Janice Long, 21, who has used aseveral other aliases, pleaded guilty earlier this month to a count of possessing a forged document. She was ordered to undergo medical examination for possible drug addiction. She appeared in Superior Court Wednesday for the setting of her March 9 date for probation report and sentencing.

Miss Long pleaded not guilty to one count of possessing a forged Bank of America seal and two counts of forging bank customers' names to checks, in the second case. If her sentencing on the guilty plea does not lead to dismissal of the second case March 9, she is to begin trial that date on the forgery and seal counts, court aides said yesterday.

Burglaries, At The Schools

Burglaries of two more Marin schools were reported by Marin County sheriff's office yesterday.

A tape recorder of undetermined value and $15 in cash were stolen from Lagunitas School in San Geronimo last Thursday or Friday, deputies said.

Some checks and a green wallet containing two personal record books were also taken, but the checks and record books were found Thursday in a mail slot at the Fairfax Post Office. The wallet was not returned, deputies reported.

About $100 damage was done to doors and windows and $3 in cash was taken from a soft drink machine between last Friday and Sunday by burglars at Loma Verde School in Loma Verde, deputies said.

Shoplifting Case To Juvenile Court

The case of Karla Anne Steele, 20, of San Rafael, has been certified to Marin Juvenile Court.

Miss Steele is charged with shoplifting at the Emporium at Northgate Jan. 8 and possessing marijuana when she was booked at Marin County Jail.

Built-In Tax Increase Without Raising Rate

As public administrators and boards of directors, trustees, supervisors, etc., begin to get down to specific figures for fiscal 1971 budgets, all of them are aware of something that the rest of us may have largely ignored.

This is that the amount they get from taxes will automatically go up next fiscal year without raising tax rates.

This will occur because, under state mandate, the assessment ratio will be 25 per cent of market value instead of 23 per cent. The difference, according to County Assessor Bert Broemmel, is 8.6 per cent in the tax bill.

THUS, IF YOUR property tax bill for fiscal 1970 (of which you probably still owe half, to be paid in April) was $1,000, it would rise to $1,086 for fiscal 1971 even if all the assorted taxing agencies left their rates unchanged.

In many cases, it would rise more than that, because of reappraisals. County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell estimates that the over-all increase in assessed valuation in the county will approximate 11 per cent, including the automatic 8.6 per cent hike. So on the average, that $1,000 tax bill would rise to $1,110 if rates remained the same. And in scarcely any case would it rise to less than $1,086, since reduction in appraisal is highly unusual these days.

Offhand, it would appear that this offers an excellent opportunity for the various boards, councils and commissions to reduce their tax rates. They could do so and still have as much money for next year's operations as they have for this year's.

THERE ARE, HOWEVER, the usual gremlins in the works.

One of them is inflation. Although the administration in Washington is patting itself on the back because the cost of living index went up only one-tenth of one per cent last month, that means little when it has been going up for months at a record rate.

Another gremlin is that the budgets of the taxing agencies are drawn up by people whose concern is less with cutting taxes than with keeping the existing level of services, paper-shuffling that masquerades as services, and most important — to them — at least the existing number of people on the payroll.

It is scarcely realistic to expect a county administrator or city manager, for instance, to propose a budget which involves cutting his own staff, or reducing either staff or functions of any department under his control. His heart may bleed a bit for the taxpayers (as he is one of them) but it is not likely to bleed that much. (Besides, he can take care of the inflation as it affects him personally by promoting himself a pay hike.)

SO WHAT WE HEAR from officials of county, city, school district, etc. is not talk about tax rate reduction. It is talk about tax rate increase — on top of the automatic hike provided by the increase in the assessment ratio.

What we should all bear in mind is this: If a taxing agency that took $2 per $100 assessed valuation talks about a 10-cent rate increase for next fiscal year, it is not talking about a 5 per cent tax increase. It is talking about a tax increase of at least 14.1 per cent, in dollars — our dollars.

If it talks about holding the tax rate to last year's rate, it really is talking about increasing its tax on us by at least 8.6 per cent, in dollars — our dollars.

Wast Not, Want Not, Pollute Not

Somewhere along the line, we Americans drifted from the maxim, "Waste not, want not." With conspicuous consumption and planned obsolescence, we spent ourselves into the role of richest nation on earth. Consumer spending accounts for about 60 per cent of the national economy.

But "waste not, want not" is still a good maxim. It recognizes the fact that the earth is a closed system with limited amounts of farmable land, water, minerals and even air to breathe. It is extravagance with the things the good earth has given us that will lead to our eventual impoverishment.

This same extravagance leads to massive pollution. The use-it-up, toss-it-out, buy-a-new-one philosophy was okay when we had a superabundance of resources per person and lots of empty space for the rubbish. To lengthen our survival time on this planet, we must realize that simple living is best.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO—(CNS) — Probably nothing is more frustrating than the inability to function as necessary after a major disaster, such as the recent Los Angeles earthquake. Members of the California Legislature want some action, but are left in the unenviable position of locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen.

This is evidenced in the number of proposed legislative actions being accumulated on behalf of citizens whose property was damaged by the quake. And one of the first things that comes to mind is insurance.

THE ASSEMBLY Finance and Insurance Committee, according to chairman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, will go into the insurance matter March 1.

"Committee findings," Fenton said, "could lead to possible legislative action if the cost and availability of earthquake insurance places an undue financial burden on the people of the state."

It is known that earthquake insurance costs are "out of this world," particularly in and around the known fault areas of the state, which according to the geologic maps, are many.

LEGISLATION HAS been introduced by Sen. Lawrence E. Walsh, D-Huntington Park, to increase the state gasoline tax by a cent until sufficient funds have been raised to repair the quake damage on highways.

This legislation is not without precedent, as once previously in time of disaster by flood, the tax was increased until funds were available to repair the damage.

More legislation is proposed to repair damaged homes which are under Cal-Vet loans. This was introduced by Assemblyman Robert E. Cline, R-Canoga Park.

Cal-Vet loans are supposed to be covered with earthquake insurance, but Cline says there is insufficient money in the fund to cover the extraordinary amount of damage caused by the Los Angeles quake.

A THIRD PLEA comes from Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-Van Nuys, who suggests that all San Fernando Valley homeowners who have suffered damage to their property ask for a re-assessment, as, if the damage exceeds $1,000, they are entitled to tax relief.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Bernadette, Angela Interesting Pair

Very interesting! Bernadette visits Angela and claims both are fighting "in the same struggle." We shall have to guess to what "struggle" she refers. Very difficult!

Bernadette went to meet Angela as a "fellow comrade." Where have we heard that expression, "comrade" before?

I thought only relatives and lawyers were allowed to visit Angela. She and Bernadette are hardly of the same nationality or race, even — just sisters under the skin. They deserve each other!

Why List Salaries Of Public Employees?

I am writing to find out if there is a good reason for you publishing the salaries of all the county employees.

I have thought about this a long time and I can find no good reason for your publishing these salaries except for gossip value and to me this is certainly not a good reason.

BILL BIXBY

(Salaries make up a major portion of the expenses of government financed with your taxes. The taxpayer has difficulty understanding where this money goes after it leaves his pocket. Publication of the salaries of public employees gives him a chance to see where his tax dollars went. — Editor.)

Vasconcellos Bill Truly Conservative

It is a popular misconception that the Vasconcellos Bill to allow the state of California to help Californians who refuse to serve in undeclared wars is a radical piece of legislation. It is not, it is true conservatism.

Historically, the power to declare wars has belonged to the Congress, while the power to repel sudden attacks on American TERRITORY has been implicit in the President's commander-in-chief status. . .

However, we began to stray from this in the spring and summer of 1941, eight months before Pearl Harbor, when we began to get involved in the naval war in the Atlantic. . .

Again, when North Korea flagrantly and openly invaded South Korea, we intervened with no authorization and only two months later, got U.N. sanction.

What makes this issue difficult is that in both these cases, the cause was just and the action, popular.

In Vietnam, there is an equivocal situation of no political division being authorized by the 1956 Geneva Settlement, in fact it is specifically prohibited. But, by stumbling from one "solution" to another, we are now neck deep in three civil wars; one in Vietnam, one in Cambodia, and one in Laos. We have no authorization from our Constitution, treaty commitment, or the United Nations. Even the tawdry semi-authorization of the Tonkin Gulf Resolution is no more.

But the administration uses completely circular logic. Our troops are there (never mind how or why) so the President, as commander-in-chief, has the authority to do anything, or send aircraft anywhere to protect them.

The vasconcellos Bill would be a strong push away from this madness and back toward the strict constructionism the Nixon administration gives much lip service to, but ignores in practice.

Health Diagnosis In The Classroom

In the San Anselmo School District during the week of Feb. 16 one teacher from each school spent their teaching time (while a substitute was hired to replace them in the classroom) at Wade Thomas School to prepare (?) materials for the new health program . . .

An invitation was extended by our superintendent, Mr. (Kenneth) Lowry, to a couple of concerned parents, and since I also fall into that category, I also went . . . Here are only a very few of the things proposed to be included in our children (K-eighth grade) "mental health program" (should we allow it to be adopted):

(1) The student will write an essay about a person who exhibits what he considers to be maladjusted behavior . . . and recommend a type of service the person should seek for help.

(2) Given symptoms, such as loss of weight, dizziness, frequent headaches, a student will categorize . . . those symptoms which are self-treatable and those which should be treated by a professional.

(3) The student will describe the common self-treatment for an illness and cite the procedure for treating the illness . . . It is our sincere desire that the public schools will accept their intended responsibility and return to teaching the "three R's" and thereby eliminate (among other things) so much need for remedial work by the time the children reach high school and college.

Hair Length Not Business Of Judge

Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black is an old man. Many question his competence to continue in the arduous and vital tasks of the court. I suspect you would not fail to point that out were his pronouncements contrary to your opinions.

Youth and age are not per se matters of birth dates. Justice Holmes died a young man — in his 90s. I do not pretend to know how Holmes would have spoken on the great issue of length of hair. He might have pointed out that many of the now-venerated patriots and respectable founding fathers would not be allowed to attend high school today; even Abe Lincoln might have trouble making the Redwood team. It's so easy to rationalize that the customs were different. Who makes custom? How does it get changed? When is a practice a custom?

So often when we say, "I think" we are only getting ready to rationalize a prejudice, an emotional reaction, an esthetic position, that has never been exposed to, much less produced by, the thinking process.

And so, "I think" some of the long hair now worn by males looks like hell. But it is none of my business, or that of a school official, or football coach — or Hugo Black. "I think" the close-cropped style the young men were affecting a few years ago (maybe in "your day"?) were possibly even more hideous —certainly less attractive than a well-kept head of medium-length hair. Chaque un a son gout. The short hair might score a bit higher on hygienic grounds, although the moderately fullsome male locks saturated in various types of grease that I remember wouldn't score very highly in that category.

Maybe if we ignore them they'll go away . . .

GLENN MEAGHER
Fairfax

(Justice Hugo Black, in refusing an injunction in a "long hair" case brought for a high school student, said in essence what reader Meagher says: that it is none of his business, and none of the business of the lower federal courts either. — Editor.)

Solution To Arms Talk Impasse: Forbid All Nuclear Testing

For the first time since the SALT talks began at Helsinki, the sides are beginning to pick at each other, to question motives and to break needed privacy by calculated leaks.

If this doesn't stop soon both the United States and Russia will be throwing away the last best opportunity to do what the whole world is yearningly waiting for the super-powers to do — get the nuclear arms race under control before it is too late and reduce the massive costs and hideous risks of nuclear weaponry.

But they have now reached the point of mutual heckling. Each side is beginning to imply that the other is seeking one-sided advantages.

This deteriorating atmosphere looks more like a prelude to a negotiating breakdown than a negotiating breakthrough.

Nothing could be more hurtful to both our nations. Nothing could do more to snuff out the promise of a somewhat more stable and peaceful world.

IT DOESN'T HAVE to happen and I doubt if either nation wants it to happen.

But it may well be that something new must be added: A new method to bring this unwanted, dangerous, burdensome nuclear arms race under control; a new negotiating approach which would lift the talks to a higher level where decisions can be taken.

Here is what might be done, why it should be done, and how it could be done.

WHAT — It's a simple idea and it could well do more than anything else to insure halting the heretofore unending nuclear arms buildup. Its advocate is an American of the most trustworthy and qualified credentials, William C. Foster, who headed the Arms Controls and Disarmament Agency for eight years, a former undersecretary of defense and an arms-control expert who even won kind words from Gen. Curtis LeMay as a sound fellow.

His proposal: Invite the Russians and every other nation to join with us in turning the Limited Test Ban Treaty into an Unlimited Test Ban Treaty.

"Let us," says Mr. Foster, "ban all nuclear testing, not just the atmospheric testing on which we are now agreed, but all testing, including underground — all nuclear testing. Simply extend the present Test Ban Treaty."

WHY — It is Mr. Foster's considered judgment that this step alone to reduce the nuclear arms race would do far more than any proposal thus far advanced at the SALT talks, that it would keep the arms race in check and vastly would cut the cost of defense. He puts it this way:

"Do this and you automatically slow down and ultimately end nuclear innovation, for you remove the means of development. To end all nuclear testing is like taking the test tube away from the chemist. This one logical, sensible step would answer all the bothersome points now taking up endless hours of minuetlike negotiations at the SALT talks."

IS IT SAFE? Would there be grave risks that the other side could violate the ban undiscovered? We would certainly need to be sure, but it is Mr. Foster's contention that it is entirely within our scientific competence adequately to monitor any such testing.

Perhaps the portentous, "you're another" atmosphere, into which the U.S.-Soviet talks seem to be moving, will pass. This may be a period of testing each other out before compromises can be reached. But it seems to me that Mr. Foster's simple proposal is not simplistic but profoundly constructive and that it ought to be put on the U.S.-Soviet nuclear agenda on its own merits.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Political Bloodletting Aftermath Of Census

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — This, the year after the 1970 census, is the year when the Supreme Court's landmark redistricting decisions will be fully felt at last. More blood will be spilled over redistricting in the state capitals than ever before. When the hacking is over, the congressional and legislative shakeups of the '60s may seem trivial by comparison.

Most of these fights will be between the two parties, and the most publicized alterations will be in congressional districts, which must conform with population shifts in time for next year's elections.

CALIFORNIA, for example, with both its legislative houses back in Democratic control, must decide how to distribute five new congressional seats. At Sacramento, the tendency is to try to put off that mayhem till near the end of the long session in order to deal somehow with an urgent welfare situation and emergency expenditures following an earthquake only a few star-gazers dared predict.

Florida must carve out districts for three new congressmen, and Connecticut, Arizona, Colorado and Texas, one each. In the states that lost seats (two each in New York and Pennsylvania, one each in eight other states), the slicing procedure will be no less controversial.

Because they were concentrating hard at the state level last fall when Richard Nixon and Sprio Agnew had most people looking the other way, the Democrats will exert more leverage in these forthcoming tests than they could have a year ago. And based on the two parties' national images, this would presuppose a more liberal makeup both for Congress and for most of the state legislatures affected.

But in some parts of the country the word "Democrat" means something different than in the rest of the world. In Virginia, for instance.

There, the Democrats are and have been in comfortable control of both houses of the general assembly. Yet the most agonized screams heard as redistricting proceeds at Richmond come from a certified, liberal, consumer-oriented Democratic state senator who almost won his party's nomination for governor less than two years ago.

THE WAY STATE Sen. Henry Howell screams it, his Democratic colleagues are quite consciously redistricting him out of office. He has been in the legislature going on 11 years, and he got along just fine so long as he was harmlessly representing his constituents in Norfolk, the state's biggest city. But then in 1969 Howell took his Populist opinions out on the statewide stump and came within a holler of upsetting two more conservative Democrats in the gubernatorial primary.

The result of that primary and Howell's subsequent withholding of enthusiasm for the winner was that the Republicans took the governorship for the first time since Reconstruction. It also was that Howell got inspired to run again for governor in 1973.

That kind of impertinence from a professed liberal is not something the courthouse boys who controlled Democratic politics in Virginia for so long want to encourage. Their lonely surviving hero, Sen. Harry Byrd Jr., was so annoyed by such trends in the party that he ran and won as an Independent last year.

HOWELL'S HOME base is now being split into three Senate districts. There is no clear evidence that the scheme was devised intentionally to do him in, but there is no doubt that the fact that it might well do just that gave some of his ostensible party brethren added incentive for voting for the idea.

He maintains that the change will polarize Norfolk voters into voting for conservative whites or liberal blacks, and that anybody like himself, who bridges the races, will suffer. He may be right. He also may be using this cry of discrimination to set up an early issue for his attempt at re-election — and at the governorship next time.

Then again, it could turn out the way a hill-county democrat told it in Richmond last weekend, when he predicted Howell would run next time as an Independent. Asked by Charlie McDowell of The Times-Dispatch what that would accomplish, this politician answered:

"It would make the Independent Party in Virginia the most interesting political party in the United States. Its leaders would be Harry Byrd and Henry Howell, and its members would really be something to see at dinner. They'd have to use paper plates to minimize the injuries."

Paper plates may be the dinner service of choice in about 50 state capitals before the year of the great redistricting is over.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By GEORGE NEVIN

The Sir Francis Drake Blues For Dweller On Boulevard

I've got the Sir Francis Drake blues.

It's not hard to figure out why.I live on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo. I drive on it every day to and from work. From my house it's the shortest way to Fairfax and the only way to San Rafael, Ross and Kentfield.

Sir Francis Drake is the Jekyll and Hyde of Marin County roads. In its 44-mile length, from San Quentin to Point Reyes, it goes through several complete changes from narrow, winding lane to broad, four-lane highway.

FIGURES FROM the county road department and its counterpart in San Anselmo show that, except for Highway 101, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard carries the heaviest traffic load in Marin — 33,400 cars a day, both directions, in Greenbrae.

Its closest competitor is Red Hill Boulevard, itself a Sir Francis Drake tributary, with 26,000 movements per day. Shoreline Highway and East Blithedale Avenue in Southern Marin are a poor third and fourth, with 24,500 and 21,450 movements respectively.

By the time Sir Francis Drake has reached my house, across from Sir Francis Drake High School, its load has dwindled somewhat, to 20,000 movements. This, however, is a staggering burden for a two-lane road.

More figures: 875 cars pass my house going toward San Rafael and San Francisco between 7:30 and 8:30 each morning. This is 14 cars a minute or one every four seconds.

DID YOU EVER try to pull out from a side street or driveway into traffic flowing at the rate of one car every four seconds? I do, every morning, and so do thousands of other unfortunate souls who live on Sir Francis Drake in Ross, Kentfield and San Anselmo.

In the evening, things are worse: 1,114 westbound cars pass my house between 5 and 6 p.m. That's an almost unbelievable total of 18 cars a minute, one each three seconds.

Did you ever try to make a left turn against such a formidable stream of traffic? Take my advice and don't, unless you absolutely must. And it doesn't make it any easier to perform this almost-impossible act in front of one's house, visible through the fumes but so, so far away.

Mind you, I'm not complaining, merely observing. Until I find another house and move (and I'm looking, believe me), I'm married to Sir Francis Drake for better or worse.

But that doesn't stop me from getting the Sir Francis Drake blues.

JACK-in-the-Box doesn't seem to be making a very sincere effort to be a good neighbor in ecology-conscious Mill Valley. That chain's restaurant on Miller Avenue dispenses soft drinks in non-biodegradable, hard plastic cups.

Use it once and throw it away — that's a plastic cup's life. Its death, however, lasts an aternity. Plastic is indestructible, immutable.

Electric Car May Be Air's Saviour

By FREDERICK NOSSAL
Toronto Telegram
News Service

HONG KONG — Silent, fast-flowing traffic. Very few accidents. Cars that do not poison the city air with their fumes.

For years, town planners have been dreaming about electric cars speeding along computerized highways. On the highways of the future, there may be only passengers, no drivers.

The passenger would simply push a dstination button in his computerized, personal electromobile, and it would zoom away to the office or the shopping center.

For some decades, the electronic highway must remain a dream because of the fantastic costs involved. And yet it must come eventually because around the world cities are being choked by cars.

The automobile's fumes ruin the city atmosphere. Jammed roads and highways contribute to lung cancer and ulcers. Parking lots rob cities of their trees.

The push-button electromobile would do away with all that. In a properly-devised system, the electric car would return to the highways after discharing its passenger — to pick up somebody else.

Electric cars were on the roads earlier this century, and today planners are hard at work building new and smaller electromobiles. The Soviet Union already has developed a workable electric car that can run for 60 miles, and is then recharged by plugging a cord into an ordinary household wall socket.

But the nation most interested in the electronic highway is Japan.

The air over some cities is so filthy that many Japanese rarely see a blue sky. Tokyo, with a population of about 14 million, is one of the most polluted cities on earth.

Tokyo traffic policemen on occasions have worn gas masks because the air is so dirty. And although today Japanese motorists can be fined heavily if their cars cause too much pollution, Japanese authorities are not satisfied.

They want to introduce electric cars and computerized highways in the not-too-distant future.

In Japan, anything is possible. The Japanese have created multi-story driving ranges for golfers in downtown areas. They have built artificial slopes for skiers in the center of their cities.

In a quarter of a century, they have pulled their land out of the devastation caused by World War II until today it is the third economic power after the United States and the Soviet Union.

Nobody builds larger tankers or smaller transistors than the Japanese. The moving, elevated walkways at Expo 70 in Osaka gave visitors a glimpse into the cities of tomorrow.

Now, Japanese planners are working on what they call the transportation revolution that computerized cars and highways will bring to the nation's cities.

Long-range plans envisage moving sidewalks that will cater to pedestrians, push-button electric cars, passenger capsules that move on conveyor belts, and computerized subway trains that will not need drivers.

The Japanese town planners want to convert many streets into pedestrian promenades totally free of traffic. Their vision of tomorrow's downtown area sees a total ban on internal-combustion-engine cars.

Driverless taxis, moving on a network of lines and operated by computer, would pick up passengers at designated points.

The Japanese ministry of international trade and development, as well as the transport ministry, are working on a variety of projects designed to reduce both pollution and the monumental traffic jams in Tokyo.

The plans to build a network of electronic highways in the center of Tokyo would cost billions of dollars, but could be financed fairly simply if a million users paid, say, the equivalent of $1 a day for five years — exactly what it costs thousands of Toronto suburbanites to reach their downtown jobs and return home every day.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Supervisors Demonstrate They Don't Know Where It's At

Continuing the comments on the I-J editorial "Cuts in private Sector — How About Public One?" Alerted by a news item that bids for operating the cafeteria at the Civic Center were being studied by the senior administrative analyst in the county administrator's office the editor looked through the budget.

He found that the county administrator, Alan Bruce ($2,450.86 base salary per month), is allocated two assistant administrators at $1,858 per month, two senior administrative analysts at $939 to $1,138 and two secretaries at $650 to $717.

Here is the balance of Bruce's firm, which space didn't permit last week: Personnel director at $1,415, who has a personnel analyst II at $937 to $1,1380, a personnel analyst I at $849 to $1,033, two secretaries at $650 to $727, and an intermediate typist at $458 to $549.

Then the purchasing agent at $1,050, with a supervisor of central services at $666 to $809, two junior buyers at $619 to $763, a multilith operator at $576 to $700, a messenger clerk at $523 to $633 and a senior typist at $562 to $619.

LAST WEEK I said the board of supervisors had an obligation to straighten things out and perform the duties they were elected to do. Earlier I had said they had the reputation of not knowing what it is all about. Their fumbling this last Tuesday bears this out.

I had a visit with a friend of long standing. He is a keen observer of the local government scene and made a comment that I think just about hits the bull's eye. Said he, "This present board has four members that have been city councilmen in the county, serving with no salary mostly. They are conditioned to let the city managers do it and don't seem to realize that they can no longer follow that course. They are paid $12,000 a year and the people expect them to earn it. They are not being paid to just look handsome at the board meetings while they entone questionable pearls of widsom supplied by the staff."

THE NEWS STORIES in the Wednesday I-J show pretty plainly that they don't know where it's at. Here are some excerpts: From the front page story, "Board Kills Police Services Proposal After A Four Year Fight": — "The most telling blow against (it) came when the supervisors began quizzing Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos on how sheriff's patrols would operate under a new police services district." In answer to a hypothetical question the sheriff said that it would be his duty to pull the men from any district and send them to the troubled spot. — "That statement stunned the supervisors. They had been assuring unincorporated areas that if they paid for extra patrolmen, those patrolmen would be available to them at all times."

This is a pat example. They had been letting Asst. Administrator John Barrows do their thinking for them and he led them down the primrose path.

Two other separate items from the same issue: (In the matter of defense planning in Marin) "County Administrator Alan Bruce said his office is arranging a meeting between the Marin County counsel's office and all the cities' attorneys, to work out agreements on jurisdictional responsibility for disaster planning."

Respecting the cost factor for completing the auditorium: "Supervisors said they did not get the full impact of expenditures because the requests from Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella had come in varying amounts since early January."

A Three-Year Marriage Pact Being Proposed

ANNAPOLIS (UPI)—Two women lawmakers today drew up legislation providing for marriage licenses which would expire after three years.

The measure would permit a couple to choose the traditional "'til death do us part" license, or a marriage contract which could be canceled by either party after three years.

The proposal is sponsored by Baltimore delegates Lena K. Lee, who is married, and Hildegardeis Boswell, who is divorced.

The two women said their proposal is serious. They point out that such licenses would allow a person to have several happy marriages instead of one unhappy one.

The best way to appreciate a new Mercedes-Benz is to test drive an old Mercedes-Benz.

Motor's conclusion about a veteran of 110,000 miles: "Apart from some loss of edge at the top end this one felt quiet, flexible and free of rattles and the oil pressure needle was always hard on the stop."

At Mercedes-Benz, we're not afraid of what one of our old cars will say about our new cars.

So before you buy a new Mercedes-Benz, we invite you to test drive an old Mercedes-Benz.

Finding a car to test is really no problem. A neighbor or a friend may own one. (Your dealer probably has several on hand.) But we urge you to be selective. Pick one with a substantial accumulation of miles.

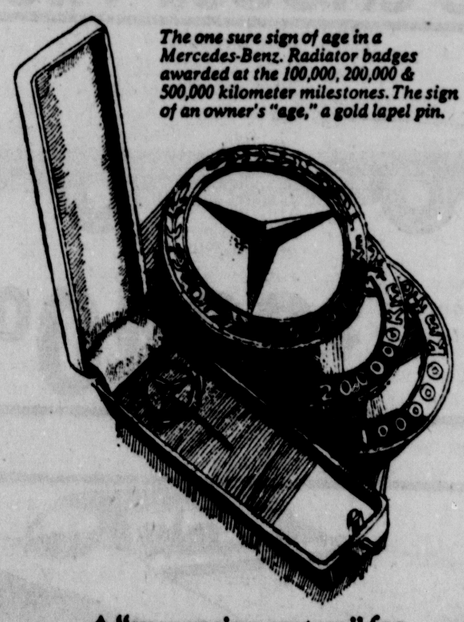
We award them to a Mercedes-Benz after 100,000, 200,000 and 500,000 kilometers. (The European equivalent of 62,500, 125,000 and 312,000 miles.)



The one sure sign of age in a Mercedes-Benz. Radiator badges awarded at the 100,000, 200,000 & 500,000 kilometer milestones. The sign of an owner's "age," a gold lapel pin.

A "suspension system" for the exhaust system

Take your test car down a potholed road and listen for audible protests of age.

A journalist from Motor recently put an eight-year-old Mercedes-Benz roadster to the test. "What impressed me most," he concluded, "was the solidity of the body—not a squeak or rattle to be heard."

We're flattered. But not surprised. Because we view every part of a Mercedes-Benz as a potential rattle.

Instead of bolting body and frame together, we fuse it with 8,000 or more welds.

Window glass rides in a channel that's buttressed in three directions.

The radiator is supported by rubber and framed in foam. Its metal never touches the rest of the car.

An intriguing contest

Accelerate onto a highway.

Notice how new and tight the engine, drivetrain and suspension feel.

Recently in the Road & Track series "After The New Wears Off," the engineering editor summed up 35,000 miles in his Mercedes-Benz by saying simply, "The car is more impressive than when new."

To keep our "new" from wearing off, we engineer the running gear to last as long as the body. A lengthy but intriguing contest indeed.

To make sure it will, vital mechanisms must pass thousands of tests.

We consume more than 40,000 gallons of fuel a month testing every engine before installation. Some for as long as five hours.

After nine successive applications at 135 mph in a "destruction" test, disc brakes turn fiery red. They must endure this torture fifty different times—and suffer no damage.

Even seemingly unimportant items like dashboard knobs must prove their longevity. So they are sliced in half and analyzed by infrared spectography.

Rubber "doughnuts" suspend tailpipes and mufflers under tension, rubber bumpers isolate them from the body. The exhaust system may never rattle.

A revolutionary old car

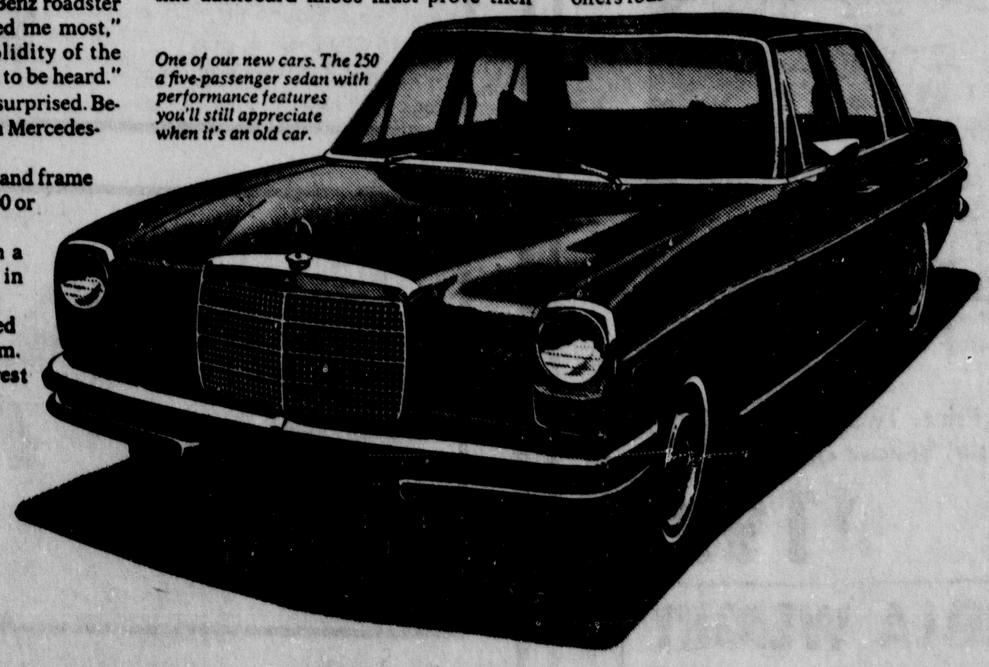
Today an old Mercedes-Benz bristles with features that still seem revolutionary compared to the '71 cars of other makers.

The reason is simple. Our engineering decisions are made by engineers. Not cost accountants. When they find a way to make an improvement, they make it. Without waiting until it can be made as cheaply as what it replaces.

Take an old Mercedes-Benz through some curves. Unless it's a pre-1930 model, you'll discover the nimble reflexes that come from fully independent suspension. An innovation yet to be discovered by domestic sedans.

Look at the model nameplate. If you spot an "E," the car has something no American car has, an einspritzsystem (German for fuel injection). Developed for Mercedes-Benz grand prix cars, it provides a substantial increase in power with no sacrifice in economy.

Apply the brakes. Mercedes-Benz believes the brakes should be the most powerful part of any car. So we introduced disc brakes in 1961. Put them on all four wheels in 1968. No domestic sedan today offers four disc brakes, even as an option.



One of our new cars. The 250 a five-passenger sedan with performance features you'll still appreciate when it's an old car.

Starting from the inside

To keep the outside looking new, we start protecting it from the inside.

Bodies are submerged in rust-proofer. They emerge 24 pounds heavier.

But that's not enough for Mercedes-Benz. The inside of body panels that were welded airtight were painted before welding.

Even body panels that are welded airtight can corrode inside. So before we weld, we spray them with zinc oxide. And paint vital areas by hand.

Outside, a Mercedes-Benz is protected by four coats of paint and primer. The front gets an extra coat of chip-resistant enamel.

We even insulate the side trim from the body with a strip of rubber. And sheath the clips that attach it with plastic grommets, so that metal can never bite through paint and start rust.

The "average" Mercedes-Benz: $7,700

There's nothing "average" about a line of automobiles with an average selling price of $7,700.

Building automobiles you can appreciate when they're "old" cars has made our new cars more expensive than most.

There are ten Mercedes-Benz models priced from $5,350 to $8,259—without options. And six limited editions, largely handcrafted, from $12,718 to $29,617*.

The coupon will bring a full-color brochure of the new Mercedes-Benz models.

In the meantime, be sure and test drive an "old" Mercedes-Benz. And, just for comparison, an old anything else.

After all, you live most of your life with an old car. So you should know what your next car will be like after the "new" wears off.

*West Coast port of entry, exclusive of transportation, white walls (shown), other options, state and local taxes, if any.

Regents' Finance Faulted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An Assembly Education Committee report was released yesterday which concluded that "impropriety may have been involved" in two business transactions involving regents of the University of California.

The report was released by Chairman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, although the study was made last fall when the 1970 committee was dominated by Republicans. The committee now is Democratic controlled.

The committee findings included recommendations that guidelines for business dealings involving regents be made specific.

The transactions involved regents Edwin Pauley, Ed Carter and William French Smith, the current board president.

The committee report, which did not include the signatures of any members in the form released to newsmen, said the state auditor general questioned the use of the university as a stockholder in a bank which financed a loan in 1966 to Property Holding Co. which was formed by Pauley. The university was to benefit financially from the transaction.

"Although five University of California officials were officers of Property Holding Co., none received compensation and all funds were used for general university affairs," the report quoted university spokesmen as testifying.

Another incident involved Carter. The report said he gave the university in 1965 stock worth $203,625 to purchase a home and land in Los Angeles. Carter also paid the university $75,000 for the lifetime rights to the residence.

"The auditor general criticized this action on the grounds that the potential benefit to regent Carter exceeded the potential benefit to the university," the report said.

It said the university considered the deal provided "a much needed academic facility at no cost to the state."

Carter also is a member of the board of directors of the Irvine Co. Smith is the company lawyer and a private legal adviser to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

$5 Billion Program Seen Improving Bay Area Future

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—All aspects of the physical environment can be dramatically improved in the next ten years for the 4,567,000 persons living in the nine San Francisco Bay Area Counties for a cost of $5 billion, a committee of engineers said yesterday.

The cost, broken down to $532 million annually, would achieve up to a 90 per cent improvement in air quality, water quality, solid waste disposal, noise abatement, the preservation of open space and aesthetic enhancement.

This would amount to $10 monthly for a family earning $500 monthly or $32 monthly for a family income of $1,000 monthly.

These figures were prepared by the Committee for Engineers Week, 1971, which compiled the total pollution problem and the measures needed to clean up and enhance the environment.

Counties included by the report are Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Solano and Sonoma.

Air pollution in these counties has been dramatically reduced since 1955, according to D.J. Callaghan, Chief Administrative officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District (BAAPCD). Callaghan said air pollution comes from industrial emissions, power production, agricultural burning, open dump burning, backyard burning, incinerators and other operations.

"Because of the work already in progress on further reducing these sources of air pollution, it is estimated that an additional cost of only $50 million would bring about the desired results over the next ten years," Callaghan said.

Aircraft and motor vehicles are two other sources of air pollution that can be controlled progressively, said Callaghan. He recommended restoring an aerospace program of research and development to "its essential level and inserting requirements for 90 per cent reductions in air pollution and noise levels on all aircraft" over a 10-year period. The cost to secure the desired effects of pollution control for aircraft was estimated at $10 million annually.

Motor vehicles are already facing stringent exhaust controls, but the effort must be increased at a cost of $135 million annually. "Our judgment is that car owners will have to pay about $300 more per vehicle to achieve the necessary reductions in pollution," said Callaghan, meaning a 90 per cent improvement in air quality in ten years.

Another challenge is to maintain the purity of bay area water which is still clean and clean up the water which is polluted.

"Because of the tremendous increase in population and in industrial and agricultural processing in recent years, the discharge of wastes into our waters has become an extremely difficult and serious problem," said Jerome B. Gilbert, executive officer of the State Water Resources Control Board.

Generally, the waters to be protected are the ocean, the bays, sloughs, rivers, creeks, lakes, reservoirs and ground waters.

Measures required to stop water pollution include:

— Changes in agricultural and manufacturing processes.

—Public education in the causes and seriousness of pollution.

-Prevention of discharge of certain pollutants in the sewage systems.

—Adequate monitoring of waste discharges.

—Construction of new sewers and improvement of present systems.

—Upgrading of treatment plants and recycling of waste waters.

Gilbert said there's been a steady improvement in the quality of bay area waters since 1950.

"Today, odor nuisances are less, oxygen levels are higher, and bacteriological quality is better than twenty years ago. A good indication is that shellfish are returning to areas where they were absent for many years due to poor water quality."

Solid waste disposal which runs as high as nine million tons annually in the nine counties, was discounted as a major problem by the engineering group.

"At the present rate of solid waste production . . . California has sufficient land areas of near-zero ecological value to store the solid wastes for thousands of years without causing pollution of the air or water supplies or livable land areas," their report said.

One of the most important and difficult challenges was described by one member as the "preservation of open space."

About one-eighth of the 4.7 million acres of land in the bay area is already urbanized, said architect Irwin Luckman.

"As population increases, there really should be a corresponding increase in open space to maintain the present space relationship," he said. "Instead, as population increases, open space decreases."

The engineers also recommended that $22 million be expended annually for the enhancement of aesthetics. This could be achieved by adding one per cent to the budgeting of buildings for such things as paintings, murals, sculpture, fountains, mosaics, tapestries, landscapes, and other means.

Finally, to reduce noise levels in the environment, an expenditure of $15 million annually is needed, the group said.

"Most people would agree that a high noise level is definitely adverse to a pleasant and livable environment," their report said.

So, for $5 billion, raised by taxes and various fees, including a hike in utility rates, bay area citizens could find themselves in a 90 per cent cleaner environment, according to the experts.

Oregon Is Offering Jobs To Ex-Convicts

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The state is looking for ex-convicts to take jobs as parole and probation aides paying $383 to $489 a month.

The Department of Correction's job qualifications say "the applicant must have had an adult felony conviction which resulted in adult penal incarceration."

Poor Hank! No Meow In Petition

Hank, the banished cat of Harry's Mart, still has his loyal fans even if their pleas have not moved health inspectors to allow the aged feline to return to his comfortable stool in the Fairfax market.

Jean Mahoney, who started a campaign which resulted in more than 600 people signing petitions asking that county officials let the cat back into the store, has given up.

"The petition to let Hank stay . . . has been sent to Governor Reagan because no one in Marin County wanted it, nor indeed knew what to do with it," Mrs. Mahone said.

"But because this petition represented more than 10 per cent of the adult population of Fairfax, it simply cannot be tossed away," she continued.

"No one expects the governor to do anything - we are not that naive - but sending it to him fulfills an obligation to those 600 people who signed it," Mrs. Mahoney said.

In addition to sending the petition to the governor, Mrs. Mahoney and others have dreamed up a "Draw Hank" contest for children under 12 years old, which will be "simply the end of the question of Hank."

"All drawings at the conclusion of the contest will be forwarded to the Assembly in Sacramento as a reminder that lack of common sense in administering our laws is not good for cats - so must be harmful to people," Mrs. Mahoney concluded.

The contest is complete with prizes and judges and entries are to be submitted between March 1 through March 15 at the Village Frame Shop in Fairfax.

"Depict Hank's feelings at being left out in the cold any way you wish," is the theme of the contest.

Goodwill Faces Supply Shortage

A critical shortage in donations of clothing and home furnishings is faced by the Goodwill Industries Rehabilitation Center which serves Marin and Sonoma counties, according to J. Willis Hershey, executive director.

He urged residents to take donations to the nearest Goodwill box or call the organization for a pickup.

"A slowdown in the flow of donated materials this time of year is to be expected, but about every fourth or fifth year we experience a serious slowdown in material donations and this is one of those times," he said. He added that through Goodwill's recycling program over 300 men and women find employment in the San Francisco center.

American companies control about 27 per cent of Nigeria's petroleum production.

Bond Sales Up During January

Marin County residents bought a total of $167,335 United States savings bonds during January, compared to $146,242 in the first month of 1970, according to William P. Murray Jr., chairman of the county's savings bonds volunteer committee.

The chairman said that approximately 70 per cent of E bond sales are made through payroll savings plan.

HOW WOULD YOU LOOK?

West German film star Monika Teuber wears a "hot pants" outfit on a sight-seeing tour of Rome, where she is making a movie. Whether you are planning to photograph the ruins of the Coliseum or something much less exotic, you can get yourself in shape to wear "hot pants" by doing exercises as you go about your daily routine. Of course, we can't guarantee you will look like Monika in them.

Use Odd Moments To Exercise

Did you ever realize that you can exercise while going around your regular rounds — whether at home, at work or even while sitting in a bus?

The Employee Activities Unit of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has some tips on how to trim up with no time out from Frieda Bock, physical education teacher and recreation supervisor for the insurance company.

Miss Bock, who has a master's degree in physical education and health education from Teachers College of Columbia University, has been telling the employees for 16 years how to utilize odd moments during the day to keep in shape. Here are a few of the exercises.

GETTING UP is a time when you're likely to stretch anyway, so do stretch. While still in bed, stretch arms and legs. When you get up, reach toward the ceiling, then relax by dropping your hands toward the floor.

Good Morning

Remember to keep your tummy in the whole time. Stretching improves the circulation and strengthens muscles that might not otherwise get much use — and it peps you up too.

BRUSHING TEETH or washing gives you a chance to strengthen your tummy muscles by concentrating on standing tall and tightening them. When you bend over, hold your tummy flat and keep your back straight to make sure.

PUTTING STOCKINGS on can be excellent for firming the thigh muscles. Stand on one foot, raise the opposite knee high toward chest, put on stocking and repeat with other leg.

COMBING HAIR gives you a chance to strengthen the back muscles and keep shoulder blades from becoming prominent. Sit or stand tall, holding your chin in, and keep your elbows back or well to the side.

GOING THROUGH DOORS gives you a chance to work for a high, firm chestline. Just stop for a minute, place your hands and forearms on the door frame and lean forward from the heels two or three times. Keep chin in and body in straight line from heels.

Brushing Teeth

EATING, which makes many a woman fearful of getting a "spare tire," should also remind her to sit up, pulling in through the midriff so any approaching "spare tire" will disappear. Keep hips at back of chair and lean toward table from hips, not waist, so stomach won't be cramped. If you make a habit of sitting straight — whether eating, typing, writing, or anything else — your stomach muscles will show the results.

For an improved chestline, sit cross-legged on the floor, arms crossed front of chest. Fling arms upward and sideward, stretch, and repeat.

Slim ankles and calves by standing with hands on hips, feet together, and putting all your weight on right foot while lifting left heel off floor, pushing left knee forward. Rise on toes of both feet. Lower left heel and keep right heel off floor. Alternate and repeat.

WHEN LEAVING HOUSE, if you want a convenient reminder of what your posture should be, stand against a door frame or wall, feet together, heels three inches from wall with

Posture Test

Door to Beauty

hips, shoulders, head, and — most important — small of back against wall. Stand in this position long enough to get a feeling of correct posture, then try to hold it throughout the day.

Sitting on a bus, or at a

desk, or in the theater or anywhere else gives you an opportunity to beautify your thighs, and all you must do is to make a point of not crossing your legs at the knees. Sit erect and push the small of your back against the seat, keeping your knees together crossing your ankles if you want to. This is excellent for firming the thigh muscles — try it for a while and you'll feel the positive results.

PICKING THINGS UP from the ground or floor is similar to one of the most effective exercises of any gym class — if you do it right. Bend from the knees keeping the back straight and place weight on one foot and on the ball of the other. Keep legs together. You'll feel the effect in your thigh muscles, which get firmer and trimmer from this exercise — enough to make you appreciate the advantages of that bottom drawer in the file cabinet.

Neat Bend

Try some of these exercises during the course of the day. You won't have to take time out for them. They'll just be part of doing what comes naturally.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

The Need For Child Care In Marin

By BARBARA HOSMER

The needs for child care in Marin County are not being met adequately, panelists from the county licensing agency, the county schools and the public agreed yesterday.

On KTIM radio's Marin Sounding Board, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, the existing kinds of child care were tabulated by Mrs. Sydney Bloch, who made a Marin study as part of a national survey of child care for the National Council of Jewish Women.

She named three kinds of current day care in Marin: federal and state funded child centers and Head Start for low income families; licensed private day care homes for 10 or fewer children; and pre-school day care offered by some private nursery schools. The latter two are totally funded by the child's parents, and the low-income families' program is partially paid by the parent on a sliding cost basis.

But the panel agreed that such programs were too costly and too limited to meet the needs of most parents, who want good pre-school educational experiences and health care for their youngsters as well as all-day or before-and-after school care for the children of working parents.

Funding was a large stumbling block cited by Joseph Denhart, director for day care centers for the Marin County Schools. He pointed out that in Marin services are fragmented and uncoordinated.

"SOME EXISTING day care could get funding the same way we do if they knew where to apply," he said. He added that the need for child care in the San Anselmo-Fairfax area, for instance, was documented a year ago by the advisory group to the Marin County Department of Social Services and that need could have been met if funds had not been frozen a year ago.

"We need to build day care centers so we can avoid statements such as, 'I can't afford to go off welfare to get a job and then pay 30 per cent for child care and take home less money than I would get on welfare,'" Denhart said.

Reginald Hammond, superintendent of the Fairfax School District, agreed that child care needs in his area have already been determined.

"But when it came the time of decision it was not possible to start. Financing was not provided, and it was postponed once more."

He called for a comprehensive day care program, a complex subject involving health screening, nutrition and early childhood education, adding that "there is a danger of approaching this piecemeal."

ONA HALL, whose Department of Public Social Services licenses family day care homes in Marin, said that currently there are between 100 and 120 licensed day care homes in the county, with rates from $25 to $30 a week per child.

"That's fine if you have a good income. It's far too much for low or welfare income families. To take job training parents must have child care. Head Start and Children's Centers have 145 and 150 children or so, but thousands of children in the county could use care.

"Also the mother at home could improve the care of the home and refresh herself to devote herself better to the family if she could get away from constant child care part of the time," Mrs. Hall said.

"A mother can't even look for work or have any activities. She relies on relatives or friends to some extent, but that is not always adequate, especially if she is in an isolated area," she said, speaking of low income or welfare mothers.

SHE ADDED that the children's needs include broader experience too if they are to

Mrs. Larkins Heads Sunny Hills Guild

Mrs. Kenneth Larkins of Kentfield is serving as president of the two-year-old Woodlands Guild of Sunny Hills this year.

A charter member of the guild, Irene Larkins served as vice president last year. She says the activities which the guild will carry on this year are creating Halloween costumes and other paraphernalia for the guild to sell at the Grape Festival to raise funds for Sunny Hills Home in San Anselmo, and having a house tour and a thank-you party for the members' husbands who assist with the Grape Festival.

A native of Tracy, Mrs. Larkins attended Tracy schools and San Francisco State College. She and her husband, a partner in a San Francisco tire company, have lived in Marin for 14 years and are parents of John, 12; Jeanne, 11; Ron, 8 and Jacqueline Larkins, 6. She volunteers with Camp Fire Girls and is a member of Kent Parent-Teacher Association and the Woodland Sponsors.

She is enthusiastic about outdoor activities such as swimming, water skiing and tennis and family outings with their boat, but she also enjoys cooking and sewing.

Other guild officers this year are Mmes. John Heatherington, vice president; H. Curtis Reed, secretary; Richard Grambow, treasurer; Robert Gibbons, Bargain Box chairman; Harold Knobbe and Paul Euphrat, Grape Festival booth chairmen.

Bruce Easom Family On Two-Year-Odyssey

By MOLLY MARIN

Well-known San Francisco Bay sailor Bruce Easom, his wife Ruth, and their three children sailed from the Sausalito Yacht Club Wednesday night after a party at the yacht club hosted by his brother Hank Easom and his wife, Joy.

Bruce, Ruth, Carrie, 17, Bruce Jr., 16, and 11-year-old Scott plan to be gone for two years and will cruise to Mexico, through the Panama Canal to the Caribbean, across the Atlantic to Europe and throughout the Mediterranean.

Many Marin friends entertained for the Easoms prior to their voyage aboard the 50 foot schooner, Marionette.

MRS. EVELYN Bowen McCrary was honored at a party Wednesday evening at the Presidio Officers Club, hosted by her father, Lt. Gen. (ret.) John W. Bowen, and Mrs. Bowen of Tiburon.

Mrs. McCrary has recently moved to the Bay Area from Washington, D.C., where she was a model.

GUEST OF honor at the San Francisco Junior League luncheon fashion show will be Mrs. Ronald Reagan.

Mrs. Reagan, who will be celebrating her 19th wedding anniversary Thursday, the day of the show, will be the guest of Mrs. Arch Monson Jr. of San Francisco.

Theodore Meyer To Wed Jeanette Smith

The engagement of Jeanette V. Smith and Theodore George Meyer, both of Mill Valley, has been announced.

Jeanette is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith, and Theodore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Meyer, all of Mill Valley.

Both are graduates of Tamalpais High School. The bride-elect was graduated from the College of Marin as a dental assistant and is employed at the U.S. Public Health Hospital in San Francisco. She is the sister of Mrs. Paul Christensen of San Francisco.

The future bridegroom is serving with the Army at Fort Carson in Colorado. He is the brother of Mrs. James Jean of San Rafael and Mrs. Allen Collins of Germany and the grandson of Mrs. Minnie Coleman of Belvedere.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Happily Married Woman Wonders How It Would Be With New Man

DEAR HELEN:

I have a wonderful husband. We have no sex hang-ups. We love each other in a way that is complete and beautiful. I'm happy!

So why is it, Helen, that I find myself thinking "How would it be with another man?" I have no one in mind. I love only Sam. Mate swappers disgust me.

I'm sometimes frightened by my thoughts. Am I not-normal?— I AM CURIOUS, STUPID

DEAR STUPID: Though many don't admit it, women aren't much different from men in their submerged (well not always) urge for comparison shopping. But totally married gals only wonder occasionally . . . And their mates seldom know when that "guilty imagination" rates them special pampering at home.

Don't worry, "Stupid." You might label yourself — "I Am Normal, Curious." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

After reading the letter from "Shocked by Elderly Belles," about older women who would date him but not marry him, I had to write.

I am 68, going with a 71-year-young man who figures he's too old to get married but — an affair with me? That's different.

I fear the spry old party wants to use me.

So if you could please provide the name and address of "Shocked," I might change his mind about elderly belles and rings. — BELLE FROM DUBUQUE

DEAR BELLE:

Sorry, the belle tolls not for him. I don't give out names and addresses unless I know the people involved. Too risky. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Something really wonderful happened to me last night and I'd like to share it. An old boy friend called and wanted to talk to me.

You see, two years ago, he refused to marry me for the simple reason he didn't love me, though I was to have his baby.

I hated him for a long time because I hated myself. Then I found out I wasn't so bad. Stupid maybe, but not bad. What I'm trying to say is that as soon as I lost this hate for myself, stopped feeling sorry for "me," I found literally hundreds of people who have problems that made mine look silly. I love again. I love human beings because that's what we all are. And that phone call last night brought it all into focus. I'm able to forgive.

I'm so glad I'm alive that I sometimes want to walk down the street and say to the first person I meet, "Hey, you're great! Aren't you glad to be alive too?"

But I suppose people would think I was crazy or something. — FOR PEACE AND LOVE

DEAR FOR:

No, I don't believe people would think you are crazy or something. You'd be surprised how one person's "aliveness" makes others around her glad they're alive.

Your letter did that for me. Keep on sharing your wealth. H.

Needs For Child Care Are Told

compete with more advantaged children.

"In the existing children's centers we have observed that the children show improvement in getting along with others, in verbal skills and so forth," she said.

The Welfare Rights Mothers chairman for San Anselmo, Sue Carpenter, spelled out what her group hoped for in child care as participation by the parents, both mother and father, free child care to enable women to work without taking a large chunk of their wage for care, and carefully planned educational programs controlled by parents and the teachers.

"All children should be educated to their fullest potential," she said.

She is planning to open a child care center as soon as possible in the San Anselmo-Fairfax area.

. "WE'RE DESPERATE for a church space or anything to start a co-operative until we can get an adequate one going. We're ready to start next week," she said of herself and a group of other welfare mothers.

Pointing out that cost of child care centers is less than cost to keep families on welfare to care for the children at home, Denhart said that in Marin City the children's center is open from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, offering day care with education both of child and parents on nutrition and health. The average take-home income of the families using the child center now is $300 per month. Without the center these families would be unable to afford child care while the parent worked and would be on welfare, he said.

"The center is keeping these families off public support — 75 per cent are single parent families," Denhart pointed out.

"Mothers who have clerical jobs are low paid. They need low-cost child care," he said.

"It's also a problem for the middle income working mother," Mrs. Bloch added.

"YES, IT'S a problem for the middle income family, but it's impossible for welfare mothers," Mrs. Carpenter remarked.

Denhart then cited a San Jose study showing that a day care center there for 42 families saved from $90,000 to $95,000 a year by allowing the parents to work rather than go on welfare, which would have cost some $175,000.

Other factors of concern tc the panel were providing infant care, need for some health services for mildly ill youngsters, training for persons running child care facilities and educational day care that reaches far beyond mere baby-sitting.

The Marin Sounding Board child care program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday on KTIM.

Why Rich Chinese Bound Female Feet

By PETER WONG

HONG KONG (UPI)—The Chinese are a sophisticated people. But sophistication sometimes is accompanied by cruelty, such as in the case of the Golden Lotuses.

In old China, judgment for femininity was based on the weakness of the female sex. Toward this end, ladies of the upper classes had their feet bound, willingly or unwillingly.

The smaller the feet, the more beautiful the women. Poets called the best bound feet "Three-Inch Golden Lotuses." But a woman had to go through enormous pain to obtain Golden Lotuses. Only a few women achieved three-inch feet. Most settled for three-and-a-half, four and up.

It all began with a beauty loving emperor, His Imperial Majestylo Hou-chu of the Tang dynasty, 618-907 A.D.

THE EMPEROR'S beautiful maid-of-honor, Lady Yu, was skilled in dancing.

His imperial majesty ordered the molding of a 6-foot-high golden lotus and adorned it with jewels and diamonds and silk ribbons. Lady Yiu was asked to bind her feet with white silk ribbons in the shape of a new moon and dance on the golden lotus. The emperor was delighted with the way she danced.

The emperor's wish became the people's command. Girls from rich or high class families had their feet bound when only three or four years old.

Poor families could not afford to bind the feet of their daughters, because they had to work. Since intermarriage between different social classes was scarce, these girls remained "uncourteous and unsightly" throughout their lives.

FOOT-BINDING became widespread in the Sung dynasty, 960-1280 A.D., and remained a must for "educated ladies" until the 19th century, when Western culture began to invade China.

After the establishment of the Republic of China in 1911, the number of women with bound feet steadily decreased. Even those deeply entrenched in past traditions began to realize that it was a cruel practice.

The Golden Lotuses are dying out, and most likely will vanish before the end of this century.

The other day I met two of the last Golden Lotuses at the Little Sisters for the Poor Home for the Aged.

"Foot-binding is bad," said Mrs. Wong Lin-tsung, 78. "I have suffered considerable inconveniences because my feet are bound. My feet ache when I walk."

Mrs. Lai Yung, 84, was equally angry when she recalled the practice which forced her to bind her feet when she was still a child.

"It's bad to have one's feet bound," she said. "You can only walk like an ant and there are lots of inconveniences."

Three Flowers Give Best Oils

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Most good perfumes come from three flowers — rose, jasmin and organge, according to extension clothing specialists at the Pennsylvania State University.

Extracting oils from these flowers is an art and it takes 12,000 jasmin flowers to make two pounds of oil at the market price of about $1,400 a pound.

Blacks Are Reviving Long Dead Subject, Love For One Another

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

February is the month earmarked for love — at least the overt expression of this ubiquitous, amorphous, visible yet invisible phenomenon.

Among many blacks, open expression of love for one another has long been a dead subject. Having been a depressed people (by whites and by each other) many of us had given up on love.

But, today, a great many blacks are unashamedly involved in the throes of a new and exciting love affair with each other. They are seeingand appreciating each other for the first time — discovering and simultaneously being amazed at the potentials of one another.

The sisters are finally becoming aware that the brothers have suffered just as they have, and conscious efforts are being made to right several wrongs that we have perpetuated.

We now find ourselves running toward one another, impetuously and without shame, whereas we used to run away from each other. We glow — instead of cringe — when in the presence of one another.

THIS RECIPROCAL love has enhanced our physical beauty. We now compiement as well as compliment one another when together.

As with all young love affairs, in time, the heat of passion subsides and the flames level off. And although the lovers will find that they are no longer in love with each other, they will have discovered something more important: love for one another.

For blacks this means we will have rediscovered our capacity for this special emotion and we will fully respect each other as being worthy recipients of our love.

Realistic lovers have discovered that, after the height of passion, you get out of the relationship what you put into it. To grow, love must be nurtured.

Blacks must continue to give to one another — even force ourselves to demonstrate — our love. Not in the form of material gifts — that's the worst possible cop-out. We must give of ourselves.

BECAUSE FOR many it is still difficult, nay, impossible, to verbalize "I love you," we must utilize other ways of expressing our love and respect. That smile (when you're tired), that "well done" applause when an effort has been made, that encouraging "you can do it," or that "I'm with you, baby" look or touch of the hand — all will get the message across. And the message must be extended not only to spouses or boy-girlfriends, but to our children, our senior citizens, our neighbors — people with whom we have daily contacts.

Collectively, blacks are a wounded people and loving has been difficult. But our wounds are on the mend. Hopefully, in time, even the scars will cease to itch (ask anyone who's had surgery) and we can extend our love affair to include all people.

ON THE AGENDA

Marin Members Have Top Roles In Junior League Style Show

Coordinating the grand double-header fashion show of the Junior League of San Francisco this year is Mrs. Robert Clark Taylor of Ross. She is known in Marin for her volunteer service as founder and first president of the Planned Parenthood Auxiliary, former president of the Ross Guild of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science and as a member of the board of directors of the Planned Parenthood Association and Marin Mental Health board.

Susan Taylor is heading all phases of the league's gala, the only fund-raising event held each year to finance the league's community projects, and other Marin Junior League members are working on committees and will model in the show, which will be held Thursday at 11:30 a.m. and again at 6 p.m. in the grand ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco. With 800 reservations made, the luncheon show is already sold out and the evening production close to close-out, the league reports.

Models from Marin are Mmes. Howard D. Banks, of Kentfield, John Dreyfous of Belvedere, Kirk Frederick of San Rafael, Eugene D. Fox, Lee M. Gammill Jr. and James L. Potts, all of Mill Valley; William J. Morris and McKenzie Moss II, both of Kentfield and Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere.

The current Marin project of the Junior League is the Volunteer Council of the Audubon Canyon Ranch near Bolinas.

"OCEANS OF Fashions" will be the theme for the Outdoor Art Club's 1 p.m. fashion luncheon on Thursday at the clubhouse in Mill Valley.

Co-chairmen for the event starting with punch served at 12:30 p.m. are Mmes. Robert Edmiston, Bernard Benesh and Eling Michaelsen.

Coordinator for the parade of spring and travel styles provided by a San Rafael shop will be Mrs. Betty Batch. Mrs. Richard O'Brien will do the commentary.

Luncheon co-chairmen are Mmes. George Grant and Edward Johnson, and Mrs. C. Harvey Mielenz will do decor. Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Norman Chaponot and Richard Sloan.

THE VALLEY Sewing Club, an affiliate of Mill Valley's Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 305, will have a public card party on Wdnesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall in Mill Valley.

This is the first of a series of parties to be held the first Wednesday of each month at the same time and place with proceeds going to support the charitable projects of the lodge.

Free coffee and sandwiches will be served from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Club president Mrs. Jake Clausen will be in charge of the parties.

HINTS AND helps for the homemaker by Sonoma County home advisor Virginia Porter will be presented to Petaluma Woman's Club members and guests Tuesday following luncheon at 1 p.m. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Wayne E. Musser and Mrs. D. J. Deevy Jr. Decorations co-chairmen are Mrs. Hilary Doberneck and Mrs. Everett Schroeder.

NOVATO FEDERATED Women's Club will have its monthly meeting at 10 a.m., Thursday at the Moose Lodge in Novato.

Jim Lang, regional director for Finance Forum of America, a 35-year-old non-profit educational organization, will talk about stocks, bonds and investments at 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Claude Lewin is accepting reservations for the luncheon to be held at the Peacock restaurant in Novato at 1 p.m.

ALPHA LAMBDA Chapter of Kappa Phi Sigma sorority will hold its annual awards dinner and ritual of roses initiation ceremony at 7 p.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. William Compton in Novato. Mmes. Jerry Sibbald, Walter O'Brien, Phillip Johnson, John Burke and Gary Van Sickel will be initiated into the social sorority.

Following the initiation, the awards dinner will be held at the Alvarado Inn. Mrs. John Colistra will receive the Juno award and Mrs. Alan King and Mrs. Colistra will receive their Athenian pins.

A day at the horse races for members and guests of the Petaluma Newcomers Club Tuesday at Golden Gate Fields, Albany. Luncheon will be served in the Turf Club at noon. Mrs. Nicholas Romaine is reservations chairman.

Mrs. Robert L. Tuckey will conduct a six-week course in flower arranging in the Barn starting Thursday from 10 a.m. to noon, and continuing on Thursdays through April 8.

Mrs. Clifford J. Flack will offer instruction in beginning bridge on Friday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon in the Studio. This will be the Goren system and will start March 5, and run for twelve weeks.

Mick Laska will instruct children in basic art on Saturday mornings working with acrylics from 10 a.m. to noon starting March 6. This is for children in the fifth grade through eighth and is a six week course.

Starting March 8 Mrs. Robert Williams will start her beginning and intermediate adult art class with critique and registration. Hours are 10 a.m. to noon on Mondays. There are six lessons in this series.

A new class, beginning French, will start on March 18 with Mrs. Louis Toulon instructing. Classes will be held in the Studio from 10 a.m. to noon on Thursdays for ten weeks.

Continuing classes at the Marin Art and Garden Center include children's drama classes under the direction of Marion Hayes Cain and beginning and advanced art instruction with Elizabeth Holland McDaniel.

MR. AND MRS. Ward H. Austin will show slides and speak on churches of Europe for the Women of Redwoods of Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur Thursday.

The program will be preceded by a luncheon in the fellowship hall at 11:45 a.m. served by the hostess committee, Mmes. Gilbert Slusher, chairman, Richard W. Mayne and David McIntosh.

Child care will be provided.

"PERSONAL ADVENTURES as an International Christian Youth Exchange Student" will be the subject of the Mill Valley Community Church Club program Wednesday following a noon luncheon in the parish hall.

Under the direction of the Mill Valley Community Church I.C.Y.E. Committee Cindy Norall and Gudrun Ragnars will describe personal experiences in a strange land, adapting to a new home and family, language difficulties in school and advantages of a church-sponsored program.

Gudrun Ragnars of Reykjavik, Iceland, lives with the Robert Jenkins family. Her family in Iceland includes two brothers, her mother and father, who works at the mayor's office.

Cindy Norall, daughter of the John B. Noralls of Mill Valley, spent last year in Holzwickede in the industrial part of Germany. Her German family included two brothers, 16 and 18, and one sister, 14. She went to two girls schools, worked for a month with retarded children and for three weeks in a factory. During vacation she traveled to Holland, France and Italy.

Luncheon chairman Mrs. John J. Hurley will be assisted by Mmes. Ray K. Culver, Robert J. Frost, Edith W. Hedges, Alan F. Kappelman, Arthur C. Reneau and Garhardt Von Bonin. Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Stanley C. Aitchison and Miss Charlotta Williford.

Origin Of That Stork Story

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—One of the most urgent questions that preoccupy little children is — "Mommy, where do babies come from?"

Sigmund Freud said the origin of babies "is the oldest and most burning question that confronts immature humanity."

More often than not in unenlightened homes, it's the fable of the stork that's to the rescue of the mommies of the world when the question first rolls off tot's tongue.

The stork fable, amusingly enough, seems to more completely relate to the true biological facts of childbirth than to infantile sexual theories, two psychoanalysts reported at the annual meeting of the American Psychoanalytic Association.

Drs. Marvin Margolis and Philip Parker, of Detroit, Mich., gave, among other proofs, the following:

"The stork is said to find babies in caves, wells or ponds. These are common symbols for the vagina and uterus in particular, and mother-woman in general."

Because of the revolutionary changes in child-rearing practices in the past generation, and especially with the more frank and biologically correct explanations of conception and birth given to children, the use of the fable of the stork has been gradually declining.

"Yet," the psychoanalysts reported, "the fable still is almost universally known at all levels of our culture."

Dr. Margolis is director of research and training at the Detroit Psychiatric Institute, a part of Wayne State University School of Medicine.

During their examination of the stork myth from a variety of considerations, Drs. Margolis and Parks discovered that the stork fable has found wide acceptance even in countries in which the white stork is not native and can only be seen in zoos.

The origins of the myth can be traced back to the days of antiquity. The stork was dedicated to Juno, a mother goddess, by the Romans. Juno was the goddess of fertility and protector of women. Women who were barren prayed to her.

In the legends, according to the doctors, storks are billed as being warm, providing parental care, possessed of marital fidelity, filial concern and longevity.

"In addition," they said, "they are regarded as the harbinger of spring and the bringer of good luck. Storks are said to be extremely devoted parents. Their offspring are said to remain very attached to them and, in turn, to take care of them when they are aged and infirm."

Stork lore aside, reports from the ornithologists in birdland demonstrate that the legends have some basis in fact, according to Dr. Margolis and his associate.

—The white stork is found in most parts of Europe, Asia and Africa. Those that nest in Europe during the spring and summer migrate southward to Africa during the winter.

—Generally it is true that they faithfully care for their young. However, at times they may act in a very hostile manner toward them.

—Once grown to adulthood there is no evidence that the adult stork is capable of recognizing its parents. Therefore there is no basis in fact that the younger storks take care of their infirm elders.

—Their reputation for lifelong monogamy is also in question. One researcher says in reality a stork is not very fond of his wife and it is doubtful he would recognize her away from the nest.

"For the stork legend to have become so fixed in man's imagination as an explanation of the origin of babies, it must be answering many complex psychological needs, Dr. Margolis said.

Sterilize Six

Mothers who have to sterilize more than six baby bottles at one time can heat the bottles in the oven for 15 minutes at 250. The result is the same and it is much faster than sterilizing by boiling in shifts.

Unwed Irish Mothers Flee To England To Get State Aid

By DONAL O'HIGGINS

DUBLIN (UPI)—Time-worn taboos surrounding the unwed mother in Ireland are fading, but a stigma attached to it in this country is real and the prejudice is deep.

An effort has been made to eliminate some of the secrecy which has enveloped the problem, and social workers believe it is a significant step forward.

Representatives of many organizations and social workers from the churches and the medical profession met recently to discuss community services for unmarried mothers.

Overshadowing the practical details of financial and medical care was the unanimous appeal for a more understanding climate.

Contrary to popular belief, Ireland operates efficient and relatively enlightened social services for the illegitimate child and the mother. The services, however, are not used by the mother in many cases because of fear or shame.

INSTEAD, SHE flees to England to have her baby where she becomes entitled to a social security income which she does not get in her homeland. This provides the mother with a real choice between keeping her child or handing it over for adoption.

In Ireland, the mother does not receive aid which would enable her to provide for her baby. Her only alternative to adoption is to fall back on the family home, a discouraging prospect.

This is one of the main points raised at the conference by the Roman Catholic bishop of Kerry, Most Rev. Dr. Eamon Casey, who spent many years working among Irish emigrants in England.

"I would not like anybody to get the impression these unmarried mothers fitted into the category of being promiscuous," Dr. Casey said. "Most of them are very fine types, but were just unfortunate."

SOCIAL WORKERS estimate there will be roughly 1,8000 illegitimate children born in Ireland this year, and over the past five years have been a 50 per cent jump in the number of unmarried mothers admitted to the National Maternity Hospital.

Dr. Declan Meagher, master of the hospital, said an analysis of maternal age showed 42 per cent of unmarried mothers were under the age of 20, and 24 per cent were under 18 years of age.

Approximately 70 per cent of unmarried Irish mothers are in domestic service, 20 per cent are unemployed and homeless, and 10 per cent are still in school.

Health authorities in Ireland provide or pay for the costs of the unmarried mother in mother and baby homes or in maternity hospitals and nursing homes.

Complete secrecy concerning the mother's identity is observed, and the homes are fully equipped to deal with normal confinements.

But the greatest difficulty facing the social workers is to persuade the girls to accept the facilities available to them.

MUSIC REVIEW

Spellbound Recital By Rudolf Serkin

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Rudolf Serkin held an audience of lovers of Beethoven's piano music enthralled last night at the Opera House in the first of two special all-Beethoven sonata recitals in the current San Francisco Symphony season.

Unquestionably one of the world's top piano virtuosos among the older generation — he will be 68 this year — Serkin has apparently lost none of the power and brilliance that make his performances so dramatically effective, and his program of four sonatas was arranged in a crescendo of dramatic impact.

Throughout the concert Serkin displayed a supreme control, reminiscent of Horowitz, in separating melody from accompaniment so that a rich variety of lyrical effects was produced.

In the first two sonatas — the Op. 27, No. 1 in E Flat Major and Op. 27, No. 2 in C Sharp Minor (Moonlight) —the pianist brought out their fantasy-like character without sacrificing structural integrity.

The E Flat Sonata was colorful with its manic character expressed in a brooding introspection in the andantes and adagio, strongly contrasted with the playful gaiety and vehemence in the allegros. The allegro in the first movement was played with a clipped Schnabelesque phrasing.

The warhorse Moonlight sonata was most interesting in its opening adagio and concluding presto agitato movements. Played in a low keyed, almost monochromatic style at first, the adagio turned out to be one of the most beautifully vocal readings of the famous melody I have heard. The presto was melodramatic with its sudden changes in dynamics from crashing chords to delicate, rippling arpeggios.The middle allegretto seemed a bit too slow. I would have preferred more of a scherzando approach.

In a virile reading, the Sonata in E Major, Op. 109 was dramatic and romantic in style because of rubato in the first two movements. The final andante theme and variations were enchanting for a solid vocal line surrounded with gracious filagree.

The Sonata in C, Op. 53 (Waldstein), which has been called the keyboard equivalent of the Fifth Symphony, was, of course the showpiece of the program with its virtuoso runs, broken octaves and rotary arpeggios. Though it isn't as technically difficult as the fiendish Hammerklavier sonata to be played in the second recital, the Waldstein is an emotional colossus. Serkin played the adagio molto and allegretto moderato with an exquisite bell-like lyricism that was unique.

The pianist will perform his second all-Beethoven sonata recital Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Opera House.

Walter Reed Psychiatrist Says Calley Not Impaired

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)— The chief of the Psychiatry Department at Walter Reed Army Hospital testified today that there was no impairment in the thought processes of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. during the alleged My Lai massacre.

Col. Arnold W. Johnson Jr., who headed a sanity board that found Calley "normal in every respect" earlier this month, said in his opinion Calley was mentally capable to premeditate murder at My Lai.

The other two sanity board members testified similarly Thursday. The three were called by the government as rebuttal witnesses. Their testimony directly contradicted that of two defense psychiatrists who said Calley suffered a combat stress condition which made it impossible for him to premeditate anything on that mission.

Johnson was the 39th prosecution witness, and the last before a recess until next Wednesday to enable the prosecution to shape up its rebuttal case.

Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, the chief prosecutor, said he needed the time to notify witnesses all over the country and arrange for money for their transportation here.

The line up of witnesses is expected to include Capt. Ernest L. Medina, commander of the American infantry company in which Calley led one of two platoons that assaulted the Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968. Calley is accused of the premeditated murder of 102 civilians during that search-and-destroy mission and could get death on conviction.

He has testified that on five occasions Medina specifically ordered him to destroy everything in the hamlet. On two of these occasions, the 27-year-old officer said, his commander told him to "waste" villagers who were holding up the advance of U.S. troops.

Medina currently is under investigation to determine whether he, too, must stand trial for the My Lai affair.

The Army announced today that Col. Oran K. Henderson, field commander during the My Lai operation, would be court-martialed on charges of attempting to cover up the incident.

Similar charges against Capt. Dennis H. Johnson, an intelligence officer, were dismissed for lack of sufficient evidence, the Army said in Washington.

During testimony in the Calley trial today, chief defense counsel George W. Latimer asked Dr. Johnson whether fears could impair mental processes, and the psychiatrist replied that "they can under certain circumstances, but not necessarily."

"Do you agree that stresses increase in combat?" Latimer asked.

"They can," Johnson replied.

"Can breaking artillery overhead create stress?"

"It can."

"Can small arms fire create stress?"

"It can."

Latimer told him there had been testimony earlier about a marked decrease in psychiatric cases in the Army in Vietnam as compared with those of World War II and the Korean War.

Johnson replied that that might have been true in past years but that "there has been some increase in psychiatric cases in the past two years." He said that he and other Army experts were trying to figure out what was happening.

"Do you mean an increase in Vietnam?" Latimer asked.

"I mean all over the Army," Johnson replied.

"And there's no way for you to evaluate it?"

"No way—and I don't care to speculate here," Johnson replied.

Window Smashed

FAMILY

"Cromwell" - Richard Harris is Oliver Cromwell and Alec Guinness plays King Charles I in this equisitely photographed historical spectacular about the Puritan Reformation and civil war in 17th Century England.

"In Search of Castaways" - Reissue of Disney's fantasy adapted from Jules Verne novel about a round the world search for a missing sea captain. Good fun and adventure for all.

"My Fair Lady" - Based on Shaw's comedy about a witty speech authority who transforms a flower girl with a cockney accent into an aristocratic lady. Extraordinary entertainment for all.

"Out Of Towners" - A funny spoof on big city life is glimpsed through the hilarious misadventures of a small city businessman who takes his wife with him for his final job interview in New York City.

"Tora Tora Tora" - Impressive dramatization of the attack on Pearl Harbor, seen from both the American and Japanese sides, brings into focus history leading up to the attack. Excellent cast.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Airport" - Absorbing and gripping drama with outstanding all star cast is the behind-the-scenes action in a blizzard paralyzed airport when an emergency arises. Buildup is intense and may prove too exciting for younger children. Very well done.

"Fools" - Two lonely people, one married, chance to meet and fall in love while exploring San Francisco. An interesting background and script make this romantic film entertaining. Some sex scenes well handled.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"I Love My Wife" - A stylish comedy about an empty life, told in terms of sex. A sour but well acted movie about a man who functions on a superficial level. Well defined characterizations.

"Strawberry Statement" - A hokey exploitation of student unrest with lots of music and psychedelic photography that substitute for an honest examination of the issues. Unnecessary scenes of sex and nudity inserted and an orgy of police brutality proves only that riots are very cinematic.

ADULTS ONLY

"Brewster McCloud" - A bawdy black comedy that is part cartoon, partly an essay on modern rudeness and definitely a cinematic circus, with human nature as its major satirical concern. (Motion Picture Daily).

"Fellini Satyricon" - Drawing a parallel between contemporary western civilization and decadent Rome before Christ, is a long drawn out bore so brutal in its lurid decadence and deformed grotesque freaks, nudity and homo as well as hetero sexuality that it is hard to digest.

"Five Easy Pieces" - Freeform portrait of an exile from a highbrow musical family who cops out of a routine lower middle class existence. Explicit sex and frank dialogue.

"Hard Contract" - A professional assassin who murders and makes love with the same heartless detachment falls in love. Nudity, explicit sex are interwoven with provocative discussions about good and evil, life and death.

"Midnight Cowboy" - Offbeat story about a vain Texan who comes to New York to be a male prostitute and his relationship with a crippled bum. Many sordid depressing scenes but thought provoking. Well acted.

"Owl and the Pussycat" - Racy adult comedy about a prostitute, with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Sex is frank and abundant and Barbras' vocabulary includes as much profanity as the average stevedore and at the top of her voice.

"Something For Everyone" - A macabre satire about a thoroughly evil young man who gains control of an impoverished countess' estate by murder, sex and sadism and is caught in his own trap.

"Trash" - The title says it all - no plot just pathetic characters mainly a heroin junky wandering around in the nude with both men and women fawning over his body but to no avail since drugs make him impotent. Incessant use of vulgar language and the ugly lives of totally messed up people is anything but funny, which is what this is supposed to be.

"Women in Love" - D. H. Lawrence's novel about total physical and spiritual love between the same and the opposite sex are explored extensively by very explicit, sensual sex scenes. Direction, acting and photography very good.

50-Year Wait For Cold Water

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UPI)—Fifty years is a long time to wait for a drink of cold water, residents of this southwestern Pennsylvania township will tell you.

For half-a-century, the tap water here, at its coldest, has come out lukewarm to tepid because an underground smouldering coal fire warmed the water in the pipes.

Now the fire finally has been extinguished and cold water runs from faucets here. Employes of the State Department of Environmental Resources poured 13,000 tons of wet fly ash into boreholes drilled into the abandoned mine to smother the fire.

Purses Of Two Women Are Stolen

The purses of two Fresno women were stolen from their car yesterday at the Villa Rafael Motel, 1606 Lincoln Avenue, according to San Rafael police.

The purses and contents belonging to Velva Lee Boone and Cecilia Ann Alessandro were valued at $178, police said. They were taken between 9:45 and 9:50 a.m., police said.

Mrs. Nixon Plans To Join Iowa Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Richard Nixon will make Monday's presidential trip to Des Moines, Iowa, and plans to host a coffee hour and press conference for local reporters at the governor's mansion there.

President Nixon and several of his cabinet officers will be in Des Moines to talk up revenue sharing with the governors of Iowa, Illinois, Missouri and Wisconsin. The White House said Mrs. Nixon may also visit a couple of local community improvement projects in Des Moines.

Crazy Ladies

The De Castro Sisters. Whose outrageous antics you may have seen on television, on the continents of Europe, Asia and North America, or in a mess hall in Vietnam. Whom you soon may see in our Garden Bar.
Crazy Peggy specializes in the unexpected, a wry one liner, a virtuoso rendition of "Alfie", an elastic satire of the "Frug." Crazy Nancy sings, exceptionally well. And Crazy Pat, the kid sister, acts her age — at least according to Peggy and Nancy.
Together they're a happy extravaganza of singing, dancing and laughing. Now thru Saturday, February 27 they're together nightly except Sundays and Mondays in our Garden Bar. Show times: 9:30, 11 and 12:30 — with dancing in between. There's no cover or minimum, so you can afford a good dinner in our East-West Room and a parking space in our underground garage. That way you can spend the entire evening in one place. With the crazy ladies.

'Exaggerated' Park Land Report

By PAT ANGLE

An Interior Department official yesterday shot down as "grossly exaggerated" a report that startled some conservationists and recreation-minded legislators with word that a massive takeover of Bay Area open space was planned by the department.

The San Francisco Examiner reported Wednesday that the department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and the National Parks Service had developed a plan involving more than 10,000 acres of the finest federal, state, municipal and private land in the Bay Area. All this, the newspaper said, would be incorporated in a vast park and recreation system stretching from San Mateo county to Point Reyes.

E. W. Perkins, assistant director of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation in San Francisco, said the recommendations Interior is considering call for "nowhere near that amount of land" for the national recreational area. The proposal, which Former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel asked the Bureau to prepare in September, has not been made public.

The studies, Interior officials say, were ordered in line with President Richard Nixon's "Parks for the People" program in and around major metropolitan areas.

The massive land area described by the newspaper appears to be a compilation of many plans submitted for the recreation system, including bills introduced to Congress by William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District and Phillip Burton, D-Fifth District.

Mailliard's and Burton's offices and a spokesman for Sen. Alan Cranston, were surprised by the report of the land takeover and claimed no knowledge of the plan to which the newspaper referred.

Perkins also denied the Examiner's claim that the plan it reported was currently before Secretary Morton, awaiting his approval, and said no official in the Interior Department has been able to tell him just when the Bureau's report will be completed and referred to the secretary.

In any case, whatever proposal Morton endorses, a Golden Gate Recreational Area cannot be created overnight, according to Perkins. Congressional approval will be needed and the government will have to find the considerable money necessary for development and maintenance of the area he said.

The newspaper reported the acreage supposedly earmarked for inclusion in the recreational area includes: 60 per cent of the Presidio, Fort Funston, all of Forts Barry, Baker and Cronkhite and the Marin Headlands State Park, Angel Island, Alcatraz, Fort Miley, Fort Funston, Tiburon Net Depot, Aquatic Park, San Francisco Maritime State Historical Park, James D. Phelan State Park, Lincoln Park (exciuding the Legion of Honor, Seal Rocks State Beach, Ocean Beach, Marincello, Witter and Green Gulch ranches in Marin and private land around the Cliff House at Point Lobos.

The story said Treasure Island, Yerba Buena Island and the Alameda Naval Air Station were included in the plan as "federal reservations with recreational potential."

Maillard's proposal for a Golden Gate National Recreation Area, introduced for a second time in January, is currently before the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

His bill includes portions of the Presidio, Forts Barry, Baker and Cronkhite, Mason, Miley and Funston and Alcatraz Island.

Burton's plan, which he has dubbed the Juan Manual de Ayala National Recreational Area encompasses Mailliard's proposal and adds to that: a larger chunk of the Presidio, Angel Island, the Tiburon Net Depot, Lincoln Park, excluding the Legion of Honor, Bakers, Phelan and Seal Rocks State Beaches.

The San Francisco Democrat's bill, also now in the committee on Interior and Insular Affairs for the second time, would give Alcratraz to the Indians for $24.

It was Amy Meyer, co-chairman of People for a National Golden Gate Recreational Area, a San Francisco-based conservation group, called the newspaper's report "a hatchet job" on the Interior Department, "an obvious attempt to drum up public support for continued Army domination of the Presidio and Marin headlands."

Mrs. Meyer said the story implies the Department of Interior is a "greedy, landgrabbing octopus" determined to take over "half the land in the Bay Area." She said the only federal and state properties on the Bay which the newspaper did not say Interior planned to incorporate into the recreational complex were the Oakland Supply Center, Oakland Army Base and San Quentin Prison.

She said the Sixth Army has made it quite clear it does not want to lose its control over "the historic Presidio" in San Francisco and opined that Army fears that some of its choice land will be taken for recreation led to the report.

BLOOD TEST — A nurse at the venereal disease clinic held by the Marin County public health department each morning in San Rafael draws a blood sample from a patient to test for syphillis. VD, including both syphillis and gonorrhea, has risen to epidemic proportions in the county.

Reagan To Lead State Delegation For Nixon-Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, sometimes mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate for 1972, says he will lead a delegation for the re-election of President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Reagan said in answering reporters' questions Thursday he had told Nixon "I intend to lead a delegation from California pledged to his nomination."

Reagan also said Agnew is "an asset to the ticket."

The California Republican would not comment on his own future public ambitions, but did say he would not seek another term as governor. Reagan has been mentioned as a possible contender for the seat of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., whose term expires in four years.

Minority Apprentice Program Set For Construction Industry

An agreement that will provide equal employment for minorities in the construction industry in four Bay Area counties is to be signed Monday night in Vallejo.

The pact is the result of long work by a committee representing the minority community through the Bay Area Construction Opportunity Program. Joseph Richardson, BACP technical recruiter in San Rafael, today hailed it as a major breakthrough in assuring members of minority races an equal chance to employment in this major industry.

It provides that the percentage of minority employees in the construction trades shall be brought up to equality with the percentage in the population of the county. This is to be done over a five-year period, with a goal of 20 per cent each year. The agreement provides this period so that apprentices can be trained from minority races.

Signatories include the committee representing the minority community of Marin, Sonoma, Solano and Napa counties; all employer associations in the construction trades in the four counties, and nearly all unions involved in those trades.

Local 38 of the Plumbers Union has so far refused to enter the agreement, said Richardson, and the Operating Engineers Union may not be a signatory.

It is hoped that the agreement will be extended to cover Lake and Mendocino counties as well, Richardson reported.

To implement the plan, an administrative committee will be appointed, composed of three representatives from the unions, three from the contractor associations and six from the minority community—these six to be chosen by the minority community members of the committee that has been working on the plan.

The administrative committee will establish a nonprofit corporation to enter into contracts with the U.S. Department of Labor and other agencies to assure implementation of the plan.

The formal agreement is to be signed at a ceremony at Terry's Restaurant, Interstate 80 at Benecia Road, Vallejo, at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

INVISIBLE EPIDEMIC

Marin VD Clinic Overloaded, Forced To Turn Youths Away

By MARY LEYDECKER
(Last of two articles)

Marin's venereal disease rate, which outstrips even staggering statewide percentages, affects people from many age groups and walks of life, but its main victims are from 12 to 22 years old.

What can be done to prevent one youngster in 10 from contacting VD before he graduates from high school?

Philippa Denning-Kemp, who has long been associated with the venereal disease clinic conducted by Marin County Health Department, sees "awareness" as the only answer.

She cites an "appalling ignorance" about VD as prevalent among the young persons who troop into the clinic.

"Thank God, syphillis is not yet a major problem in Marin, although the rate is rising," she said. Gonorrhea, by far the most common of the venereal diseases, accounted for 1,480 reported cases in Marin last year.

Gonorrhea, readily recognizable in men, and not hard to diagnose in women, is easily treatable in both sexes with massive doses of penicillin.

Patients at the VD clinic first give their symptoms to an investigator, who sends them on to see a doctor in the clinic if it appears they probably have VD.

Smears are taken and analyzed and the treatment for gonorrhea consists of two shots of penicillin given on successive days.

An interesting side effect of marijuana usage discovered by those who treat VD is that constant usage lessens symptoms of gonorrhea in men — so that potsmokers often don't realize they have the disease.)

Treatment at the VD clinic is free — as it is throughout the state at other county clinics. Dr. Marilyn Hicks, in charge of the clicic, estimates that this year the county will spend about $58,000 for supplies and salaries of doctors, nurses, laboratory technicians, investigators and a clerk at the clinic.

This year she plans to ask for more funds so that "more young people can be treated."

"We are turning away so many now, and we don't know what happens to them," she added.

Miss Denning-Kemp mentioned another problem.

"We just don't have enough time for field work," she explained, referring to the search for persons reported by clinic patients to have been their sexual partners.

"Take one hippie girl living in the "Gates" near Sausalito whom we can't find," Miss Denning-Kemp illustrated. "She may infect numerous persons and then end up in a hospital months later with very serious pelvic inflammation disease."

The girl would be suffering a high fever and severe abdominal pain, Miss Denning-Kemp said, and doctors might have to resort to performing a hysterectomy on her.

Not counting the suffering to the girl, the cost to the taxpayers would be enormous, compared to the small cost of treating her when the disease is first discovered, according to Miss Denning-Kemp.

Education is the only answer, she feels.

She, however, does not view this as the best way to reach the most youngsters.

"I feel as if I ought to bring popcorn when I come to a high school — I'm the day's attraction," the lively Englishwoman laughed.

Much better, she feels, would be ongoing programs taught by classroom teachers. Most teachers feel uncomfortable talking about VD, however," Miss Denning-Kemp admitted.

To counteract this, teachers must first be instructed in how to broach the subject knowledge with their students, who respond better in mixed groups, according to Miss Denning-Kemp.

Marin teachers are being urged to participate in a VD "teach-in" being held at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco next month.

One of the most outspoken members of the Marin County Task Force for VD, which includes county officials, educators and Parent-Teacher Association is Frederick S. Mayer, a Sausalito pharmacist.

Mayer became interested in the VD problem after he noticed that he filled many prescriptions for gonorrhea drugs and felt that the cases were not being reported to county officials.

He and others are backing teach-ins and other education programs.

In the meantime, those involved with the county's VD clinic want it to be open more hours so that more young people can be treated.

"We need a clinic after school hours. Many kids now are cutting classes to come here in the morning."

Deer Cause 2-Car Crash

Several deer crossed a Novato roadway yesterday and the result was a two-car collision and minor injuries to two persons, Novato police reported.

Officers said a car driven by Burton R. Kirchner Jr., 29, of 249 Los Angeles Boulevard, San Anselmo, halted at 2:15 a.m. to avoid the deer crossing Wilson Avenue, south of Vineyard Road.

Then a car driven by Thomas Frederick Cook, 29, of San Bruno, struck the rear of Kirchner's car, police said. Cook, who suffered cuts of the left elbow and forehead, and his wife, Pamela, 26, who suffered minor scrapes, were treated at Novato General Hospital.

An $800 Award

Scott A. Bowman, 17, of Mill Valley, a Tamalpais High School student, has won an $800 award in the annual Engineers Week competition among Bay Area students. Prizes are given to encourage promising students to pursue engineering careers.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Feb. 26, the 57th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1815 Napoleon Bonaparte and 12,000 men left the Isle of Elba to start a second conquest of France.

In 1907 Congress enacted legislation providing for salary increases for the vice president, cabinet members and the speaker of the House to $12,000. The salaries of senators and representatives rose to $7,000.

In 1919 Congress established Grand Canyon Park in Arizona.

In 1935 Germany began operation of its Air Force, the Luftwaffe, under Reichmarshal Hermann Goering.

A thought for today: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."

Still Room In Classes

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department still has room in a few classes starting Monday in various subjects, Director Andrew J. Snyder Jr. said.

Openings include classes in scuba diving, yoga, oil painting, cake decorating, golk guitar, printing techniques and arts and crafts for housewives.

Registration may be made at the parks and recreation department in the San Rafael City Hall.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Key To Four-Spade Victory Is To Lead Out Low Hearts

Much of our education consists in learning how to do the right thing without thinking. When a man is called well-schooled, we mean that he has pleasant habits or that he does his chores without having to stop for thought. This is certainly true of bridge players, except that acting without thinking sometimes exacts a price.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

LOW FROM DUMMY

West opened the queen of clubs, and South played low from the dummy. West continued with the jack of clubs, and South ruffed. Declarer drew trumps and led a heart from dummy toward the king in his own hand. He had been taught to lead toward his high cards, and he was a man who obeyed his teachers.

West captured the king of hearts with the ace, and South wound up losing three hearts, a diamond and a club. Down two.

Nobody uttered a word of criticism. North said merely: "Very unlucky." If his tone was not truly sympathetic, who can blame him? It was a subject South decided not to open. He had discovered that it didn't always pay to find out what his partners meant when they commented on his bidding or play.

SURE TO LOSE

South's actual heart play was sure to lose since West surely had the ace of hearts for his vulnerable overcall on a topless club suit. South's only chance was to lead low hearts until West took the ace.

After winning the second trick by ruffing a club, South should lead a low heart. West plays the nine, and dummy's ten forces out the jack. East returns the ace of clubs, and South ruffs again.

ANOTHER HEART

South leads another low heart, and West must play the ace. West shifts to diamonds, and South wins with the king. Since the heart situation is crystal clear, South draws three rounds of trumps, ending in the dummy, and leads a heart through East. South wins a finesse with the eight of hearts, cashes the king of hearts to discard dummy's losing diamond, and thus limits the loss to two hearts and one club.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - 3
♡ - A 9
◇ - Q J 8 7
♣ - Q J 10 9 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. Avoid a borderline opening bid when you have only one of the eight aces and kings in the deck.

If your long suit were a major, you might open this substandard hand; but it does not pay to dig too deep to open in a minor suit.

Auto Looted Of Stereo Deck, Tapes

A tape deck, stereo tapes and sunglasses, valued at a total of $266, were taken from the car of David William Wee of 1321 Olive Street, Novato, Tuesday, Marin County sheriff's office reported yesterday.

The car was parked on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near the College of Marin, deputies reported.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

MARIN GENERAL HOSPITAL
San Rafael, California
Attention: Contractors

RE: LINEAR ACCELERATOR REMODELING

Gentlemen:

Notice is hereby given that the Marin Hospital District, 250 Bon Air Road, San Rafael, California, will receive sealed bids for the furnishing of all labor and materials for the Linear Accelerator Remodeling until 5:00 P.M. on March 23, 1971 at the office of the Administrator, Marin General Hospital, 250 Bon Air Road, San Rafael, California. Bids will be opened at the regular scheduled meeting of the Board of Directors at 7:00 P.M. on March 23, 1971.

The bids shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications therefore and such addenda thereto as may be issued prior to bid opening date.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the Builders' Exchange Offices in San Rafael and San Francisco, and these plans and specifications, together with forms of proposal and Bidder's Bond, may be obtained by requesting them in writing or in person from the office of the Architect; Rex Whitaker Allen and Associates, 259 Geary Street, San Francisco, California. Plans and specifications will be issued upon deposit of $25.00 per set. Checks for deposit to be made payable to the Architect.

Any unsuccessful bidder, upon returning such set promptly and in good condition will be refunded his payment, and any non-bidder upon so returning such set will be refunded his payment.

No bid will be considered unless it is made on the standard proposal form enclosed in the specifications. Each bidder must be licensed.

The owner reserves the right to waive any informalities or to reject any or all bids.

Each bidder must deposit with his bid, security in the amount, form and subject to the conditions in the information for bidders. Attention of bidders is particularly called to the requirements as to condition of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid under the contract.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within 30 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. PREVAILING RATE OF WAGES:

In accordance with the provisions of Section 1773 of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Directors of the Marin Hospital District has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages applicable to the work to be done and have published same in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation, printed and published daily except Sunday in the City of San Rafael, California on November 23, 1970. A copy of this publication is on file at the Marin County Department of Public Works.

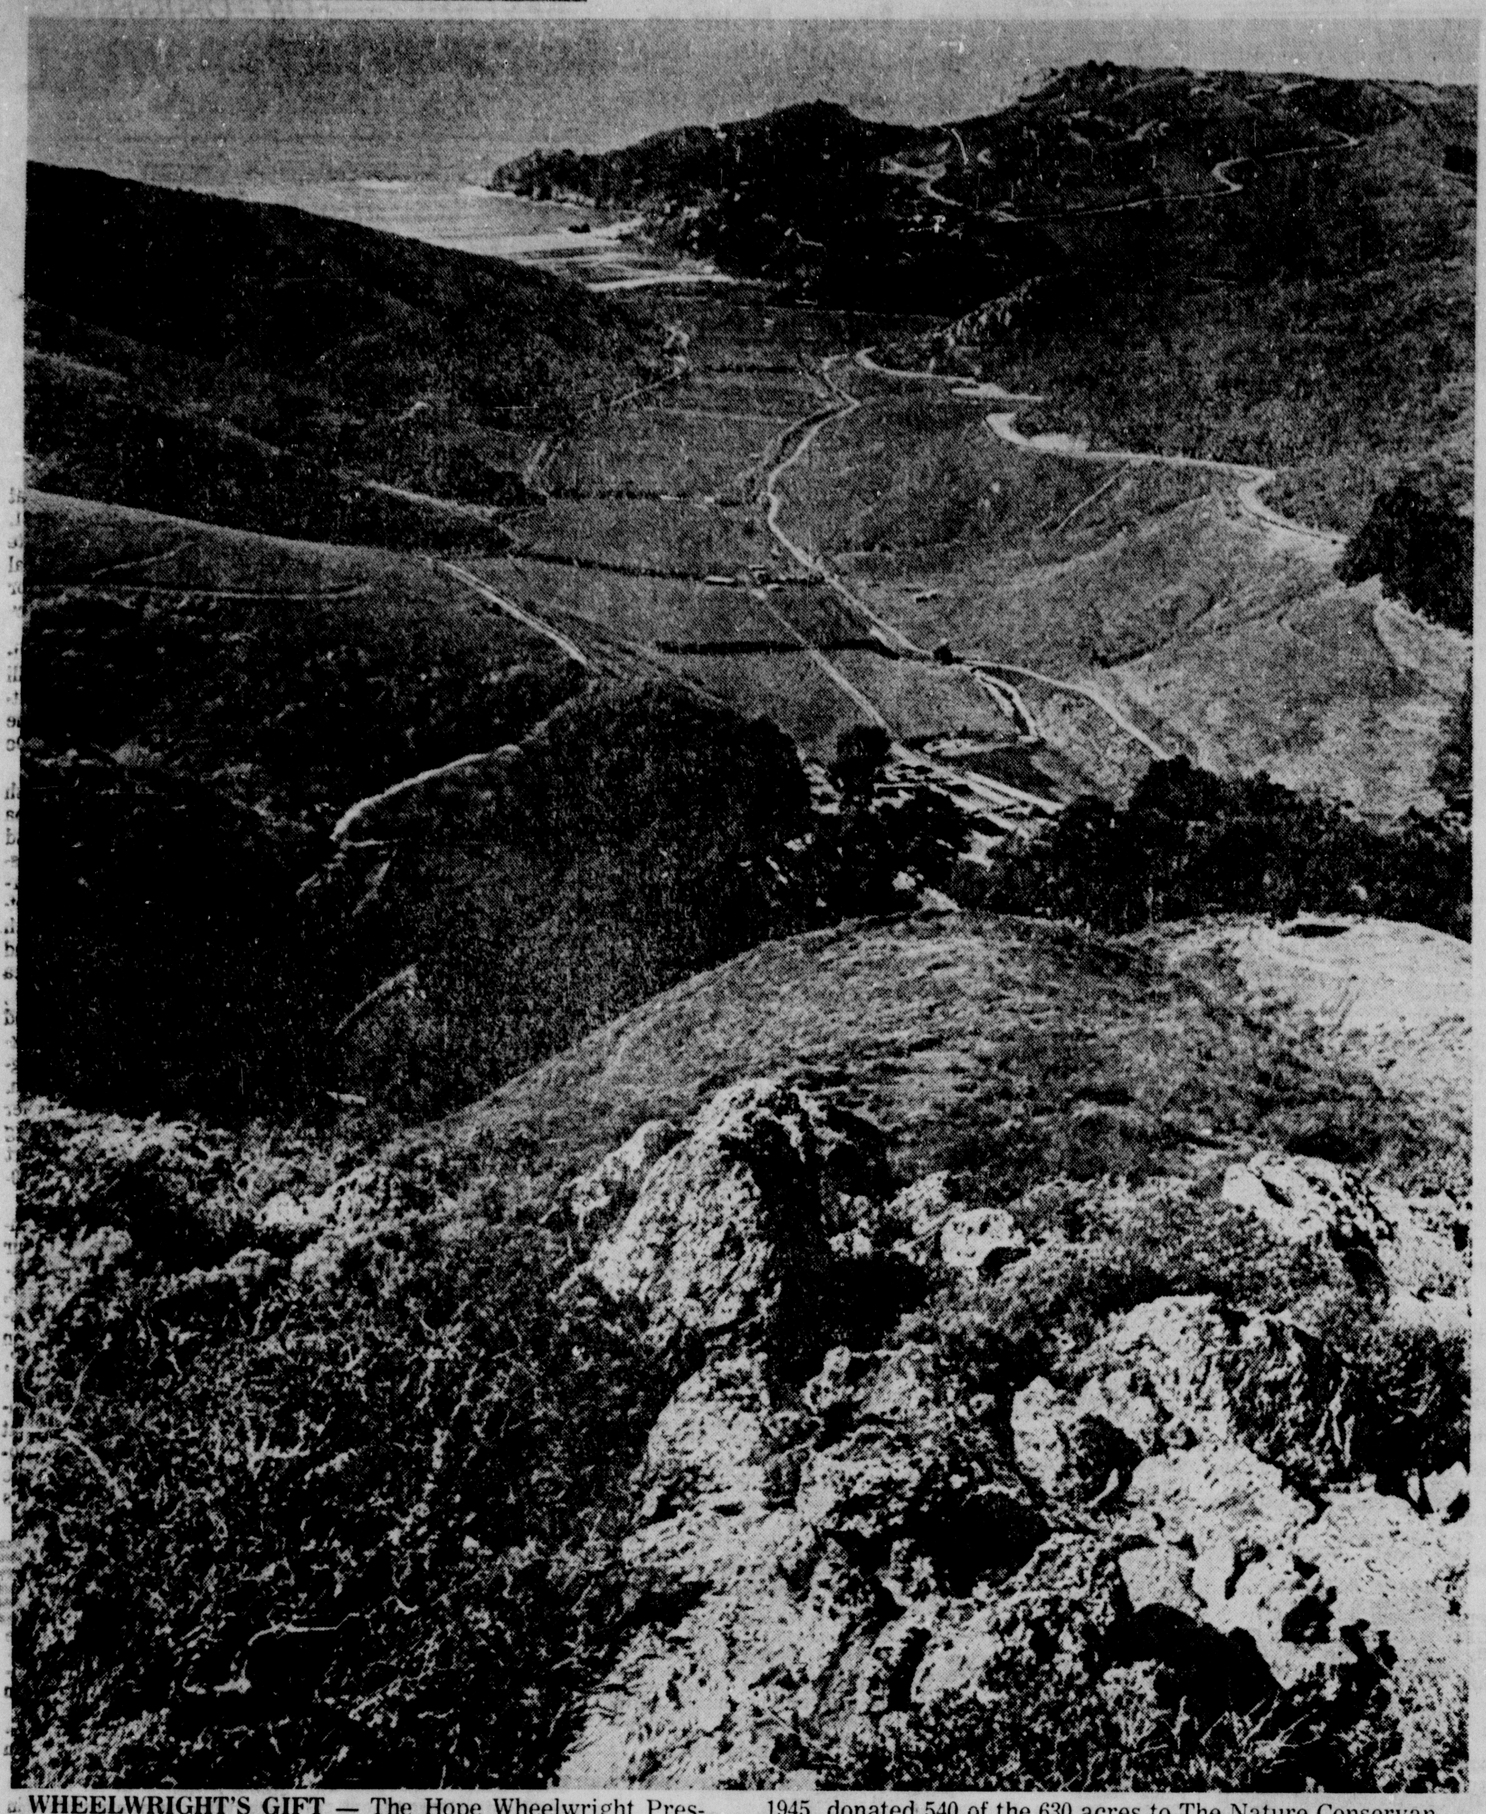
HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Heart's Shenanigans Occur When It's Irritable, Tired

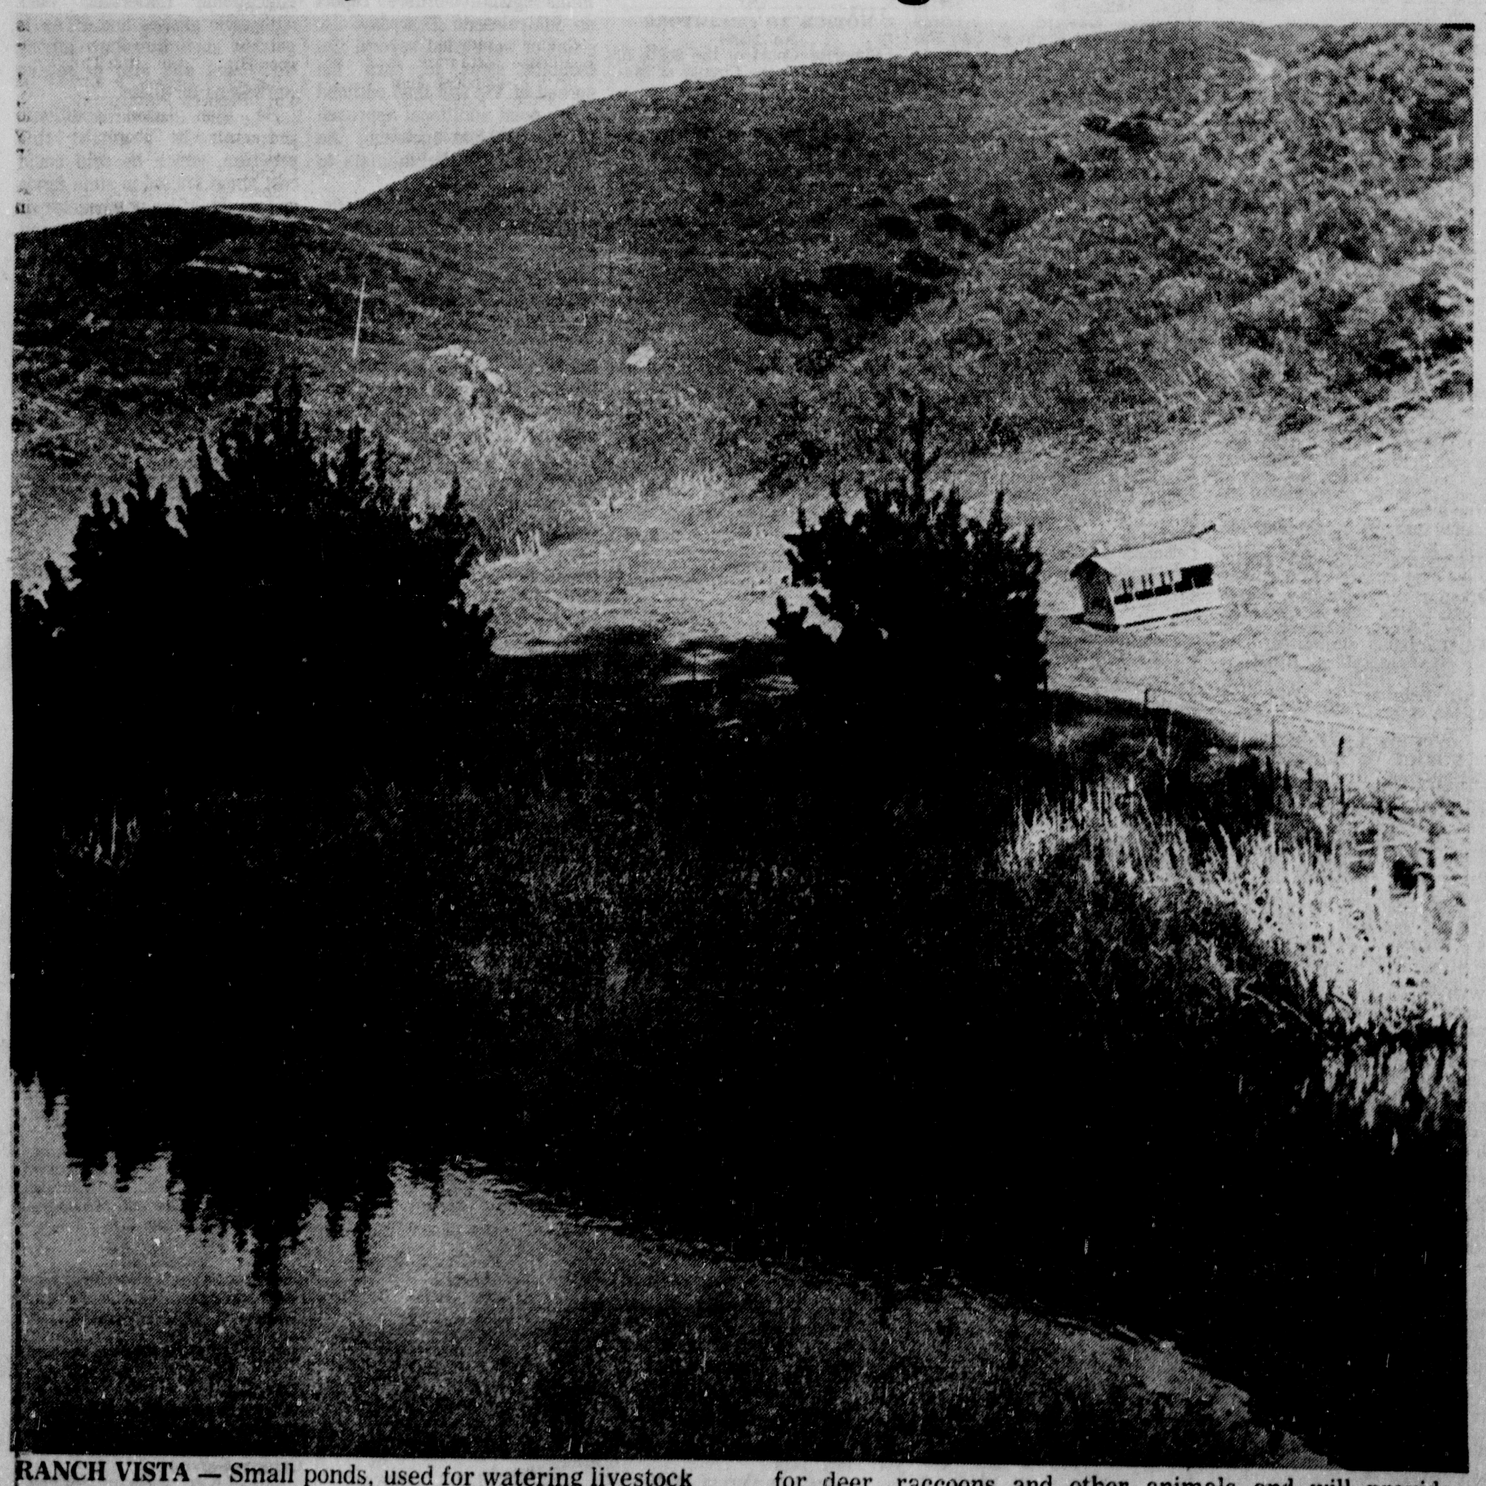
How is the heartbeat initiated? The pulsations are stimulated by impulses coming from a nerve center (the pacemaker) high in the wall of the right auricle. The S-A node (sino-atrial) is comparable to a timer sending out rhythmical electrical impulses that fan out like ripples created when a pebble is dropped into still waters.

ALTHOUGH the S-A node has connections with the regular nervous system, it can act on its own if necessary. The electrical charge carried by the impulse is easily detected via the electrocardiograph. In fact, the electrocardiogram represents a tracing of the electrical waves passing through the cardiac conduction system from the pacemaker to the edge of the mu



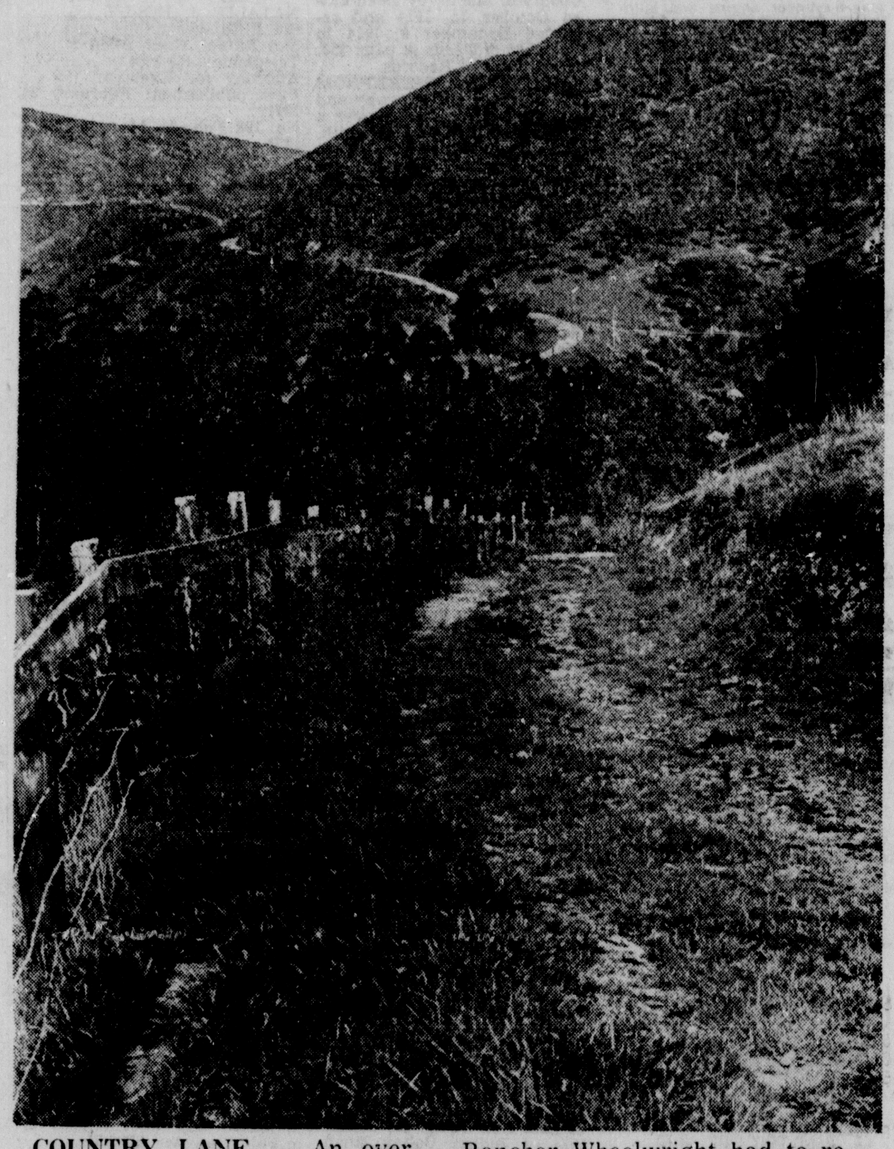
WHEELWRIGHT'S GIFT — The Hope Wheelwright Preserve, formerly the Green Gulch Ranch, stretches across brush-covered hills and canyons to the ocean near Muir Beach. George W. Wheelwright III, who bought the land in 1945, donated 540 of the 630 acres to The Nature Conservancy for permanent open space. Beyond the rugged headland on the right of the photo lies the Slide Ranch, recently purchased by the Conservancy. (Independent-Journal photos by Alfred M. Arn)

The Hope Wheelwright Preserve

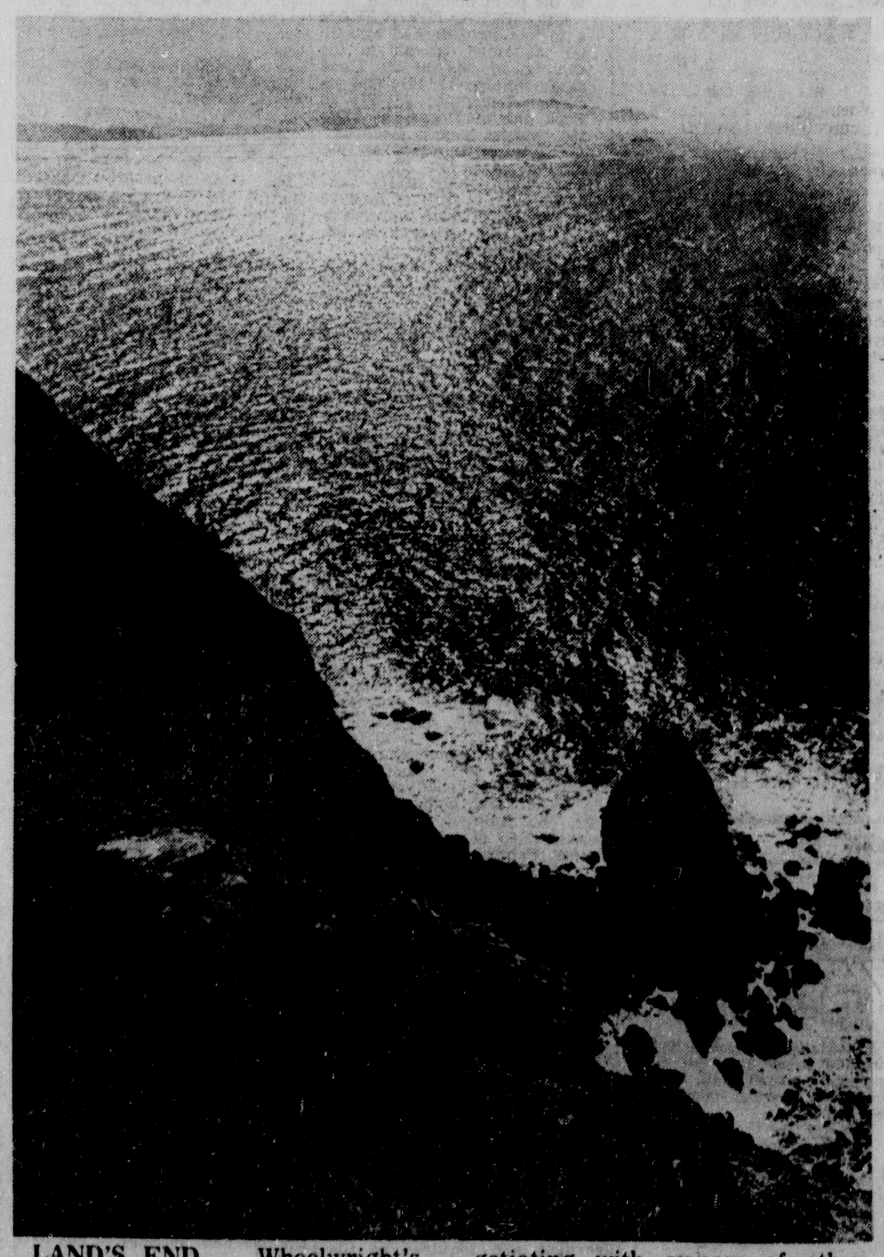


RANCH VISTA — Small ponds, used for watering livestock when the Green Gulch was a working cattle ranch, dot the landscape. Ponds such as this are natural gathering places for deer, raccoons and other animals and will provide students a field laboratory for examining the ecology of Marin's open, rolling countryside.

RANCH RESIDENT — This red-tipped hawk, flushed by an unaccustomed visitor to his domain, takes flight across a grassy meadow. The Nature Conservancy is conducting an inventory of animals on the ranch and hopes the open space it provides will allow once-endangered predators such as hawks and bobcats to flourish.



COUNTRY LANE — An overgrown dirt road, paralleled by a wood and wire fence, climbs the ridge from the ranch buildings to the fog-shrouded highlands. Rancher Wheelwright had to reseed the brush-covered hills with New Zealand grass before the land would sustain his herd of prize Hereford cattle.



LAND'S END — Wheelwright's gift includes about one-half mile of rugged Pacific coastline south of Muir Beach. The Conservancy hopes to deed part of this land to the state park system and is negotiating with owners of other nearby ranches for possible purchase or donation. San Francisco looms across the Golden Gate at top of photo.

Blind, Their Dogs To Be Graduated

Thirteen men and women at Guide Dogs for the Blind will graduate with their new dogs tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. during an informal ceremony at the San Rafael school at 350 Los Ranchitos Road.

Among the graduates are Mary Slusher of San Leandro and Joseph Mitchell of Campbell. They will receive their dogs from Bay Area 4-H members Andrea Moore and Cheryl Rader of San Jose, Kim Haylock of Santa Rosa, Chris Townsend of Alamo and Carrie Ross of Napa. They raised the dogs for the school as part of a 4-H project.

Other graduates are Lawrence Aguirre of Venice, Los Angeles County; William Busby of Birmingham, Ala.; Barbara Card of Sacramento; Carol Eriksen and Wayne Hart, both of Seattle, Wash.; Martin Korber of Van Nuys, Los Angeles County; Harvey Lange of Newport, Oregon; Walter Stringham of Burbank, Los Angeles County; John Teixeira of Ballico, Merced County; Melvin Waymire of Prtland, Ore.; and Wayne Webb of Idaho Springs, Colo.

Diabetes, Heart Clubs Sponsor Unit

The Independent-Journal erred Tuesday in reporting that a mobile blood testing unit, open to Marin residents every Saturday in March and April, would be sponsored jointly by the Marin Tuberculosis Association and the Marin Heart Association.

The mobile clinic will be sponsored by the newly formed Marin Diabetes Association and the Heart Association.

The Marin Diabetes Association was formed this month as a unit of the Northern California Diabetes Association. Officers include Sandra Glazunova of Greenbrae, chairman; William Chamber of Corte Madera, chairman elect; Elvas D. Regalia of San Rafael, vice chairman; Margaret Woodward of Novato, treasurer; Annette Statt of Mill Valley, corresponding secretary; Mickey Pedersen of Fairfax, recording secretary.

The association will conduct public lectures on diabetes detection the second Tuesday of each month beginning March 9 at 8 p.m. at the Bank of Marin in the Northgate Industrial Park area, Terra Linda.

Sinatra Will Be Among Four To Be Honored

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Board of Governors of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has voted to give honorary awards to Ingmar Bergman, Frank Sinatra, Lilian Gish and Orson Welles, it was announced today.

Bergman, renowned Swedish director-producer-writer, was voted the Irving G. Thalberg memorial award presented to "creative producers whose records reflect a consistent high quality of motion picture production."

Sinatra was voted the Jean Hersholt humanitarian award, given to "an individual in the motion picture industry whose humanitarian efforts have brought credit to the industry."

Miss Gish and Welles will be given honorary awards "for superlative and distinguished service in the making of motion pictures."

The awards will be presented at the 43rd annual Oscar ceremonies April 15.

Drive Launched To Save Land In Old Adobe Area

By BONNIE BARD

Petalumans are circulating petitions in the hope of saving land near Gen. Vallejo's historical Old Adobe from future development.

Another aim of the drive, according to its coordinator, Ross S. Smith of the Old Adobe Fiesta Association, is to convince government officials to begin planning to preserve open space in the Petaluma area.

Smith's group annually sponsors a fiesta at the Old Adobe, a state historical site.

He is concerned over plans by the owner of land across the street from the Adobe to sell the property to a New York syndicate for future commercial or residential development. Smith's group uses the private property for game and food booths during its annual fiesta.

The adobe was once the center of a 66,000-acre ranch operated in the early 19th century. Gen. Mariano Vallejo, its proprietor, was the Mexican military commander.

Smith claimed the state had once intended to buy the 58 acres across the street but never did.

The property owner, Glenn Allen, a retired Dow Chemical executive living in Walnut Creek, is preparing to sell the tract to a New York syndicate. Smith said Allen has been unwilling to sell only a piece of the property but has said he'd give first purchase opportunity of all the land to a public agency. However, Allen has stipulated, the New York offer of $4,000 per acre must be matched by any prospective buyer. Believing that only a strip of land would be necessary as a buffer for the adobe, Smith said, the association tried to convince Allen to donate the land.

"He said the land was too valuable to give away," Smith said. The owner also reportedly balked at the association's offer to buy a six-acre corner parcel at Old Adobe and Casa Grande roads, saying it would lessen the value of the remaining acres.

"I have a real strong feeling for this property and hate to see subdivisions surround the historical site," Smith said.

While the association is basically concerned with only the corner property, many members feel the problem goes deeper. They feel that if Petaluma or the county of Sonoma is to preserve land for green belts, it should begin immediately.

City officials have scoffed at East Petaluman fears of the growth of subdivisions in the region because there are currently no sewer or water lines.

Petitioners will work throughout the weekend in a door-to-door effort and from tables set up at businesses with the goal of collecting 10,000 signatures.

Smith said the petitions would be forwarded to the city council, Sonoma County Board of Supervisors and the Legislature.

Because Allen hopes to complete the land sale in a matter of weeks, the organization must work quickly and hope for an almost immediate government response, Smith said.

He said that Supervisor Philip L. Joerger of Petaluma and Sonoma County Parks Director Joseph Rodola have told him that $200,000 in county funds has been set aside for a park in Southern Sonoma. "The money is available — all we have to do is shake the right people loose with it," he said.

Smith, a Standard Oil Co. employee, hoped, however, the property could be purchased under a joint effort by various levels of government.

Saying it's time for Petaluma to plan now to preserve open space, Smith explained, "at the moment, Petaluma is in the same position that San Jose was 15 years ago. They've gone every which way with no real planning."

Smith predicted strong citizen response to the petition drive. We've already gotten a lot of response — especially from East Petaluma being as crowded as it is. They don't have a decent park and need huge trees and a place to picnic," he said.

Coalition To Sponsor Rock Event

A student group, the Marin Peace Coalition, will sponsor a rock concert at the College of Marin gymnasium from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday, according to Bryan Gaddy, chairman.

Performers will include such groups as Clover, A. B. Sky, Ofoedian Den as well as Pamela Poland and David Hayes.

The coalition group was given permission to hold the concert, the first public rock concert at the college since a disastrous one in August 1969, earlier this month by the college trustees.

The trustees approved the concert, however, on the condition that a certain number of faculty agreed to be present and that proceeds be impounded until after the concert.

At the 1969 concert young people did $800 damage to the gym and the county grand jury blasted the college for allowing the affair.

The peace group has announced plans to use proceeds for a prison reform project.

Policewomen Get The Boot In London

LONDON (UPI)—Metropolitan police officials announced that policewomen in London can wear boots with their uniforms —but they will have to buy them themselves.

Black is the only permitted color under the new regulations, and the boots must be of plain or imitation leather, have flat heels, zippers and be below knee length without decoration.

They can only be worn between Oct. 1 and April 30.

GIVING IT A RIDE — Jack Nicklaus used all his strength to drive the ball to the 18th hole yesterday during the first round of the PGA championship at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. The Ohio strong boy shot a 69, giving him the lead by one stroke. (UPI Telephoto)

'Serious' Jack Nicklaus First Round PGA Leader

More Golf, Less Flying; A Poor Start For Arnie

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, out front by one stroke in his bid to grab off golf's first major 1971 prize —the PGA championship, explained today why he is playing golf with renewed zeal to be the best.

"I just got tired of playing badly," said the blond, 31-year-old Nicklaus after shooting a first-round 3-under-par 69 that put him a stroke ahead of his three nearest rivals in the field of 146.

"In 1968 and '69, I wasn't trying or working as hard as I could have," Nicklaus admitted. "I got tired of the way I was playing, and I decided to work more and concentrate more. I have been working harder than ever in 1970 and '71."

Among the things Nicklaus did to concentrate on his game was to get rid of the airplane that he rented a la Arnold Palmer, who still has his own jet plane to flit around the country on his many business activities.

"I found that the plane was forcing me to do several things I didn't want to do in order to justify having it," Nicklaus said. "They were business things, but I suddenly realized they were forcing me to spend about 30 days a year doing things I didn't want to do. In the end, the plane would have ruined my golf game —so I got rid of it."

Nicklaus was all business as he took command in Thursday's first round of the PGA, standing even with par after 11 holes and then birdying three of the next four holes for his final 3-under-par 35-34.

One stroke behind him at 2-under-par 70 were three Bobs —Goalby, the former Masters champion; Charles, the New Zealander rated the world's best lefthanded player; and Mitchell, a dark-horse from Danville, Va.

U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin of England, Masters champion Billy Casper, South African Gary Player, 58-year-old Slammin' Sammy Snead, and 50-year-old Julius Boros were among 12 players in a tie at 1-under-par 71. Another 16 players were tied at par 72.

way back at 75 was Arnold Palmer, almost certain to be thwarted again in his quest for the one major championship that has escaped him. Palmer shot a 40-35, including a double bogey six on the ninth hole. He missed a five-foot putt by eight inches, stabbed at it for the tap-in, and missed that, too.

"It was plain ridiculous," Palmer admitted.

The first round had all kinds of weather, and the weather promised to be an important factor every day. Of the four top scorers, all but Charles played Thursday morning when the weather was hot but calm. In the afternoon the winds blew hard, and the day wound up with a thunderstorm that soaked Palmer on the last two holes.

Nicklaus, Goalby, and Mitchell were to play in the afternoon Friday, along with all the other Thursday morning players, while the other half switched to the morning. The field will be cut to the low 70 and ties after today's round.

Have Toe, Will Travel, Says Gordon Tovani

Marvelous Marin County — which has gained wide-spread publicity for such violence as mass killings, frightening kidnappings and a broad named Angela — is finally receiving some favorable ink around the country, at least in sporting journals.

This, thanks to the enthusiastic efforts of Gordon Tovani of San Rafael, the self-styled "World's Greatest Bare-Footed Place-Kicker" and "Dean of American Place-Kicking Coaches." He's really not that modest, but that's what his business card says, along with, "Have Toe — Will Travel — Phone Tovani."

Anyway, Tovani in recent weeks has received a lot of type from such august media as United Press International and Sports Illustrated magazine.

They have extolled the virtues of the Tovani Invitational Place Kicking Tournament held annually for high school gridders throughout Northern California. This year's boot camp is scheduled May 22 at Novato high school.

I won't go into much detail of the stories because I published most of the stuff some time ago. That is, that Marin County high school boys last season had a better field goal per centage than the college and pro booters and a better point-after-touchdown pct. than the collegians. All this, boasts Tovani, attributable to his kicking clinic.

As a result of all the publicity, Tovani has received inquiries from such exotic places as Marblehead, Mass., Casper, Wyo., Texas, Illinois and Denver. Rather than invite these kids and coaches to such a faraway land as Novato, Tovani obligingly has sent them a booklet on the fine art of kicking which he has published. He gets a kick out of helping improve the game.

As a foot note, Tovani recently had an organizational meeting for his May 22 tournament and invited Steve Horowitz of Stanford and Randy Wersching of Cal to sit in as advisors. Both are school record holders and although they have kicked against each other in the last three Big Games, this was the first time they had ever been formally introduced.

P.S. Another fan of the Tovani Tourney is Dr. Harry Hensler of San Anselmo, who told me the other day: "I have always been extremely interested in the kicking game; drop kicking in my days of playing and coaching has been replaced nicely with the place kick."

HERE'S A coincidental note for the Marin sports record book: Ken Blue, who coached football at Drake High School in the early 1950s, has been named assistant coach at the University of Kansas after being dropped by the St. Louis Cardinals' coaching staff of the National Football League.

AND, THE two times that Novato and Marin Catholic high schools met on the basketball courts this season there was a lot of heckling going on between two proud pops on opposite sides — Dick Stone (rooting for Marin Catholic) and Joe DeMaestri Sr. (for Novato). That's because their sons, Tim and Dennis Stone and Joe DeMaestri Jr. were rivals. Their dads were teammates at Tam High School back in the early 1940s.

Czech Skater Is Champ

LYON, France (UPI)—Onderj Nepela of Czechoslovakia, the world's champion, set his sights today on next year's Winter Olympics in Japan and said he would also like to skate in the United States.

The 20 year-old Bratislava law student won the world title at the Sports Palace Thursday night by skating a flawless performance against his nearest rival, Patrick Pera of France.

Nepela was second two years running to retired world champion Tim Wood of Detroit.

He went into the final and clinching free skating event only eight-tenths of a point ahead of the 22-year-old Pera. But Pera, skating immediately in front of him, blew his chances for the title with a fall and a slip.

The best American result was North American champion John Misha Petkevich of Grand Falls, Mont., who finished fifth overall and fourth in the final free-skating.

Apart from Pera, Nepela outdistanced all his rivals in the preliminary figure skating events which count for 50 per cent of the point total.

At an impromptu news conference, the fair-haired Nepela —who won the European title at Zurich earlier this month —said he was not thinking beyond the Winter Olympics at Sapporo.

But, he said, he would like to visit the United States —and to see Wood, now a professional, skate again, as well as skate himself.

"Tim is a great skater. He kept me out of the world title last year and the year before," Nepela said.

Kenneth Shelley of Downey, Calif., who brought the crowd to its feet the night before after his performance with Jo Jo Starbuck for a third place in the world pairs, finished only eighth in the world individual rankings. He finished fifth in the free skating.

Gordon McKellen Jr., of Lake Placid, N.Y., wound up ninth in the overall world standings. His earlier figure skating pulled him up from the 10th place he earned Thursday night.

ATHLETICS' SLUGGER

A Happy Jackson Signs

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—Reggie Jackson doesn't want to talk about last year. The Oakland Athletics' star rightfielder is only thinking about this year.

Jackson, who signed his contract Thursday for a reported $50,000 and a rent-free apartment, said his dismal year in 1970 was all in the past.

"The important thing is that now I'm happy, Mr. Finley (the Athletics' owner) is happy, everybody is happy," Jackson said. "I'm looking forward to a great 1971 for the A's and myself."

Jackson, who hit 47 homers and drove in 118 runs in 1969, slumped to 23 homers and 65 rbi's last season while playing part time.

Jackson and A's owner Charlie Finley feuded throughout the 1970 season, but it was believed Finley gave Jackson a token raise over the $45,000 plus rent he received last year.

Jackson held out last spring for five weeks before finally agreeing to terms. The missed practice took him into the season far from ready to play.

After Jackson was benched, he and Finley got into some hot exchanges. Jackson maintained Finley had ordered his benching, and manager John McNamara all but admitted the A's owner was behind it after he was fired at the end of the season.

Jackson played in the Puerto Rican Winter League and hit 20 homers. He joined his teammates at spring training camp after agreeing to terms in a telephone call to Finley.

Big Ski Day On Tap At Heavenly Valley

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI)—It's going to be a busy day in the World Cup skiing competition at Heavenly Valley today.

On tap are the women's one run giant slalom and the first run of the men's giant slalom.

After two days of competition Barbara Cochran of Richmond, Vt., and Gustavo Thoeni of Italy, both 20-year-old stars, have been the whole show.

Miss Cochran won the women's slalom on Wednesday and Thoeni took the men's slalom Thursday. While Miss Cochran is not in the running for the women's World Cup title, Thoeni is the front runner in the men's competition.

Miss Cochran's victory Wednesday moved her up to ninth place on the women's list, which is topped by Annamarie Proell of Austria, who needs only two more points to clinch the 1971 title. She has 131 points and can win the title here by finishing third in the giant slalom.

Thoeni picked up five points for his slalom victory Thursday and now has 145. Closest to him are Patrick Russel and Henri Duvillard of France with 125 each. Neither picked up a point in the slalom Thursday, Duvillard finishing fifth and Russel falling in the second run.

Thoeni won both runs of the slalom, taking the first through 55 gates in 48.83 seconds and the second, through 65 gates, in 56.06 for a combined overall time of 1:44.89.

Second was Christian Neureuther of West Germany with runs of 49.90 and 56.66 for 1:46.56, while third was Tyler Palmer of Kearsarge, N.H., who had runs of 50.18 and 56.44.

Seals Host Black Hawks; Vadnais Out

OAKLAND (UPI)—The California Seals can't win for losing in the National Hockey League. If opposing players aren't slipping shots into the Seals' goal, the injury bug is putting key players on the sidelines.

The Seals, who are currently bogged down in last place of the NHL West division, meet the Chicago Black Hawks tonight in the Oakland Coliseum arena.

Carol Vadnais, the Seals' big defenseman who just returned to action after being out 18 games, is in the hospital in traction for torn ligaments in his right knee.

Vadnais was injured Wednesday night against Montreal in the final minute of play. He isn't expected to return to action this season.

The Seals have a 5-2 home court victory over the Black Hawks, the West Divsion runaway leaders.

UOP Quintet Rolls On; Santa Clara Wins, Too

By United Press International

Everybody knows University of Pacific is the best team in the West Coast Athletic Conference—that is, everybody but Loyola and Santa Clara.

UOP is one of the Coast's top teams. After an impressive 68-63 win at Pepperdine Thursday, they are 10-2 for the season and 19-5 for the year. Nobody else in the conference can match that season's record.

But Loyola and Santa Clara won't fold.

Loyola, which hosts UOP Saturday is 9-3 and 14-9 for the season after disposing of St. Mary's 95-77. Jim Haderlein hit 27 to run his career WCAC total to 867, three short of the league mark held by Keith Swagerty of UOP.

Santa Clara is only a lowly 11-13 for the season. But they hang tough in the WCAC at 8-4 and took Nevada 99-85 Thursday with Mart Peterson scoring 22 and big center Mike Stewart 19.

In other Coast action, Westmont ended its season with a 19-7 record by dumping Cal Lutheran 96-66 and Nevada Las Vegas went into overtime to take USF 89-82 as Booker Washington hit 30 for the winners.

Pacific Eight action resumes tonight with Oregon at California and Oregon State at Stanford.

Court Asked To Review Clay's Case

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Supreme Court was asked in a draft brief filed by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund Thursday to review Cassius Clay's claim that he is a conscientious objector and to determine whether erroneous information was responsible for his conviction on the charge of draft evasion.

The brief questioned whether Clay's constitutional rights to freedom of religion had been infringed upon because he followed "the unorthodox and unpopular teaching of the Lost Found Nation of Islam" (the Muslims).

The brief also alleged that the Justice Department played a dual role in the case, pointing out that it "was conducting FBI investigations and systematic illegal wiretaps of Muslim leaders becaue the Department considered them a threat to the internal security of the country" while also being asked to determine whether Clay's religious beliefs and refusal to enter the Army were sincere.

Clay was stripped of the heavyweight title and banned from boxing in 1967 when he refused to go into the Army on the grounds that he was a conscientious objector and a Black Muslim minister.

A Federal District Court ordered last year that he be allowed to fight in New York State,

Replaces Stanfel

10-YEAR PACT?

Mays And Giants Five Years Apart

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —The San Francisco Giants and Willie Mays are five years apart on the baseball superstar's 1971 contract negotiations.

For the first time in his career, Mays, 39, came to spring training camp Thursday with his signature missing on his contract.

Mays came to camp to "get in a little work" and to set the record straight on what he is asking for his services this year. He cleared things up by telling a news conference that he wants a 10-year contract at $75,000 a year.

But the Giants want to cut five years off what Mays is asking.

"The Board of Directors has authorized me to offer Willie a five-year contract at $75,000 per year and also informed me that the 10-year term is out of the question," Horace Stoneham, principal owner of the Giants, said.

Mays countered that he thinks he can play three or four more years, and then wants to stay with the Giants as a coach or a public relations man.

"I feel that at my age it is important for me to find out right now how I stand," Mays said.

Mays finished a two-year $125,000 per contract with the 1970 season and there were reports he was asking for $180,000 or thereabouts, which would make him the highest salaried player in the game.

But Mays said stories that he was asking for $180,000 were outrageous.

Patriots Name General Manager

BOSTON (UPI)—The Bay State Patriots today named Upton Bell, son of former National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell, as the club's new general manager.

Bell, 33, formerly served as director of player personnel for the Baltimore Colts. He was named to succeed George Sauer less than 24 hours after Saver's resignation was announced.

A team spokesman said further details on Bell's appointment would be made at an afternoon news conference when he would be introduced to local sports writers.

Club President Bill Sullivan announced the change Thursday, saying Sauer had stepped down and would become a full-time scout in the Southwest.

New Rules For Year Around Fishing

By AL GIDDINGS

Most lakes and reservoirs throughout California will be open to trout and salmon fishing starting Monday, March 1, when the 1971 sport fishing regulations become effective, and will remain open the year around. The new rules provide a limit of 10 trout or salmon in combination from May 1 to Nov. 15 and a limit of five fish during the balance of the year.

Exceptions to this new limit rule are the lakes and reservoirs in Alpine, Inyo and Mono Counties and the Lassen Volcanic National Park area. Other exceptions are listed under special closures in the sport fishing regulations. Note in the special regulations and closures that Lagunitas Lake, Phoenix Lake, Bon Tempe Lake and Rodeo Lagoon, all in Marin County, now have a limit of five trout the year around.

All the other lakes and reservoirs in Marin Co. have a limit of 10 trout from May 1 to Nov. 15, then a limit of five trout during the balance of the year. Kent Lake and Alpine Dam would have the 10 fish limit from May 1 to Nov. 15 under this regulation.

LAKES AND reservoirs in Alpine, Inyo and Mono Counties will be open from May 1 through Nov. 15. This schedule also applies to the streams in these counties. All streams in southern California and the west slope of the Sierra as far north as Tuloumne County, with the exception of the Kern River drainage above Democrat Dam, will remain open all year with a five fish winter limit and 10 fish during the balance of the year.

Open season for trout and salmon in Northern California streams is May 1 through Nov. 15, except for the northwest counties which will open May 29. (Parts of Lake, Mendocino and Trinity and the whole of Del Norte and Humbolt counties). The new 1971 California Sport Fishing Regulations are out, and can be picked up at most sporting goods stores.

Salmon fishing was still going good through this week. On Monday, the Marion with 10 anglers aboard had limits, and the Salmon Queen had near limits. They were the only party boats out. On Tuesday, the winds kept the boats in! The fish are there; it's strictly a matter of wind or no wind.

SAN PABLO Bay is beginning to come to life! At least that seems to be indicated by a few more stripers being taken each day, unless, of course, the winds are bad here too. Larry Naydale of Santa Venetia caught his first bass, an 18-pounder this past week. John and Til Giordano of San Francisco took five fish from 12 to 20 pounds last Sunday (a report I received late).

Steelhead fishing is slow at both Walker and Papermill Creek tidewaters. There are some fish in Tomales Bay — a rain should bring some improvement to the tidewater areas of both streams.

Last Tuesday I counted about 300 Black Sea Brant in Tomales Bay near Nick's Cove. The season closed last Sunday for the hunters, but for you bird watchers, they are a pretty sight to see!

Perch fishing Tomales Bay off Millerton Pt. and Tomasini Point is still good. Three stripers were picked up this past week off Shell Beach at the Tomales Bay State Park. Two, both eight pounders were taken on lures; one was taken on bait.

GAME VIOLATORS paid $508,738 in fines last year in California. The fines are divided evenly between the state's Fish and Game Preservation Fund and the county in which the violation occurs. Wardens arrested 15,888 persons during the year. The No. one violation was angling without a license. A total of 6,599 unlicensed anglers were cited. Possession of a loaded firearm in a vehicle was the No. two violation with 1,381 persons cited. Angling with more than one line was the No. three violation with 1,095 persons cited.

The courts revoked seven hunting licenses and three sport fishing licenses and suspended seven hunting licenses and five fishing licenses. Violators also served 1,581 days in jail.

MARIN SILVER MEDALWINNERS IN THE SNOW COUNTRY

Boston Bruins Explode - 3 Goals In 20 Seconds

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilson had held Boston to a 2-2 tie past the four minute mark of the final period. Twenty seconds later, the Bruins led 5-2 en route to an 8-3 triumph and a 19-year-old National Hockey League record had been wiped from the record books.

Johnny Bucyk, who collected a three-goal hat trick to reach the 40-goal plateau, started the record spurt when he beat Wilson at 4:50 on a power play goal. Ed Westfall needed only 12 seconds more to score his 20th goal of the season and only eight more seconds elapsed when Ted Green fired the puck past Wilson from in close to touch off a standing ovation.

The three goals in 20 seconds broke the mark set by Chicago's Bill Monsienko, who personally scored three goals against New York in a 21-second span in 1952.

SPORTS SHORTS

Auto Racing

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—Three-time Indianapolis winner A.J. Foyt has the pole position for the richest stock car race in history.

The USAC veteran from Houston piloted his 1969 Mercury around the Ontario Motor Speedway's 2.5-mile, low-banked oval Thursday at 151.711 miles per hour in the first qualifying session for Sunday's $207,675 Miller High Life 500.

Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., driving '71 Dodge, was second at 150,097 as the first 20 qualifying spots were filled. Twenty more were scheduled to be grabbed today with the field of 51 to be completed Saturday.

RAFAELA, Argentina (UPI)—Bobby Unser's headaches today weren't qualifying for Sunday's $75,000 300-mile Indianapolis-type race. He's already done that. They mostly centered on keeping Argentine race fans from swarming over his expensive Eagle-Offenhauser in this land where an ordinary Volkswagen costs almost $6,000.

Tennis

MACON, Ga. (UPI)—Top-seeded foreigner Ilie Nastase of Rumania, playing in polka-dot shorty pajamas, advanced to the quarterfinals of the Macon International Tennis Tournament Thursday along with top-seeded American Clark Graebner of New York.

Treating his match as a lark, Nastase defeated fellow countryman Ion Tiriac 7-6, 6-1 in a relaxed contest in which both men traded quips with spectators.

Graebner beat Juan Gisbert of Spain 7-5, 4-6, 6-2 in a later match Thursday night to send seven of eight seeded players into Friday's quarterfinals.

The only seeded casualty was Jim McManus, Berkeley, Calif., No. 8, who withdrew after spraining an ankle.

Football

ATLANTA (UPI)—Dick Bestwick has no illusions about the head football coaching job he accepted at Marshall College in West Virginia.

He is leaving the freshman coaching post at Georgia Tech to move to a school which lost its entire varsity team and head coach in a tragic airplane crash last November.

Bowling

MILWAUKEE, Wis., (UPI)—Don Russell of San Diego, Calif., averaging 215 for his first 24 games in the sixth annual Miller Open bowling tournament, led 15 other pros into Friday's semifinals of the $70,000 meet.

Former Tam Star In Net Upsets

Former Tamalpais High School Star Terry Moor, with two startling upsets behind him, takes the court today to face top-seeded Roscoe Tanner of Stanford in the third round of the Northern California Intercollegiate tennis championships at Stanford.

Moor, a freshman at San Jose State, scored three-set upset wins over Stanford senior Rick Evans in the first round and fifth-seeded Steve Stefanki of the University of California yesterday, and is the only unseeded player left in the competition.

Marin Golfer Gets First Hole-In-One

Jerry Kelso of Kentfield, a golfer for 12 years, scored his first hole-in-one this week at the Meadow Club.

Using a six iron, Kelso aced the 144-yard 11th hole at the Fairfax club. Witnesses were Fren Enemark, Ed Johnson and Al Hahn.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

There are some nights when you are sure that the biggest mistake you made was driving over to the bowling center. Nothing goes right. Even the best bowlers have such disasters, when it seems that all coordination is lost. The nearest thing that I can offer as a solution is to slow your approach and try to make every shot picture-perfect.

Beban Signs With Broncos

The 6 foot 1, 195-pound athlete, who last year played out his option with the Washington Redskins, will be one of five players trying out at the quarterback spot for Denver this year.

He will be competing for the quarterback job against former Green Bay Packer Don Horn; Denver holdovers Pete Liske and Alan Pastrana; and Craig Blackford, a 1971 draft choice from Evansville.

A Possibility Of 18-Foot Vault

NEW YORK (UPI)—An 18-foot pole vault? It could happen tonight in the National AAU Championships at Madison Square Garden where an awesome array of vaulters has been assembled for an assault on the untouched 18-foot mark.

Olympic gold medalist Bob Seagren, Sweden's Kjell Isaksson, the current world record holder at 17-7 3-4, Alabama's Jan Johnson, last year's NCAA outdoor champ, and a former AAU winner Dick Railsback all are entered in the championship field.

While the pole vault figures to command a major share of attention, nearly all the running events are sprinkled with Olympians and-or various record holders.

Ali's 'Spy' Fired By Durham

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A spy for Muhammad Ali has been uncovered in Joe Frazier's training camp.

Frazier's trainer, Yank Durham, disclosed Thursday night he has fired Frazier's sparring partner of four years—Don Warner—for sending Ali periodic reports on the champion's progress in training for their March 8 title bout at New York's Madison Square Garden.

"I've been suspicious of Warner for two weeks now," Durham said. "For some time I have been dissatisfied with his presence in camp."

Warner's dismissal left Durham's stable of boxers seriously short with just 10 days of training remaining before the title bout, with only two sparring partners left.

Ali, who is training in Miami Beach, had been bragging that he gets "a phone call every night" from the Frazier camp, telling what the champ is doing.

Warriors Rest, Savor Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors get another day of rest today before meeting the Los Angeles Lakers Saturday in the Cow Palace.

The rest is needed, even though the Warriors are savoring a come-from-behind 117-115 win over the Detroit Pistons Wednesday as center Nate Thurmond had one of the best games of his career.

Thurmond dumped in 43 points—a record high for him—and held opposing centers Otto Moore and Bob Lanier to a combined 17 points.

"I started talking with Jerry Lucas (before the game)," Thurmond said, and I was telling him how all my career I wanted to have a 50-point game. And he said he wanted one too, but now we were both too old to do it."

The Warriors are still trailing the first-place Lakers in the NBA Pacific Division.

Yosemite Fishing Starts March 1

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) —Fishing season will open in Yosemite National Park March 1 and remain open year around, park officials said today.

Superintendent Wayne Cone said the park is adopting the California sport fishing regulations to bring fishing in the park in conformance with the policy of the California State Department of Fish and Game.

Cone said the new policy would permit a longer period of fishing to avoid all fishing pressure being squeezed into the summer months.

However, he said park officers would be monitoring resources to determine if the longer season will have an adverse affect on park fisheries.

New Cards' Coach

BIG RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Ferris State lost a head football coach Thursday and the St. Louis Cardinals gained a defensive line coach when Bob Leach signed on with the National Football League club.

Woman Coach Turned Down

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) —"It'd be a lot more effective to have someone walk up to the player, put an arm around him, and say, 'honey, do it this way' —that'd get better results than cursing."

That's how Mrs. Nila Gilcrest, a 31-year-old mother of two, says she'll handle dejected players when she becomes an assistant football coach.

She still was looking for a job today after Idaho State University turned down her application to take a gridiron job at a token dollar a year.

"I appreciate Mrs. Gilcrest's interest in the football program, and I sympathize with the women's liberation movement, but I have decided to stick with tradition and hire a male to fill the coaching spot," said Athletic Director Dubby Holt in announcing her rejection Thursday.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Pioneer Natural Gas Is Good Gift

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. May I ask what you think of Wells Fargo Mortgage Investors, which I purchased for my granddaughter? Also, I would like to buy something for my grandson for his graduation. What would you suggest? — R.S.

A. Backed by the Wells Fargo Bank, Wells Fargo Mortgage Investors stock represents an attractive long-term commitment. Near-term share activity may be somewhat sluggish, however. One-third of the company's loans are tied to the prime rate; and recent reductions here may temporarily hamper earnings progress.

For your grandson, I recommend Pioneer Natural Gas. Company appears to be enterin a new era of profit growth, after six years of relatively flat performance. Pioneer is now beginning to benefit from a recent intrastate increase granted by the Texas Railroad Commission. And since the company is also engaged in the sale of gas on an interstate basis, the expected rate boost by the FPC should further enhance 1971's results.

Further benefitting Pioneer in years to come will be industrial growth in the company's service area — West Texas — where important cattle feeding yards are located. Purchase is advised for income and appreciation on the growing demand for natural gas.

Q. I am now about even on my 430-share investment in Questor Corp. I can afford to hold, but should I? — N.K.

A. Shares have held firm in face of company official's prediction that the fourth quarter of 1970 was barely profitable. Earnings for the year, reflecting 20 cents in special charges, would be around 60 cents compared with $1.40 in 1969. The current quarter, which is expected to be modestly better than the 11c a share reported for the 1970 March quarter, should earmark the end of the profit downturn, according to Questor's president.

Company has five major product areas with automotive products the largest, contributing more than half of sales. Questor's infant and juvenile products and sports equipment have well-established leadership positions in their market areas. Shares should be held for further recovery on projected earnings turnaround.

Steel Firm Expects Slack Next October

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. says it will close down parts of its Pittsburgh plant for a month next fall, starting Oct. 17, because of an anticipated lack of orders at that time.

The units to be closed down, under present plans are the blast furnaces, open hearth furnaces and ingot mold foundry. The company's labor contract expires Aug. 1 and normally orders are slack in early fall because customers stockpile heavily in the months immediately preceding labor contract expiration.

Catalyst Project

NEW YORK (UPI) — Union Carbide Corp. has announced plans to expand its molecular sieve facilities at Mobile, Ala., to include production of finished catalysts. The new catalyst unit is scheduled to begin operations in 1972. Catalysts are materials which accelerate or control chemical reactions without being consumed in the reaction. Molecular sieve catalysts in particular are used in many refining processes.

14-Month High For Steel Firms

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steel production last week rose to a 14 month high of 2,724,000 tons, up 2.3 per cent from the 2,664,000 tons produced the week before, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported.

Production in the week ended Feb. 20 was equal to 111.7 on the institute's new index (average weekly production in 1967 equals 100, or 2,439,701 tons) compared with 109.2 for the previous week.

Raw steel output from the start of the year through Feb. 20 totaled 18,891,000 tons, up 1.4 per cent from the 18,625,000 tons produced at the same point in 1970.

Firestone Sales Up But Earnings Drop

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. has reported record sales of $523.8 million for the first quarter of its fiscal year, a 1.9 per cent increase over a year ago.

Earnings for the November-January quarter totaled $17.7 million, a decrease of 5.2 per cent.

Hewlett-Packard Sales, Profits Drop

PALO ALTO, Calif. (BW) — Hewlett-Packard Co. has reported slightly lower sales and a 12 per cent decline in earnings for the first quarter of the company's fiscal year.

Sales for the quarter ended Jan. 31 totaled $81,150,000, compared with $82,370,000 for the first quarter of fiscal 1970. Net earnings amounted to $4,903,000, compared with earnings of $5,556,000 during the corresponding period last year.

Prices Still Depressed On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) —Profit taking and international developments combined to keep prices lower for the first two hours of activity on the New York Stock Exchange Friday. Turnover was brisk.

Among the 1,434 issues crossing the tape, declines outpaced advances, 680 to 409.

Losers shut out winners on the most active list. Pacific Gas & Electric lost 1-8, Public Service of Colorado 1-8, Southern California Edison 3-8, Occidental 1 1-8, Amerada Hess 1-2, Burroughs 1 1-8, Continental Oil 1 1-8, and Federal National Mortgage Association 1-2.

Rails were mixed. Both sides in the railroad union contract talks said Friday they were hopeful a settlement can be reached before the Monday strike deadline.

Airlines chemicals and electronics ware soft.

Syntex at around 39,500 shares was an active issue on the American Stock Exchange.

Prices dipped on the American Exchange with 425 issues decling and 228 advancing among 912 traded. Turnover was active.

Holiday Inn Sued

NEW YORK (UPI) — An interior furnishings supplier, Samson Contract Furnishings, Inc., has filed suit against Holiday Inns, Inc., of Memphis in federal court for $3 million, charging restraint of trade. The suit accuses the Memphis firm of applying pressure to compel potential Holiday Inn Franchisees to buy all their furnishings from subsidiaries of Holiday Inn, Inc. The suit says this is illegal restraint of trade.

THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Central Valley Is Changing Its Name

On Monday there will be a change in name of Central Valley National Bank to Central Bank, National Association.

Both shareholders and the Comptroller of the Currency have approved the change.

AMERICAN EXPRESS CO. directors this week voted the company's fourth common stock dividend increase in three years. Payable April 1, the increase brings the quarterly rate to 35 cents, up from 30 cents per share paid over the past four quarters. Consolidated net income for 1970 rose to a record $85.2 million, up 14.4 per cent over the $74.5 million earned in 1969. Earnings per share were $3.58, compared with $3.13 in 1969.

DI GIORGIO CORP. sales and net operating earnings for 1970 were down to $365.6 million and $3.5 million respectively form the $367.8 million and $5.7 million reported in 1969. Per share earnings were 79 cents, compared with $1.42 in 1969.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Top Tax Rate At 25 Per Cent For $50,000 In Capital Gains

We have some new rules for capital gains.

The maximum rate will be 25 per cent, but only on the first $50,000 of long term capital gains. The excess over $50,000 will be taxed at 29½ per cent for 1970, 32½ per cent for 1971 and there will be no maximum tax after 1971. However, because only 50 per cent of long term capital gains being taxed and the maximum rate is 70 per cent, there will be an effective maximum tax of 35 per cent on long term gains.

Long term capital gains transactions will be taxed at a maximum of 25 per cent on the first $50,000 of taxable long term capital gains each year. Only the excess of $50,000 long term capital gains will be taxed at the higher 29½ per cent rate in 1970.

This whole thing only applies to you if your taxable income is over $26,000 for a separate return or $52,000 for joint returns and head of household with taxable income of $38,000 or more. Also, there is taxed at the maximum 25 per cent rate gains received before January 1, 1975, from contracts binding on October 9, 1969, except for certain timber, coal, domestic iron ore and patent contracts and also liquidating distributions made before October 10, 1970, under a plan of complete liquidation adopted by October 9, 1969.

However, such exceptions reduce the $50,000 allowance so that the 25 per cent rate cannot be used on more than $50,000 in any one year.

There is a new concept in the tax law called Tax Preferences and they are taxed at 10 per cent to the extent that they exceed $30,000 and the regular income tax.

The untaxed portion of a long term capital gain is a tax preference item.

Only 50 per cent of long term capital losses can be used to offset ordinary income after January 1, 1970.

The $1,000 maximum capital loss deduction has been reduced to $500 for married persons filing separate returns, effective for 1970.

After 1969, all casualty (or theft) gains and losses on business property or capital assets held for more than six months must be combined. If the casualty losses exceed the casualty gains, the net loss is treated as an ordinary loss without regard to whether there may be noncasualty gains under Section 1231. If, however, the casualty gains exceed the casualty losses, the net gain is treated as a Section 1231 gain and must be consolidated with other gains and losses under Section 1231.

Horses and cattle purchased after 1969 and held for draft, breeding, dairy or sporting purposes are considered 1231 property, only if you hold them for at least two years.

A lump sum distribution for 1970 or later, out of employee benefit plans, which was accrued in plan years beginning after January 1, 1970, are capital gain only to the extent that the taxable portion exceeds the employer contributions. If the distribution was employer stock, a special rule applies.

After July 25, 1969, the sale of letters, memorandums or similar property by the creator or for one for whom they were prepared or created is considered ordinary income.

After January 1, 1970, the transfer of a franchise trade mark or trade name is treated as ordinary income if the seller retains any significant power, right or continuing interest.

Basis for original issue discount bonds after May 27, 1969, is increased by the bondholders amortized discount income.

If you had an involuntary conversion you now have two years after the year in which part of the gain on conversion was realized in order to replace your property.

If you make an approved disposition of certain low income housing after October 9, 1969 and replace that with qualified low income housing either by purchase or building within one year after the first year in which part of the gain was realized, you can defer tax on the gain.

Conservation or land clearance farm expenses deducted after 1969 are recaptured in full or part as ordinary income when the land is sold if held less than ten years. Farm losses after 1969 which were used to reduce non-farm income will be recaptured as ordinary income on sale of the farm in some cases.

Depreciation claimed after 1969 on livestock sold after 1969 is treated as ordinary income on the sale under Section 1245. Some depreciation on Section 1250 property sold after 1969 and claimed for years after 1969 may be recaptured as ordinary income.

If any of these items apply to you, be sure to check the rules carefully before filing your return.
